AN ISSUE OF SECURITIES MAY BE OF A SPECIALIST NATURE AND SHOULD ONLY BE BOUGHT AND TRADED BY INVESTORS WHO ARE PARTICULARLY KNOWLEDGEABLE IN INVESTMENT MATTERS. PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS OF SECURITIES SHOULD ENSURE THAT THEY UNDERSTAND THE NATURE OF THE RELEVANT SECURITIES AND THE EXTENT OF THEIR EXPOSURE TO RISKS AND THAT THEY CONSIDER THE SUITABILITY OF THE RELEVANT SECURITIES AS AN INVESTMENT IN LIGHT OF THEIR OWN CIRCUMSTANCES AND FINANCIAL CONDITION. IT IS THE RESPONSIBILITY OF PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS TO ENSURE THAT THEY HAVE SUFFICIENT KNOWLEDGE, EXPERIENCE AND PROFESSIONAL ADVICE TO MAKE THEIR OWN LEGAL, FINANCIAL, TAX, ACCOUNTING AND OTHER BUSINESS EVALUATION OF THE MERITS AND RISKS OF INVESTING IN THE SECURITIES AND ARE NOT RELYING ON THE ADVICE OF THE ISSUER, THE CGMHI GUARANTOR, THE CGMFL GUARANTOR OR ANY DEALER IN THIS REGARD. SECURITIES MAY INVOLVE A HIGH DEGREE OF RISK, INCLUDING THE PRINCIPAL OR INITIAL INVESTMENT AMOUNT NOT BEING PROTECTED. POTENTIAL INVESTORS MAY SUSTAIN A LOSS OF ALL OR PART OF THEIR INVESTMENT IN THE SECURITIES. SEE "RISK FACTORS" SET OUT IN THIS BASE PROSPECTUS.

Prospective investors should note that Events of Default in respect of the CGMHI Guarantor are limited to the events stated in General Conditions 11(a)(i) and 11(a)(ii) (Events of Default) relating to default in payment of principal, interest or termination amounts in respect of the Securities but will not include the insolvency or bankruptcy of the CGMHI Guarantor (or any similar event), any other default of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee being (or being claimed not to be) in full force and effect. Therefore, even though the CGMHI Guarantor may be declared insolvent or have entered into bankruptcy proceedings or disclaimed the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, holders of Securities issued by CGMHI will not be able to trigger an Event of Default under the Securities and thus will not be able to cause the Securities to be immediately due and payable, and the Securities will not redeem until maturity (unless there has been an Event of Default due to non-payment of interest, principal or termination amounts or bankruptcy or other default of CGMHI in the meantime or the occurrence of any other applicable event triggering an early redemption of the Securities). It is possible that holders may receive a lower return at maturity than if they were able to accelerate the Securities for immediate repayment in such circumstances.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION RELATING TO OFFERS OF SECURITIES

Important information relating to Non-exempt Offers of Securities

Withdrawal rights

Subject to and in accordance with Articles 8(11), 23(2) and 23(2a) of the EU Prospectus Regulation, investors who have already agreed to purchase or subscribe for Securities offered to the public in a Member State of the EEA before this Base Prospectus is published have the right, exercisable within two working days after the publication of this Base Prospectus, to withdraw their acceptances, unless the Securities have already been delivered to them at the time this Base Prospectus is published. For the avoidance of doubt, the final date on which eligible investors may exercise such right of withdrawal is 19 December 2023. Investors who wish to exercise such right of withdrawal may contact the relevant Authorised Offeror (as defined below).

Restrictions on Non-exempt Offers of Securities in Member States

Certain Tranches of Securities with a denomination of less than EUR100,000 (or its equivalent in any other currency) may be offered in circumstances where there is no exemption from the obligation under the EU Prospectus Regulation to publish a prospectus. Any such offer is referred to as a Non-exempt Offer. This Base Prospectus has been prepared on a basis that permits Non-exempt Offers of Securities. However, any person making or intending to make a Non-exempt Offer of Securities in any Member State of the EEA may only do so if this Base Prospectus has been approved by the competent authority in that Member State (or, where appropriate, approved in another Member State and notified to the competent authority in that Member State) and published in accordance with the EU Prospectus Regulation, PROVIDED THAT the Issuer has consented to the use of this Base Prospectus in connection with such offer as provided under "Consent given in accordance with Article 5(1) of the EU Prospectus Regulation (Retail Cascades)" and the conditions attached to that consent are complied with by the person making the Non-exempt Offer of such Securities.

Save as provided above, none of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and the Dealers have authorised, nor do they authorise, the making of any Non-exempt Offer of Securities in circumstances in which an obligation arises for the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor or any Dealer to publish or supplement a prospectus for such offer.

Consent given in accordance with Article 5(1) of the EU Prospectus Regulation (Retail Cascades)

In the context of a Non-exempt Offer of such Securities, the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) and the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) accept responsibility, in the jurisdictions to which the consent to use the Base Prospectus extends, for the content of this Base Prospectus under Article 11 of the EU Prospectus Regulation in relation to any person (an Investor) who acquires any Securities in a Non-exempt Offer made by any person to whom the Issuer has given consent to the use of this Base Prospectus (an Authorised Offeror) in that connection, PROVIDED THAT the conditions attached to that consent are complied with by the Authorised Offeror. The consent and conditions attached to it are set out under "EEA Consent" and "Common Conditions to EEA Consent" below.

None of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer makes any representation as to the compliance by an Authorised Offeror with any applicable conduct of business rules or other applicable regulatory or securities law requirements in relation to any Non-exempt Offer and none of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer has any responsibility or liability for the actions of that Authorised Offeror.

Save as provided below, none of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer has authorised the making of any Non-exempt Offer by any offeror and the Issuer has not consented to the use of this Base Prospectus by any other person in connection with any Non-exempt Offer of Securities. Any Non-exempt Offer made without the consent of the Issuer is unauthorised and none of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer accepts any responsibility or liability for the actions of the persons making any such unauthorised offer.

If, in the context of a Non-exempt Offer, an Investor is offered Securities by a person which is not an Authorised Offeror, the Investor should check with that person whether anyone is responsible for this Base Prospectus for the purposes of Article 11 of the EU Prospectus Regulation in the context of the Non-exempt Offer and, if so, who that person is. If the Investor is in any doubt about whether it can rely on this Base Prospectus and/or who is responsible for its contents it should take legal advice.

EEA Consent

The Issuer consents and (in connection with paragraph (b) below) offers to grant its consent to the use of this Base Prospectus in relation to any offer of Securities issued by it for the period of 12 months from the date of this Base Prospectus in relation to any offer as provided below. In the event this Base Prospectus is replaced by a base prospectus of the Issuer which is approved and published by the Issuer during the Offer Period relating to a Non-exempt Offer of Securities then the Issuer's consent shall end on the date on which amended and restated Final Terms for any such Non-exempt Offer of Securities are published (the Consent Period).

In connection with each Tranche of Securities and subject to the conditions set out below under "Common Conditions to EEA Consent":

- (a) the Issuer consents to the use of this Base Prospectus (as supplemented as at the relevant time, if applicable) in connection with a Non-exempt Offer of such Securities by the relevant Dealer and by:
 - (i) any financial intermediary named as an Initial Authorised Offeror in the applicable Final Terms; and
 - (ii) any financial intermediary appointed after the date of the applicable Final Terms and whose name is published on the Issuer's website and identified as an Authorised Offeror in respect of the relevant Non-exempt Offer;
- (b) if (and only if) Part B of the applicable Final Terms specifies "General Consent" as "Applicable", the Issuer hereby offers to grant its consent to the use of this Base Prospectus (as supplemented as at the relevant time, if applicable) in connection with a Non-exempt Offer of Securities by any financial intermediary which satisfies the following conditions:
 - (i) it is authorised to make such offers under applicable legislation implementing MiFID II; and
 - (ii) it accepts such offer by publishing on its website the following statement (with the information in square brackets completed with the relevant information):

"We, [insert legal name of financial intermediary], refer to the [insert title of relevant Securities] (the Securities) described in the Final Terms dated [insert date] (the Final Terms) published by [Citigroup Inc./ Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc./ Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A.] (the Issuer). We hereby accept the offer by the Issuer of its consent to our use of the Base Prospectus (as defined in the Final Terms) in connection with the offer of the Securities in accordance with the Authorised Offeror Terms and subject to the conditions to such consent, each as specified in the Base Prospectus, and we are using the Base Prospectus accordingly."

The Authorised Offeror Terms are that the relevant financial intermediary will, and it agrees, represents, warrants and undertakes for the benefit of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the relevant Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the relevant Issuer is CGMFL) and the relevant Dealer that it will, at all times in connection with the relevant Non-exempt Offer comply with the conditions to the consent referred to under "Common Conditions to EEA Consent" below and any further requirements relevant to the Non-exempt Offer as specified in the applicable Final Terms.

Any financial intermediary who is an Authorised Offeror falling within (b) above who meets all of the conditions set out in (b) and the other conditions stated in "Common Conditions to EEA Consent" below and who wishes to use this Base Prospectus in connection with a Non-exempt Offer is required, for the duration of the relevant Offer Period, to publish on its website the statement (duly completed) specified at paragraph (b)(ii) above.

Common Conditions to EEA Consent

The conditions to the Issuer's consent are (in addition to the conditions described in paragraph (b) above if Part B of the applicable Final Terms specifies "General Consent" as "Applicable") that such consent:

- (i) is only valid during the Offer Period specified in the applicable Final Terms or, if shorter, the Consent Period;
- (ii) only extends to the use of this Base Prospectus to make Non-exempt Offers of the relevant Tranche of Securities in Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Spain, Sweden and/or the Czech Republic, as specified in the applicable Final Terms; and
- (iii) the consent is subject to any other conditions set out in Part B of the applicable Final Terms.

The only Member States of the EEA which may, in respect of any Tranche of Securities, be specified in the applicable Final Terms (if any Member States are so specified) as indicated in (ii) above, will be Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Spain, Sweden and/or the Czech Republic, and accordingly each Tranche of Securities may only be offered to Investors as part of a Non-exempt Offer in Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Spain, Sweden and/or the Czech Republic, as specified in the applicable Final Terms, or otherwise in circumstances in which no obligation arises for the Issuer or any Dealer to publish a prospectus pursuant to Article 3 of the EU Prospectus Regulation or supplement a prospectus pursuant to Article 23 of the EU Prospectus Regulation for such offer.

Consent given in connection with public offers in Switzerland

Any person making or intending to make an offer of Securities to the public in Switzerland on the basis of this Base Prospectus, other than pursuant to an exemption under Article 36(1) of the Swiss Federal Financial Services Act (FinSA) or where such offer does not qualify as a public offer in Switzerland, must do so only with the Issuer's consent to the use of this Base Prospectus pursuant to Article 36(4)(b) FinSA and Article 45 of the implementing Financial Services Ordinance (FinSO), as provided under "EEA Consent" above and provided such person complies with the conditions attached to that consent and on the basis that for the purposes of the above:

- the paragraph commencing "The only Member States of the EEA which may, in respect of any Tranche of Securities, be specified in the applicable Final Terms" in "EEA Consent" is deleted.

General Consent is subject to the further condition that the financial intermediary is authorised to make a non-exempt public offer in Switzerland under applicable Swiss laws and regulations.

Consequently no key information document required by Regulation (EU) No 1286/2014 (as amended, the EU PRIIPs Regulation) for offering or selling the Securities or otherwise making them available to retail investors in the EEA has been prepared and therefore offering or selling the Securities or otherwise making them available to any retail investor in the EEA may be unlawful under the EU PRIIPs Regulation.

Under the Programme, each Issuer may from time to time issue Notes and CGMFL may from time to time issue Certificates (together, the Securities) including, for the avoidance of doubt, Securities issued under this Base Prospectus denominated or payable in any currency, subject as set out in this Base Prospectus. The applicable terms of any Securities will be agreed between the Issuer and, where applicable, the relevant Dealer prior to the issue of the Securities and will be set out in the terms and conditions of the Securities which, for the purpose of Securities issued pursuant to this Base Prospectus, shall mean the "Terms and Conditions of the Securities" endorsed on, scheduled to, or incorporated by reference into, the Securities, as completed by Part A of the applicable Final Terms or as modified and/or supplemented, as applicable, by Part A of the applicable Pricing Supplement in each case, as attached to, or endorsed on, such Securities.

SECTION B – RISK FACTORS

In purchasing Securities, you assume the risk that the Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor may become insolvent or otherwise be unable to satisfy their obligations in respect of the Securities. There is a wide range of factors which individually or together could result in the Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor becoming unable to satisfy their obligations in respect of the Securities. It is not possible to identify all such factors or to determine which factors are most likely to occur, as the Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor may not be aware of all relevant factors and certain factors which they currently deem not to be material may become material as a result of the occurrence of events outside the Issuer's and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor's or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor's control. The Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor have identified in this Base Prospectus a number of factors which could materially adversely affect their businesses and ability to make payments due under, or to deliver assets on or in connection with, the Securities.

Each of the risks highlighted below could adversely affect the trading price of the Securities and, as a result, you could lose some or all of your investment.

In addition, factors which are material for the purpose of assessing the market risks associated with Securities issued under this Base Prospectus are also described below.

You must read the detailed information set out elsewhere in this Base Prospectus including any documents incorporated by reference herein and reach your own views prior to making any investment decision.

Risks Relating to Securities Generally	10
Risks Relating to Securities Linked to Underlying(s)	22
Risks Associated with Securities Linked to Rates and Benchmark Reform	49

Risks Specific to Credit Linked Notes and/or Index Skew Notes	60

RISKS RELATING TO CITIGROUP INC., CGMHI, THE CGMHI GUARANTOR, CGMFL AND THE CGMFL GUARANTOR

Set out below are certain risk factors which could have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, financial condition or prospects of one or more of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and cause one or more of Citigroup Inc.'s, CGMHI's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, CGMFL's and/or the CGMFL Guarantor's future results to be materially different from expected results. Citigroup Inc.'s, CGMHI's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, CGMFL's and/or the CGMFL Guarantor's results could also be affected by competition and other factors. The factors discussed below should not be regarded as a complete and comprehensive statement of all potential risks and uncertainties Citigroup Inc.'s, CGMHI's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, CGMFL's and the CGMFL Guarantor's businesses face. Each of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor has described only those risks relating to its operations that it considers to be material. There may be additional risks that Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and/or the CGMFL Guarantor currently considers not to be material or of which it is not currently aware, and any of these risks could have the effects set forth above. You should note that you bear the Issuer's, the CGMHI Guarantor's (where the Issuer is CGMHI) and the CGMFL Guarantor's (where the Issuer is CGMFL) solvency risk.

The ability of each of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by Citigroup Inc., CGMHI or CGMFL, as the case may be, is dependent on the earnings of Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries

CGMHI is a holding company that does not engage in any material amount of business activities that generate revenues. CGMHI services its obligations primarily with dividends and advances from its subsidiaries. Its subsidiaries that operate in the securities businesses can only pay dividends if they are in compliance with applicable regulatory requirements imposed on them by federal and state regulatory authorities. Its respective subsidiaries may also be subject to credit agreements that also may restrict their ability to pay dividends. If such subsidiaries do not realise sufficient earnings to satisfy applicable regulatory requirements, or if such requirements are changed to further restrict the ability of such subsidiaries to pay dividends to CGMHI, CGMHI's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it may be adversely affected, and consequently the value of and return on such Securities may also be adversely affected.

In addition, Citigroup Inc. (also the CGMHI Guarantor in respect of Securities issued by CGMHI) is a holding company that does not engage in any material amount of business activities that generate revenues. It services its obligations primarily with dividends and advances from its subsidiaries. The ability of such subsidiaries to pay dividends or advances are dependent on a number of factors. For example, certain of Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries have co-branding and private label credit card relationships with various retailers and merchants through Group-branded cards and retail services credit card businesses. The five largest of these relationships constituted an aggregate of approximately 10 per cent. of the revenues of Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries (together the Group) for 2022. These relationships could be negatively impacted by, among other things, the general economic environment, declining sales and revenues or other operational difficulties of the retailer or merchant, termination due to a breach by a Group entity or by the retailer or merchant, or other factors, including bankruptcies, liquidations, restructurings, consolidations and other similar events that would restrict the ability of the subsidiaries of Citigroup Inc. to pay dividends.

Moreover, Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries that operate in the banking, insurance and securities businesses can only pay dividends if they are in compliance with applicable regulatory requirements imposed on them by federal and state regulatory authorities. Respective subsidiaries may also be subject to credit agreements that also may restrict their ability to pay dividends. If such subsidiaries do not realise sufficient earnings to satisfy applicable regulatory requirements, or if such requirements are changed to further restrict the ability of such subsidiaries to pay dividends to Citigroup Inc., Citigroup Inc.'s ability to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it and/or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee may be adversely affected, and consequently the value of and return on the Securities issued by it or CGMHI (which have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMHI Guarantor) may also be adversely affected.

The subsidiaries of CGMHI and Citigroup Inc. are also exposed to concentrations of risk, particularly credit and market risk, as they routinely execute a high volume of securities, trading, derivative and foreign exchange transactions with non-U.S. sovereigns and with counterparties in the financial services industry. As regulatory or market developments continue to lead to increased centralisation of trading activities, these subsidiaries could also experience an increase in concentration of risk to these industries. These concentrations of risk could limit the effectiveness of any hedging strategies and cause the subsidiaries to incur significant losses, impacting their ability to pay dividends.

Further, such dividends and/or advances, whether to CGMHI or Citigroup Inc. (or both), may be affected by macroeconomic, geopolitical and other challenges, uncertainties and volatilities and the presence of certain subsidiaries in emerging markets. For example, numerous uncertainties have arisen in relation to the potential impact of the UK's exit from the European Union and the U.S. federal government's indication that it may pursue protectionist trade and other policies. These and other global macroeconomic and geopolitical challenges have negatively impacted, and could continue to negatively impact, the businesses of CGMHI and/or Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries. The presence of certain subsidiaries in emerging markets subjects them to a number of risks, including sovereign volatility, foreign exchange controls and sanctions, and also increases their compliance and regulatory risks and costs. As a result, the dividends and/or advances subsidiaries are able to pay may be impacted which could have a negative effect on the ability of CGMHI or Citigroup Inc. to fulfil its obligations under the Securities, and consequently the value of and return on such Securities may also be adversely affected.

The ability of CGMFL to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it is dependent on CGML performing its counterparty obligations owed to CGMFL

CGMFL is subject to intra-group credit risk. From time to time, CGMFL enters into derivative transactions with CGML to offset or hedge its liabilities to securityholders under securities issued by it (which may include the Securities). As such, CGMFL is exposed to the credit risk of CGML in the form of counterparty risk in respect of such derivative transactions. In particular, CGMFL's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Securities is primarily dependent on CGML performing its counterparty obligations owed to CGMFL in respect of such derivative transactions in a timely manner, and any failure by CGML to do so will negatively affect the ability of CGMFL to fulfil its obligations under the Securities. Securityholders will not have any recourse to CGML under any such derivative transactions.

The military action by Russia in Ukraine, and related sanctions, export controls and similar actions or laws could adversely affect the Group's business activities and customers

The recent action of Russian military forces and support personnel in Ukraine has escalated tensions between Russia and the U.S., NATO, the European Union and the UK. The U.S. has imposed, and is likely to impose material additional, financial and economic sanctions and export controls against certain Russian organisations and/or individuals, with similar actions implemented and/or planned by the European Union, the UK and other jurisdictions. The packages of financials and economic sanctions imposed by the U.S., the UK, and the European Union, in various ways, constrain transactions with numerous Russian entities and individuals; transactions in Russian sovereign debt; and investment, trade, and financing to, from, or in certain regions of Ukraine. The Group's ability to engage in activity with certain consumer and institutional businesses in Russia and Ukraine or involving certain Russian or Ukrainian businesses and customers is dependent in part upon whether such engagement is restricted under any current or expected U.S., European Union, UK or other countries' sanctions and laws, or is otherwise discontinued in light of these developments. Sanctions and export controls, as well as any actions by Russia, could adversely affect the Group's business activities and customers in and from Russia and Ukraine. Moreover, actions by Russia, and any further measures taken by the U.S. or its allies, could have negative impacts on regional and global financial markets and economic conditions, including without limitation global energy markets. The extent of the impact on the Group will continue to depend significantly on future developments, which are uncertain and cannot be predicted.

Any negative impact of Russia's actions in Ukraine, and related sanctions, export controls and similar actions or laws on the Group, including the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor, could adversely affect the ability of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor to fulfil its obligations under the Securities, and the value of and return on the Securities may also be adversely affected.

Rapidly evolving challenges and uncertainties related to the COVID-19 pandemic in the U.S. and globally will likely continue to have negative impacts on the Group's businesses and results of operations and financial condition

The COVID-19 pandemic has affected all of the countries and jurisdictions in which the Group operates, including severely impacting global health, financial markets, consumer and business spending and economic conditions. The extent of the future pandemic impacts remain uncertain and will likely evolve by region, country or state, largely depending on the duration and severity of the public health consequences, including the duration and further spread of the coronavirus as well as any variants becoming more prevalent and impactful; further production, distribution, acceptance and effectiveness of vaccines; availability and efficiency of testing; the public response; and government actions. The future impacts to global economic conditions may include, among others:

- further disruption of global supply chains;
- higher inflation;
- higher interest rates;
- significant disruption and volatility in financial markets;

- additional closures, reduced activity and failures of many businesses, leading to loss of revenues and net losses;
- further institution of social distancing and restrictions on businesses and the movement of the public in and among the U.S. and other countries; and
- reduced U.S. and global economic output.

The pandemic has had, and may continue to have, negative impacts on the Group's businesses and overall results of operations and financial condition, which could be material. The extent of the impact on the Group's operations and financial performance, including its ability to execute its business strategies and initiatives, will continue to depend significantly on future developments in the U.S. and globally. Such developments are uncertain and cannot be predicted, including the course of the coronavirus, as well as any weakness or slowing in the economic recovery or a further economic downturn, whether due to further supply chain disruptions, inflation trends, higher interest rates or otherwise.

The pandemic may not be sufficiently contained for an extended period of time. A prolonged health crisis could reduce economic activity in the U.S. and other countries, resulting in additional declines or weakness in employment trends and business and consumer confidence. These factors could negatively impact global economic activity and markets; cause a continued decline in the demand for the Group's products and services and in its revenues; further increase the Group's credit and other costs; and may result in impairment of long-lived assets or goodwill. These factors could also cause an increase in the Group's balance sheet, risk-weighted assets and allowance for credit losses, resulting in a decline in regulatory capital ratios or liquidity measures, as well as regulatory demands for higher capital levels and/or limitations or reductions in capital distributions (such as common share repurchases and dividends). Moreover, any disruption or failure of the Group's performance of, or its ability to perform, key business functions, as a result of the continued spread of COVID-19 or otherwise, could adversely affect the Group's operations.

The impact of the pandemic on the Group's consumer and corporate borrowers will vary by sector or industry, with some borrowers experiencing greater stress levels, particularly as credit and customer assistance support further winds down, which could lead to increased pressure on their results of operations and financial condition, increased borrowings or credit ratings downgrades, thus likely leading to higher credit costs for the Group. These borrowers include, among others, businesses that are more directly impacted by the institution of social distancing, the movement of the public and store closures. In addition, stress levels ultimately experienced by the Group's borrowers may be different from and more intense than assumptions made in prior estimates or models used by the Group, resulting in an increase in the Group's allowance for credit losses or net credit losses, particularly as the benefits of fiscal stimulus and government support programs diminish.

Ongoing legislative and regulatory changes in the U.S. and globally to address the economic impact from the pandemic could further affect the Group's businesses, operations and financial performance. The Group could also face challenges, including legal and reputational, and scrutiny in its efforts to provide relief measures. Such efforts have resulted in, and may continue to result in, litigation, including class actions, and regulatory and government actions and proceedings. Such actions may result in judgments, settlements, penalties and fines adverse to the Group. In addition, the different types of government actions could vary in scale and duration across jurisdictions and regions with varying degrees of effectiveness.

The Group has taken measures to maintain the health and safety of its colleagues; however, these measures could result in additional expenses, and illness of employees could negatively affect staffing for a period of time. In addition, the Group's ability to recruit, hire and onboard colleagues in key areas could be negatively impacted by pandemic restrictions as well as the Group's COVID-19 vaccination requirements.

Further, it is unclear how the macroeconomic or business environment or societal norms may be impacted after the pandemic. The post-pandemic environment may undergo unexpected developments or changes in financial markets, fiscal, monetary, tax and regulatory environments and consumer customer and corporate client behaviour. These developments and changes could have an adverse impact on the Group's results of operations and financial condition. Ongoing business and regulatory uncertainties and changes may make the Group's longer-term business, balance sheet and strategic and budget planning more difficult or costly. The Group and its management and businesses may also experience increased or different competitive and other challenges in this environment. To the extent that it is not able to adapt or compete effectively, the Group could experience loss of business and its results of operations and financial condition could suffer.

Any negative impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Group, including the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor, could adversely affect the ability of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor to fulfil its obligations under the Securities, and consequently the value of and return on such Securities may also be adversely affected.

No Events of Default in respect of the CGMHI Guarantor with regard to insolvency or bankruptcy of the CGMHI Guarantor

You should note that there are no Events of Default in respect of the CGMHI Guarantor with regard to the insolvency or bankruptcy of the CGMHI Guarantor (or any similar event), any other default of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee not being (or being claimed not to be) in full force and effect. Therefore, even though the CGMHI Guarantor may be declared bankrupt or enters into insolvency proceedings or disclaims the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, notwithstanding that you are a holder of Securities issued by CGMHI, you will not be able to trigger an Event of Default under the Securities and thus will not be able to cause the Securities to be immediately due and payable, and the Securities will not redeem until maturity (unless there has been an Event of Default due to non-payment of interest or principal or bankruptcy or other default of CGMHI in the meantime). It is possible that you may receive a lower return at maturity than if you were able to accelerate the Securities for immediate repayment in such circumstances.

Under U.S. banking law, Citigroup Inc. may be required to apply its available funds to support the financial position of its banking subsidiaries, rather than to fulfil its obligations under the Securities

Under longstanding policy of The Board of Governors of the U.S. Federal Reserve System, a bank holding company (such as Citigroup Inc.) is expected to act as a source of financial strength for its U.S. insured depository institutions and to commit resources to support such banks. As a result of that policy, Citigroup Inc. may be required to commit resources (in the form of investments or loans) to its U.S. insured depository institutions in amounts or at times that could adversely affect its ability to also fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it and/or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, and consequently the value of and return on the Securities issued by it or CGMHI (which have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMHI Guarantor) may also be adversely affected.

The inclusion of contractual stay provisions in the terms and conditions of the Securities could materially adversely affect the rights of Securityholders in a resolution scenario

In the autumn of 2017, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the FDIC and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency issued rules (QFC Stay Rules) designed to improve the resolvability and resilience of U.S. global systemically important banking organisations (G-SIBs) and the U.S. operations of foreign G-SIBs, by mitigating the risk of destabilising closeouts of qualified financial contracts (QFCs) in resolution. Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries, including CGMHI, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor, are "covered entities" subject to the QFC Stay Rules. Certain of the Securities (such as the Securities, Covered Instruments), the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee – to the extent those guarantees relate to Covered Instruments – may qualify as QFCs.

The QFC Stay Rules seek to eliminate impediments to the orderly resolution of a G-SIB both in a scenario where resolution proceedings are instituted by the U.S. regulatory authorities under the Federal Deposit Insurance Act or the Orderly Liquidation Authority under Title II of the Dodd-Frank Act (OLA) (together, the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes) as well as in a scenario where the G-SIB is resolved under ordinary insolvency proceedings. To achieve this, the QFC Stay Rules require covered entities (such as Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor) to ensure that their QFCs subject to the QFC Stay Rules (including any Securities which are Covered Instruments) (i) contain an express contractual recognition of the statutory stay-and-transfer provisions of the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes and (ii) do not contain cross-default rights against the covered entity based on an affiliate becoming subject to any type of insolvency proceeding or restrictions on the transfer of any related credit enhancements (including a guarantee) issued by an affiliate of the covered entity following the affiliate's entry into insolvency proceedings.

To address these requirements, the Terms and Conditions of the Securities contain an express contractual recognition that, in the event any of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor becomes subject to a proceeding under a U.S. Special Resolution Regime, the transfer of Securities which are Covered Instruments, and (in relation to Covered Instruments) the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee (and the transfer of any interest and obligation in or under such Covered Instruments, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee) from the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor, as applicable, will be effective to the same extent as the transfer would be effective under such U.S. Special Resolution Regime.

In addition, the Terms and Conditions of the Securities contain an express contractual recognition that, in the event any of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and any of their affiliates becomes subject to a proceeding under a U.S. Special Resolution Regime, default rights against the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor with respect to the Covered Instruments, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee are permitted to be exercised to no greater extent than they could be exercised under such U.S. Special Resolution Regime. For these purposes, "default rights" include the right to terminate, liquidate or accelerate a QFC or demand payment or delivery thereunder. See General Condition 23 (Acknowledgement of the United States Special Resolution Regimes).

Each of Citigroup Inc., as a U.S. entity incorporated in Delaware, and CGMHI, as a U.S. entity incorporated in the State of New York, could be placed into proceedings under OLA if certain determinations are made by the applicable U.S. regulatory authorities. However, under the law in effect as at the date of this Base Prospectus, although CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor are each "covered entities" for the purposes of the QFC Stay Rules and are required to include the above-described acknowledgements in relevant QFCs, neither CGMFL nor the CGMFL Guarantor, as non-U.S. entities, are eligible to be placed into proceedings under the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes.

The exercise of any power under the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes could materially adversely affect the rights of the holders of Securities issued by CGMHI or Citigroup Inc. (e.g. in respect of the right to demand payment), and accordingly, the price or value of their investment in any such Security and/or the ability of such Issuer to satisfy its obligations under such Securities, which could result in losses to the holders of Securities issued by CGMHI or Citigroup Inc. of some or all of their investment.

As at the date of this Base Prospectus, interpretation of the application of the relevant requirements and market practice is continuing to evolve. If you are in any doubt about the categorisation of any Securities as QFCs and the effect of any proceeding under a U.S. Special Resolution Regime on such Securities, you should take advice from such professional advisers as you may deem necessary.

Ability to Substitute the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor in Insolvency

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities explicitly provide that nothing in General Condition 17 (Substitution of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor) shall limit the ability of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor to be substituted upon or following the relevant entity becoming subject to a resolution, restructuring, or reorganisation or similar proceeding. This means any such substitution of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor does not have to comply with the substitution criteria set out in General Condition 17 (Substitution of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor). Any such substitution could adversely affect the rights of Securityholders, the price and/or value of their investment in the Securities and/or performance under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, as the case may be.

A reduction of the Issuer's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor's ratings may reduce the market value and liquidity of the relevant Securities

The value of the Securities is expected to be affected, in part, by investors' general appraisal of the Issuer's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, the CGMFL Guarantor's and/or their affiliates' creditworthiness. Such perceptions are generally influenced by the ratings accorded to the outstanding securities of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any of their affiliates by standard statistical rating services, such as Moody's, S&P and Fitch. A reduction in the rating, if any, accorded to outstanding debt securities (if any) of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or the securities issued by any of their affiliates by one of these rating agencies could result in a reduction in the trading value of the Securities.

Each rating agency may reduce, suspend or withdraw any credit ratings of an Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor at any time in the future if, in its judgement, circumstances warrant a change. No rating agency is obligated to maintain its ratings at their current levels.

The rating agencies continuously evaluate Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries, and their ratings of Citigroup Inc.'s and its subsidiaries' long-term and short-term debt are based on a number of factors, including financial strength, as well as factors not entirely within the control of Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries, such as conditions affecting the financial services industry generally. If a rating agency reduces, suspends or withdraws its rating of an Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, and/or any affiliate thereof, the liquidity and market value of the Securities and, where applicable, the CGMHI Guarantor's or CGMFL Guarantor's ability to fulfil its guarantor obligations are likely to be adversely affected.

In addition, ratings downgrades by Fitch, Moody's or S&P could have a significant and immediate impact on Citigroup Inc.'s funding and liquidity through cash obligations, reduced funding capacity and derivative triggers and additional margin requirements. Ratings downgrades could also have a negative impact on other funding sources, such as secured financing and other margin requirements, for which there are no explicit triggers. Some entities may also have ratings limitations as to their permissible counterparties, of which Citigroup Inc. may or may not be aware. A reduction in Citigroup Inc.'s or its subsidiaries' credit ratings could also widen Citigroup Inc.'s credit spreads or otherwise increase its borrowing costs and limit its access to the capital markets. Any of the foregoing factors may negatively impact the value of and return on the Securities.

For information on the credit ratings of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor, please refer to the sub-section entitled "Credit Ratings" in "Important Information relating to Offers of Securities" at page xvi above.

Citigroup Inc. may not be able to maintain adequate liquidity or funding which may result in a negative impact on the market value of the Securities issued by it or (in the case of Securities issued by CGMHI) its ability to fulfil its guarantor obligations

As a global financial institution, adequate liquidity and sources of funding are essential to Citigroup Inc.'s businesses. Citigroup Inc.'s liquidity and sources of funding can be significantly and negatively impacted by factors it cannot control, such as general disruptions in the financial markets, governmental fiscal and monetary policies, regulatory changes or negative investor perceptions of Citigroup Inc.'s creditworthiness.

In addition, Citigroup Inc.'s costs to obtain and access secured funding and long-term unsecured funding are directly related to its credit spreads. Changes in credit spreads are driven by both external market factors and factors specific to Citigroup Inc., and can be highly volatile.

Moreover, Citigroup Inc.'s ability to obtain funding may be impaired if other market participants are seeking to access the markets at the same time, or if market appetite declines, as is likely to occur in a liquidity stress event or other market crisis. A sudden drop in market liquidity could also cause a temporary or lengthier dislocation of underwriting and capital markets activity. In addition, clearing organisations, central banks, clients and financial institutions with which Citigroup Inc. interacts may exercise the right to require additional collateral based on their perceptions or the market conditions, which could further impair Citigroup Inc.'s access to and cost of funding.

These factors may negatively impact the market value of the Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. or (in the case of Securities issued by CGMHI) Citigroup Inc.'s ability to fulfil its guarantor obligations.

Actions taken under the Banking Act in relation to the CGMFL Guarantor could materially adversely affect the value of and return on Securities issued by CGMFL

Under the Banking Act 2009 (the Banking Act), substantial powers are granted to HM Treasury, the Bank of England, the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) and the Prudential Regulation Authority (the PRA) (together, the Authorities) as part of a special resolution regime (the SRR). These powers may be exercised in respect of certain UK entities (each a relevant entity), including certain PRA-designated investment firms such as the CGMFL Guarantor.

The SRR consists of five stabilisation options and two special insolvency procedures (bank administration and bank insolvency). The stabilisation options provide for: (i) private sector transfer of all or part of the business of the relevant entity; (ii) transfer of all or part of the business of the relevant entity to a bridge bank wholly owned by the Bank of England; (iii) transfer of all or part of the business of the relevant entity to an asset management vehicle owned and controlled by the Bank of England; (iv) writing down certain claims of unsecured creditors of the relevant entity and/or converting certain unsecured debt claims to equity, (the bail-in option), which equity could also be subject to any future cancellation, transfer or dilution; and (v) temporary public ownership (nationalisation) of all or part of the relevant entity or its UK holding company. In each case, the Authorities have wide powers under the Banking Act including powers to modify contractual arrangements in certain circumstances and powers for HM Treasury to disapply or modify laws (with possible retroactive effect) to enable the stabilisation powers under the Banking Act to be used effectively.

The SRR may be triggered prior to insolvency of the Guarantor

The purpose of the stabilisation options is to address the situation where all or part of a business of a relevant entity has encountered, or is likely to encounter, financial difficulties, giving rise to wider public interest concerns. Accordingly, the relevant stabilisation options may be exercised if (a) the relevant Authority is satisfied that a relevant entity is failing or likely to fail; (b) following consultation with the other Authorities, the relevant Authority determines that it is not reasonably likely that (ignoring the stabilising options) action will be taken that will result in the condition referred to in (a) ceasing to be met; and (c) the Authorities consider the exercise of the stabilisation options to be necessary, having regard to the public interest considerations (such as the stability of the UK financial system, public confidence in the UK banking system and the protection of depositors). It is therefore possible that one of the stabilisation options could be exercised prior to the point at which any insolvency proceedings with respect to the relevant entity could be initiated.

The terms of the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee may be modified without the consent of the Securityholders

If the stabilisation options were exercised under the SRR in respect of the CGMFL Guarantor, HM Treasury or the Bank of England may exercise extensive powers, including share transfer powers (applying to a wide range of securities), property transfer powers (including powers for partial transfers of property, rights and liabilities subject to certain protections in respect of the CGMFL Guarantor) and resolution instrument powers (including powers to make special bail-in provisions). Exercise of these powers could involve taking various actions in relation to the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee without the consent of the Securityholders, including (among other things) modifying or disapplying the terms of the Guarantee.

The taking of any such actions could adversely affect the rights of Securityholders, the price or value of their investment in the Securities and/or the ability of the CGMFL Guarantor to satisfy its obligations under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee. In such circumstances, Securityholders may have a claim for compensation under one of the compensation schemes existing under, or contemplated by, the Banking Act, but there can be no assurance that Securityholders would thereby recover compensation promptly or equal to any loss actually incurred.

A partial transfer of the CGMFL Guarantor's business may result in a deterioration of its creditworthiness

If the CGMFL Guarantor were made subject to the SRR and a partial transfer of its business to another entity were effected, the quality of the assets and the quantum of the liabilities not transferred and remaining with the CGMFL Guarantor (which may include the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee) will result in a deterioration in the creditworthiness of the CGMFL Guarantor and, as a result, increase the risk that it will be unable to meet its obligations in respect of the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee and/or eventually become subject to administration proceedings pursuant to the Banking Act. In such circumstances, Securityholders may have a claim for compensation under one of the compensation schemes existing under, or contemplated by, the Banking Act, but there can be no assurance that Securityholders would thereby recover compensation promptly or equal to any loss actually incurred.

As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the relevant Authorities have not made an instrument or order under the Banking Act in respect of the CGMFL Guarantor and there has been no indication that they will make any such instrument or order. However, there can be no assurance that this will not change and/or that Securityholders will not be adversely affected by any such order or instrument if made.

RISKS RELATING TO SECURITIES GENERALLY

An investment in Securities involves risks (as further described in the paragraphs below) and should only be made after assessing the direction, timing and magnitude of potential future market changes (e.g. in the value of the security indices, inflation indices, commodity indices, shares, depository receipts, exchange traded funds, mutual funds, currencies, warrants, proprietary indices, dividend futures contracts, interest rates, preference shares or other items which comprise or relate to the Underlying(s)), as well as the terms and conditions of the Securities. More than one risk factor may have simultaneous effects with regard to the Securities such that the effect of a particular risk factor may not be predictable. In addition, more than one risk factor may have a compounding effect, which may not be predictable.

Potential loss of some or all of the investment

You should be prepared to sustain a total or partial loss of the purchase price of your Securities.

Other than any Securities having a scheduled minimum redemption value, Securities purchased may be worthless on redemption. In addition, the Securities will only redeem at an amount equivalent to at least the issue price if the applicable Issue Terms provide that the Redemption Amount at maturity is an amount equivalent to at least such amount. If the Securities provide that the Redemption Amount may be less than the issue price, such Securities may be redeemed at an amount less than such price. If the Securities are redeemed at less than the issue price or the Securities are cancelled or repaid early in accordance with their terms, the amount received by you, as a holder of such Securities, may be less than your initial investment.

Furthermore, the Securities may be traded in the secondary market or redeemed early, and if so, the price for which a Security may be sold or redeemed early may be less than the principal amount of such Security and/or your initial investment in such Securities.

For Securities which are linked to Underlying(s), in order to recover and realise a return upon your investment, you must generally be correct about the direction, timing and magnitude of an anticipated change in the value of the relevant Underlying(s). Assuming all other factors are held constant, the more a Security is "out-of-the-money" and the shorter its remaining term to maturity, the greater the risk that you will lose all or part of your investment. The only means through which you can realise value from a Security prior to the maturity date in relation to such Security is to sell it at its then market price in an available secondary market (if any). Fluctuations in the value or the yield (if applicable) or the relevant rates of exchange (if applicable) of the relevant Underlying(s) will affect the value of the relevant Securities. You risk losing your entire investment if the value of the relevant Underlying(s) does not move in the anticipated direction.

Further, you may receive no interest during the term of the Securities.

Securities are unsecured obligations and subject to the credit risk of the Issuer and/or Guarantor

All Securities will be unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer and all Securities issued by it will rank equally among themselves and with all other unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer. The obligations of the CGMHI Guarantor under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee will be unsecured and unsubordinated and will rank pari passu with all other outstanding unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the CGMHI Guarantor. The obligations of the CGMFL Guarantor under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee will be unsecured and unsubordinated and will rank pari passu with all other outstanding unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the CGMFL Guarantor. See General Condition 4 (Status).

The Issuer's obligations under the Securities issued by it, the CGMHI Guarantor's obligations under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Guarantor's obligations under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee represent general contractual obligations of each respective entity and of no other person. Only Securities issued by CGMHI will be guaranteed by the CGMHI Guarantor. Only Securities issued by CGMFL will be guaranteed by the CGMFL Guarantor. Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. will not be guaranteed by any entity.

Accordingly, all payments under the Securities are subject to the credit risk of the Issuer and, where the Issuer is CGMHI, of the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, of the CGMFL Guarantor. Securityholders will not have recourse to any secured assets of the Issuer and, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor in the event that the Issuer or the relevant Guarantor is unable to meet its obligations under the Securities, including e.g. in the event of an insolvency, and therefore risk losing some or all of their investment.

A sale of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption may result in a loss to the investor

The value of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption varies as the price or level of the Underlying(s) varies, as well as due to a number of other interrelated factors, including (i) the trading price of the relevant Securities, (ii) the value and volatility of the Underlying(s), (iii) the remaining tenor, (iv) in the case of Cash Settled Securities, the probable range of any Redemption Amounts, (v) any change(s) in interim interest rates and dividend yields if applicable, (vi) any change(s) in currency exchange rates, (vii) the depth of the market or liquidity of the Underlying(s) and (viii) any related transaction costs. Depending on the above factors (e.g. if movements in the price or level of the Underlying(s) reduce the probable range of any Redemption Amounts), a sale of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption may be at a substantial discount from the original purchase price and you may lose some or all of your investment.

Securities which are issued at a substantial discount or premium

The market value of any Securities issued at a substantial discount or premium to their principal amount or issue or offer price tend to fluctuate more in relation to general changes in interest rates than do prices for more conventional interest-bearing securities. Generally, the longer the remaining term of such Securities, the greater the price volatility as compared to more conventional interest-bearing securities with comparable maturities. Such price volatility could lead to a greater loss than otherwise on any sale of the Security prior to its scheduled redemption or an inability to sell the Security in the secondary markets.

Impact of fees, commissions and/or inducements on the Issue Price and/or offer price

The issue price and/or offer price of Securities may include fees and/or other commissions and inducements (e.g. placement fees, distribution fees, structuring fees). Any such fees and/or other commissions and inducements will not be taken into account for the purposes of determining the price of such Securities in the secondary market and will result in a difference between the Issue Price and/or offer price of the Securities and the bid/offer price quoted by any intermediary in the secondary market. Any such difference will result in a decrease in the value of an issue of Securities and consequently a loss to the investor, particularly in relation to any such Securities sold immediately following the issue date or offer period relating to such Securities.

The secondary market

Securities may have no established trading market when issued, and one may never develop, so investors should be prepared to hold their Securities until maturity. If a market does develop, it may not be very liquid and may be sensitive to changes in financial markets and you may not be able to find a timely and/or suitable purchaser. If it is possible to sell Securities, they would be sold for the prevailing bid price in the market and may be subject to a transaction fee. The prevailing bid price may be affected by several factors including the performance of any relevant Underlying, prevailing interest rates at the time of sale, the time remaining to the stated maturity date, the creditworthiness of the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and factors affecting the capital markets generally. The introduction of additional or competing products in the market may also have a negative effect on the price of any Securities.

Consequently, you may not be able to sell your Securities easily or at all or at prices that will provide you with a yield comparable to similar investments that have a developed secondary market or at prices equal to or higher than your initial investment and in fact any such price may be substantially less than the original purchase price. Therefore, in establishing your investment strategy, you should ensure that the term of the Securities is in line with your future liquidity requirements. This is particularly the case should the relevant Issuer be in financial distress, which may result in any sale of the Securities having to be at a substantial discount to their principal amount or issue or offer price, or for Securities that are especially sensitive to interest rate, currency or market risks, are designed for specific investment objectives or strategies or have been structured to meet the investment requirements of limited categories of investors. These types of Securities generally would have a more limited secondary market and more price volatility than conventional debt securities. Illiquidity may have a severely adverse effect on the market value of Securities. The liquidity of Securities is also influenced by the type of investor to whom such Securities are sold. To the extent that an issue of Securities is or becomes illiquid, you may have to hold the relevant Securities until maturity before you are able to realise value.

The Issuer may, but is not obliged to, list an issue of Securities on a stock exchange or regulated market. If Securities are not listed or traded on any stock exchange or regulated market, pricing information for the relevant Securities may be more difficult to obtain and the liquidity of such Securities may be adversely affected.

If Securities are not listed or traded on a stock exchange or regulated market, they may be traded on trading systems governed by the laws and regulations in force from time to time (e.g. multilateral trading systems or "MTFs") or in other trading systems (e.g. bilateral systems or equivalent trading systems). In the event that trading in such Securities takes place outside any such stock exchange, regulated market or trading systems, the manner in which the price of such Securities is determined may be less transparent and the liquidity of such Securities may be adversely affected. You should note that none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer grants any warranty to Securityholders as to the methodologies used to determine the price of Securities which are traded outside a trading system. However, where the Issuer or any of its affiliates determines the price of such Securities, it will take into account the market parameters applicable at such time in accordance with applicable provisions of law. Even if Securities are listed and/or admitted to trading, this will not necessarily result in greater liquidity.

Each of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer may, but is not obliged to, at any time purchase Securities at any price in the open market or by tender or private agreement. Any Securities so purchased may be held or resold or surrendered for cancellation. If such Securities are surrendered for cancellation, then the number of Securities outstanding will decrease, which will reduce liquidity for the outstanding Securities. Any such activities may have an adverse effect on the price of the relevant Securities in the secondary market and/or the existence of a secondary market.

Any of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor or any Dealer or affiliate of any such entity, as, where applicable, part of its activities as a broker and dealer in fixed income and equity securities and related products or otherwise, may make a secondary market in relation to any Securities and may provide an indicative bid price on a daily basis. Any indicative prices so provided shall be determined by the relevant party in its sole discretion taking into account prevailing market conditions and shall not be a representation by such party that any Securities can be purchased or sold at such prices (or at all) and any of the parties specified above may suspend or terminate making a market and providing indicative prices without notice, at any time and for any reason. In these circumstances, there may be no market for the relevant Securities and you should not assume that such a market will exist. Accordingly you must be prepared to hold the Securities until the maturity date, and may not be able to sell them prior to such date or, if you can, you may only be able to do so for a loss.

Change of law (including applicable tax law) or tax practice

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities are based on relevant laws in effect as at the date of this Base Prospectus. No assurance can be given as to the impact of any possible judicial decision or change to such laws or administrative practices after the date of this Base Prospectus and any such change could materially adversely impact the value of any Securities affected by it.

In addition any relevant tax law, regulations or practice applicable as at the date of this Base Prospectus and/or the date of purchase or subscription of any Securities may change at any time (including during any subscription period or the term of any Securities) and it is not possible to predict the precise tax treatment which will apply to the Securities at any given time. Any such change may have an adverse effect on you including that your Securities may be redeemed before their due date, their liquidity may decrease and/or the tax treatment of amounts payable or receivable by or to you may be less favourable than otherwise expected by you.

Risks related to implementation of regulatory reform

Implementation of U.S. federal financial reform legislation may affect the value of Underlying(s) and the ability to hedge the Issuer's obligations under the Securities. This may in turn affect the market value, trading price and volatility of, and return on, the Securities. This is because the amounts received and/or value of assets deliverable under the Securities will depend on (among other things) the performance of any such Underlying(s) and the Securities may be subject to early redemption as a result of events related to hedging arrangements. In addition, amounts and/or assets due under the Securities may be reduced to reflect costs related to hedging arrangements.

For example, in October 2020, the CFTC adopted rules to establish revised or new limits on the size of the positions any person may hold in 25 agricultural, metals and energy futures contracts and futures, options and swaps that are economically equivalent to those futures contracts. The limits apply to a person's combined position in the specified 25 futures contracts and options on futures ("core referenced futures contracts"), futures and options on futures directly or indirectly linked to the core referenced futures contracts, and economically equivalent swaps. These rules came into effect on 1 January 2022 for covered futures and options on futures contracts and on 1 January 2023 for covered swaps. These limits may subject certain transactions to new forms of regulation that could create barriers and increase costs in relation to some types of hedging activity by the relevant Issuer and/or any Hedging Party or any of their respective affiliates. Other provisions of the Dodd-Frank Act require certain Underlying(s) or hedging transactions to be cleared, traded on a regulated exchange and reported to regulators, central data repositories and, in some cases, the public, which may also affect their value, volatility and cost. The Dodd-Frank Act also expands entity registration requirements and imposes business conduct requirements on persons active in the swaps market (which may include new capital and margin requirements), which may affect the value of the relevant Underlying(s) or value and/or cost of hedging transactions. Such regulation may consequently affect the market value, trading price and volatility of, and return on, the Securities.

Changes in exchange rates and exchange controls could result in a loss of the value of the Securities and payments in respect thereof in relation to the currency of your jurisdiction

An investment in Securities denominated in a Specified Currency and/or payable in a currency other than the currency of your jurisdiction (your currency) entails significant risks that are not associated with a similar investment in a security denominated in your currency. These risks include, but are not limited to:

- the possibility of significant market changes in rates of exchange between your currency and the Specified Currency and/or payment currency;
- the possibility of significant changes in rates of exchange between your currency and the Specified Currency and/or payment currency resulting from the official redenomination or revaluation of the Specified Currency and/or payment currency; and
- the possibility of the imposition or modification of foreign exchange controls by either your jurisdiction or foreign governments.

These risks generally depend on factors over which none of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor has any control and which cannot be readily foreseen, such as economic and political events and the supply of, and demand for, the relevant currencies.

In recent years, rates of exchange between some foreign currencies in which the Securities may be denominated and/or payable have been volatile. This volatility may be expected in the future. Fluctuations that have occurred in any particular exchange rate in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuation that may occur in the rate during the term of any Security. Depreciation of the Specified Currency and/or payment currency of a Security against your currency would result in a decrease in the effective yield of such Security below its coupon rate (if applicable) and could result in a substantial loss to you in terms of your currency.

Governments and monetary authorities have imposed from time to time, and may in the future impose, exchange controls that could affect applicable exchange rates as well as the availability of a Specified Currency and/or payment currency at the time of payment of any amounts on any Security. There can be no assurance that exchange controls will not restrict or prohibit payments under the Securities which are denominated in any such Specified Currency and/or payment currency. Even if there are no actual exchange controls, it is possible that a Specified Currency and/or payment currency would not be available to the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor when payments on a Security are due because of circumstances beyond the control of the Issuer and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor. Any such restriction, prohibition or unavailability of the relevant currency may negatively affect the value of and return on the Securities, and could result in a substantial loss to you.

The above risks may be increased if any Specified Currency and/or payment currency and/or your currency is the currency of an emerging market jurisdiction.

The unavailability of currencies could result in a loss of value of the Securities and payments thereunder

The currency in which payments on a Security are required to be made may be redenominated, for example, because such currency is:

- unavailable due to the imposition of exchange controls or other circumstances beyond the Issuer's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor's control;
- no longer used by the government of the country issuing the currency; or
- no longer used for the settlement of transactions by public institutions of the international banking community.

Where the currency in which payments in respect of a Security is officially redenominated, other than as a result of Economic and Monetary Union, such as by an official redenomination of any such currency that is a composite currency, then the payment obligations of the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor on such Security immediately following the redenomination will be the amount of redenominated currency that represents the amount of the Issuer's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor's obligations immediately before the redenomination.

The Securities will not provide for any adjustment to any amount payable as a result of:

- any change in the value of the Specified Currency and/or payment currency of those Securities relative to any other currency due solely to fluctuations in exchange rates; or
- any redenomination of any component currency of any composite currency, unless that composite currency is itself officially redenominated.

Accordingly, a currency redenomination may result in a material adverse loss of the value of and return on the Securities.

Meetings of Securityholders and Modifications

Securities other than French law Securities

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities contain provisions for calling meetings of Securityholders to consider matters which may have a general or specific effect upon your interests. Matters decided at such meetings may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities, and further, the vote of a defined majority may be binding on all Securityholders, including those Securityholders who did not attend and vote at the relevant meeting, and Securityholders who voted in a manner contrary to the majority.

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities also provide that the Issuer and, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor may make, without the consent of the Securityholders, (i) any modification to the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the relevant Deed of Covenant, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee which, in the opinion of the Issuer, is not materially prejudicial to the interests of the Securityholders or (ii) any modification to the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the Deeds of Covenant, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee which is of a formal, minor or technical nature or is made to correct a manifest error or proven error or to comply with mandatory provisions of the law. In determining what is "materially prejudicial", the Issuer shall not consider the individual circumstances of any Securityholder or the tax or other consequences of such modification in any jurisdiction. Any such amendment to the Securities could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities or, without limitation, a Securityholder's tax, regulatory or accounting treatment of such Securities.

French Law Securities

In the case of French Law Securities, the Terms and Conditions of the Securities can only be amended if there is a quorate meeting of the Securityholders in accordance with Article L.225-98 of the French Code de Commerce or a written decision of the Securityholders in accordance with French law. The positive vote of two-thirds (for a meeting of Securityholders) or three-quarters (for a written decision of the Securityholders) or more of such Securityholders present or represented will bind the remaining Securityholders.

In respect of French Law Securities which have a Specified Denomination of at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date) or which can be traded in amounts of at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date), the Issuer may amend the Conditions of the Securities without the consent of the Securityholders to correct a manifest error.

See further General Condition 12 (Meetings of Securityholders, Modifications, Determinations and Rounding).

Certain considerations relating to public offers of Securities in the EEA

As described in the applicable Final Terms, Securities that are not Exempt Securities may be distributed by means of a public offer made in the specified Member State(s) of the EEA during an offer period specified in the applicable Final Terms. During such offer period, the Issuer and/or any other person specified in the applicable Final Terms may reserve the right to cancel such offer and/or to scale back applications for such offer in the event of over-subscription or such other circumstances as are specified in the applicable Final Terms. In such circumstances, an applicant investor may not be issued any Securities or may be issued a number of Securities which is less than the amount for which such applicant investor applied. Any payments made by an applicant investor or, in the case of public offers in Italy any amount segregated by a distributor as intended payment of the offer price by an applicant investor, for Securities that are not issued to such applicant investor for any such reason will be refunded. However, there will be a time lag in making any reimbursement, no interest or compensation will be payable in respect of any such amounts and the applicant investor may be subject to reinvestment risk.

In addition, the Issuer and/or the other entities specified in the applicable Final Terms may terminate the offer early by immediate suspension of the acceptance of further subscription requests and by giving notice to the public in accordance with the applicable Final Terms. Any such termination may occur, even where the maximum amount for subscription in relation to that offer (as specified in the applicable Final Terms), has not been reached and, in such circumstances, the early closing of the offer may have an impact on the aggregate number of Securities issued. This may in turn have an adverse effect on the liquidity of the relevant Securities, with the result that you may not be able to sell the Securities prior to the maturity date or, if you can, that you may only be able to do so for a loss.

Further, you should note that, in certain circumstances, Securities may not be issued on the originally designated issue date, for example because either the Issuer and/or any other person specified in the applicable Final Terms has reserved the right to postpone such issue date or, following the publication of a supplement to this Base Prospectus the Issuer has decided to postpone such issue date to allow investors who had made applications to subscribe for Securities before the date of publication of such Supplement to exercise their right to withdraw their acceptances. In the event that the issue date is so delayed, no interest shall accrue (if applicable) until the issue date of the Securities and no compensation shall be payable.

Certain risks relating to public offers of the Securities in Italy

You should note that the applicable Final Terms may also provide that the effectiveness of an offer of Securities in the Republic of Italy will be conditional upon admission to listing (in the case of a regulated market) or to trading (in the case of a multilateral trading facility) occurring by the issue date. In such case, in the event that such admission to listing or, as the case may be, trading of the Securities does not take place by the issue date for whatever reason, the Issuer will withdraw the offer, the offer will be deemed to be null and void and the relevant Securities will not be issued. As a consequence, you will not receive any Securities, any subscription rights you have for the Securities will be cancelled and you will not be entitled to any compensation therefor.

If the Securities are distributed by means of a public offer, under certain circumstances indicated in the applicable Final Terms, the Issuer and/or the other entities indicated in the applicable Final Terms will have the right to withdraw or revoke the offer, and the offer will be deemed to be null and void according to the terms indicated in the applicable Final Terms. Unless otherwise provided in the applicable Final Terms, the Issuer and/or the other entities specified in the applicable Final Terms may terminate the offer early by immediate suspension of the acceptance of further subscription requests and by giving notice to the public in accordance with the applicable Final Terms. Any such termination may occur even where the maximum amount for subscription in relation to that offer (as specified in the applicable Final Terms), has not been reached. In such circumstances, the early closing of the offer may have an impact on the aggregate number of Securities issued and, therefore, may have an adverse effect on the liquidity of the Securities. Furthermore, in such circumstances, investors who have already paid or delivered subscription monies for the relevant Securities will be entitled to reimbursement of such amounts, but will not receive any remuneration that may have accrued in the period between their payment or delivery of subscription monies and the reimbursement of the Securities.

The applicable Final Terms may also provide that the effectiveness of the offer of Securities is conditional upon admission to trading on the relevant multilateral trading facility indicated in the applicable Final Terms, occurring by the Issue Date. In such case, in the event that admission to trading of the Securities does not take place by the Issue Date for whatever reason, the Issuer may withdraw the offer, the offer will be deemed to be null and void and the relevant Securities will not be issued. As a consequence, the potential investor will not receive any Securities, any subscription rights the potential investor has for the Securities will be cancelled and they will not be entitled to any compensation therefor.

Furthermore, under certain circumstances, the Issuer and/or the other entities indicated in the applicable Final Terms will have the right to extend the offer period and/or to postpone the originally designated issue date, and related interest payment dates.

The issue price and/or offer price of the Securities may include subscription fees, placement fees, direction fees, structuring fees and/or other additional costs. Any such fees and/or costs may not be taken into account for the purposes of determining the price of such Securities on the secondary market and could result in a difference between the original issue price and/or offer price, the theoretical value of the Securities, and/or the actual bid/offer price quoted by any intermediary in the secondary market. Any such difference may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities, particularly immediately following the offer and the issue date relating to such Securities, where any such fees and/or costs may be deducted from the price at which such Securities can be sold by the initial investor in the secondary market.

Determinations and potential conflicts of interest

The terms of the Securities confer on the Issuer, the Calculation Agent and certain other persons some discretion in making judgements, determinations and calculations in relation to the Securities including, inter alia, Underlying(s) and the occurrence of various events. The Issuer, the Calculation Agent or such other persons will act in good faith and in its sole and absolute discretion or in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner (as specified in the applicable Issue Terms), but there can be no assurance that the exercise of any such discretion will not affect the value of the Securities or result in the occurrence of an early repayment at an amount less than an investor's initial investment.

Where the Calculation Agent is an affiliate of the Issuer, potential conflicts of interest may exist between the Calculation Agent and Securityholders, including with respect to such judgements, determinations and calculations that the Calculation Agent may make pursuant to the Securities that may influence the amount receivable or specified assets deliverable in respect of the Securities.

Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or their affiliates and/or any third parties or entities which are not subject to regulation under the laws of the United States, the EEA or the United Kingdom may be the sponsor of an Underlying and may publish values or prices or other projections of creditworthiness in respect of an Underlying. Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any of their affiliates may also from time to time engage in transactions involving Underlying(s) for their proprietary accounts or for other accounts under their management, subject to requirements of all applicable laws and regulations. Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or their affiliates may also issue other derivative instruments in respect of any Underlying(s). Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, and/or their affiliates may also act as underwriter or counterparty in connection with future offerings of shares or other securities or obligations related to an issue of Securities or may act as financial adviser to certain companies or companies whose securities are Underlying(s) in respect of one or more issues of Securities or in a commercial banking capacity for such companies. These activities may have a negative effect on the value of the relevant Underlying(s) and consequently upon the value of the Securities.

Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, any Dealer and/or any of their affiliates may at the date of this Base Prospectus or at any time hereafter be in possession of information in relation to an Underlying that is or may be material and may or may not be publicly available to Securityholders. There is no obligation on any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, or any Dealer to disclose to any potential investors in Securities or to Securityholders any such information.

Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, any Dealer and/or any of their affiliates may have existing or future business relationships with the issuer of, or other entity associated with, any Underlying(s) (including, but not limited to, lending, depositary, risk management, advisory and banking relationships), and will pursue actions and take steps that they or it deems necessary or appropriate to protect their and/or its interests arising therefrom without regard to the consequences for you, which could have a material adverse impact on the value of and return on the Securities.

Where Securities are offered to the public, as the relevant Dealer(s) and any distributors act pursuant to a mandate granted by the Issuer and they receive fees on the basis of the services performed and the outcome of the placement of such Securities, potential conflicts of interest could arise.

Substitution of CGMFL and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and CGMHI and/or the CGMHI Guarantor

In relation to Securities issued by CGMFL or Securities issued by CGMHI where "Substitution provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, CGMFL or the CGMFL Guarantor and/or CGMHI or the CGMHI Guarantor may, at any time, without the consent of the holders, but subject to certain conditions, substitute for itself another company.

In relation to Securities issued by CGMFL, depending on whether "Additional Requirements" are specified as being applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, amongst other conditions, the substitute company, on the date of such substitution, must either (i) be, in the opinion of CGMFL or the CGMFL Guarantor, as the case may be, of at least equivalent standing and creditworthiness to it, or (ii) unless CGMFL or the CGMFL Guarantor unconditionally guarantees the fulfilment of the obligations of the substitute company, demonstrate a long term credit rating from at least one internationally recognised credit rating agency active in the international capital markets (including but not limited to Standard & Poor's, Moody's Investors Service and Fitch Ratings) which is at least as high as CGMFL or the CGMFL Guarantor (as the case may be) being substituted.

Any such substitution could have a material adverse impact on the rights of Securityholders, the value of and return on the Securities issued by CGMFL or Securities issued by CGMHI and/or performance under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee (as the case may be).

See further General Condition 17 (Substitution of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor).

Realisation Disruption

Other than in the case of Preference Share Linked Securities, if "Realisation Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and a Realisation Disruption Event occurs (being, in summary, either (i) an event which imposes restrictions or taxes, charges or deductions in respect of the Securities and/or on hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities which would materially restrict, or materially increase the cost of, the Issuer's obligations under the Securities or materially restrict, or materially increase the cost of, any Hedging Party's obligations under any such hedging arrangements, or (ii) the occurrence or existence of any event which either materially restricts the exchange, delivery or transfer of the currency of payment of the Securities or of any hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities or restricts the determination of any exchange rate in relation to any such currency), then either (a) the terms and conditions of the Securities (including any payment or delivery obligations) may be adjusted in order to reflect the economic effect of the particular Realisation Disruption Event or (b) the Issuer may redeem the Securities.

Any such adjustments by the Calculation Agent may include (but are not limited to): (i) payments under the Securities being made in a different currency to the previously specified payment currency of the Securities; (ii) deduction of applicable taxes, charges or deductions from payments due in respect of the Securities resulting in reduced amounts paid in respect of the Securities or delivery of any Entitlement being subject to payment by the relevant Securityholder of an amount equal to a pro rata portion of any such tax, charge or deduction; (iii) delay of payments or deliveries in respect of the Securities until the relevant restrictions are lifted; (iv) determination of relevant exchange rates by the Calculation Agent taking into consideration all available information that it deems relevant, which may result in a different rate to that which would have applied had the Realisation Disruption Event not occurred; and (v) (where legally permissible) in lieu of paying any cash amounts in respect of the Securities, procuring the physical delivery of any Underlying(s) (or vice versa). Any of the above adjustments could produce a materially different redemption to that originally anticipated in respect of the Securities and could have a material adverse impact on the value of and return on the Securities.

If the Securities are redeemed early pursuant to (b) of the first paragraph above, the Issuer will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities, an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

See further Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(j) (Realisation Disruption).

Obligor Regulatory Event

If Obligor Regulatory Event is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and an Obligor Regulatory Event occurs (being, in summary, a change in law after the Trade Date which results in the Issuer and/or the Guarantor (i) becoming subject to less favourable capital adequacy treatment, (ii) suffering any increased costs in connection with the Securities, including any costs associated with hedging the Securities or costs in maintaining any applicable capital reserves in respect of the Securities or (iii) being materially restricted from performing any of its obligations under the Securities and/or the relevant Deed of Guarantee, as applicable), the relevant Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of such Securities.

If the Securities are so redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities, an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms or such other amount as is specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

Occurrence of an Underlying RMB Currency Event

An Underlying RMB Currency Event refers to the occurrence of an Underlying RMB Inconvertibility, Underlying RMB Non-Transferability or Underlying RMB Illiquidity (each, as defined in the Valuation and Settlement Conditions). If "Underlying RMB Currency Event" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and if such event occurs, the Calculation Agent may direct the Issuer to exercise its option to (a) postpone any payment in RMB due under the Securities to a later date (being 10 Business Days following the date on which such Underlying RMB Currency Event ceases to exist); or (b) replace the Issuer's obligation to pay in RMB by an obligation to pay such amount in the RMB Relevant Currency converted using the RMB Spot Rate for the relevant RMB Determination Date. Alternatively, the Issuer may early redeem each Security at its Early Redemption Amount.

In case of (a) or (b), investors may receive a late payment or depending on the conversion rate that is applied, a payment less than the anticipated amount(s) due in respect of the Securities. If the Securities are early redeemed pursuant to (b), the Issuer will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities, an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent or such other amount as specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

See further Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(k) (Occurrence of an Underlying RMB Currency Event).

Illegality in relation to Securities

If "Early Redemption for Illegality" is specified as being applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the Issuer determines that the performance of its obligations under an issue of Securities or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor determines that the performance of its obligations under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee in respect of such Securities or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor determines that the performance of its obligations under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee in respect of such Securities has become illegal in whole or in part for any reason, the Issuer may redeem the Securities early and, if and to the extent permitted by applicable law, will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities (i) in respect of Underlying Linked Securities, an amount calculated, notwithstanding such illegality, in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms and (ii) in respect of Securities other than Underlying Linked Securities, an amount calculated pursuant to the relevant Condition or as specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

Section 871(m) Event

In circumstances that constitute a "Section 871(m) Event" (being the occurrence at any time of circumstances in which the Issuer, and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI or CGMFL, the relevant Guarantor and/or save where the applicable Issue Terms specify that "Section 871(m) Event (Hedging)" is not applicable, any Hedging Party is (or, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, there is a reasonable likelihood that, within the next 30 Business Days, the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI or CGMFL, the relevant Guarantor and/or save where the applicable Issue Terms specify that "Section 871(m) Event (Hedging)" is not applicable, any Hedging Party will become) subject to any withholding or reporting obligations pursuant to Section 871(m) (as defined in "Risks relating to the United States Tax Treatment of the Securities") with respect to the relevant Securities and/or the Deed of Guarantee and/or, save where the applicable Issue Terms specify that "Section 871(m) Event (Hedging)" is not applicable, any underlying Hedging Positions), if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, an Early Redemption Event will occur in which case the relevant Securities may be early redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of such Securities.

If the Securities are so redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities, an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could lose some or all of your investment.

Risks relating to the United States tax treatment of the Securities

The United States Tax Treatment of Certain Securities is Unclear

For U.S. federal tax purposes, the proper treatment and characterisation of Securities that are not treated as debt instruments (generally, Securities that do not provide for the return at maturity of a holder's investment) are unclear. As a result, the timing and character of income on such a Security are uncertain, and for a non-U.S. investor holding such a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer (as defined below under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities—United States Federal Tax Considerations"), there is a risk that payments on such a Security, in particular payments that are made (or fixed) prior to maturity, may be subject to U.S. withholding tax. If withholding tax applies to a payment on such a Security, the Issuer will generally not be required to pay additional amounts in respect of amounts withheld, except as described in Condition 9 (Taxation) of the General Conditions of the Securities. An investor may therefore receive a substantially reduced return on the Securities as compared to the return the investor would receive in the absence of such withholding.

In the case of Debt Designated Securities issued by a U.S. Issuer (both as defined below under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities—United States Federal Tax Considerations"), there is a risk of recharacterisation if the Securities (such as certain Credit Linked Notes that are Debt Designated Securities) do not provide for the return of a holder's investment under all circumstances, in which case payments may be subject to U.S. withholding tax.

The U.S. Treasury Department and the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) have requested comments on various issues regarding the U.S. federal income tax treatment of "prepaid forward contracts" and similar financial instruments and have indicated that such transactions may be the subject of future regulations or other guidance. In addition, members of Congress have proposed legislative changes to the tax treatment of derivative contracts. Any legislation, Treasury regulations or other guidance promulgated after consideration of these issues could materially and adversely affect the tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, possibly with retroactive effect.

Possible Taxable Event for U.S. Federal Income Tax Purposes

Certain modifications to the terms of the Securities could be treated as "significant modifications" of the Securities for U.S. federal income tax purposes, in which case the Securities would generally be treated, in whole or part, as retired and reissued. Significant modifications could include (but are not limited to) a designation by the Issuer of a Substitute for itself and the designation of a substitute or successor rate.

In the event of a significant modification, a U.S. Holder (as defined under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities—United States Federal Tax Considerations" in this Base Prospectus) would generally be required to recognise gain or loss (subject to possible treatment as a recapitalisation or, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules) with respect to the Securities. Moreover, the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. A changed treatment of the Securities could have possible withholding tax consequences to Non-U.S. Holders (as defined under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities—United States Federal Tax Considerations" in this Base Prospectus). The after tax return on the Securities after a significant modification may be less, and significantly so, than the return prior to such modification. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the risk of such an event.

Possible U.S. Federal Withholding Tax under Section 871(m)

Section 871(m) of the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the Code), and Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder (Section 871(m)) impose a 30 per cent. (or lower treaty rate) withholding tax on certain "dividend equivalents" paid or deemed paid to Non-U.S. Holders with respect to certain financial instruments linked to U.S. equities or indices that include U.S. equities. This withholding regime generally applies to Securities that substantially replicate the economic performance of one or more underlying U.S. equities, as determined based on one of two tests set forth in the regulations. However, based on an IRS notice, Securities issued prior to 2025 will generally be subject to withholding tax only if they have a "delta" of one with respect to the relevant underlying U.S. equity. The regulations provide certain other exceptions to this withholding regime, in particular for instruments linked to certain broad-based indices that meet requirements set forth in the regulations as well as instruments linked to securities that track such indices. The Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts in respect of amounts withheld under Section 871(m).

Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 871(m) to a particular Security.

Prospective purchasers of the Securities should be aware that if a Section 871(m) Event (as defined under "Valuation and Settlement Schedule—Definitions") occurs, an Early Redemption Event may occur, in which case the relevant Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of such Securities.

Reportable Transactions

In 2015, the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS released notices designating certain "basket options", "basket contracts" and substantially similar transactions as reportable transactions. The terms "basket option" and "basket contract" refer to certain contracts in which a taxpayer receives a return based on the performance of a notional basket of referenced assets, provided that the taxpayer or its "designee" has, and exercises, discretion to change the assets or an algorithm underlying the contract. If the Issuer, an index sponsor or calculation agent or other person were to exercise discretion under the terms of a Security or an index underlying a Security and were treated as a holder's "designee" for these purposes, unless an exception applied certain holders of the relevant Securities would be required to report certain information to the IRS, as set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations, or be subject to penalties. The Issuer might also be required to report information regarding the transaction to the IRS.

Prospective purchasers of the Securities are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal tax consequences of an investment in the Securities.

Green Bonds, Social Bonds and Social Finance Bonds

You should refer to the "Investment Considerations" section of this Base Prospectus for information relating to Green Bonds, Social Bonds and Social Finance Bonds and any relevant frameworks.

Whilst it is the intention of the Group to apply an amount equivalent to the net proceeds of any Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds in, or substantially in, the manner described in this Base Prospectus and/or the applicable Issue Terms, any relevant investment may not provide the results or outcome originally expected or anticipated by the Issuer or meet the goals of the relevant frameworks and/or it may not be possible for the Issuer or any of its affiliates to invest an amount equal to such net proceeds in accordance with any particular timing schedule relevant to you or the Securities. In addition, a relevant framework may be amended by the Group from time to time in a manner which may affect the value of relevant Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds, as applicable.

There is currently no clear definition (legal, regulatory or otherwise) of, or market consensus as to what constitutes, a "green", "social", "inclusive", "sustainable" or any equivalently-labelled project or asset or as to what precise attributes are required for a particular project or asset to be defined as "green", "social", "inclusive", "sustainable" or any such other equivalent label. A clear definition or consensus may not develop or if market consensus is developed, such consensus may be different from the relevant framework or may significantly change over time which may affect the value of any Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds. Consequently, investments in businesses or projects described in the relevant framework and any related opinions and/or reports may not meet your expectations, taxonomies or standards or other investment criteria or guidelines regarding such "green", "social", "inclusive", "sustainable" or other equivalently-labelled performance objectives or any binding or non-binding legal or other standards regarding any direct or indirect environmental or social impact (including any present or future applicable law or regulations or by-laws or other governing rules, policies or investment mandates applicable to you) and there can be no assurance that adverse social, environmental and/or other impacts will not occur from such businesses or projects. You should have regard to any descriptions of the relevant projects and eligibility criteria in any applicable framework and the applicable Issue Terms and determine for yourself the relevance of such information and such opinions and/or reports and whether all your applicable standards will be met.

Any opinion, certification or report of any third party (whether or not solicited by the Group) that may be made available in connection with Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds (including with respect to whether any businesses or projects fulfil any green, social, inclusive, sustainability and/or other criteria) may be withdrawn, subject to amendment or may not be maintained. In addition, the provider of any such opinion, certification or report may not be subject to any specific oversight or regulatory regime. Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds may also be listed or admitted to trading on a dedicated "green", "environmental", "social", "inclusive", "sustainable" or other equivalently-labelled segment of any stock exchange or securities market (whether or not regulated), but you should be aware that the criteria for such listings or admission to trading may vary and may not meet your expectations and there is a risk that any such listing or admission to trading may not be maintained by the relevant Issuer or may be withdrawn. This may adversely affect the market value of any Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds with the effect that you may be unable to realise all or part of your investment.

Failure by the relevant Issuer or any other relevant entity to allocate (or cause allocation of) an amount equal to the net proceeds as described in the relevant framework or provide reports, or the failure of any external assurance provider to opine on any relevant framework or on any report's conformity with the Group's sustainability strategy or the relevant framework or the withdrawal of any report or any certification that the Group is not complying in whole or in part with any matters for which such opinion or certification is opining or certifying, as the case may be, will not constitute an event of default under or trigger any early redemption rights (whether by the relevant Issuer or any Securityholder). In addition and for the avoidance of doubt, the proceeds of any Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds will not be segregated by the relevant Issuer or any other entity in the Group from its capital and other assets and there will be no direct or contractual link between any Green Bonds, Social Bonds or Social Finance Bonds and any Eligible Green Assets, the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio, or Social Finance Assets, respectively.

Any of the above factors (and any events that negatively affect the value of any other Securities of the Issuer that are intended to finance "green", "social", "inclusive", "sustainable" or equivalently-labelled projects or assets) could have a material adverse effect on the value of such Securities and investors may be unable to realise all or part of their investment.

Risks relating to different governing laws in respect of certain Securities and guarantees

French Law Securities have the benefit of an English law guarantee

French Law Securities issued by CGMHI have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMHI Guarantor pursuant to the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and French Law Securities issued by CGMFL have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMFL Guarantor pursuant to the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee and the All Monies Guarantee. French Law Securities and any non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with them are governed by, and shall be construed in accordance with, French law and the Paris courts have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute arising out of or in connection with the French Law Securities. However, each of the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee and the All Monies Guarantee and any non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with it are governed by, and shall be construed in accordance with, English law. In respect of the All Monies Guarantee, the English courts have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute including a dispute relating to non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with it. Accordingly, it is possible that Securityholders, wishing to enforce their rights in respect of French Law Securities, may need to bring claims under differing governing laws and/or in different jurisdictions against the Issuer and the relevant Guarantor and this, in turn, could prolong and/or increase the costs to be incurred in respect of any proceedings in relation to such claims and, potentially, affect the ultimate payout.

Risks relating to inflation

Inflation is the general increase in prices and fall in the purchasing value of money over time. Due to the impact of inflation, the same amount of money will buy fewer goods and services over time.

The real return (or yield) on an investment in Securities will be reduced by inflation. Consequently, the higher the rate of inflation, the lower the real yield on a security will be. If the inflation rate is equal to or greater than the yield under a security, the real yield a holder of such security will achieve will be zero or even negative. Accordingly, inflation may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Securities, and you should consider the potential impact of inflation (including if the rate of inflation is anticipated to rise over the term of the Securities) before purchasing Securities.

Relatedly, if the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities provide that some or all of the principal shall be repaid at maturity, such scheduled principal repayment will not provide any protection from the effect of inflation over time and it may still be the case that the return on such Securities adjusted for inflation could be negative.

With regard to risks of Securities linked to one or more Inflation Indices, see "Risks associated with Securities linked to Inflation Indices".

RISKS RELATING TO SECURITIES LINKED TO UNDERLYING(S)

General risks relating to Securities linked to Underlying(s)

An investment in Securities linked to Underlying(s) has significant risks that are not associated with a similar investment in a conventional security (e.g. a debt instrument that has a pre-determined specified principal amount, is denominated in your currency and bears interest at either a fixed or a floating rate based on nationally published interest rate references), as amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of such Securities are linked to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

The risks associated with a particular Security linked to Underlying(s) will depend on factors over which none of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor has any control and which cannot readily be foreseen, and the return on Securities linked to Underlying(s) may attract certain of the same risks as an actual investment in the relevant Underlying(s). These risks include economic and political events and the supply of, and demand for, any relevant Underlying(s).

Each of these risks may have an impact on the level, price, rate or other applicable value of an Underlying, which may go down as well as up throughout the term of the Securities, and such fluctuations may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

Furthermore, in recent years, prices for various Underlying(s) have been highly volatile. Such volatility may be expected in the future. Fluctuations in the rates, levels or prices that have occurred in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuations that may occur during the term of any Securities linked to Underlying(s).

In addition, the value of any relevant Underlying(s) may be determined or published by any Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor or an affiliate of any such entity or determined or published by third parties or entities which are not subject to regulation under the laws of the United States, the EEA or the United Kingdom.

The risk of loss as a result of linking principal, interest and/or termination payments to Underlying(s) can be substantial and the payment of principal, interest and/or termination amounts may be contingent on the occurrence of certain events in respect of Underlying(s) which may not occur.

No rights of ownership in Underlying(s)

The Securities do not create an actual interest in, or ownership of, the relevant Underlying(s). Except in certain circumstances where the Securities are Physical Delivery Securities, a Security will not represent a claim against any Underlying and, in the event that the amount paid on redemption of the Securities is less than the nominal amount of the Securities, you, as a Securityholder, will not have recourse under any relevant Security to any security indices, inflation indices, commodity indices, commodities, shares, depositary receipts, exchange traded funds, mutual funds, currencies, warrants, proprietary indices, dividend futures contracts, interest rates, preference shares or other items which may comprise the relevant Underlying(s) in respect of such Securities. The exposure to the relevant Underlying(s) is notional and an investment in the Securities is not an investment in the relevant Underlying(s). Although the performance of the relevant Underlying(s) will have an effect on the Securities, the relevant Underlying(s) and the Securities are separate obligations of different legal entities. You will have no legal or beneficial interest in the relevant Underlying(s). Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on the Securities than you would have received had you invested directly in the Underlying(s) or through another product.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Security Indices

The level of a Security Index is generally based on the value of the component securities of that index (component securities) although the level of a Security Index may not include the reinvestment of the yield on the component securities. Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the value of the component securities and/or the performance of a Security Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

The risks of a particular Security linked to a Security Index will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include the possibility of significant changes in:

- the prices of the component securities and the weighting of each component security within the relevant index or indices;
- other objective prices; and

- economic or other measures making up the relevant Security Index or indices.

Market volatility reflects the degree of instability and expected instability of the performance of a Security Index and the component securities. The level of market volatility is largely determined by the prices for financial instruments supposed to protect you against such market volatility. The prices of these instruments are determined by forces of supply and demand in the options and derivative markets generally. These forces are, themselves, affected by factors such as actual market volatility, expected volatility, economic factors and speculation. In recent years, currency exchange rates and prices for component securities have been highly volatile. Such volatility may be expected in the future. Fluctuations in the rates or prices that have occurred in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuations that may occur during the term of any Security relating to Security Indices.

The above factors may have an effect on the performance of a Security Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

You should note that any dividends, other distributions assets and/or amounts paid to holders of the component securities will not be paid to the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) or to the holders of Securities. The return on Securities will thus not reflect any such assets and/or amounts which would otherwise be paid to investors that have made a direct investment in any such component securities. Consequently, the return on Securities may be less than the return from a direct investment in any such component securities.

In considering whether to purchase Securities relating to Security Indices, you should be aware that the calculation of amounts payable or, as applicable, assets due on Securities relating to Security Indices may involve reference to:

- an index determined by an affiliate of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (if applicable) and/or the CGMFL Guarantor (if applicable); or
- prices that are published solely by third parties or entities which are not regulated by the laws of the United States, the EEA, the United Kingdom or the jurisdiction of the particular investor.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to a Security Index than you would have received if you had invested in the components of such index directly or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 1 (Security Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Security Indices.

The type and rules of the Security Index (or Security Indices) to which the Securities are linked may have an adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities

Price Return and Total Return Indices

The rules governing the composition and calculation of the relevant Security Index may stipulate that dividends paid on its components are included in the calculation of the index level (a "total return" index) or are not included in the calculation of the index level (a "price return" index).

Where Securities are linked to a "price return" index, holders of the Securities will not participate in dividends paid on the components comprising the Security Index. As a result, holders of Securities linked to such Security Index would lose the benefit of any dividends paid by the components of the Security Index and such Securities may not perform as well as a position where such holder had invested directly in such components or where they invested in a "total return" version of the Security Index, or in another product.

In the case of Securities linked to a "total return" index, net dividends (in the case of a "net total return" index) or gross dividends (in the case of a "gross total return" index) paid on its components are included in the calculation of the index level. In the case of a "net total return" index, dividends paid on its components may not be fully reinvested in the Security Index and accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to such Security Index than you would have received if you had invested in the components of such Security Index directly or in another product.

Decrement Indices

If the Security Index has a "decrement" feature, the return on such Security Index will be calculated by reinvesting net dividends or gross dividends (depending on the type and rules of such Security Index) paid by its components and by subtracting on a daily basis a pre-defined amount (a Synthetic Dividend). The Synthetic Dividend may be defined as a percentage of the index level or as a fixed number of index points. Investors should note that any of the following factors, where applicable, could adversely affect the value of and return on Securities linked to a "decrement" index:

- A Security Index with a "decrement" feature will underperform a "total return" index that is used as a base index to calculate such Security Index since the latter is calculated without the deduction of a Synthetic Dividend. Similarly, where such Security Index tracks the performance of a single component security, the Security Index will underperform a direct investment in such component security as such investment would benefit from dividends paid by the component security without the deduction of a Synthetic Dividend.
- A Security Index with a "decrement" feature will underperform the corresponding "price return" index if the amount of dividends paid by the components of such Security Index is less than the amount of the Synthetic Dividend deducted. Where such Security Index tracks the performance of a single component security, the Security Index will underperform a direct investment in such component security as such investment would benefit from dividends paid by the component security without the deduction of a Synthetic Dividend.
- Where the Synthetic Dividend is defined as a fixed number of index points (as opposed to a percentage of the index level), the Synthetic Dividend yield (calculated as the ratio of the fixed index point decrement to the relevant decrement index level) will increase in a falling equities market as the Synthetic Dividend is a fixed amount. In such scenario, the fixed deduction will have a greater negative impact on the index level of the relevant Security Index than if the Synthetic Dividend was defined as a percentage of the index level. It is even possible that in a steeply falling market scenario the index level could become negative, since the amount of decrement expressed in index points will not vary with the level of the decrement index.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Security Indices

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Security Indices include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Security Index in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Security Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Security Index (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant index sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant index sponsor or (ii) being replaced by a successor index, or (c) any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Security Index that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Security Index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Security Index or, if the Securities are Exempt Securities, a Security Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If the Calculation Agent determines that a Security Index Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Security Index, the relevant index sponsor announcing that it will make a material change to a relevant Security Index, the index sponsor permanently cancelling the index and no successor index existing or the index sponsor or any other person or entity acting on its behalf failing to calculate and announce the relevant index), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Security Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the relevant Securities and, if so, shall either (A) calculate the relevant level of such Security Index in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the relevant Security Index last in effect prior to the applicable change, cancellation or failure and/or (B) substitute the affected Security Index with a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Security Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities, a Security Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and determine any adjustment necessary to the terms of the Securities to account for such substitution and/or (C) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Security Index Adjustment Event. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Security Index Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made following a Security Index Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you may be less than your initial investment and you may therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Inflation Indices

The risks of a particular Security relating to Inflation Indices will depend on the terms of that Security. Many economic and market factors may influence an Inflation Index and consequently the value of Securities relating to Inflation Indices, including general economic, financial, political or regulatory conditions and/or events; and/or fluctuations in the prices of various assets, goods, services and energy resources (including in response to supply of, and demand for, any of them); and/or the level of inflation in the economy of the relevant country and expectations of inflation. In particular, the level of an Inflation Index may be affected by factors unconnected with the financial markets. Any such factor may either offset or magnify one or more of the other factors.

The performance of an Inflation Index will affect the amounts payable in respect of Securities relating to Inflation Indices and may result in investors receiving less than their original investment and/or no return on their investment, or in certain circumstances zero.

The rate of interest (if any) payable in respect of Inflation Index-linked interest Securities will vary for each interest payment due and may be less than that which would be payable on a conventional fixed rate, non-callable debt security of the Issuer of comparable maturity.

See Underlying Schedule 2 (Inflation Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Inflation Indices.

Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Inflation Indices

If an underlying closing level for an Inflation Index for a specified reference month has not been published or announced by five business days prior to the relevant payment date, then the Calculation Agent shall determine a substitute index level. Any such substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Inflation Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) the imposition of increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such index on the Issuer and/or any of its affiliates by the relevant index sponsor which the Calculation Agent deems material), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If "Revision" is specified as applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms, then any revision to an underlying closing level of an Inflation Index occurring before the relevant revision cut-off date shall be considered final and conclusive for the purpose of any determination made in respect of the Securities. If "No Revision" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms (or if "Revision" is not specified as applicable) then the first publication and announcement of an underlying closing level for such Inflation Index shall be final and conclusive. Further, if the Calculation Agent determines that the index sponsor of an Inflation Index has corrected an underlying closing level for such index to correct a manifest error no later than the earlier to occur of the relevant manifest error cut-off date and thirty calendar days following the first publication and announcement of such level, then the Calculation Agent may use the corrected level of such Inflation Index for the purposes of any calculation in respect of the relevant payment date. In the event of inconsistency between a revision and a manifest error correction, the manifest error correction shall prevail. Any such adjustment (or absence of an adjustment, for the purpose of the Securities) to any level of an Inflation Index may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities.

If the Calculation Agent determines that either (a) a level for an Inflation Index has not been published or announced for two consecutive months and/or (b) the relevant index sponsor announces that it will no longer continue to publish or announce such Inflation Index and/or (c) the relevant index sponsor cancels such Inflation Index then the Calculation Agent may replace the originally designated Inflation Index with a successor index. Any such adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities and, if no successor index can be determined, then an Early Redemption Event shall occur with respect to the Securities.

If an index sponsor announces, in respect of an Inflation Index, that it will make a material change to a relevant Inflation Index then the Calculation Agent shall make such consequential adjustments to the terms of the Securities as are consistent with any adjustment made to any relevant fallback bond or as are necessary for such modified Inflation Index to continue as an Inflation Index for the purpose of the Securities. Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, then an Early Redemption Event shall occur with respect to the Securities.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no successor index can be determined or no adjustment can reasonably be made following a material change to a relevant Inflation Index, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Commodity Indices

The level of a Commodity Index is generally based on the value of the commodities and/or other securities comprised in that Commodity Index and, as such, if investing in Securities relating to Commodity Indices you should also read "Risks associated with Securities linked to Commodities" below.

Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the value of the commodities and/or futures contracts comprising a Commodity Index and/or the performance of such index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

The risks of a particular Security relating to a Commodity Index will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the prices of the commodities and/or futures underlying the relevant index or indices; another objective price; and economic or other measures making up the relevant index or indices.

The above factors may have an effect on the performance of a Commodity Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

See Underlying Schedule 3 (Commodity Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Commodity Indices.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Commodity Indices

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Commodity Indices include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date or postponement of the valuation of a component of a Commodity Index due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Commodity Index in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Commodity Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Commodity Index (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant index sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant index sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent or (ii) being replaced by a successor index, (c) the imposition of increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such index on the Issuer and/or any of its affiliates by the relevant index sponsor which the Calculation Agent deems material, or (d) the imposition of, change in or removal of any tax relating to any component of such Commodity Index or commodity relating to such component (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) which the Calculation Agent deems material), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Commodity Index that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Commodity Index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Commodity Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities, a Commodity Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If the Calculation Agent determines that a Commodity Index Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Commodity Index, the relevant index sponsor announcing that it will make a material change to a relevant Commodity Index, the index sponsor permanently cancelling the index and no successor index existing or the index sponsor or any other person or entity on its behalf failing to calculate and announce the relevant index), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Commodity Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the relevant Securities and, if so, shall either (A) calculate the relevant level of such Commodity Index in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the relevant Commodity Index last in effect prior to the applicable change, cancellation or failure and/or (B) substitute the affected Commodity Index with a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Commodity Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities, a Commodity Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and determine any adjustment necessary to the terms of the Securities to account for such substitution and/or (C) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made, such Commodity Index Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made following a Commodity Index Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Commodities

Movements in the price of any relevant Commodities may be subject to significant fluctuations that may not correlate with changes in interest rates, currencies or other indices and the timing of changes in the relevant price of a Commodity or Commodities may affect the actual yield of the Securities, even if the average level is consistent with their expectations. In general, the earlier the change in the price or prices of the Commodities, the greater the effect on yield of the Securities.

Commodity futures markets are highly volatile. Commodity markets are influenced by, among other things, changing supply and demand relationships, weather, governmental, agricultural, commercial and trade programmes and policies designed to influence commodity prices, world political and economic events, and changes in interest rates. Moreover, investments in futures and options contracts involve additional risks including, without limitation, leverage (margin is usually a percentage of the face value of the contract and exposure can be nearly unlimited). A holder of a futures position may find such position becomes illiquid because certain commodity exchanges limit fluctuations in certain futures contract prices during a single day by regulations referred to as "daily price fluctuation limits" or "daily limits". Under such daily limits, during a single trading day no trades may be executed at prices beyond the daily limits. Once the price of a contract for a particular future has increased or decreased by an amount equal to the daily limit, positions in the future can neither be taken nor liquidated unless traders are willing to effect trades at or within the limit. This could prevent a holder from promptly liquidating unfavourable positions and subject it to substantial losses. Futures contract prices in various Commodities occasionally have exceeded the daily limit for several consecutive days with little or no trading. Similar occurrences could prevent the liquidation of unfavourable positions and could therefore have a material adverse impact on value of and return on the Securities.

See Underlying Schedule 4 (Commodity Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Commodities.

Risk related to the possible rolling mechanism of commodity futures contracts

The yield on Securities relating to Commodities may not perfectly correlate to the trend in the price of the underlying Commodities as the use of such future commodity contracts generally involves a rolling mechanism. This means that the commodity futures contracts which expire prior to the relevant payment date under the relevant Securities are replaced with future commodity contracts that have a later expiry date. You may therefore only marginally benefit from any rise/fall in prices on such Commodities.

You should also consider that the relevant commodity futures contract(s) could have a trend which differs significantly from that of the relevant commodity spot market(s). The trend in the price of a commodity futures contracts compared to the underlying Commodity is closely linked to the present and future level of the production of the underlying Commodity or to the level of estimated natural reserves, particularly in the case of energy Commodities. In addition, the price of the relevant commodity futures contract may not be considered an accurate prediction of a market price, since it also includes the so-called "carrying costs" (such as, for example, warehouse costs, insurance covering the goods, transportation etc.), which also contribute toward the determination of the price of the commodity futures contracts. These factors which directly influence the Commodities prices substantially explain the imperfect correlation between the commodity spot markets and the commodity futures contracts. Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more commodity futures contracts than you would have received if you had invested in relevant commodity spot market(s) or in another related product.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Commodities

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Commodities include alternative provisions for valuation and/or provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such alternative provisions for valuation or postponement may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Commodities in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Commodity (being, in each case if applicable, the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) the occurrence of a disruption event and any relevant disruption fallbacks fail (or are deemed to fail) to provide a relevant price in respect of a Commodity and a valuation date, (c) any Additional Early Redemption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms (being an "abandonment of scheme" in relation to Commodities that are emissions) or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, any other event specified as such in the applicable Pricing Supplement, (d) a Section 871(m) Event or (e) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Shares

Securities linked to Shares will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of any share company, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such share company.

No issuer of such Shares will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any such issuer of Shares contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the Share will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such an issuer of Shares could affect the trading price of the Shares and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Shares to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, in relation to Exempt Securities and if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant Shares. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Shares. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Shares may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Shares.

The risks of a Security relating to Shares will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the Share or Shares. The value of Shares may go down as well as up and the value of any Share on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Share or of the continued existence of any Share or share company. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Shares over a period of time and to Shares, the issuer(s) of which are incorporated outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Shares than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Shares or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 5 (Share Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Shares.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Shares

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to Shares include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Share in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a Share (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a corporate action, de-listing, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer (and/or, in the case of a Stapled Share, any Component Share Additional Adjustment Event or De-stapling Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms) and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Share that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Share selected by the Calculation Agent from an applicable reference index or otherwise selected by the Calculation Agent (regardless of whether such new Share is a Stapled Share) (and/or, in the case of a Stapled Share, the Calculation Agent may replace any Component Share of the Stapled Share with a new Component Share selected by the Calculation Agent (regardless of whether such new Component Share is contained in a relevant reference index)) or, in the case of Exempt Securities, selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Depositary Receipts

Securities linked to Depositary Receipts will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of any depositary or any underlying share company, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such depositary or underlying share company.

No issuer of such Depositary Receipts or any underlying shares related to such Depositary Receipts will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any depositary or any related underlying share company contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the Depositary Receipt or the underlying share will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such depositary or underlying share company could affect the trading price of the Depositary Receipts and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and, in relation to Exempt Securities only, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Depositary Receipts may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares.

The risks of a Security relating to Depositary Receipts will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the Depository Receipts. The value of Depository Receipts may go down as well as up and the value of any Depository Receipt on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Depository Receipts or of the continued existence of any depository and/or underlying share company. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of Depository Receipts and relevant underlying shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Depository Receipts and the related underlying shares over a period of time and to Depository Receipts and/or underlying shares, the issuer(s) of which are incorporated outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Depository Receipts than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Depository Receipts or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 6 (Depository Receipt Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Depository Receipts.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Depository Receipts

As the terms and conditions of the Securities include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Depository Receipt in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a Depository Receipt and/or an underlying share (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging or (b) a corporate action, de-listing, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer, written instructions being given by an underlying share company to the relevant depository to withdraw or surrender underlying shares or the termination of a relevant deposit agreement and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Depository Receipt and/or the underlying share that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Depository Receipt selected by the Calculation Agent (referencing, where "same underlying share and currency" is specified as the Depository Receipt Substitution Criteria in the applicable Issue Terms, the same underlying share and denominated in the same currency as the previous Depository Receipt (and, if no such Depository Receipt is selected or available, then the underlying share shall be substituted and a new Depository Receipt selected in respect of such new underlying share) or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement) and/or a new share selected by the Calculation Agent from an applicable reference index, or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, in accordance with the criteria (if any) specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to ETF Shares

Securities linked to ETF Shares will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of the issuer of any ETF Shares, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such issuer.

No issuer of ETF Shares will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any such issuer of ETF Shares contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the ETF Share will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such an issuer of ETF Shares could affect the trading price of the ETF Share and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant ETF Shares to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and in relation to Exempt Securities only, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant ETF Shares. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in relevant ETF Shares. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to ETF Shares may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant ETF Shares.

The risks of a Security relating to ETF Shares will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the ETF Shares. The value of ETF Shares may go down as well as up and the value of any ETF Share on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any ETF Share or of the continued existence of any ETF Share or the issuer of such ETF Share. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of ETF Shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more ETF Shares over a period of time and to ETF Shares, the issuer(s) of which are established outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more ETF Shares than you would have received if you had invested directly in the ETF Shares or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 7 (Exchange Traded Fund (ETF) Share Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to ETF Shares.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to ETF Shares

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to ETF Shares include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for an ETF Share in the applicable Issue Terms. While ETF Shares are traded on an exchange and are therefore valued in a similar manner as a Share traded on an exchange, the Adjustment Events in relation to Securities linked to ETF Shares include certain adjustments which would be applicable to Securities linked to an underlying fund.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of an ETF Share (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a corporate action, de-listing, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer, fund modification, strategy breach, regulatory action, cross-contamination and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the ETF Share that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new ETF Share selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be an ETF Share which, where a "related index" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, tracks such related index, or an index substantially similar in formula and calculation method, or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, an index selected by the Calculation Agent with reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement). Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks relating to Securities linked to Shares which have a Dividend Adjusted Performance feature

Where the Securities are linked to Shares and the applicable Issue Terms specify "Dividend Adjusted Performance" as applicable, this means the Securities reference the performance of relevant Share(s) adjusted to deduct a pre-determined amount (a Target Dividend) on a pro-rata basis.

The Target Dividend is expressed as a fixed amount independent of the price of the relevant Share. Due to the price or performance of the relevant Share being adjusted for the difference between the actual declared dividend(s) and the Target Dividend(s) and the different dividend methodologies adopted, depending on the amount of the dividends actually declared by the relevant Share issuer, Securities with a "Dividend Adjusted Performance" feature may perform differently in comparison to Securities linked to the same Share(s) with actual dividends applied as they are declared. In particular, if the Target Dividend yield of the relevant Share in a relevant period is higher than the actual declared dividend yield of the Share during the same period, the price or performance of the Share, as adjusted for the Target Dividend will, underperform the Share which is not so adjusted and such underperformance will increase as the price of the relevant Share decreases. In such case, you will receive a lower return on the Securities as a result of the "Dividend Adjusted Performance" than if such feature was not applicable.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests

Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of any mutual fund administrator, adviser or manager in respect of a mutual fund, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such mutual fund administrator, adviser or manager.

No mutual fund administrator, adviser or manager in respect of a mutual fund will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any such mutual fund contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the value of the Mutual Fund Interest will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such mutual fund could affect the value of the Mutual Fund Interest and therefore the trading price of the Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Mutual Fund Interests to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, in relation to Exempt Securities and if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the Mutual Fund Interests. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in relevant Mutual Fund Interests. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Mutual Fund Interests.

The risks of a Security relating to Mutual Fund Interests will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the value(s) of the Mutual Fund Interests. The value of Mutual Fund Interests may go down as well as up and the value of any Mutual Fund Interest on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Mutual Fund Interest or of the continued existence of any Mutual Fund Interest or the issuer of such Mutual Fund Interest. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Mutual Fund Interests, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, mutual funds may trade and invest in a broad range of investments such as debt and equity securities, commodities and foreign exchange and may enter into derivative transactions, including, without limitation, futures and options. Mutual Fund Interests may be illiquid and may only be traded on an infrequent basis. The trading strategies of mutual funds are often opaque. Mutual funds, as well as the markets and instruments in which they invest, are often not subject to review by governmental authorities, self-regulatory organisations or other supervisory authorities. Further, the value of Mutual Fund Interests may be affected by the performance of the relevant fund service providers and in particular the relevant fund adviser.

For the foregoing reasons, investing directly or indirectly in mutual funds is generally considered to be risky. If the underlying mutual fund does not perform sufficiently well, the value of the Securities will fall, and may in certain circumstances be zero.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Mutual Fund Interests over a period of time and to Mutual Fund Interests, the issuer(s) of which are established outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Mutual Fund Interests than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Mutual Fund Interests or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 8 (Mutual Fund Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to Mutual Fund Interests include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Mutual Fund Interest in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a Mutual Fund Interest (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a corporate action, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, adviser resignation event, fund modification, strategy breach, regulatory action, reporting disruption, cross-contamination, failure by a fund service provider and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Mutual Fund Interest that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Mutual Fund Interest selected by the Calculation Agent (in a fund which provides daily liquidity, the shares or units of which may be subscribed, sold to or redeemed by the fund (subject to giving no more than two fund business days' notice and no charges being imposed by the fund), and which in the determination of the Calculation Agent, has the same or substantially similar strategies, and the same currency as, the affected mutual fund). Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment may also include a monetisation whereby the Calculation Agent shall determine the value of the Mutual Fund Interest affected by the relevant Adjustment Event on a date selected by the Calculation Agent and shall make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities so that the Securities reference such value (and interest thereon) rather than such Mutual Fund Interest. Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) the Calculation Agent determines that no Monetisation can reasonably be effected, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to currency exchange rates

An investment in Securities linked to currency exchange rates may bear similar market risks to a direct investment in foreign exchange.

Movements in currency exchange rates may be subject to significant fluctuations that may not correlate with changes in interest rates or other indices and the timing of changes in the currency exchange rates may affect the actual yield to you, even if the average level is consistent with your expectations. In addition, Securities linked to currency exchange rates may be linked to emerging market currencies and, as such, may experience greater volatility and less certainty as to future levels or as against other currencies. Emerging market currencies are highly exposed to the risk of a currency crisis happening in the future and this could result in the occurrence of a Disrupted Day.

Fluctuations in exchange rates and implied volatility of the relevant currency (or basket of currencies) will affect the value of the relevant Securities. Currency values may be affected by complex political and economic factors, including governmental action to fix or support the value of a currency/currencies, regardless of other market forces, which could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on your Securities (see "Changes in exchange rates and exchange controls could result in a loss of the value of the Securities and payments in respect thereof in relation to the currency of your jurisdiction").

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more currency exchange rates than you would have received if you had invested directly in the relevant currency or currencies or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to currency exchange rates.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to currency exchange rates where the EMTA Provisions are not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to currency exchange rates include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of the Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for currency exchange rates in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a currency exchange rate (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a relevant country has lawfully converted or exchanged its currency for a successor currency), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to currency exchange rates where the EMTA Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms

The terms and conditions of the Securities include provisions dealing with the consequences of a Disrupted Day. These consequences shall be determined in accordance with the Disruption Fallbacks specified in the applicable Issue Terms and may include (i) where Valuation Postponement is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, (ii) where First Fallback Reference Price or Second Fallback Reference Price is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, determination of the Underlying Closing Level for the relevant Valuation Date by reference to alternative prices for the applicable currency exchange rate, and (iii) where Calculation Agent Determination is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent determining the Underlying Closing Level for the relevant Valuation Date. Such alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of the Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities. The Valuation Postponement provisions, if applicable, may result in a Securityholder receiving payments in respect of the Securities after the originally scheduled date for payment.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for currency exchange rates in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a currency exchange rate (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) any relevant rate which as of the Trade Date is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or similar action) by the relevant Government Authority and any such rate cease to be so reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or similar action)), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs) and in the case of a successor rate, determination of the relevant rate by reference to the official successor rate. Any such adjustment(s) may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Currency Settlement Disruption Event

If, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, payment of any amount due in respect of the Securities cannot be made by it in the Specified Currency on any date on which payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities due to the occurrence of a Currency Settlement Disruption Event (being (a) the imposition of restrictions on the transferability, purchase and holding of the Specified Currency, (b) its non-acceptance by a clearing system or its disuse, (c) its illiquidity in the relevant market or (d) any other circumstances beyond the Issuer's control), then the Issuer shall be entitled to satisfy its obligations to Securityholders by either (i) delaying any such payment until after the Currency Settlement Disruption Event ceases to exist, or (ii) making such payment in United States dollars on, or as soon as reasonably practicable after, the relevant payment date. Any such delayed payment or payment in United States dollars will not constitute a default and Securityholders shall not be entitled to further interest or any other payment in respect of any such delay.

See further FX Rate Condition 6(c) (Settlement Disruption) of Part A of Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions), and FX Rate Condition 6(e) (Settlement Disruption) of Part B of Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions).

Risks associated with Securities linked to Warrants

Securities linked to Warrants will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of the issuer of any Warrant, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such issuer.

No issuer of such Warrants will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with the offering with respect to the information concerning any such issuer of Warrants or the assets, indices or other item(s) to which the Warrants relate contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the Warrants will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such an issuer of Warrants or such assets, indices or other item(s) could affect the trading price of the Warrants and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have rights to receive distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Warrants to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and in relation to Exempt Securities only, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant Warrants. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Warrants. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Warrants may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Warrants.

The risks of a Security relating to Warrants will depend on the terms of that Security and payments in respect of a Security relating to Warrants will depend upon the value of the relevant Warrants which will be dependent on the reference item or items underlying such Warrant (i.e. one or more indices, shares, depositary receipts, mutual fund interests, currencies, commodities, gilts or other reference items specified in the terms of the relevant Warrants). Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the Warrants. The value of Warrants may go down as well as up and the value of any Warrant on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Warrant or of the continued existence of any Warrant or the issuer of the Warrants or the creditworthiness of the Warrant issuer. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Warrants, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Warrants over a period of time and to Warrants, the issuer(s) of which are incorporated outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Warrants than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Warrants or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 10 (Warrant Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Warrants.

Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Warrants

If an Early Redemption Event is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and occurs (being (a) the cancellation or termination of a relevant Warrant for any reason other than by reason of its scheduled exercise, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount determined as set out in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Citi Proprietary Indices

The level of a Citi Proprietary Index is generally based on the value of its components (each an index component), which may be securities, commodities, derivative instruments, indices or other types of assets or any combination of such assets, as described in the relevant index conditions and/or methodology and, as such, investors in Securities relating to Citi Proprietary Indices should also read the other risk factors relating to Securities linked directly to such index components. Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the value of the index components of a Citi Proprietary Index and/or the performance of a Citi Proprietary Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

The risks of a Security relating to a Citi Proprietary Index will depend on the terms of that Security and the relevant index conditions and/or methodology. Such risks may include the possibility of significant changes in:

- the levels, prices, rates or values (as relevant) of the index components of such Citi Proprietary Index and the weighting of each such index component within such Citi Proprietary Index;
- other objective prices; and
- economic or other measures observed for the purposes of such Citi Proprietary Index.

The above risks may have an effect on the performance of a Citi Proprietary Index, and this may in turn have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

As disclosed in the relevant index conditions and/or methodology, any distribution, dividend and/or amount (distribution) paid to persons who have made an actual investment in any of the index components of a Citi Proprietary Index may not be reflected in the level of such Citi Proprietary Index. A distribution paid to persons who have made an actual investment in any of the index components of a Citi Proprietary Index will not be paid to the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) or to the holders of Securities relating to such Citi Proprietary Index. The return on such Securities will thus not reflect any such distribution. Consequently, the return on such Securities may be less than the return from a direct investment in any such index components.

A Citi Proprietary Index reflects the performance of notional investment positions in its index components. There is no actual portfolio of assets in respect of such Citi Proprietary Index to which any person is entitled or in which any person has any ownership interest, and no Citi Proprietary Index creates any obligation of any person connected with any index component. A Citi Proprietary Index merely identifies certain hypothetical investment positions, the performance of which will be used as a reference point for the purpose of calculating its level. The performance of a Citi Proprietary Index may be different from the result of any actual investment in any one or more of its index components. In particular, any notional fees or costs deducted in the calculation of the level of the relevant Citi Proprietary Index and any proportionate amount included in such level of any distribution in respect of any index component may be different from those arising in respect of any actual investment in any index component or combination of index components.

The strategy that a Citi Proprietary Index aims to reflect may not be successful and other strategies using constituents which are the same as the index components of such Citi Proprietary Index may perform better than such Citi Proprietary Index.

The index conditions and/or methodology of a Citi Proprietary Index describe the manner in which the relevant index calculation agent performs all calculations, determinations, rebalancings and adjustments in respect of such Citi Proprietary Index, and the limited circumstances in which the relevant index sponsor may amend the index conditions and/or methodology of such Citi Proprietary Index. In addition you should be aware that the calculation of amounts payable on Securities relating to a Citi Proprietary Index involves reference to an index that is administered and maintained and, in some cases, calculated and published by an affiliate of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor, the level of which may not be widely published. The index conditions and/or methodology of a Citi Proprietary Index describe the conflicts of interest which may arise for the relevant index calculation agent and its affiliates.

You should read the relevant index conditions and/or methodology if investing in Securities relating to a Citi Proprietary Index.

The Citi Proprietary Index may not perform as anticipated and you could therefore lose some or all of your investment in Securities linked to a Citi Proprietary Index.

See Underlying Schedule 11 (Proprietary Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Citi Proprietary Indices.

Disruption of an index component of a Citi Proprietary Index and determination of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index

The conditions and/or methodology of a Citi Proprietary Index will set out the frequency of the publication of its level. In the event that the level, price, rate or value (as relevant) of any of its index components is not available for any reason, the relevant index calculation agent may calculate the level of such Citi Proprietary Index for the relevant day by observing a valuation for the affected index component from a different day or may delay the calculation of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index. Any such postponement or alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

If "Component Valuation" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the level of the relevant Citi Proprietary Index has been published for a particular day, then if such day (a) is not a day on which valuations of an index component of such Citi Proprietary Index are scheduled to be observed, or (b) is a disrupted day for an index component of such Citi Proprietary Index (each, howsoever defined in the relevant index conditions and/or methodology of such Citi Proprietary Index), then any level of such Citi Proprietary Index calculated and published by the relevant index calculation agent for such day may be disregarded by the Calculation Agent and the Calculation Agent may itself calculate the level of such Citi Proprietary Index for such day in accordance with the then-current methodology of such Citi Proprietary Index but may do so by reference to the level, price, rate or value (as relevant) of the index components of such Citi Proprietary Index observed on subsequent days. This process may result in a level of such Citi Proprietary Index for such day being calculated by the Calculation Agent which is different to the published level of such Citi Proprietary Index and may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the relevant Securities.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Citi Proprietary Indices

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Citi Proprietary Indices include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Citi Proprietary Indices in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Citi Proprietary Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the relevant Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the relevant Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Citi Proprietary Index (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant index sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant index sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent or (ii) being replaced by a successor index, or (c) the imposition of, change in or removal of any tax relating to any index component of such Citi Proprietary Index or other asset relating to such index component (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), then (A) the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the relevant Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event, or (B) the Calculation Agent may replace the Citi Proprietary Index which is the subject of the Adjustment Event with either (1) a new index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index, or (2) in the case of Exempt Securities only, a replacement index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Citi Proprietary Index, (a) the relevant index sponsor announcing that it will make a material change to such Citi Proprietary Index, (b) the relevant index sponsor permanently cancelling such Citi Proprietary Index and no successor index existing, or (c) the relevant index sponsor or any other person or entity acting on its behalf failing to calculate and announce such Citi Proprietary Index), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the relevant Securities and, if so, shall either (i) calculate the relevant level of such Citi Proprietary Index in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating such Citi Proprietary Index last in effect prior to the applicable change, cancellation or failure, and/or (ii) substitute such Citi Proprietary Index with a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, a replacement index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, and determine any adjustment necessary to account for such substitution, and/or (iii) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made following a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), then the relevant Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the relevant Securities are redeemed early, then the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks relating to "big data" indices

Securities may reference indices which use "big data" analytical techniques, or inputs which are based on "big data" analytical techniques (collectively Big Data Analysis). Depending on the index, the Big Data Analysis may be performed by the index administrator or a separate organisation (the Analysis Provider). Indices using Big Data Analysis typically use a large number of underlying inputs and advanced analytical techniques, potentially including a form of artificial intelligence or machine learning (such as attempting to identify and react to patterns as opposed to specific events or circumstances that have been defined). Examples include indices with objectives related to the determination of market sentiment or ESG (environmental, social and governance) characteristics. Investors should be aware that the methodology for determining the Big Data Analysis may not be transparent and may not be fully disclosed in the index methodology document for the relevant index. The lack of full transparency may be due to a variety of reasons including, without limitation: challenges in describing a complex methodology in natural language; the use of a very large number of underlying data inputs from a wide range of sources (such that it is not practical either to list the individual inputs, or to do so without raising intellectual property and/or privacy issues); the Big Data Analysis could involve the exercise of discretion or judgement; and/or some or all of the methodology may be considered to be confidential or commercially sensitive. Investors should appreciate that the performance of such an index will be dependent on the Big Data Analysis, the underlying inputs, any changes over time in the determination methodology and/or underlying inputs, and any ongoing judgement or discretion exercised by the Analysis Provider. The use of Big Data Analysis may cause the index to perform in a manner that has not been anticipated in the design of the index, and, any such unanticipated performance may have an adverse impact on the performance and value of the Securities linked to it. Prior to investing in Securities linked to such an index, investors should carry out their own due diligence, without reliance on the Issuer or the relevant Guarantor, on the relevant index and the associated Big Data Analysis and Analysis Provider.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts

The value of a Dividend Futures Contract will generally track the dividends paid by the companies (each a Relevant Company) comprised in the equity index (the Relevant Index) relating to the relevant Dividend Futures Contract from time to time during one calendar year. Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the performance of such Relevant Companies and therefore on the value of the dividends paid by such Relevant Companies and the value of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract, and this may in turn have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Securities relating to Dividend Futures Contracts will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations under the relevant Dividend Futures Contract or any obligations of any Relevant Company, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any sponsor of such Dividend Futures Contract or any such Relevant Company. No sponsor of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities.

Not all types of dividends paid by a Relevant Company may be relevant for the purpose of determining the price of a Dividend Futures Contract (for example, in general, ordinary dividends declared by a Relevant Company (paid in cash or shares) are considered as realised dividends, which, if so provided in the contract specifications for the relevant Dividend Futures Contract, are relevant for the purpose of determining the price of such Dividend Futures Contract, whereas special or extraordinary dividends are not generally considered as realised dividends and therefore, if so provided in the contract specifications for the relevant Dividend Futures Contract, will not be relevant for the purpose of determining the price of such Dividend Futures Contract). Further, the Relevant Companies may change from time to time in accordance with the rules of the Relevant Index and such a change in Relevant Companies may have an adverse effect on the price of the Dividend Futures Contract and amounts payable in respect of the Securities. You should refer to the contract specifications for the Dividend Futures Contract and the index rules relating to the Relevant Index for details regarding the calculation methodologies (including which dividends will be included in the calculation of the Dividend Futures Contract) and adjustments which may be made thereto (including to the Relevant Companies to be included in the Relevant Index). You should note that the performance of similar Dividend Futures Contracts in respect of prior contract periods will not necessarily be indicative of the performance of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract to which the Securities relate.

The market value of the Securities may, at any time, be affected by certain factors relating to Dividend Futures Contracts which may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in:

- the Relevant Companies comprised in the Relevant Index and expectations relating to the dividends to be announced in relation thereto;
- market interest and yield rates;
- the time remaining to the final settlement date of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract; and
- economic, political and macro-economic factors.

Accordingly, before purchasing Securities relating to Dividend Futures Contracts, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of Dividend Futures Contracts and the performance of the Relevant Companies comprised in the Relevant Index by reference to which amounts payable under the relevant Securities are calculated, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the value of the dividends paid by the Relevant Companies may be influenced by many factors, including the earnings and dividend policy of each such Relevant Company, changes in applicable laws and regulations, global economic, financial and political developments and structural supply and demand factors. Relevant Companies may pay reduced dividends or no dividends in respect of the relevant contract period. The amount of dividends paid by Relevant Companies in respect of similar periods may bear no relation to dividends paid during the relevant contract period. Any such changes may have an adverse effect on the amount of relevant dividends paid by Relevant Companies and, in turn, the price of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract and amounts payable in respect of the Securities.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Dividend Futures Contracts than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Dividend Futures Contracts or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 12 (Dividend Futures Contract Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts.

Adjustments to Valuation Dates, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Dividend Futures Contracts may include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day or the variation of a Valuation Date following the announcement by the relevant Dividend Futures Contract sponsor that the expiry date of a Dividend Futures Contract will occur on an alternative date to that originally contemplated, such postponement, variation or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Dividend Futures Contracts in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Dividend Futures Contract (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Dividend Futures Contract (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant Dividend Futures Contract sponsor, or (ii) being replaced by a successor Dividend Futures Contract), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, (i) the relevant exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract sponsor, as the case may be, announcing that it will make a material change or modification to a relevant Dividend Futures Contract, (ii) the relevant exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract sponsor, as the case may be, permanently cancelling or discontinuing the Dividend Futures Contract or there otherwise being a permanent discontinuation in trading or trading never commencing in such Dividend Futures Contract and no successor Dividend Futures Contract existing, or (iii) any "final settlement price" not being displayed or published on the relevant electronic page or by the exchange at the relevant valuation time), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities and, if so, shall either (A) calculate the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract by calculating the value of the relevant dividends for the applicable contract period for such Dividend Futures Contract by reference to the formula for and the method of calculation last in effect of any related dividend point index or such other sources as it deems appropriate and/or (B) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event, and/or (C) substitute such Dividend Futures Contract with a replacement Dividend Futures Contract and determine any adjustment necessary to account for such substitution. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation, adjustment or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation, substitution or adjustment can reasonably be made following a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Rates

The market value of the Securities may, at any time, be affected by certain factors relating to Rates which may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the level of the Rate, macroeconomic, political or financial factors, speculation and central bank and government intervention.

In recent years, Rates have been relatively low and stable, but this may not continue and interest rates may rise and/or become volatile. Fluctuations that have occurred in any Rate in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuation that may occur in the Rate during the term of any Security. Accordingly, before purchasing Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Rates, as this may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Depending on the terms of the Securities, you may receive no amount(s) or assets because of the performance of the relevant Rates and you may lose a substantial portion of your investment. In addition, you should ensure that you review the terms of the Securities in question as these may provide for amounts due or assets deliverable to be determined by reference to an option or formulae linked to the relevant Rate rather than being a conventional debt security referencing a Rate, such as one which bears interest at a specified floating rate of interest. Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Rates than you would have received if you had invested in another product referencing a Rate.

See Underlying Schedule 13 (Rate Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Rates.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Rates

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Rates include provisions dealing with the consequences of a disrupted day, including referring to alternative price sources or determination of the relevant Rate by the Calculation Agent or by reference to quotes from reference dealers, such alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Rates in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Rate (being, in each case if applicable, the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Preference Shares

Preference Share Linked Securities will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor. The Preference Share Company will have no obligations to investors in the Preference Share Linked Securities, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such Preference Share Company. In particular, you will not benefit from any voting rights or distributions from or in respect of the Preference Shares or any income attributable to any securities or constituent comprised in any relevant Preference Share Underlying (as defined below). All rights arising in respect of the Preference Shares shall reside exclusively with the holder of the relevant Preference Shares (expected to be Citigroup Global Markets Limited or another affiliate of the Issuer). The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Preference Shares or Preference Share Underlying(s). Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Preference Shares may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Preference Shares or Preference Share Underlying(s).

Preference Share Linked Securities give investment exposure to the value of the Class of Preference Shares to which the relevant Securities are linked. The value of the relevant Preference Shares will depend on the Preference Shares Terms and Conditions of the relevant Class (in particular the applicable defined return and the performance of the applicable Preference Share Underlying(s)) and the financial condition and standing of the Preference Share Company. If the value of the Preference Shares decreases the value of the Preference Share Linked Securities and the redemption amount payable at their maturity are expected to decrease correspondingly. If you invest in the Preference Shares Linked Securities you risk losing all or part of your investment if the value of the relevant Class of Preference Shares declines over the investment term of such Securities.

If the Preference Share Company were to experience financial difficulties the Preference Share Company may be unable to fulfil its obligations under the Preference Share Terms and Conditions of each Class. In this scenario the value of the Preference Shares would be adversely affected and could be zero. As the Preference Share Linked Securities track the change in value of the Preference Shares any such reduction in the value of the Preference Shares is expected to have a corresponding effect on the value of the Preference Shares Linked Securities and the redemption amount payable at their maturity.

You should note that while the redemption amount of the Preference Share Linked Securities is linked to the value of the Preference Shares of the relevant Class which will be influenced (positively or negatively) by the value of the Preference Share Underlying(s), any change may not be comparable to a direct investment in the Preference Share Underlying(s) and may be disproportionate.

The risks of a Security linked to Preference Shares will depend on the terms of that Security and the relevant Preference Share Terms and Conditions. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price of the relevant Preference Shares. The value of Preference Shares may go down as well as up and the value of any Preference Share on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Preference Share or of the continued existence of any Preference Share or the Preference Share Company. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the Preference Shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

Preference Share Linked Securities are not principal protected. If you invest in such Securities you risk losing your entire investment if the value of the relevant Preference Shares and/or the relevant Preference Share Underlying(s) does not move in the anticipated direction.

Except for the publication of the value of the Preference Shares and as otherwise expressly set out in the conditions of the Securities, the Issuer will not have any obligation to keep the Securityholders informed as to matters arising in relation to the Preference Shares.

The issue price of the Preference Share Linked Securities may be more than the market value of such Securities as at the issue date, and more than the price at which the Securities can be sold in secondary market transactions.

The levels and basis of taxation on the Preference Share Linked Securities and any reliefs for such taxation will depend on your individual circumstances and could change at any time. The tax and regulatory characterisation of the Preference Share Linked Securities may change over the life of the Securities. This could have adverse consequences for you. You will therefore need to consult your tax advisers to determine the specific tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, transfer and redemption of the Preference Share Linked Securities.

Accordingly, you may lose some or all of your investment in Preference Share Linked Securities.

See Underlying Schedule 14 (Preference Share Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Preference Shares.

Postponement of valuation and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Preference Shares

As the terms and conditions of the Preference Shares include provisions dealing with the postponement of a valuation date, if any date used for the valuation or any determination of any Preference Share Underlying is delayed or the value/level of the relevant Preference Share Underlying(s) is determined using a fall-back in each case in accordance with the relevant Preference Share Terms and Conditions by reason of a non-scheduled trading day, a disrupted day or the occurrence of an adjustment event, such postponement or fall-back determined may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Preference Shares and in turn the Securities linked to the relevant Preference Shares.

The provisions relating to Adjustment Events will not apply to Preference Share Linked Securities however equivalent provisions are expected to be included in the Preference Share Terms and Conditions. The occurrence of any such equivalent adjustment event may result in an adjustment to the terms of the relevant Preference Shares or their early redemption. Any such adjustment will be reflected in the value of the Securities linked to the relevant Preference Shares and may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities. If the Preference Shares are to be redeemed early, the Securities linked to such Preference Shares will also be redeemed early.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being (a) a corporate action, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer, or the receipt by the Issuer of notice that the relevant Preference Shares are to be redeemed early, (b) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities (such that holding, acquiring or disposing of any hedging position becomes or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited) or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or a Hedging Disruption or an Increased Cost of Hedging, (c) a Section 871(m) Event, (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms), or (e) a Realisation Disruption Event), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount determined on the same basis as the final redemption amount of the Securities except that the "final reference level" for such purposes shall be deemed to be the fair market value of the Preference Share on the date of early redemption as determined by the Calculation Agent using its internal models and methodologies and taking into account such factor(s) as the Calculation Agent determines appropriate. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH SECURITIES LINKED TO RATES AND BENCHMARK REFORM

The unavailability, disruption or discontinuance of any interest rate to which the Securities are linked will result in the application of certain fallback provisions

In relation to any event or circumstance affecting an interest rate, the fallback provisions described in Valuation and Settlement Condition 8 (Hierarchy Provisions and Adjustments) (the Hierarchy Provisions) will be applied in the order set out therein, in each case where applicable for the relevant interest rate and the event or circumstance. If the first applicable option shown does not apply to the relevant interest rate and the relevant event or circumstance then the next option which does should be applied. It is possible that, following the application of such fallback provisions, the relevant rate could be determined on a different day than originally intended and/or may be determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) (such agent, the Relevant Agent) in its discretion. There is a risk that the determination of the relevant interest rate in accordance with any of these fallback provisions may result in lower amounts payable to you under the Securities and a reduction in their market value.

Any adjustments to the Conditions (including the determination of any spread or factor howsoever defined) which the Relevant Agent determines are necessary or appropriate pursuant to the provisions of the Reference Rate Event Provisions and the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions shall be made to the extent reasonably practicable, but also taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market) and may include, where applicable and without limitation:

- technical, administrative or operational changes that the Relevant Agent decides are appropriate;
- the application of any adjustment factor or adjustment spread; and
- (subject to compliance with applicable laws and/or regulatory guidance in the relevant jurisdiction) adjustments to reflect any increased costs to the Issuer of providing exposure to the replacement or successor rate(s) and/or benchmark(s).

Such adjustments may also be applied on more than one occasion, may be made as of one or more effective dates, may but do not have to involve the selection of a successor or replacement rate which is determined on a backwards-looking compounding basis by reference to a "risk-free rate" and which, unless the context otherwise requires or it is inappropriate, will be the relevant rate in relation to the then current and all future determination days.

Investors should refer to "Section C – Investment Considerations – Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks" for an overview of how and when such fallback provisions apply.

If a floating rate becomes unavailable it may be determined in the Calculation Agent's discretion or by alternative methods

If the relevant rate is unavailable and the Screen Rate Determination provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(a) apply, subject as provided in the relevant Hierarchy Provisions, the Calculation Agent shall determine the relevant rate in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to such sources as it deems appropriate and any alternative benchmark then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market), which determination may be made by reference to quotations provided by third party banks.

If the ISDA Determination provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(b) apply, subject as provided in the relevant Hierarchy Provisions, if the relevant rate of interest cannot be determined by reference to the relevant ISDA Definitions (including the temporary cessation provisions set out in such ISDA Definitions, which may include reference bank quotations), then the rate of interest will be that determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to alternative benchmarks then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).

If the relevant rate is unavailable and the SFRD (Non-Index) Fallback Provisions in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(c)(iii) apply, subject as provided in the relevant Hierarchy Provisions, the amount of interest payable on such Securities will be determined using (a) the Bank of England's Bank Rate (for the purposes of this paragraph, the Bank Rate) for such day plus the mean of the spread of the SONIA rate to the Bank Rate, or (b) if the Bank Rate is not available on such day, the SONIA rate published for the first preceding London Banking Day on which the SONIA rate was published. In respect of (a), there is no assurance that the characteristics of the Bank Rate and spread calculation will be similar to, or will produce the economic equivalent of, the SONIA rate upon which compounded daily SONIA is based. If the said rate and spread calculation provisions or alternative provisions for determining the SONIA rate in respect of a particular day become applicable, this could result in adverse consequences to the amount of interest payable on the Securities, which could adversely affect the return on, value of and market for the Securities.

If the relevant rate is unavailable and the SFRD (Index) Fallback Provisions in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(c)(iii) or the SOFR Fallback Provisions in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(d)(iii) apply, subject as provided in the relevant Hierarchy Provisions, the relevant SONIA Compounded Index value, or SOFR or SOFR Index value, as applicable, will be determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to such sources as it deems appropriate and any alternative benchmark then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).

As a result of any of the above, the return on your Securities may be lower than expected and/or the value of your Securities may be adversely affected and the Calculation Agent will have no responsibility to the Issuers or any third party as a result of having acted on any such quotations.

Failure by the Relevant Agent and/or the Issuer to give notice

Pursuant to the Reference Rate Event Provisions and the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions, the Relevant Agent is required to notify the Issuer of certain determinations made in accordance with such provisions, and the Issuer is required to notify the Securityholders thereof or of certain elections to redeem the Securities. However, failure by the Relevant Agent to so notify the Issuer or failure by the Issuer to so notify the Securityholders will not affect the validity of any such determination or election.

The regulation and reform of "benchmarks" may adversely affect the value of and return on Securities linked to or referencing such "benchmarks"

Interest rate benchmarks play an important role in financial markets and it is therefore critical that benchmarks which are used extensively are robust and are based on active, liquid underlying markets. As a consequence, interest rates and indices or other figures which are deemed to be "benchmarks", have been the subject of recent national and international regulatory scrutiny.

Regulatory authorities and central banks view the overnight risk-free rates as providing the most robust benchmark interest rate available and are therefore strongly encouraging the transition away from interbank offered rates.

The EU Benchmarks Regulation and UK Benchmarks Regulation

The EU Regulation on indices used as benchmarks in financial instruments and financial contracts or to measure the performance of investment funds (the EU Benchmarks Regulation) and the EU Benchmarks Regulation as it forms part of UK domestic law by virtue of the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018 (as amended) and regulations made thereunder (the UK Benchmarks Regulation, and together with the EU Benchmarks Regulation, the Benchmarks Regulations) are a key element of the ongoing regulatory reform in the EU and the UK and have applied since 1 January 2018 and been subject to subsequent amendments.

In addition to so-called "critical benchmarks" such as certain IBORs, other interest rates, foreign exchange rates and certain indices, will in most cases be within scope of both versions of the Benchmarks Regulations as "benchmarks" where they are used to determine the amount payable under, or the value of, certain financial instruments (including (i) in the case of the EU Benchmarks Regulation, Securities traded on an EU regulated market or EU multilateral trading facility (MTF), and (ii) in the case of the UK Benchmarks Regulation, Securities traded on a UK recognised investment exchange or a UK MTF), and in a number of other circumstances.

The EU Benchmarks Regulation applies to the provision of benchmarks, the contribution of input data to a benchmark and the use of a benchmark within the EU. Among other things, it (i) requires benchmark administrators to be authorised or registered (or, if non-EU-based, to be subject to an equivalent regime or otherwise recognised or endorsed) and (ii) prevents certain uses by EU supervised entities of "benchmarks" provided by administrators that are not authorised or registered (or, if non-EU based, not deemed equivalent or recognised or endorsed).

The UK Benchmarks Regulation contains most of the same provisions as the EU Benchmarks Regulation, but has narrower geographical scope of application. The UK Benchmarks Regulation applies to the provision of benchmarks, the contribution of input data to a benchmark and the use of a benchmark within the UK. The onus of compliance with the UK Benchmarks Regulation rests on UK benchmark administrators and UK supervised entities.

The ESMA maintains a public register of benchmark administrators and third country benchmarks pursuant to the EU Benchmarks Regulation (the ESMA Register). Benchmark administrators which were authorised, registered or recognised by the FCA prior to 31 December 2020 were removed from the ESMA Register on 1 January 2021. From 1 January 2021 onwards, the FCA maintains a separate public register of benchmark administrators and non-UK benchmarks pursuant to the UK Benchmarks Regulation (the UK Register). The UK Register retains UK benchmark administrators which were authorised, registered or recognised by the FCA prior to 31 December 2020.

The EU Benchmarks Regulation and the UK Benchmarks Regulation could have a material impact on any Securities linked to or referencing a "benchmark". For example:

- a rate or index which is a "benchmark" within the meaning of the EU Benchmarks Regulation may not be used in certain ways by an EU supervised entity if (subject to applicable transitional provisions) its administrator does not obtain authorisation or registration from any EU competent authority (or, if a non-EU entity, does not satisfy the "equivalence" conditions and is not "recognised" pending an equivalence decision and the benchmark is not endorsed). If the benchmark administrator does not obtain or maintain (as applicable) such authorisation or registration or, if a non-EU entity, "equivalence" is not available and it is not recognised and the benchmark is not endorsed, then the Securities may be redeemed prior to maturity;
- a rate or index which is a "benchmark" within the meaning of the UK Benchmarks Regulation may not be used in certain ways by a UK supervised entity if (subject to applicable transitional provisions) its administrator does not obtain authorisation or registration from the FCA (or, if a non-UK entity, does not satisfy the "equivalence" conditions and is not "recognised" pending an equivalence decision and the benchmark is not endorsed). If the benchmark administrator does not obtain or maintain (as applicable) such authorisation or registration or, if a non-UK entity, "equivalence" is not available and it is not recognised and the benchmark is not endorsed, then the Securities may be redeemed prior to maturity; and
- the methodology or other terms of the "benchmark" could be changed in order to comply with the requirements of the EU Benchmarks Regulation or UK Benchmarks Regulation, as applicable, and such changes could reduce or increase the rate or level or affect the volatility of the published rate or level, and (depending on the terms of the particular Securities) could lead to adjustments to the terms of the Securities as the Relevant Agent deems necessary or appropriate.

Any of the international or national reforms, or the general increased regulatory scrutiny of "benchmarks", could increase the costs and risks of administering or otherwise participating in the setting of a "benchmark" and complying with any such regulations or requirements. Such factors may have the following effects on certain "benchmarks": (i) discourage market participants from continuing to administer or contribute to the "benchmark"; (ii) trigger changes in the rules or methodologies used in the "benchmark" and/or (iii) lead to the disappearance of the "benchmark". Any of the above changes or any other consequential changes as a result of international or national reforms or other initiatives or investigations, could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on any Securities linked to or referencing a "benchmark" and the Relevant Agent may be entitled to make corresponding adjustments to the conditions of the Securities.

Methodologies for calculating risk-free rates

Risk-free rates are generally backwards-looking and are calculated on a compounded or weighted average basis.

Interest on Securities which reference a backwards-looking risk-free rate is not determined until the end of the relevant interest calculation period. Therefore, you may be unable to reliably estimate in advance the amount of interest which will be payable on such Securities. Further, if such Securities become due and payable following an Event of Default, or are otherwise redeemed early on a date which is not an Interest Payment Date, where a separate amount in respect of accrued interest is payable, the final Interest Rate and/or Interest Amount payable in respect of such Securities shall be determined by reference to a shortened period ending immediately prior to the date on which the Securities become due and payable or are scheduled for redemption.

Developing markets for SONIA, SOFR and €STR and potential impact on performance and returns

The market continues to develop in relation to adoption of SONIA, SOFR and €STR as reference rates in the capital markets for sterling, U.S. dollar or euro bonds, respectively, and their adoption as alternatives to the relevant interbank offered rates. In addition, market participants and relevant working groups are exploring alternative reference rates based on risk-free rates, including term SONIA, SOFR and €STR reference rates (which seek to measure the market's forward expectation of an average SONIA rate, SOFR and €STR over a designated term).

The market or a significant part thereof may adopt an application of risk-free rates that differs significantly from that set out in the Conditions and used in relation to Securities that reference such risk-free rates issued under this Base Prospectus. Term SONIA reference rates (which seek to measure the market's forward expectation of an average SONIA rate over a designated term) have been published from January 2021 and term SOFR rates have also become available for use. It is possible that market participants may seek to apply such term rates for capital markets issuances, although UK authorities have made clear their preference for the market to adopt a broad-based transition to SONIA compounded in arrears for new transactions, with use of a term SONIA reference rate being more limited.

The Issuer may in the future also issue Securities referencing SONIA, SOFR, €STR or other risk-free rates that differ materially in terms of interest determination when compared with any previous SONIA, SOFR or €STR or other risk-free rate referenced Securities issued by it under this Base Prospectus.

The development of new risk-free rates could result in reduced liquidity or increased volatility, or could otherwise affect the market price of any Securities that reference a risk-free rate issued under this Base Prospectus from time to time.

The new risk free rates have only a limited trading market, and an established trading market may never develop or may not be very liquid. Market terms for Securities indexed to the new risk free rates may evolve over time, and may lead to impacts on trading prices and values, and such Securities may not be able to be sold or may not be able to be sold at prices that will provide a yield comparable to similar investments that have a developed secondary market, and may consequently suffer from increased pricing volatility and market risk.

Similarly, the manner of adoption or application of risk-free rates in the Eurobond markets may differ materially compared with the application and adoption of risk-free rates in other markets, such as the derivatives and loan markets. You should carefully consider how any mismatch between the adoption of such reference rates in the bond, loan and derivatives markets may impact any hedging or other financial arrangements which you may put in place in connection with any acquisition, holding or disposal of Securities referencing such risk-free rates.

Interest on Securities linked to a Reference Rate will be calculated using a Replacement Reference Rate selected by the Relevant Agent if a Reference Rate Event occurs

Occurrence of a Reference Rate Event

If the Reference Rate Event Provisions apply pursuant to the Hierarchy Provisions, there is a risk that a Reference Rate Event may occur in respect of a Reference Rate (for an overview of how the Reference Rate Event Provisions apply, see "Section C – Investment Considerations – Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks").

It is uncertain as to if or when a Reference Rate Event may occur in respect of a Reference Rate and the circumstances which could trigger such an event are outside of the Issuer's control. Whether a Reference Rate Event has occurred will be determined by the Relevant Agent, and any subsequent use of a replacement Reference Rate is likely to result in changes to the Conditions (which could be extensive) and/or interest or other payments under the Securities that are lower than or that do not otherwise correlate over time with the payments that could have been made on such Securities if the relevant Reference Rate remained available in its current form.

Subject to the Conditions, each Securityholder will bear the risks arising from any such change and will not be entitled to any form of compensation as a result of any such change.

Determination of alternative benchmark and any Adjustment Spread

If the Relevant Agent determines that a Reference Rate Event has occurred in respect of a Reference Rate, it will:

- (A) seek to identify a Replacement Reference Rate;
- (B) calculate the adjustment, if any, to the Replacement Reference Rate that it determines is required in order to reduce any transfer of economic value from (i) the Issuer to the Securityholders or (ii) the Securityholders to the Issuer, in each case that would otherwise arise as a result of the replacement of the Reference Rate with the Replacement Reference Rate (an Adjustment Spread);
- (C) determine such other amendments to the Securities which it considers are necessary and/or appropriate in order to account for the effect of the replacement of the relevant Reference Rate with the Replacement Reference Rate (as adjusted by the Adjustment Spread); and
- (D) determine the timing for when the Replacement Reference Rate, Adjustment Spread and such other adjustments will become effective in relation to the relevant Securities.

You should be aware that:

- (I) the application of any Replacement Reference Rate (notwithstanding the inclusion of any Adjustment Spread), together with any consequential amendments (or, if applicable, any changes made following a material change), could result in a lower amount being payable than would otherwise have been the case;
- (II) more than one possible replacement rate may exist and, if so, it is possible that the Relevant Agent may select the least favourable replacement rate;
- (III) any such Replacement Reference Rate (as adjusted by any Adjustment Spread) and any consequential amendments (or, if applicable, any changes made following a material change) shall apply without requiring the consent of the holders of Securities; and
- (IV) if the Relevant Agent determines that it is not possible or commercially reasonable to adjust the terms of the Securities to account for the effect of any Reference Rate Event or to identify a Replacement Reference Rate or calculate an Adjustment Spread, then absent a determination that no Replacement Reference Rate or other amendments to the terms of the Securities are required, the Securities may, at the Issuer's option, be the subject of an early redemption, in which case you may lose some or all of your investment. There is no guarantee that a Replacement Reference Rate will be identified or that an Adjustment Spread will be calculated by the Relevant Agent.

The Adjustment Spread may be positive, negative or zero and/or determined pursuant to a formula or methodology. There can be no assurance that the replacement adjustment will fully mitigate the transfer of economic value between the Issuer and holders.

Interim adjustments

If, following a Reference Rate Event but prior to any adjustments or replacement having occurred, the relevant Reference Rate is required for any determination in respect of the Securities and at that time, no amendments have occurred in accordance with the foregoing and:

- (A) if the Reference Rate is still available, and it is still permitted under applicable law or regulation for the Securities to reference the Reference Rate and for the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent to use the Reference Rate, the level of the Reference Rate shall be determined pursuant to the terms that would apply to the determination of the Reference Rate as if no Reference Rate Event had occurred; or
- (B) if the Reference Rate is no longer available or it is no longer permitted under applicable law or regulation for the Securities to reference the Reference Rate or for the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent to use the Reference Rate, the level of the Reference Rate shall be determined by the Relevant Agent in its sole and absolute discretion, after consulting any source it deems to be reasonable, as (a) a substitute or successor rate that it has determined is the industry-accepted (in the derivatives market) substitute or successor rate for the relevant Reference Rate (including any temporary substitute or successor rate) or the rate published at the relevant time on the last day on which the Reference Rate was published or was permitted to be used in accordance with applicable law or regulation (the Last Permitted Rate) or (b) if it determines there is no such industry-accepted (in the derivatives market) substitute or successor rate or the use of the Last Permitted Rate would not produce a commercially reasonable result, a substitute or successor rate that it determines is a commercially reasonable alternative to the Reference Rate, taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).

To the extent that any Securities reference a Reference Rate with respect to which a Reference Rate Event is likely to occur during the term of such Securities, prospective investors should be aware that the consequence of the occurrence of a Reference Rate Event described above will be realised if such a Reference Rate Event occurs.

The interests of the Relevant Agent in making the determinations described above may be adverse to your interests as a holder of Securities. The selection of a Replacement Reference Rate, and any decisions made by the Relevant Agent in connection with implementing a Replacement Reference Rate with respect to the Securities, could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities. Further, there is no assurance that the characteristics of any Replacement Reference Rate will be similar to the relevant Reference Rate or that any Replacement Reference Rate will produce the economic equivalent of such Reference Rate. In particular, any of these fallback provisions may result in interest payments that are lower than, or do not otherwise correlate over time with, the payments that would have been made on the relevant Securities if the previous rate had continued being published in its current form.

Risks relating to the occurrence of an Administrator/Benchmark Event

The occurrence of an Administrator/Benchmark Event (if applicable) in respect of any relevant Benchmark may mean adjustments are made to the Securities which may include selecting one or more successor benchmarks and making related adjustments to the Securities, including if applicable to reflect any increased costs of the Issuer of providing exposure to the replacement or successor rate(s) and/or benchmark(s). Alternatively, early redemption of the Securities may apply if specified as applicable in the Issue Terms. For an overview of how the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions apply, see "Section C – Investment Considerations – Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks" below. Any such adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of, return on or market for the Securities, and if the Securities are early redeemed, the amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks relating to the discontinuance or unavailability of a Rate

If (x) the provisions of Underlying Schedule 13 relating to the determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on any Scheduled Trading Day in the event of the occurrence of any Disrupted Day and (y) the provisions relating to the consequences of any such Disrupted Day set out in the Conditions apply pursuant to the relevant Hierarchy Provisions, if (i) the relevant Electronic Page is not available, or (ii) the percentage rate of the relevant Rate for the relevant Scheduled Trading Day does not appear on the Electronic Page, and/or (iii) the relevant Rate is not provided or published by the relevant administrator or a relevant authorised distributor and/or (iv) a component of the relevant Rate is not provided or published, the Calculation Agent shall determine the underlying closing level for such Rate as it deems appropriate and in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, having regard to such sources as it deems appropriate and any alternative benchmark then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market)) and may make such adjustments to the Conditions as it determines necessary or appropriate to reflect any industry-accepted practices for the successor Rate, including applying an adjustment factor. Any such amendments may result in payments under the Securities being different from those originally anticipated, and could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Swap Rates may be materially amended or discontinued

Swap rates may be subject to reform in the future. These reforms may cause one or more swap rate(s) to be discontinued, to be modified, or to be subject to other changes. Any such consequence could also have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on Securities the payout of which is dependent on the performance of such swap rate.

If a swap rate ceases, different fallback provisions would apply based on the way in which the relevant swap rate is determined under the Conditions and the fallback provisions described in the relevant Hierarchy Provisions. Such fallback provisions will be applied in the order set out therein and where ISDA Determination applies, this will mean that any permanent cessation fallback provisions included as part of the applicable ISDA Definitions will not apply.

New swap rates linked to risk free rates have recently been developed, such as IBA's GBP SONIA ICE Swap Rate settings and USD SOFR ICE Swap Rate settings. However, there can be no guarantee that such rates will be liquid, and the method by which such new swap rates are calculated may change in the future. The Relevant Agent may make consequential changes to the Conditions if the methodology of a relevant rate is amended.

In the event that the administrator of a rate referenced by Floating Rate Securities or Rate Linked Securities amends the methodology of such Rate (including, without limitation, amendments to the time of publication of the relevant rate), the Relevant Agent may but shall not be required to make any related or consequential changes to the Conditions not otherwise provided for in the applicable fallback provisions (including, without limitation, any technical, administrative or operational changes, changes to timing and frequency of determining rates and making payments of interest and changes to the definition of Designated Maturity (where applicable)) that the Relevant Agent determines to be appropriate in a manner substantially consistent with market practice (or, if the Relevant Agent decides that adoption of any portion of such market practice is not administratively feasible or if the Relevant Agent determines that no appropriate market practice exists, in such other manner as the Relevant Agent determines is reasonably necessary). Investors should be aware that such changes to the Conditions may adversely affect the market value of, and return (if any) on, such Securities.

Risks in connection with "Shift" and "Lag" methodologies

Where SONIA Floating Rate Determination or SOFR Floating Rate Determination (in either case, other than where Index Determination applies) is specified in the applicable Issue Terms as the manner in which the Floating Interest Rate is to be determined, a compounding method will also be specified in the applicable Issue Terms. These compounding methodologies have emerged as conventions for daily compounding of rates in arrears. The conventions differ in the period that each method uses when weighting each business day's overnight rate for the relevant risk free rate. The "Shift" approach (or "Compounding with Observation Period Shift") weights the relevant risk free rate according to the relevant number of days that apply in a separate observation period which 'shadows' the Interest Period (e.g. the observation period might start and end five business days preceding the relevant start and end of the Interest Period). The "Lag" approach (or "OIS Compounding" or "Compounding with Lookback") weights the relevant risk free rate according to the number of days that apply in the relevant Interest Period. Investors should be aware that divergence between the above methodologies could lead to a difference in the interest being determined even where the relevant risk free rate is the same for the Securities and may not be what investors expected.

Methodologies for determining interest payable in respect of Securities linked to SONIA or SOFR may differ substantially

The amount of interest payable in respect of Securities linked to SONIA or SOFR will be calculated by reference to (i) the rate of return of a daily compound interest investment (with the daily SONIA or SOFR, as applicable, as the reference rate for the calculation of interest); or (ii) where Index Determination in respect of SONIA Floating Rate Determination or SOFR Floating Rate Determination applies, a screen rate, formula or value as may be published by the administrator of SONIA or SOFR, as applicable. There can be no assurance that amounts of interest determined pursuant to (i) and (ii) will be similar, and over time the market may adopt an application of these methodologies that differs significantly from that set out in the Conditions. Further, investors should refer to "Developing markets for SONIA, SOFR and ESTR and potential impact on performance and returns" above for a description of the key risks relating to the development of risk free rates across the market generally.

RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH CERTAIN TYPES OF SECURITIES AND CERTAIN PRODUCT FEATURES

Risks relating to Fixed Rate Securities or Securities which pay a Non-Contingent Interest Amount

Investment in Fixed Rate Securities or Securities which pay a Non-Contingent Interest Amount involves the risk that if market interest rates subsequently increase above the rate or amount paid on such Securities, this will adversely affect the value of the Securities.

Risks relating to Fixed/Floating Rate Securities

Fixed/Floating Rate Securities may bear interest at a rate that converts from a fixed rate to a floating rate or from a floating rate to a fixed rate. Where the relevant Issuer has the right to effect such a conversion, this will affect the secondary market in, and the market value of, the Securities, since the relevant Issuer may be expected to convert the rate when it is likely to result in a lower overall cost of borrowing for the relevant Issuer. If the relevant Issuer converts from a fixed rate to a floating rate in such circumstances, the spread on the Fixed/Floating Rate Securities may be less favourable than then prevailing spreads on comparable Floating Rate Securities tied to the same reference rate. In addition, the new floating rate at any time may be lower than the rates on other floating rate Securities issued by the relevant Issuer. If the relevant Issuer converts from a floating rate to a fixed rate in such circumstances, the fixed rate may be lower than the prevailing market rates.

Risks relating to Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities

Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities have an interest rate multiplied by an accrual rate which is determined by reference to the number of days in the relevant interest period on which one or more accrual condition(s) are satisfied. An accrual condition may be satisfied on any relevant day if the relevant reference observation is, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) equal to or above the specified barrier; or
- (b) above the specified barrier; or
- (c) equal to or below the specified barrier; or
- (d) below the specified barrier, or the relevant reference observation is, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) either equal to or above, or above, the specified lower range; and
- (b) either equal to or below, or below, the specified upper range.

A reference observation may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms as (i) a single reference rate, (ii) a basket of two or more reference rates, (iii) the difference between two reference rates, (iv) the difference between the sums of two sets of reference rates or (v) a currency exchange rate.

The interest rate of Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities may be a rate equal or calculated by reference to a specified fixed interest rate, a floating interest rate or a CMS swap rate (or if specified in the applicable Issue Terms, either the lesser of or the difference between two CMS swap rates).

The accrual rate may be subject to a cap or a floor and may be multiplied by a leverage factor.

Accordingly, Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities may be subject to variable interest rates, can be volatile instruments, and/or may pay limited or no interest in respect of an interest period.

Where the applicable Issue Terms specify that the "Protected Range Accrual Provisions" apply, where the accrual factor is greater than the specified protection level, the accrual factor shall be deemed to be 100 per cent. and the full amount of the interest amount for the relevant interest period will be paid even if the relevant accrual condition(s) are not satisfied on each relevant day in the relevant interest period.

Risks relating to Spread Securities

Spread Securities have an interest rate determined by reference to any of:

- (a) one (1) minus the result of a specified spread rate minus another specified spread rate; or
- (b) a specified spread rate minus another specified spread rate; or
- (c) the lesser of: (i) a specified spread rate plus or minus a spread cap margin, and (ii) the sum of: (A) a specified percentage rate per annum, and (B) the product of (I) a multiplier, and (II) the difference between two specified spread rates, and, in each case, plus or minus a margin (if specified in the applicable Issue Terms), and multiplied by an interest participation rate (if specified in the applicable Issue Terms).

Each of the specified spread rates referred to in the preceding paragraph may be (i) a single specified rate, (ii) the sum of more than one specified rate or (iii) one specified rate minus another specified rate.

Accordingly, Spread Securities may be subject to variable interest rates, can be volatile instruments, and/or may pay limited or no interest in respect of an interest period.

Securities which are issued with variable interest rates or which are structured to include a multiplier or other leverage factor are likely to have more volatile market values than more standard securities.

Securities with variable interest rates can be volatile investments. If they are structured to include multipliers or other leverage factors, or caps or floors, or any combination of these features or other similar related features, their market values may be even more volatile than those for securities that do not include these features. Any such volatility may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Mandatory early redemption or "autocall"

If "Mandatory Early Redemption Provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then such Issue Terms will specify what constitutes a "Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event" and, following the occurrence of a Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event, the Securities will be redeemed on the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date and the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Early Exit MER Amount, as the case may be, specified in the applicable Issue Terms will become payable on the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date, provided that, where a "Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer shall also pay the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon on the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon Payment Date in respect of the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date. No further amount shall be payable in respect of such Securities after the Mandatory Early Redemption Date. In this case, you are subject to a reinvestment risk, as you may not be able to replace your investment in such Securities with an investment that has a similar profile of chances and risks as the relevant Securities.

If any Securities are redeemed early in accordance with the above, the amount you receive will be limited to the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Early Exit MER Amount, as the case may be, and (if applicable) the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon irrespective of the price of the relevant Underlying(s) or any other reference factor(s) applicable to such Underlying(s). Furthermore, you will not benefit from any movement in the price of relevant Underlying(s) that may occur during the period between the relevant date of early redemption and the maturity date.

Unless the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or, as the case may be, Early Exit MER Amount (together with (if applicable) the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon) is a specified fixed amount and such amount is greater than your initial investment in the Securities, then you should note that, unless a scheduled minimum redemption amount is specified in all circumstances, then you may lose all or part of your investment.

Securities subject to optional redemption by the Issuer

An optional redemption feature of Securities, as set out in General Condition 6 (Redemption and Purchase) and any related provisions in the applicable Issue Terms, is likely to limit their market value. During any period when the Issuer may elect to redeem Securities, the market value of those Securities generally will not rise substantially above the price at which they can be redeemed. This also may be true prior to any redemption period.

The Issuer may be expected to redeem Securities when its cost of borrowing is lower than the interest rate on the Securities. At those times, an investor generally would not be able to reinvest the redemption proceeds at an effective interest rate as high as the interest rate on the Securities being redeemed and may only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate. You should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time.

Securities subject to a cap

Where the terms of the Securities provide that the amount payable or deliverable is subject to a cap, your ability to participate in any change in the value of the Underlying(s) over the term of the Securities will be limited, no matter how much the level, price or other applicable value of the Underlying(s) rises above the cap level over the term of the Securities. Accordingly, the value of or return on the Securities may be significantly less than if you had purchased the Underlying(s) directly or through another product not subject to a cap.

Risks relating to Securities that are Physical Delivery Securities

Settlement disruption event and failure to deliver

In the case of Physical Delivery Securities, if a Settlement Disruption Event occurs or exists on any date specified for the delivery of the relevant Entitlement, settlement will be postponed until the next Settlement Business Day in respect of which there is no Settlement Disruption Event. The Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) in these circumstances may select to deliver the relevant Entitlement in such other commercially reasonable manner as it may select or it may pay the Disruption Cash Redemption Amount in lieu of delivering the Entitlement.

If, in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, "Failure to Deliver due to Illiquidity" is specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms and it is impossible or impracticable, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, to deliver, when due, some or all of the Relevant Assets where such failure to deliver is due to illiquidity in the market for such Relevant Assets, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) has the right to pay the Failure to Deliver Redemption Amount in lieu of delivering some or all of such Relevant Assets which are affected by such illiquidity.

If "Aggregation of Entitlements" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, Physical Delivery Securities which are held by the same Securityholder will be aggregated for the purpose of determining the aggregate Entitlements in respect of such Securities and such aggregate Entitlements will be rounded down to the nearest Tradeable Amount of the Relevant Asset(s), in such manner as the relevant Calculation Agent shall determine. If "Aggregation of Entitlements" is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Entitlement in respect of each Security will be rounded down to the nearest whole multiple of the Tradeable Amount of the Relevant Asset(s) in such manner as the relevant Calculation Agent shall determine. Amounts of the Relevant Asset less than the Tradeable Amount shall not be delivered and no cash or other adjustment will be made in respect of such rounding unless "Cash Adjustment" is specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms, in which case, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) shall pay you a cash amount equal to the value of any such lesser amount.

Consequently, Securityholders may not receive the Entitlements that they expect to receive, may receive less than they would otherwise expect or may receive a cash amount instead.

Issuer's option to Substitute Assets or to pay the Alternate Cash Redemption Amount

If the Securities are Physical Delivery Securities, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) may, if the Calculation Agent determines that the Relevant Asset or Relevant Assets, as the case may be, comprises securities which are not freely tradeable and deliverable, elect either (i) to substitute a Substitute Asset or Substitute Assets, as the case may be, for the Relevant Asset or Relevant Assets, or (ii) not to deliver or procure the delivery of the relevant Entitlement or the relevant Substitute Asset or Substitute Assets, as the case may be, to the relevant Securityholders, but in lieu of such delivery to make payment to the relevant Securityholders on the Maturity Date or Settlement Date (as applicable) of the Alternate Cash Redemption Amount. In these circumstances, Securityholders may receive assets which are different to, or cash instead of, the assets that they expected to receive.

Expenses

All Expenses arising from the delivery of the Entitlement in respect of Physical Delivery Securities shall be for the account of the relevant Securityholder.

Expenses in respect of Physical Delivery Securities shall be deducted by the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) from any cash amount owing to you and paid by the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) on your behalf or paid by the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) on your behalf by converting such amount of the Relevant Asset(s) due to be delivered as necessary to pay the Expenses, as specified by the Securityholder in the relevant Asset Transfer Notice. If any Expenses are not so paid, you shall be deemed to authorise the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) to convert and the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) may convert such amount of the Relevant Asset(s) into cash sufficient to cover the Expenses in respect of the relevant Security from which the relevant Intermediary shall deduct such Expenses.

Variation of Settlement

In respect of Physical Delivery Securities, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) has an option to vary settlement in respect of such Securities and, in lieu of delivering or procuring delivery of the relevant Entitlement, to pay an amount determined to be equal to the fair market value of the Entitlement on the Maturity Date or Settlement Date (as applicable).

In such circumstances, you will not receive any Relevant Assets as the Securities will only be cash settled and the redemption amount you receive may be significantly less than your initial investment in the Securities. Furthermore, you would not benefit from any increase in the price of the Relevant Assets that would have otherwise been deliverable if the Securities had been settled by physical delivery after the date of determination of such fair market value.

Risks relating to Securities that are Dual Currency Securities

If the Securities are Dual Currency Securities, then amounts payable in respect of the Securities will be determined by converting all amounts due under the Securities from the Denomination Currency into the Relevant Currency by multiplying such amount by the Dual Currency Exchange Rate for the last occurring valuation date. In such circumstances, amounts that you receive in respect of the Securities are also linked to the performance of the Underlying which is the exchange rate used for such conversions. You should therefore also have regard to the risk factors relating to Securities linked to a currency exchange rate as set out above (in particular the risk factor entitled "Risks associated with Securities linked to currency exchange rates").

RISKS SPECIFIC TO CREDIT LINKED NOTES AND/OR INDEX SKEW NOTESCredit risk of the Reference Entity

Investors should note that a holder of a Credit Linked Note will be exposed to the credit of one or more Reference Entities, which exposure shall be, unless otherwise stated in the applicable Issue Terms or unless such Credit Linked Notes are Credit Linked Interest Notes, to the full extent of their investment in such Credit Linked Note or, in the case of Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes, to the extent that the aggregate losses exceed the "attachment point". In respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes, an investor's exposure to credit risk of any relevant Reference Entity may be to the full extent of any interest payable under such Securities. Upon the occurrence of any specified Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, with respect to any Reference Entity, investors may suffer significant losses at a time when losses may be suffered by a direct investor in obligations of such Reference Entity. However, the holding of a Credit Linked Note may not reflect the impact of investing in an obligation of a Reference Entity, and losses in relation to the Credit Linked Notes could be considerably greater than would be suffered by a direct investor in the obligations of a Reference Entity and/or could arise for reasons unrelated to such Reference Entity.

In addition, the terms of the deliverable obligations of Reference Entities may not be standard, and holders of that debt may therefore incur additional losses that are not reflected in the relevant Credit Linked Notes. This is of greater force in the case where the Reference Entity is a sovereign. There are no common set of rules or practices that governs the manner in which a sovereign government, faced with deterioration in its fiscal position or the performance of its economy, may attempt to reach resolution with holders of its debt obligations. Due to, amongst other factors, the role of governments and international organisations as creditors, the ability of a sovereign to enact legislation that may affect holders of its debt obligations, and the role played by other governments, including those of the jurisdictions in which private creditors are located, the development of events is inherently unpredictable. As a result, specified Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, may not encompass all the circumstances in which holders of a sovereign Reference Entity's obligations may suffer credit-related losses.

Legal risks

Investors should note that a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, may still occur although (a) the Reference Entity/underlying obligor lacks capacity to enter into any obligation, (b) there is any actual or alleged unenforceability, illegality, impossibility or invalidity with respect to any obligation or (c) the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, results from (i) any applicable law, order, regulation, decree or notice or change in, the interpretation by any court, tribunal, regulatory authority or similar administrative or judicial body or (ii) the imposition of, or any change in, any exchange controls, capital restrictions or any other similar restrictions imposed by any monetary or other authority. Investors should note that such legal risks are borne by the investors and the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, that arises directly or indirectly as a result of these matters will not prevent the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, from occurring under the Credit Linked Notes and which may result in interest amounts (in full or in part) ceasing to be payable or in the redemption of the Credit Linked Notes, in full or in part.

Jurisdictional differences and assessment of Reference Entity

There can be less publicly available information about certain Reference Entities particularly where the laws in the jurisdiction of the Reference Entity do not subject the Reference Entity to reporting requirements. Furthermore, certain Reference Entities are subject to accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards that may differ from those applicable in other jurisdictions, and the relevant ways in which the legal regime of a Reference Entity operates can result in differences in outcomes across various jurisdictions. The differences highlighted herein may make it more difficult to make an accurate assessment of the creditworthiness of certain Reference Entities, and these differences may have a significant effect on the recovery on an underlying debt obligation in the event of bankruptcy or reorganisation of a Reference Entity. For example, once a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding has commenced under the laws of certain jurisdictions, it may not be permissible to trade or accelerate the debt of the relevant issuer.

In making any assessment with respect to the creditworthiness of any Reference Entity or the Reference Entity generally, investors should also take into account, amongst other factors, (a) the name of the Reference Entity given that there can be confusion among market participants with respect to similarly named entities within a corporate group or failure to monitor any recent name changes or Successors identified with respect to a particular Reference Entity; (b) the obligor on any referenced obligation and its capacity, to the extent relevant for any Credit Linked Note; (c) the characteristics of any obligation referenced such as whether it is senior or subordinated, senior non preferred, freely transferrable, secured or unsecured, a bond, loan or a payment obligation not related to borrowed money which may either meet or fail to meet certain requirements specified in the Credit Linked Note relevant to either the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, or redemption following a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable; and (d) where there are multiple Reference Entities, whether each Reference Entity is weighted equally or whether some Reference Entities have greater weightings than others given a Reference Entity's weighting with respect to the relevant Credit Linked Note determines the portion of the principal amount of the Credit Linked Note that is attributable to that Reference Entity. Each of the above factors are important in making a decision whether to invest in Credit Linked Notes, as they may affect the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity(ies) in question and/or the value of and return on such Notes.

Actions of Reference Entities

Actions of Reference Entities (for example, merger or demerger or the repayment or transfer of indebtedness) may adversely affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes. The views of market participants and/or legal counsel may differ as to how certain terms should be interpreted in the context of such actions, or such terms may operate in a manner contrary to the expectations of investors.

A Reference Entity (which could equally be the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates) will not have any obligation to consider any investor's interest (as a holder of the Credit Linked Note) as to any corporate or sovereign actions that might be undertaken and as such, such actions could affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes and impact on the terms and conditions of such Credit Linked Notes. A Reference Entity may have an incentive to structure a transaction to produce a particular result for example, in order to induce holders of its debt obligations to take certain actions. In some cases, a Reference Entity may repay its outstanding liabilities or assign them to a different entity in a manner that does not give rise to the determination of a Successor to the Reference Entity. In such cases, with respect to that Reference Entity, there may no longer be any deliverable obligations (a circumstance commonly referred to as an "orphaning"), which may result in there being no appropriate Deliverable Obligations for an Auction to be determined with respect to the relevant Reference Entity or Physical Redemption to be effected.

Historical performance may not predict future performance

Individual Reference Entities may not perform as indicated by the historical performance of similar entities and no assurance can be given with respect to the future performance of any Reference Entities. Historical default statistics may not capture events that would constitute Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, for the purposes of the Credit Linked Notes.

Concentrated credit risk where Reference Entities are concentrated in the same sectors or regions

The credit risk to investors in the Credit Linked Notes, which are credit-linked to multiple Reference Entities may be increased, amongst other things, as a result of the concentration of Reference Entities in a particular industry sector or geographic area, or the exposure of the Reference Entities to similar financial or other risks as other Reference Entities.

Although at the Issue Date or Trade Date, as applicable, investors in Single Name Credit Linked Notes and Local Access Credit Linked Notes will have exposure to a single Reference Entity, investors should note that the risk set out above will equally apply to such Credit Linked Notes when multiple successors are identified in accordance with the Credit Linked Conditions.

Impact of a Credit Event or Risk Event on principal and/or interest

Following a Credit Event which is a Governmental Intervention or certain Restructuring Credit Events, an Asset Package Credit Event may occur and the amount of principal payable may be determined based on the value of a package of assets which a relevant obligation of a Reference Entity has been converted into or exchanged for (which may be worth significantly less than the principal amount of such original obligation of such Reference Entity or, where such original obligation has been expropriated for no compensation, may be zero). Prospective investors in such Credit Linked Notes should be aware that depending on the terms thereof (i) they may receive no or a limited amount of interest, (ii) payment of principal or interest or delivery of any specified assets may occur at a different time than expected and (iii) they may lose all or a substantial portion of their investment.

The occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in relation to any Reference Entity from time to time may result in either full or partial redemption of the Credit Linked Notes on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date which shall depend on whether "Credit Payment on Maturity" or "Credit Payment Following Credit Event" applies and any recovery (which could be zero) or any incurred recovery amounts (to the extent that such recovery falls within the tranche to which the Index Tranche Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranche Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)) will be payable to the investor, but the investor shall be exposed to all losses incurred (to the extent that such losses fall within the tranche to which the Index Tranche Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranche Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)), which will reduce its principal redemptions. Where "Physical Redemption" applies, the occurrence of a Credit Event may result in the redemption of the Credit Linked Notes based on the delivery of certain direct or indirect obligations of the affected Reference Entity, which may have a market value which is substantially less than their nominal amount. In respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, the payment of Contingent Interest only (and not any Non-Contingent Interest or principal) is contingent upon a Credit Event not occurring in respect of the Reference Entity. Accordingly, if a Credit Event occurs in relation to the Reference Entity, this will not result in full or partial redemption of such Securities; however, such Securities will cease to accrue Contingent Interest (in full or in part) as detailed below.

Following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, investors should note that interest (in full or in part) will cease to accrue on a specified portion of the relevant Credit Linked Notes as set out in the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes depending on whether "Interest Accrual on Default" or "No Interest Accrual on Default" applies in the applicable Issue Terms.

If "No Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) will cease from the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date. If "Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) will cease to accrue on the first Business Day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. In such case, interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) shall accrue on the affected applicable proportion from (and including) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable (or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date) to (and including) the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. With respect to the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes, interest will cease to accrue on the Principal Writedown Amount with effect from the Credit Event Writedown Date, being the business day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date.

The Issuer may also suspend interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) in certain circumstances where (a) an Applicable DC Credit Event Question has been submitted in respect of which a DC Resolution (including, but not limited to, a DC Credit Event Announcement, a DC No Credit Event Announcement or a DC Credit Event Question Dismissal) has not been published or the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not resolved whether it will convene a meeting to Resolve the Applicable DC Credit Event Question or (b) where the Calculation Agent has determined that Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, could occur but no Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, has been provided to the Issuer and/or the Securityholders. In such circumstances, investors should note that the Issuer would suspend the maximum amount of interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) payable assuming the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, had occurred, in the case of an M(M)R Restructuring, as though no partial exercise occurred and where the amount to be withheld requires calculation of any recovery amount, assuming that fixed recovery of zero per cent. applies. Such suspension of interest shall be effected although no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date has occurred.

Investors should be aware that although payment of any interest wrongly suspended will be repayable in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes and where insufficient interest has been suspended, being the Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount, such interest shall be claimed by the Issuer from any amount payable or assets Delivered upon the redemption or write down in full of the relevant Credit Linked Notes (whether at maturity or upon early redemption). The Issuer however shall have no further claims against any investors for any Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount which cannot be deducted in full or in part (on account of the relevant redemption amount being insufficient).

Interest shall continue to be suspended until the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee makes the relevant announcements or the Calculation Agent determines that no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, can occur. In such circumstances, investors should note that they may not receive any interest for multiple Interest Periods.

Interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) will otherwise continue to accrue as usual on any remaining portion of the Credit Linked Note unaffected by the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, to and excluding the earlier to occur of any full redemption at Scheduled Maturity Date or any relevant early redemption. In respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Non-Contingent Interest will also continue to be payable in full on the Securities. Where "Credit Payment on Maturity applies", additional interest shall accrue on the Credit Linked Notes in respect of the Credit Payment on Maturity Amount at the funding interest rate.

Successors

Investors should note that, from time to time, the Reference Entity may be subject to change following the determination of any Successor or Successors to the Reference Entity, and any such change may affect the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes. "Successor" means, the entity or entities, if any, determined to have succeeded to a requisite amount of relevant obligations of the Reference Entity. For a Sovereign Reference Entity, an entity may only be a Successor to a Reference Entity that is a sovereign following the occurrence of a unification, annexation, unification, secession, partition, dissolution, consolidation, reconstitution or other similar event.

The Credit Linked Conditions provide that if a Reference Entity has more than one successor entity, the Calculation Agent shall amend the terms of the Credit Linked Notes, without consent of the investors, to reflect that the relevant Reference Entity has been succeeded by more than one Successor and for the purposes of calculation, the affected notional representing such Reference Entity will be divided equally among the Successors. Following such determination, the Credit Linked Notes shall remain outstanding in an amount equal to the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount and interest will accrue on such amount in accordance with the adjustments determined by the Calculation Agent in its discretion, acting in a commercially reasonable manner to reflect the economic effects of the identification of more than one Successor, considered in the aggregate. The Calculation Agent will also be responsible for determining, as soon as reasonably practicable after it becomes aware of the relevant succession, the sovereign or entity, if any, that qualifies as the Successor. Investors should note that the Credit Linked Note may reference substantially different credit risks following the determination of one or more Successors. These credit risks could potentially be greater or lesser than the credit risk of the original Reference Entity, which could adversely impact the value of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should also be aware that the determination of a Successor will not necessarily result in the assumption of that obligation by the Successor either at all or in the same proportion as the allocation of the notional amount of the original Credit Linked Note.

Volatile prices

The market price of Credit Linked Notes may be volatile and will be affected by, amongst other things, (a) the actual or perceived creditworthiness and credit ratings of each Reference Entity and any guarantors or other supporters of its relevant obligations; (b) expected rates of recovery on obligations of the Reference Entity; (c) actions of a Reference Entity and its principal creditors; (d) the nature of each Reference Entity's outstanding indebtedness, including its maturity and subordination structure and any guarantees or other support that the Reference Entity has provided to other entities; (e) the contractually specified credit-related events with respect to a Reference Entity that may trigger settlement of the Credit Linked Notes; (f) optionality that a party may have, such as the ability to select the obligations of a Reference Entity that will be delivered or valued or to decide whether or not to trigger settlement; (g) correlation among the credit spreads and/or default probabilities of the components of a basket or index, if applicable; (h) market liquidity; (i) the time remaining to the maturity; or (j) economic, financial, political and regulatory or judicial events or conditions that affect a Reference Entity or its outstanding obligations, or the market for Credit Linked Notes or related financial markets, including credit spreads in the market. Such volatility could impact on the market value of the Credit Linked Notes.

Market liquidity

Various factors may affect the market liquidity for the Credit Linked Notes. Future regulation of Credit Linked Notes could limit market liquidity. In respect of an Index Untranching Credit Linked Note or an Index Tranching Credit Linked Note, certain tenors of the relevant Index referenced by the relevant Credit Linked Note may be more liquid than others. The market liquidity of an Index Untranching Credit Linked Note or Index Tranching Credit Linked Note may also vary significantly between the current series of the relevant Index referenced by the relevant Credit Linked Note and prior series. The market liquidity of instruments based on a bespoke portfolio of Reference Entities will generally be less than that of instruments linked to standardised indices and terms. The market liquidity of a single-name Reference Entity may be affected by the Reference Entity's inclusion or exclusion from a standardised index, with exclusion from an index generally expected to result in diminished market liquidity.

In addition, Credit Linked Notes with terms that differ from trading conventions may have substantially less market liquidity and price transparency. Consequently, market liquidity could vary during the term of a Credit Linked Note and will affect the value of such Credit Linked Note. There is no assurance that the Issuer, Dealer, Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates will be able to provide prices with respect to the Credit Linked Notes or that a secondary market can develop with respect to the Credit Linked Notes.

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees may make announcements, determinations and resolutions which may have a negative effect on the value of and return on Credit Linked Notes

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees make determinations that are relevant to the majority of the credit derivatives market and to promote transparency and consistency. In making any determination with respect to a Credit Event, Risk Event or a succession date, the Calculation Agent may have regard to announcements, determinations and resolutions made by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. In certain circumstances (including, without limitation, the determination of the occurrence of an "Event Determination Date"), the Credit Linked Notes will be subject to the announcements, determinations and resolutions of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. Such announcements, determinations and resolutions could affect the quantum and timing of payments of interest and principal on the Credit Linked Notes, and may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors have no role in respect of the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees or questions referred thereto

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees Rules (DC Rules) (which may be amended by a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees) provide that eligible market participants may raise questions to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees which have the power to make binding decisions on critical issues such as, without limitation, whether a Credit Event has occurred, whether there is a Successor to a Reference Entity, which obligations of a Reference Entity are deliverable, whether or not an auction will be held and on matters of contractual interpretation relevant to the credit derivatives market generally. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates has no duty to any investor to refer specific questions to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees.

In addition, Securityholders will have no role in the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. A separate criterion will apply to the selection of dealer and non-dealer institutions to serve on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees (DC Member), and investors will have no role in establishing such criteria. In addition, the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees will change from time to time as the term of a member institution may expire or a member institution may be required to be replaced. Investors will have no control over the process for selecting institutions to participate on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees given the process is governed by the DC Rules. To the extent provided for in the Credit Linked Notes, the determinations of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees will be final and binding with respect to specific matters set out in the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes, where relevant.

Investors will not be notified of deliberations and resolutions of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees

Notices of issues submitted to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees, meetings convened to deliberate such questions and the results of binding votes of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees will be published on the website of the DC Secretary at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website). Neither the Issuer, Dealer, Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates shall be obliged to inform investors of such updates as published from time to time. Investors should carefully monitor the matters under consideration by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees and their determinations as such determinations may affect an investor's rights under the Credit Linked Notes.

Notwithstanding that an investor may be unaware of information relating to determinations of a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee as published on the DC Secretary's website, this will not impact any redemptions, reductions in interest write-downs or determinations made by the Calculation Agent and/or Issuer.

Investors will have no recourse against any of the institutions serving on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees or the external reviewers.

DC Members do not owe any duty to investors, and investors will be prevented from pursuing legal claims with respect to actions taken by such DC Member in its capacity as such under the DC Rules. This equally applies to the Issuer, Dealer, Calculation Agent and/or one or more of their affiliates if any of them is a DC Member. DC Members have no duty to investigate, supplement or verify the accuracy of information on which a determination is based. In addition, the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees are not obligated to follow previous determinations or to apply principles of interpretation such as those that might guide a court in interpreting contractual provisions. Therefore, investors should be aware that a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee could reach a conflicting determination for a similar set of facts, which may affect the Credit Linked Notes in a way that was not originally expected by investors.

Requirement for publicly available information

The Credit Linked Notes may specify that only publicly available information regarding a relevant event may be used to trigger or modify the transaction. The Credit Linked Conditions contain standards as to what constitutes publicly available information. If a Credit Event, Risk Event or a succession occurs, amongst other events, but the requisite public information about the event is not available within the applicable time periods, then the event will not take effect under the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should note that in certain circumstances it may be difficult to verify the occurrences of certain Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, as a party in possession of such information which may evidence such Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, may be contractually prohibited from disclosing information to another party by virtue of any credit agreement or other agreement with the Reference Entity, any underlying obligor, any affiliate of the Reference Entity or of the underlying Obligor or such party may be bound by or subject to a confidentiality obligation or agreement whereby the required information for verification may not be capable of disclosure without breaching such confidentiality undertakings. Accordingly, there may be circumstances when a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, may not be capable of trigger under the Credit Linked Notes due to lack of publicly available information.

In addition, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the Trade Date and Issue Date, including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the public filings of the Reference Entity or the value of the underliers will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning an issuer could adversely affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes, its usefulness for any investor's intended purpose, and the timing or amount of payments or deliveries.

Risks associated with Auction Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, the amounts payable under the Credit Linked Notes will be determined on the basis of the final price determined pursuant to the auction procedure set out in the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms (available at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website)). In respect of specified obligations of the relevant Reference Entity, provided that the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that an applicable auction will be held, an auction final price determination date will occur. Credit losses determined pursuant to a market auction process may be greater or less than the losses which would have been determined in the absence of the auction. In particular, the auction process may be affected by technical factors or operational errors, which would not otherwise apply or may be the subject of actual or attempted manipulation. The administrator(s) specified in the auction settlement terms conduct auctions. Investors are subject to the risk that where a final price is determined in accordance with an auction, this may result in a lower recovery value than an obligation of the Reference Entity would have had if such final price had been determined pursuant to alternative methods.

In addition, the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may amend the form of auction settlement terms for a particular auction. The DC Rules provide for certain amendments by resolution of a convened Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee. Other amendments may be made subject to a public comment period; however, the DC Rules permit the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to forego a public comment period by supermajority action. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms for a particular auction will be on similar terms to the form of auction settlement terms or the terms of previous auctions.

Where the only relevant Credit Event is a restructuring, several concurrent but separate auctions may occur with respect to the Reference Entity and such Credit Event. The auction settlement amount may be based on the price of one or more obligations of the Reference Entity having a final maturity date different from the restructured obligation.

Although auctions can generally be expected to be held for Reference Entities that are widely traded in the credit markets, there can be no assurance that an auction will be held for future Credit Events or that, if held, the auction will result in the determination of an auction final price. If an auction is not held or fails to result in the determination of an auction final price (as might occur if an auction is cancelled by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee due, for example, to an inability to obtain the requisite number of initial bids) and if "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then the "Fallback Redemption Method" shall apply which, depending on the nature of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed, may be cash redemption, or physical redemption. In such circumstances of cash redemption, the final price will be determined pursuant to the valuation method specified in the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should carefully assess and understand the elections specified in relation to the relevant Credit Linked Notes and the circumstances and/or events as described above, which may affect the value of and return on such Credit Linked Notes.

Risks relating to Physical Redemption following a Credit Event or Risk Event

Where Physical Redemption applies to Credit Linked Notes, then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, the Issuer must select obligations of the Reference Entity that satisfy specified deliverability criteria and deliver those obligations to the investor in an amount determined in accordance with the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that physical redemption may not be possible to accomplish under some circumstances, including where the Issuer is unable to procure the specified or selected deliverable obligation(s) due to market dislocations or prior redemptions or refinancings by the Reference Entity, failure to receive necessary transfer consents (such as from a borrower or agent) or delays in receiving such consents, or court orders prohibiting transfers of an obligation. In such event, the terms of the Credit Linked Notes may provide the Issuer with alternative methods of settlement or permit partial cash settlement subject to certain conditions or specify other fallback consequences which may include redemption by way of payment of a cash amount.

Investors should understand the terms of the obligation and applicable securities laws as these may restrict their ability to take delivery of Deliverable Obligations. Investors should also note that delivery expenses will be taken into account in determining the Outstanding Principal Balance or Due and Payable Amount of the relevant Deliverable Obligations to be delivered.

Outstanding Principal Balance

The calculation of the outstanding principal balance of a deliverable obligation is determined by (i) first, ascertaining all principal payment obligations of a Reference Entity (ii) then deducting any delivery expenses and any interest suspension shortfall amounts and determining all or any portion of such principal payment obligations that are subject to a contingency (other than a Permitted Contingency (as defined below)) or prohibited action which need to be disregarded, leaving an amount equal to the non-contingent amount and (iii) finally, determining the quantum of the claim that could be validly asserted against a Reference Entity in respect of such non-contingent amount if the obligation was redeemed or accelerated which would be the outstanding principal balance. If payments of principal are subject to a contingency, the outstanding principal balance could be less than the principal balance (and depending upon the type of contingency, could be zero).

"Permitted Contingency" means, with respect to an obligation, any reduction to the Reference Entity's payment obligations: (a) as a result of the application of: (i) any provisions allowing a transfer, pursuant to which another party may assume all of the payment obligations of the Reference Entity; (ii) provisions implementing the subordination of the obligation; (iii) provisions allowing for a transfer of a qualifying guarantee (or provisions allowing for the release of the Reference Entity from its payment obligations in the case of any other guarantees); (iv) any solvency capital provisions if "Subordinated European Insurance Terms" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms; or (v) if "Financial Reference Entity Terms" is specified as applicable to the Reference Entity in the Issue Terms, provisions (a) which permit the Financial Reference Entity's obligations to be altered, discharged, released or suspended in circumstances which would constitute a governmental intervention; or (b) which is within the control of the holders of the obligation or a third party acting on their behalf (such as an agent or trustee).

Outstanding Principal Balance – Fallback Discounting

The definition of "Outstanding Principal Balance" provides for the quantum of the claim to be determined in accordance with any applicable laws that reduce or discount the size of the claim to reflect the original issue price or accrued value of the obligation. Where "Fallback Discounting" applies and if certain other conditions are met, being (i) the Outstanding Principal Balance of an obligation is not reduced or discounted in accordance with applicable law, and (ii) the relevant obligation is either a Bond that has an issue price less than 95 per cent. of the principal redemption amount or a Loan where the amount advanced is less than 95 per cent. of the principal repayment amount where, in each case, no provisions relating to the accretion over time of the amount which would be payable on an early redemption or repayment of such Bond or Loan that are customary for the applicable type of Bond or Loan as the case may be exists, prospective investors should note that Delivery by the Issuer of impacted Deliverable Obligations or LA Settlement Assets, as applicable, would need to account for the Outstanding Principal

Balance which would be further reduced in such case which could result in an anticipated par claim being treated as less than par. In such circumstances, the Credit Linked Conditions provide that the Outstanding Principal Balance would instead be the lesser of (I) the Non-Contingent Amount; and (II) an amount determined by straight line interpolation between the issue price of the Bond or the amount advanced under the Loan and the principal redemption amount or principal repayment amount, as applicable.

Partial cash redemption and Fallback Cash Redemption

If all or any part of the Physical Redemption Assets that would be required to be Delivered to a Securityholder is not a whole integral multiple of the smallest unit of transfer for any such Physical Redemption Assets at the relevant time of Delivery, as determined by the Calculation Agent, the Issuer will only Deliver the portion of the Physical Redemption Assets specified by the Issuer which is as large a size as possible but less than the full Physical Redemption Assets, after consideration of such smallest unit or units of transfer and application of rounding. The value of the undelivered obligations will be deemed to be zero and the Issuer's obligations to an investor in respect of such portion shall be fully and effectively discharged in such circumstances.

Delivery of loans

Where Physical Redemption applies and to the extent investors would be required to receive loans as deliverable obligations under a Credit Linked Note, investors should be familiar with the documentation and settlement practices of the relevant secondary loan trading markets and applicable laws and regulations (including the legal consequences of furnishing or receiving non-public information regarding a Reference Entity).

Provisions of the Reference Entity's credit agreements may affect a party's ability to deliver or receive loans, the economic consequences of doing so and whether loans meet deliverability criteria. Accordingly, investors should review such agreements carefully, including the provisions governing assignments, any collateral allocation mechanisms i.e., a mandatory exchange of obligations for other obligations under a credit agreement, not all of which may be deliverable and provisions that may require or entitle a lender to advance funds.

Payment/Delivery Failure Event – failure to deliver

Investors should note that a Payment/Delivery Failure Event will occur where certain relevant definitive Credit Linked Notes and/or the Deliverable Obligation Notice are not delivered or there is a failure to duly execute, deliver and/or accept a transfer certificate or other transfer document on or before any Delivery Date and/or specify a date for transfer of the relevant Deliverable Obligation that is on or before any Delivery Date. In such case, investors should note that the obligations of the Issuer to procure Delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and make any payment shall cease until such time such event is cured whereupon deferred delivery shall apply or if "Fallback Cash Redemption" is specified to apply in the applicable Issue Terms, fallback cash settlement shall apply. Investors will not be entitled to any payment, whether of interest or otherwise, in the event of such deferred delivery or payment.

Risks associated with Cash Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Cash Redemption" applies to the Credit Linked Notes, then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, the Calculation Agent will be required to seek quotations in respect of selected obligations of the Reference Entity in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that such obligations may no longer exist and no qualifying substitute obligations may have been identified, such quotations may not be available, or the level of such quotations may be substantially reduced as a result of illiquidity in the relevant markets or as a result of factors other than the credit risk of the Reference Entity (for example, liquidity constraints affecting market dealers). Moreover, the market value of a Reference Entity's obligations may be highly volatile in the period following a Credit Event or Risk Event. Accordingly, any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations. Furthermore, the price of the selected obligations of the Reference Entity may be deemed to be zero in the event that no such quotations are available. Further, valuation of the selected obligations will be determined at a particular determination date and as such the recovery price which would be adopted in any loss amount or incurred loss amount that would be suffered by an investor following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, will reflect the value of relevant obligations at a given date. As such, the exposure to loss suffered by an investor or any principal write-down may be more than that ultimately realised by a holder of debt obligations of the Reference Entity, whether by means of enforcement of rights following a default or receipt of distributions following an insolvency or otherwise.

Further, where quotations are sought on an asset package, such asset package may contain assets which are hard to value and for which a valuation methodology may not be readily available or suitable, which may reduce the value of quotations or the availability of quotations that may otherwise have been obtained. Accordingly, investors should note that any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation (or asset package) which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations.

Fixed Recovery Redemption may be subject to a fixed recovery price

Where the Credit Event Redemption Amount of the Credit Linked Notes is calculated by reference to a fixed recovery price of the obligations of a Reference Entity(ies), then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, may result in the recovery being materially lower than the prevailing price of the relevant obligations of the relevant Reference Entity. Investors should note that Fixed Recovery Redemption could occur with a Fixed Recovery Percentage set at zero per cent. where the Issue Terms specify accordingly.

If the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the occurrence of the Cash Redemption Date or the Final Cash Redemption Date, the LA Cash Redemption Date or Final LA Cash Redemption Date, as applicable, shall fully and effectively discharge the Issuer's obligation to redeem the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that where the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, the loss amount in respect of the Affected Reference Entity will be 100 per cent. and, accordingly, no redemption amounts will be payable or assets deliverable to the Securityholders. Investors accordingly will bear the loss of their principal.

"Cheapest-to-Deliver" risk

Since the Issuer and/or Calculation Agent has discretion to choose the portfolio of obligations to be delivered or valued following a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in respect of a Reference Entity, it is likely that the portfolio of obligations selected will be obligations of the Reference Entity with the lowest anticipated market value that are permitted to be selected pursuant to the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. This could result in a lower recovery value and hence greater losses for an investor. Obligations of differing maturities, currencies or payment priority (either contractual or under applicable insolvency law), among other characteristics, may diverge considerably in market value. Similar considerations apply where Auction Redemption applies given that the representative transaction that is priced in an auction generally allows a choice of deliverable obligations from a final list established by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee whereby participating bidders provide two way prices.

Payments of the Credit Linked Notes may be deferred or suspended

Investors should note that in certain circumstances, for example where (i) a Credit Event has occurred and the related credit loss, incurred loss amount or incurred recovery amount (in the case of Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes) has not been determined as at the relevant Scheduled Maturity Date or the Credit Event Redemption Date may occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date, (ii) where a potential Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, is determined to occur as at the scheduled maturity of the Credit Linked Notes (including Potential Failure to Pay if "Grace Period Extension" is specified as being applicable in the applicable Issue Terms or Potential Repudiation/Moratorium if "Repudiation/Moratorium" is specified as being applicable in the applicable Issue Terms), (iii) where a DC Credit Event Question has been submitted but the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not declared a DC Credit Event Announcement, announced a DC Credit Event Question Dismissal, declared a DC No Credit Event Announcement or resolved whether or not to convene to resolve any issue, or (iv) a Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, may be delivered after the Scheduled Maturity Date within an effective delivery period which may result in a Relevant Event Determination Date or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurring, payment of the redemption amount of the Credit Linked Notes and/or interest on the Credit Linked Notes may be deferred for a material period in whole or part without compensation to an investor. In such circumstances, the Issuer is not obliged to take any action with respect to redemption in relation to the relevant Credit Linked Notes and no additional interest shall be payable to an investor in connection with such tolling or suspension of payments, including any final redemption amount. Once the relevant DC Credit Event Announcement or DC Credit Event Question Dismissal has occurred, the relevant timing requirements that pertain to settlement that have previously tolled or been suspended shall resume on the Business Day following such public announcement by the DC Secretary with the Issuer having the benefit of the full day notwithstanding when the tolling or suspension began.

Payment/Delivery Failure Event – failure to pay

Investors should note that where it is impossible, impracticable or illegal for the Issuer to pay (due to an event beyond the control of the Issuer including, without limitation, a failure by the investor to provide account details of its designee) or for a Securityholder to accept payment of (due to an event beyond the control of such Securityholder), the obligation of the Issuer to pay any amount scheduled to be paid will be postponed until such time that the event no longer exists or is cured but where the event continues to exist on the Payment Failure Cut-Off Date, no such payment will be made by the Issuer and the Issuer's obligations to the investor will be deemed to be fully discharged as of that date. Any postponement or deemed discharge of payment pursuant will not constitute an Event of Default hereunder (as defined in General Condition 11 (Events of Default)) and will not entitle the relevant Investors to any additional interest or other payment as a result thereof.

Determination of Event Determination Dates and Credit Event Redemption Dates post Scheduled Maturity Date

Investors should note that an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, which would give rise to a redemption could occur as a result of notices being provided during the prescribed notice delivery period or post dismissal additional period which may occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date or, in some cases 14 calendar days after a DC Credit Event Announcement Date as a result of requests submitted after the Scheduled Maturity Date by market participants to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee for the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to be convened to deliberate an issue. The Scheduled Maturity Date of the Credit Linked Note may also be extended where the last relevant Credit Event Redemption Date, Final Physical Redemption Cut Off Date with respect to physical redemption, the last Payment Failure Cut-Off Date or the RMB Currency Settlement Cut-Off Date occurs after the Scheduled Maturity Date (including any final Partial Cash Redemption Date or final Fallback Partial Cash Redemption Date, as applicable). In each of these circumstances, the scheduled maturity date of the Credit Linked Notes will be extended and investors should note that the final redemption amounts, if any would be payable on a date later than the Scheduled Maturity Date and no additional interest shall be payable to an investor in connection with such tolling or suspension of payments, including any final redemption amount.

Adjustments and amendments

Investors should note that the Credit Linked Notes may be subject to amendments without consent of the investors, where an Event Determination Date is deemed either to have occurred on a date that is different from the date that was originally determined to be the Event Determination Date or not to have occurred. Certain DC resolutions may reverse prior DC resolutions or the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date that has resulted in the identification of Successors, Substitute Reference Obligations or the occurrence of an Auction Final Price Determination Date, Physical Redemption Date, Valuation Date or Delivery Date, as applicable and depending on the circumstances, may have the effect of reversing the economic impact for the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that in these circumstances, the Calculation Agent in its sole and absolute discretion will determine the adjustment payment, if any, that is payable to investors, the date the adjustment payment is payable and no accruals of interest, if any, shall be taken into account when calculating any such adjustment payment and when making such adjustments, no further consent of the Securityholder shall be required. Securityholders should note that in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, the Calculation Agent will not be required to take into account the reversal of a prior DC resolution or an Event Determination Date, where such reversal occurs more than a year after (x) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Event Determination Date or (y) the Event Determination Date, as applicable, and in such case, the Calculation Agent will not be required to make any adjustment payments to Securityholders.

Further, investors should note that the Calculation Agent may from time to time, without obtaining the consent of the Securityholders, amend provisions of the Credit Linked Conditions in any manner which the Calculation Agent determines (acting in a commercially reasonable manner) is necessary or desirable (i) to incorporate and/or reflect (x) further or alternative documents or protocols from time to time published by ISDA with respect to the documentation or redemption of Credit Linked Notes and/or (y) the operation or application of determinations by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees and/or (ii) to account for market practice to be reflected in the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. Any such amendment may affect the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

Potential conflicts of interest

The Calculation Agent and one or more of its affiliates is a leading dealer in the credit derivatives market. If "Auction Redemption" is applicable under the Credit Linked Notes and an auction is held in respect of a Reference Entity for which a Credit Event has occurred, there is a high probability that the Calculation Agent or one of its affiliates would act as a participating bidder in any such auction. In such capacity, it may take certain actions which may influence the final price determined pursuant to the auction, including, without limitation, (i) submitting bids, offers and physical settlement requests (on our own behalf or on behalf of customers) with respect to the representative auction settled transaction and (ii) providing rates of conversion to determine the applicable currency conversion rates to be used to convert any obligations that are not denominated in the auction currency into such currency for purposes of the auction. In deciding whether to take any such action, or whether to act as a participating bidder in any auction, the Calculation Agent or one or more of its affiliates (as applicable) shall be under no obligation to consider the interests of any investors and the effects of their participation may have a material adverse effect on the value of a Credit Linked Note.

The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates may also be a voting member on one or more of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees responsible for determining the occurrence of Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, for the purposes of certain credit derivatives transactions and may take certain actions that may influence the process and outcome of decisions of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. Such entities may also have an inherent conflict of interest in the outcome of any such determinations. The actions taken by such entities may also be adverse to the interests of an investor and may result in an economic benefit accruing to the Issuer, the Dealer, Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates. In performing any duty under the DC Rules that govern the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates shall have no obligation however to consider the interests of an investor and may ignore any conflict of interests arising in respect of the Credit Linked Notes.

The Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may also have an interest in data sources that publish credit indices and may participate, together with other dealers, in the process or advisory committees by which the index sponsor determines the composition of the index CDS (as defined below) and makes certain other determinations with respect to the index, including the removal of Reference Entities or reference obligations from the index CDS or to determine changes in the composition of indices. The Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may also participate and vote in committees affecting the credit default swap industry generally. By virtue of such participation in each of the circumstances described above, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates has no obligation to consider the interests of any investor in their actions and decisions and investors should note that the activities of the Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates as described herein may present a conflict between the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates' obligations and the interests of an investor under the Credit Linked Notes.

The Issuer, the Dealer or the Calculation Agent may have dealings and information in relation to Reference Entities

The Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may, now or in the future, deal in obligations of the Reference Entities, make equity investments in a Reference Entity, engage in business with a Reference Entity, its affiliates and its competitors or any other person or entity having obligations relating to a Reference Entity, including making loans to, or otherwise extend credit to, and generally engage in any kind of commercial or investment banking or other business, including asset management or other advisory services, including merger and acquisition or bankruptcy-related advisory services. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may also participate in loan restructurings or recapitalisations that may affect the Credit Linked Note and any reference obligations. In such circumstances, the Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may act with respect to such dealings, business and advisory freely and without accountability to any investor in the same manner as if the Credit Linked Notes did not exist, and any such action might have an adverse effect on any investor (including, without limitation, any action that might give rise to a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable).

The Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may be, whether by virtue of the types of relationships described above or otherwise, at any time, in possession of information in relation to any Reference Entity (or any obligations thereof) which is or may be material in the context of the Credit Linked Notes and which is or may not be known to the general public or Securityholders. The Credit Linked Notes do not create any obligation to disclose to Securityholders any such relationship or information (whether or not confidential), notwithstanding that any such relationship or information may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

The Credit Linked Notes do not represent an interest in obligations of Reference Entities

The Credit Linked Notes do not represent or convey any interest in any obligations of Reference Entities or any direct or indirect obligation of any Reference Entity to an investor. The Issuer is not an agent of any investor for any purpose and an investor will not have rights equivalent to those of a holder of debt obligations of a Reference Entity, such as voting rights or rights to receive consent fees or other distributions from a Reference Entity. For example, if a restructuring occurs with respect to a Reference Entity, the investor, unlike a holder of a Reference Entity's obligations, will have no right to challenge or participate in any element of the restructuring. If the Issuer is the owner of one or more obligations of a Reference Entity, it may exercise its voting or control rights or otherwise act in its capacity as holder of such obligations without regard to the interests of an investor, and such actions could adversely affect the Credit Linked Notes held by an investor. Consequently, the investor's purchase of the Credit Linked Notes may be riskier than a direct investment in the obligations of a Reference Entity. The purchase of a Credit Linked Note differs from an offering of new obligations by a Reference Entity in that none of the subscription moneys paid with respect to the Credit Linked Note will go to a Reference Entity. The Issuer in addition does not grant any security interest over any such obligations of the Reference Entity.

Operational risks and notices

The Credit Linked Notes may require that certain notices be given in order to exercise rights, realize value or protect and preserve interests under the Credit Linked Notes, including but not limited to notices to investors by the Issuer of the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, or that describes a succession together with supporting information, the choice of obligations to be delivered or valued, certain potential Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable and the exercise of the right to utilize parallel auctions in the case of certain restructuring Credit Events and in the case of Physical Redemption, the provision of a Deliverable Obligation Notice by an investor.

Investors should have arrangements for delivering and receiving such notices and monitoring the actions of the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees, and be prepared to take the necessary or appropriate steps when it receives such notices or learn of such actions where an investor needs to take action pursuant to such notice. Failure to take the relevant steps or actions within the requisite time periods could adversely affect an investor's interests under a Credit Linked Note.

Investors should note that in some cases, determinations of a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may substitute for a required notice, modify the effect of a previously delivered notice or alter the period during which a notice may be delivered which may impact on timings of notices provided by the Issuer. Where the relevant notice is to be provided by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or the Fiscal Agent, investors should note that a failure by any of such parties to deliver the relevant notices or any decision by any of them not to deliver a Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice to the investor shall not constitute an Event of Default under the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Investors should further note that where any notice is required to be delivered by the Issuer to investors, such notices shall be deemed to have been delivered to investors upon delivery of such notice to the Fiscal Agent by the Issuer. The failure of the Fiscal Agent to deliver any such notice to Securityholders shall not affect however (i) the effectiveness of any notice delivered by the Calculation Agent to the Issuer and/or the Issuer to the Fiscal Agent (ii) the effectiveness of any determinations made by any of them or (iii) the right of the Issuer to redeem (whether in whole or in part) the Credit Linked Notes or to write down any aggregate principal notional of the Credit Linked Notes pursuant to and in accordance with the relevant Credit Linked Conditions.

Interpretation of terms

The terms of the Credit Linked Notes are subject to interpretation and further evolution. In some instances, the views of market participants may differ as to how the terms of specific credit provisions should be interpreted in the context of specific events, entities and obligations in comparison to that of a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee or Calculation Agent where applicable. Accordingly, the consequences resulting from the interpretation of various terms could vary in the context of the Credit Linked Notes and result in unexpected losses, redemption, write-down, reduction in interest and other economic impact for an investor.

Foreign exchange risks

Investors should note that in certain circumstances, a currency conversion may be required to effect certain determinations, calculations in relation to any payment or delivery obligation with respect to the Credit Linked Notes. Delivery of an underlying obligation denominated in a currency that is different from the settlement currency of the Credit Linked Notes will have effects similar to a currency conversion. Investors should note that with respect to any auction in connection with Auction Redemption, the relevant exchange rates to be applied with respect to the auction, where relevant will be set by the auction administrators prior to any auction final price determination date. In such circumstances, the Credit Linked Notes will have foreign exchange rate risk, which may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

Discretionary powers of the Calculation Agent

The determination by the Calculation Agent of any amount or of any state of affairs, circumstance, event or other matter, or the formation of any opinion or the exercise of any discretion required or permitted to be determined, formed or exercised by the Calculation Agent shall (in the absence of manifest error) be final and binding on the Issuer and any Investor. In performing its duties pursuant to the Credit Linked Notes and making any determinations expressed to be made by it, the Calculation Agent shall either act in its sole and absolute discretion or act in a commercially reasonable manner, depending on the election specified in the applicable Issue Terms. Where the Calculation Agent acts in its sole and absolute discretion, it is under no obligation to act in the interests of any investor, nor will it be liable to account for any profit or other benefit which may accrue to it as a result of such determinations. Any determinations made or actions taken by the Calculation Agent may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Risks relating to Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes

The likelihood of a Credit Event occurring with respect to the n^{th} Reference Entity is affected significantly by the default correlation among the Reference Entities. Accordingly, the value of an Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note at any time will depend significantly on expectations about default correlation at that time, in addition to the valuation factors described above in the risk factor entitled "Volatile prices".

Moreover, because of the difficulty of predicting the likelihood that a given number of Reference Entities will default, the value of an Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note is subject to "model risk" – i.e., the risk that the model used by a party will fail to accurately predict the likelihood that the applicable number of Reference Entities default, causing unpredictable outcomes to potentially result in significant losses for an investor. See "Risks relating to Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes" below.

Securityholders should carefully review the terms of an Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note relating to: (i) whether and how substitution of a Reference Entity occurs upon certain events such as the determination of a Successor resulting in repetition of a Reference Entity in the basket of Reference Entities; (ii) how events that result in two or more Successors are addressed; and (iii) the manner and order in which defaulting Reference Entities are counted. These terms, as well as the provisions relating to the designation of a Successor, may affect the correlation among the Reference Entities and the number and timing of defaults that are deemed to have occurred.

Risks relating to Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes

With respect to Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes, investors should note that they could be exposed to significant losses which may result from changes in the market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities. The market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities may be highly volatile and may change very rapidly following the availability of new information. Investors should refer to the risk factors entitled "Credit risk of the Reference Entity", "Jurisdictional differences and assessment of Reference Entity", "Actions of Reference Entities", "Historical performance may not predict future performance", and "Concentrated credit risk where Reference Entities are concentrated in the same sectors or regions". Investors should carefully review the list of Reference Entities that constitute the Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and evaluate whether such exposure meets its stated objectives and is representative of the market to which exposure is required.

Investors should note that an investment in relation to a bespoke portfolio of Reference Entities may have significantly less liquidity than there is for an investment in an Index Untranching Credit Linked Note which is based on a standardised index CDS and accordingly there may be no or a limited secondary market in such Credit Linked Notes.

Risks relating to Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes

Investors could be exposed to significant losses which may result from changes in the market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities within the relevant index. The Reference Entities included in an index CDS will typically have certain specified characteristics in common, such as type of obligor (e.g., corporate, municipal or sovereign); geographic region (e.g., North America, Europe, Asia or emerging markets); and/or credit rating category (e.g., investment grade or high yield). These characteristics may be relevant to the probability of a Credit Event occurring under the Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, as Credit Events may be more likely for Reference Entities with certain of these characteristics than for others. The market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities may be highly volatile and may change very rapidly following the availability of new information. The market for index CDSs has been subject to significant distortions from time to time in the past as a result of the actions of one or a small number of market participants that may take large positions in an index CDS. These distortions have in the past led, and may in the future lead, to a high degree of volatility, as well as a wide and potentially unsustainable divergence between the market price of index CDSs and the price that would be expected based on the market price of credit default swaps on the underlying Reference Entities. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates' trading activities may represent a significant portion of the market for particular index CDS and, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates may be a contributor to such volatility and distortions. Accordingly, investors should note that they could be exposed to the volatility with respect to the index CDS which could have an impact on the market value of the Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, over time.

Given that the risks of an index CDS will vary depending on the characteristics of the underlying Reference Entities, investors should carefully review the list of Reference Entities that constitute the index CDS referenced in the Issue Terms and evaluate whether such exposure meets its stated objectives and is representative of the market to which exposure is required. In addition, investors should understand that the Reference Entities in an index of investment grade Reference Entities may be investment grade rated only at inception of the index or relevant series of the index, and that such Reference Entities may be downgraded thereafter.

Investors should also note that there is no guarantee that there will be a liquid market for any particular index CDS. An index sponsor may publish a new series of an underlying index from time to time (for example, every six months). Market liquidity is often concentrated in the most recent series and may decline for a given index CDS when a new series of the index is published.

Investors should note that the index sponsor may calculate the published spread or price for an index CDS based on a poll of dealers. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates may be one of the dealers polled by the index sponsor and, if so, the actions of the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates in such circumstances could affect the published spread or price. In addition, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates may participate, together with other dealers, in the process or advisory committees by which the index sponsor determines the composition of the index CDS and makes certain other determinations with respect to the index, including the removal of Reference Entities or reference obligations from the index CDS. In taking any such actions, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates has no obligation to consider the interests of any investor under the Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable. Investors should therefore be aware that any such action by the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates could affect the index CDS and therefore also adversely affect the market value of the Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable. See also "Potential conflicts of interest" above.

Unless stated otherwise in the Issue Terms, a Merger Event will not apply to any Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes and therefore such Credit Linked Notes will not early redeem where a Reference Entity becomes an affiliate of the protection seller or one such entity merges with or makes a substantial asset transfer to the other.

In addition, investors are exposed to losses arising from Credit Events in relation to Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes only to the extent that aggregate losses exceed the "attachment point" but remain less than the "detachment point" of the tranche. The likelihood that an investor will be exposed to losses is therefore greater for more subordinated tranches (i.e. those with a lower attachment point in relation to portfolio size).

In addition, Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable (other than the most senior tranches) are leveraged instruments because investors may incur losses on an accelerated basis relative to aggregate losses on the portfolio. Investors will not owe any payment for losses unless and until aggregate losses on the portfolio exceed the attachment point, but investors will be exposed to losses equal to the entire notional amount of the Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes (as applicable) if aggregate losses on the portfolio reach the detachment point. Therefore, the smaller the tranche size relative to the implied notional amount of the entire portfolio, the greater the degree of leverage (except with respect to the most senior tranches). For any given portfolio of Reference Entities, the lower the attachment point and the greater the leverage, the greater the risk for the investor where acting as though it were a protection seller. However, this does not mean that the most senior tranches present low risks for protection sellers.

The value of such Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, will be influenced by the valuation factors described above in the risk factor entitled "Volatile prices" but in addition, the value of such Credit Linked Note will be influenced by expectations about "default correlation," among other model-dependent factors. Default correlation refers to the likelihood of any given number of Reference Entities experiencing a Credit Event over any given time period. Changes in default correlation affect tranches of different seniority differently. In general, from the perspective of an investor acting as though it were a protection seller, holding all other factors constant: (a) a decrease in default correlation will decrease the value of the most junior tranche (i.e., the tranche with the lowest attachment point), because it will represent an increase in the expected probability of losses on that tranche; (b) an increase in default correlation will decrease the value of the most senior tranche (i.e., the tranche with the highest attachment point), because it will represent an increase in the expected probability of losses on that tranche; and (c) any increase or decrease in default correlation may either increase or decrease the value of mezzanine tranches (i.e., tranches between the most junior and most senior tranches), depending on a complex interplay of various factors.

The degree of default correlation among the Reference Entities in a given portfolio may be influenced by numerous factors, including whether the Reference Entities operate in similar industries or geographic regions and whether the Reference Entities have similar levels of leverage (i.e., debt relative to equity). Default correlation tends to increase during economic downturns and decrease during periods of economic growth. Accordingly, although the most senior tranches are generally less risky to a protection seller than the most junior tranches, the most senior tranches will tend to lose value from the perspective of the protection seller at a faster rate than the most junior tranches during an economic downturn. In a downturn that widely affects the Reference Entities in a portfolio, a protection seller under a senior tranche may incur losses equal to the entire notional amount, in which case the senior tranche will prove to have been no less risky than junior tranches. Default correlation may change significantly, and in some cases abruptly, with changes in market conditions

Default correlation is difficult to estimate, and different market participants may calculate it in different ways and may change the ways in which they calculate it over time which may be adverse to an investor in an Index Tranching Credit Linked Note or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note, as applicable. Accordingly, the valuation of such Credit Linked Notes is subject to "model risk" (i.e., the risk that a valuation model does not accurately depict the value of a tranche or the relationship between tranche values) which may result in significant losses where certain strategies based on modelled relations between the values of tranches break down.

The terms and conditions of the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, may provide for changes in the constituents of the index or portfolio of Reference Entities, as applicable, upon the occurrence of certain events, such as the determination of a Successor. These changes may affect the level of default correlation among the Reference Entities in the portfolio and, therefore, the value of such Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should note that an investment in relation to Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note which is based on a bespoke portfolio of Reference Entity may have significantly less liquidity than there is for an investment in an Index Tranching Credit Linked Note which references a standardised index CDS. Accordingly, the valuation of the Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note which is more bespoke may be more complex and introduces greater model risk than the Index Tranching Credit Linked Note.

Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes - adjustments

Investors should further note that in the case of an Index Untranching Credit Linked Note, if a DC Credit Event Announcement occurs in respect of an M(M)R Restructuring with respect to a component Reference Entity of the relevant Index, such Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes will be amended without the consent of the Securityholders to reflect the creation of a "New Single Name Credit Linked Note" having economic terms as closely as possible preserving the economic equivalent of the relevant Credit Linked Notes immediately before the DC Credit Event Announcement which may be redeemed following exercise in accordance with the terms of the Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes. Any such amendment may adversely affect investors.

Risks relating to Local Access Credit Linked Notes

Local access risks

Credit Linked Notes may reference the obligations of a Reference Entity incorporated in or from a local access jurisdiction. An investment in such Credit Linked Notes involves risks associated with such jurisdictions, including potential risks of volatility, governmental intervention and the lack of a developed system of law.

Investors should note that it is a general feature of local access jurisdictions that they may be subject to rapid change and the risks involved may also change relatively quickly. With respect to any local access nation, there is the possibility of nationalisation, expropriation or confiscation, political changes, government regulation, social instability or other developments (including war) which could affect adversely the economies of such nations and/or the foreign exchange rates. Political or economic instability may affect investor confidence, which could in turn have a negative impact on the value of the obligation(s) of the local access Reference Entity or its creditworthiness and on foreign exchange markets.

Conditions in local access countries are associated with higher risks of the occurrence of a Risk Event, which may occur together with circumstances that would restrict the deliverability of any Reference Asset, or which may result in especially adverse pricing and liquidity conditions in which a market value for such Reference Asset is to be determined.

Local access debt typically comprises debt issued by non-highly rated issuers in respect of whom the possibility of default is greater than investment grade issuers. Local access considerations, in addition to and in combination with other conditions affecting the creditworthiness of a Reference Entity (including those resulting in a local access Reference Entity experiencing financial or economic difficulties), may significantly affect (a) the value of, and (b) any amounts paid on, its Obligation(s) and/or any Reference Obligation(s) and/or any Deliverable Obligation(s) and/or Reference Asset(s) (if any), each or all of which may be reduced to zero.

Local access debt may be difficult to buy and/or sell, particularly during adverse market conditions, and prices may be more volatile. In addition, settlement of trades in emerging or developing countries may be slower and more likely to be subject to failure than in more developed markets. This will affect the ability of the Issuer or the Calculation Agent (as the case may be) to obtain prices for the Obligation(s) of the Reference Entity or any Reference Obligation(s) or any Deliverable Obligation(s) or any Reference Asset(s) (if any).

Risk Events

Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be redeemed pursuant to the occurrence of any Credit Event or an Additional Risk Event (together, the "Risk Events") in respect of one or more Reference Entities and, in either case, unless the Local Access Credit Linked Notes are fixed recovery, on the value of certain specified assets of any such Reference Entities or where, if any of such events has occurred, on settlement the Issuer's obligation is to deliver certain specified assets. Any such settlement will be reduced to take into account any Unwind Costs and so will depend upon the level of such Unwind Costs.

Additional Risk Events are indicative of defaults or risks specific to certain local access jurisdictions and will apply to Local Access Credit Linked Notes to the extent that such events apply in the applicable Issue Terms. Prospective investors should note that not all possible Additional Risk Events are related directly to default or credit risk in respect of a Reference Entity or default in respect of the Reference Investor Assets and such Additional Risk Events may include, without limitation, the occurrence of one or more of the following:

- (a) an Inconvertibility Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or condition that has the effect of it being impossible, illegal or impracticable for, or of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor (i) to convert currency; or (ii) to effect currency transactions on terms as favourable as those available to residents of the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iii) to freely and unconditionally transfer or repatriate any funds from accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction to accounts outside the Reference Jurisdiction or between accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iv) to receive the full value of any cash payment made under the Reference Investor Assets due to the introduction after the Additional Risk Event Start Date by any Governmental Authority of a new currency regime (including the introduction of a dual currency regime) or the imposition of currency exchange limitations;
- (b) an Ownership Restriction Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or existence of any condition that has the effect of it being illegal, impossible or impracticable for, or has the effect of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor to purchase, hold, receive, sell, freely transfer or remain the owner of any Reference Investor Asset or any amount received in respect thereof; and
- (c) a Settlement/Custodial Event - (i) the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of the bankruptcy of any Custodian or (ii) in respect of the Reference Investor Assets owned by a Reference Investor or any amount received in respect thereof, a Custodian (A) fails to perform in a timely manner any or all of its obligations owed under any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement, or (B) fails to take any action when instructed to do so by a Reference Investor, or (C) takes any action which is contrary to the terms of any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement; in each case that affects or may affect, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the hedging arrangements of the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates in respect of the Issuer's obligations with respect to the Local Access Credit Linked Note(s).

The loss incurred by an Investor may be unrelated to or disproportionate in comparison with the Additional Risk Event itself. Moreover, the Calculation Agent may designate an Additional Risk Event, which could cause such losses to be incurred by an Investor, if the Additional Risk Event occurs at any time during the term of the Local Access Credit Linked Notes, whether or not the Additional Risk Event is ongoing or effective or has been remedied or cured at the time such designation has been made.

Exposure to Reference Asset

In respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes for which "Reference Asset Only Settlement" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, following a Risk Event, the Local Access Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed by valuation or delivery (as applicable) of the Reference Asset in respect of a Reference Entity (rather than obligations of the relevant Reference Entity generally). It follows therefore that returns on such Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be adversely affected by circumstances affecting the Reference Asset even where other obligations of the Reference Entity are not affected. The creditworthiness or market value of the relevant Reference Asset may be less favourable than other obligations of the relevant Reference Entity due to liquidity, marketability, circumstances of origination, legal or validity risks, local access risks described below, or one or more other characteristics. Investors in the Local Access Credit Linked Notes should understand that their recovery in relation to the relevant Reference Asset may be substantially less than for more generally representative obligations of the relevant Reference Entity.

Adjustment following a Regulatory Change Event

If the Calculation Agent determines that a Regulatory Change Event has occurred or exists then any payment or delivery to an investor shall be reduced by an amount equal in value to the allocable proportion of the Regulatory Change Cost, as determined by the Calculation Agent in its sole discretion. Investors may therefore receive back less than their initial investment or, in the case of redemption following the occurrence of a Relevant Risk Event, losses may be greater than if the investor were to hold obligations of the Reference Entity directly.

Adjustment in respect of an Interest Tax Deduction Amount or Principal Tax Deduction Amount

If "Tax Deduction Event – Principal" and "Tax Deduction Event – Interest" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and if the Calculation Agent determines that there would be an Interest Tax Deduction Amount and/or a Principal Tax Deduction Amount in respect of amounts that would be received by a Reference Investor in respect of the Reference Investor Assets, then any relevant payment of interest or principal (as applicable) or amount of LA Settlement Assets to be delivered to an investor shall be reduced by an amount equal in value to the allocable proportion of the Interest Tax Deduction Amount or Principal Tax Deduction Amount, as applicable, as determined by the Calculation Agent. Investors may therefore receive less than the anticipated amount(s) due in respect of the Local Access Credit Linked Notes.

Risks specific to Index Skew Notes

The Index Skew Notes are linked, through a Hypothetical Skew Transaction constituting a combination of (i) an index CDS and (ii) individual credit default swaps on the Reference Entities included in the index underlying the index CDS (the component CDSs). Where the Issuer is the protection seller under the index CDS it is the protection buyer under the component CDSs, and vice versa. The value of the combined positions reflects the difference (the skew) between the value of the index CDS and the aggregate value of its component CDSs. Although each constituent of the Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to give rise to an equal and opposite payment obligation on each Fixed Rate Payer Payment Date, Auction Settlement Date or Cash Settlement Date (as applicable), no actual payments will be due from the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or vice versa due to the application of payment netting.

The value of an index CDS may differ from the aggregate value of its component CDSs for several reasons, including (a) differences in liquidity and other characteristics in the markets for the index CDS the component CDSs; (b) differences in relevant terms of the index CDS and its component CDSs; (c) factors that affect the activities of arbitrageurs; and (d) changes in the default correlation among the Reference Entities included in the index CDS.

As the notional of the Hypothetical Skew Transactions may be far greater than the principal amount issued under the Index Skew Notes, the value of the Index Skew Notes may be very volatile and any Index Skew Early Redemption Amount will be linked to, inter alia, the difference between the pricing of credit protection on the relevant index and the market levels of the constituent single name Reference Entities that comprise the relevant index.

Liquidity differences may make a greater contribution to skew during periods of heightened volatility, as the value of the more liquid instrument(s) may change more quickly than the value of the less liquid instrument(s). Furthermore, during periods when transaction costs (such as funding costs and bid-ask spreads) to market participants increase, skew may become greater, as the increased transaction costs may reduce the activities of arbitrageurs (i.e. market participants that seek to profit from the skew and, in the process, tend to reduce it).

Although the payments under a Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to be equal to zero due to the application of payment netting as described above, if the Index Skew Notes were to be redeemed early, a termination payment would be determined in respect of the each constituent transaction within the relevant Hypothetical Skew Transactions and the aggregate of such termination payments may result in an amount being payable by the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or by the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty to the Issuer which could result in the Early Redemption Amount or Optional Early Redemption Amount (as the case may be) due to Securityholders being reduced further if the Issuer is required to make a payment to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty for such termination payment or if the Issuer is subject to further Unwind Costs.

In addition, prospective investors in the Index Skew Notes should be aware that no notifications shall be given by the Issuer or any other party to Securityholders following the occurrence of a Credit Event. To the extent that the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that a Credit Event has occurred in respect of a particular entity, information will be published on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees website at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

SECTION C – INVESTMENT CONSIDERATIONS

General

Before investing in Securities you should determine whether an investment in Securities is appropriate in your particular circumstances and should consult with your legal, business and tax advisers to determine the consequences of an investment in Securities and to arrive at your own evaluation of the investment. In particular, the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor recommend that you take independent tax advice before committing to purchase any Securities. None of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor provides tax advice and therefore responsibility for any tax implications of investing in any Securities rests entirely with you. You should note that the tax treatment will differ from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. You will assume and be solely responsible for any and all taxes of any jurisdiction or governmental or regulatory authority, including (without limitation) any state or local taxes or other similar assessment or charge that may be applicable to any payment in respect of the Securities.

An investment in Securities is only suitable for you if you:

- (a) have the requisite knowledge and experience in financial and business matters to evaluate the merits and risks of an investment in Securities;
- (b) have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate such merits and risks in the context of your financial situation;
- (c) are capable of bearing the economic risk of an investment in Securities for an indefinite period of time; and
- (d) recognise that it may not be possible to dispose of Securities for a substantial period of time, if at all.

You should make your own independent decision to invest in Securities and as to whether the investment in Securities is appropriate or proper for you based upon your own judgement and upon advice from such advisers as you may deem necessary. You should not rely on any communication (written or oral) of the Issuer, and (if applicable) the Guarantor, any Dealer or any of their affiliates or their respective officers or agents as investment advice or as a recommendation to invest in Securities, it being understood that information and explanations related to Securities shall not be considered to be investment advice or a recommendation to invest in Securities. No communication (written or oral) received from the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor, any Dealer or any of their affiliates or their respective officers or agents shall be deemed to be an assurance or guarantee as to the expected results of an investment in Securities.

Hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities

Any Issuer, and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any of their affiliates may enter into arrangements to hedge the Issuer's and/or, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or the CGMFL Guarantor's obligations under the Securities and/or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee but are not required to do so. If they do so, any Issuer and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any such affiliate will have certain rights under such hedging arrangements and may pursue actions and take steps that they deem appropriate to protect their own interests under such hedging arrangements without regard to the consequences for Securityholders. You will not have recourse to the applicable counterparty under any such hedging arrangements and any such hedging arrangements will not confer any rights or entitlements on any Securityholders and will constitute separate obligations of the Issuer and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any such affiliate.

If you intend to purchase Securities to hedge against the market risk associated with investing in the particular Underlying(s), you should recognise the complexities of utilising Securities in this manner. For example, the value of the relevant Securities may not exactly correlate with the value of the relevant Underlying(s). Due to fluctuating supply and demand for Securities, there is no assurance that their value will correlate with movements of the Underlying(s). For these reasons, among others, it may not be possible to purchase or liquidate securities in a portfolio at the prices used to calculate the value of any relevant Underlying, and you may suffer a loss accordingly.

Leveraging

Borrowing to fund the purchase of the Securities (leveraging) can have a significant negative impact on the value of and return on the investment. If you consider leveraging the Securities, you should obtain further detailed information as to the applicable risks from the leverage provider.

Credit ratings may not reflect all risks of an investment in Securities

One or more independent credit rating agencies may assign credit ratings to securities issued under the Programme, including any Securities. The credit rating agencies may have different rating methodologies, criteria, models and requirements from one another. The ratings may not reflect the potential impact of all risks related to structure, market and other factors that may affect the value of the Securities. A credit rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be reduced, withdrawn or qualified by the rating agency at any time. If the ratings on any Securities are reduced, withdrawn or qualified, it could adversely affect the liquidity or the market value of such Securities.

Additionally, the global landscape of financial sector regulation itself is undergoing significant change. In the U.S., the Dodd-Frank Act, among other things, expands regulatory oversight of Citigroup Inc. (and its subsidiaries) and credit rating agencies. It is not clear how this expanded regulatory oversight will impact the ratings on the Securities or the rating of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor.

In general, European (excluding United Kingdom) regulated investors are restricted under the EU CRA Regulation from using credit ratings for regulatory purposes, unless such ratings are issued by a credit rating agency established in the EU and registered under the EU CRA Regulation (and such registration has not been withdrawn or suspended, subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). Such general restriction will also apply in the case of credit ratings issued by non-EU credit rating agencies, unless the relevant credit ratings are endorsed by an EU-registered credit rating agency or the relevant non-EU rating agency is certified in accordance with the EU CRA Regulation (and such endorsement action or certification, as the case may be, has not been withdrawn or suspended, subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). If the status of the rating agency rating the Securities changes, European (excluding United Kingdom) regulated investors may no longer be able to use the rating for regulatory purposes and the Securities may have a different regulatory treatment. This may result in European (excluding United Kingdom) regulated investors selling the Securities which may impact the value of the Securities and any secondary market. The list of registered and certified rating agencies published by ESMA on its website in accordance with the EU CRA Regulation is not conclusive evidence of the status of the relevant rating agency included in such list, as there may be delays between certain supervisory measures being taken against a relevant rating agency and the publication of the updated ESMA list.

In general, United Kingdom regulated investors are restricted under the UK CRA Regulation from using credit ratings for regulatory purposes, unless such ratings are issued by a credit rating agency established in the UK and registered under the UK CRA Regulation (and such registration has not been withdrawn or suspended, subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). Such general restriction will also apply in the case of credit ratings issued by non-UK credit rating agencies, unless the relevant credit ratings are endorsed by a UK-registered credit rating agency or the relevant non-UK rating agency is certified in accordance with the UK CRA Regulation (and such endorsement action or certification, as the case may be, has not been withdrawn or suspended, subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). If the status of the rating agency rating the Securities changes, United Kingdom regulated investors may no longer be able to use the rating for regulatory purposes and the Securities may have a different regulatory treatment. This may result in United Kingdom regulated investors selling the Securities which may impact the value of the Securities and any secondary market. The list of registered and certified rating agencies published by the FCA on its website in accordance with the UK CRA Regulation is not conclusive evidence of the status of the relevant rating agency included in such list, as there may be delays between certain supervisory measures being taken against a relevant rating agency and the publication of the updated FCA list.

Information relating to the current ratings of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI and CGML is available at www.citigroup.com.

Certain factors affecting the value and trading price of Securities

The amounts due and/or value of any assets to be delivered in respect of the Securities at any time prior to the relevant maturity date is typically expected to be less than the trading price of such Securities at that time. The difference between the trading price and such amounts due and/or value of any assets to be delivered, as the case may be, will reflect, among other things, the "time value" of the Securities. The "time value" of the Securities will depend partly upon the length of the period remaining to maturity and expectations concerning the value of the Underlying(s).

Securities pose some additional risks with regard to interim value. The interim value of Securities varies as the price or level of the Underlying(s) varies, as well as due to a number of other interrelated factors, including (i) the trading price of the relevant Securities, (ii) the value and volatility of the Underlying(s), (iii) the remaining tenor, (iv) in the case of Cash Settled Securities, the probable range of any Redemption Amounts, (v) any change(s) in interim interest rates and dividend yields if applicable, (vi) any change(s) in currency exchange rates, (vii) the depth of the market or liquidity of the Underlying(s) and (viii) any related transaction costs.

Any sale of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption may be at a substantial discount from the original purchase price and you may lose some or all of your investment.

Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks

The fallback provisions described in the relevant Hierarchy Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks apply as follows:

Reference Rates:

- If a Reference Rate Event occurs and if the applicable Issue Terms specify any Reference Rate to be applicable in respect of the Securities, Valuation and Settlement Condition 7 (the Reference Rate Event Provisions) shall apply.
- A Reference Rate Event occurs with respect to a Reference Rate (which means any interest rate howsoever described in the Conditions and as amended from time to time pursuant to the provisions of the Reference Rate Event Provisions) where the Relevant Agent determines that (i) the Reference Rate has been or will be materially changed, has ceased or will cease to be provided permanently or indefinitely and there is no successor administrator or provider that will continue to provide the Reference Rate, or a regulator or other official sector entity has prohibited or will prohibit the use of or it is otherwise not permitted to use such Reference Rate in respect of the Securities; (ii) any authorisation or similar in respect of the Reference Rate or the administrator or sponsor of the Reference Rate has not been, or will not be, obtained or has been, or will be, refused or similar and as a result the Issuer or any other entity is not or will not be permitted under applicable law or regulation to use the relevant Reference Rate to perform its or their obligations under the Securities; (iii) unless the applicable Issue Terms specify that "Reference Rate Event (Limb (iii))" does not apply, it is not commercially reasonable to continue use of the Reference Rate due to licensing restrictions or changes in licensing costs; (iv) the administrator or sponsor of the relevant Reference Rate, any national, regional or other supervisory or regulatory authority which is responsible for either (a) supervising the administrator or sponsor of the Reference Rate or (b) regulating the Reference Rate, the central bank for the currency of the Reference Rate or other official body with applicable responsibility announcing that the Reference Rate is no longer, or as of a specified future date will no longer be, representative of any underlying market and economic reality that such Reference Rate is intended to measure and that representativeness will not be restored; or (v) the relevant Reference Rate is the subject of any market-wide development in the over-the-counter derivatives market (which may be in the form of a protocol, publication of standard terms or otherwise by ISDA) pursuant to which such Reference Rate is or will be replaced with a replacement rate with respect to over-the-counter derivatives transactions which reference such Reference Rate.
- The Relevant Agent will seek to determine a replacement Reference Rate which must be one of the following:

- a) where applicable, if a replacement Reference Rate can be determined by interpolating from other tenors of the relevant Reference Rate, such interpolated Reference Rate, together with an adjustment; or
 - b) a pre-nominated replacement Reference Rate, together with an adjustment; or
 - c) an index, benchmark, other price source or rate or fall-back rate or methodology for calculating an index, benchmark, other price source, rate or fall-back rate which is recognised or acknowledged as being an industry standard replacement for over-the-counter derivative transactions which reference such Reference Rate, together with an adjustment; or
 - d) an index, benchmark or other price source that the Relevant Agent determines to be a commercially reasonable alternative for the Reference Rate, together with an adjustment.
- In the alternative, the Relevant Agent may determine that no replacement Reference Rate is required or may adjust the term of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Reference Rate Event. Where applicable, if no such determination and/or adjustments are made, and if the Relevant Agent determines that it is not possible or commercially reasonable to identify a replacement Reference Rate or calculate the relevant adjustment, the Issuer may redeem the Securities early.
 - The Relevant Agent has powers to make amendments to the terms of the Securities as it considers are necessary and/or appropriate to account for the effect of the replacement Reference Rate, and to determine the level of the Reference Rate to apply in respect of the Securities on an interim basis. For related risks see "Interest on Securities linked to a Reference Rate will be calculated using a Replacement Reference Rate selected by the Relevant Agent if a Reference Rate Event occurs".

Benchmarks:

- If an Administrator/Benchmark Event occurs with respect to the relevant rate, PROVIDED THAT the Reference Rate Event Provisions do not apply to the relevant event or circumstance, Valuation and Settlement Condition 3 (the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions) shall apply.
- An Administrator/Benchmark Event occurs with respect to a Benchmark (which means any figure or rate and where any amount payable or deliverable under the Securities, or the value of the Securities, is determined by reference in whole or in part to such figure or rate) where the Relevant Agent determines that (i) a Benchmark is materially changed, cancelled or its use is prohibited by a regulator or other official sector entity in respect of the Securities; (ii) any authorisation or similar in respect of a relevant Benchmark or the administrator or sponsor of a relevant Benchmark has not been, or will not be, obtained or has been, or will be, rejected or similar with the effect that the Issuer or any other entity is not, or will not be, permitted under any applicable law or regulation to use the relevant Benchmark to perform its or their respective obligations under the Securities; (iii) unless the applicable Issue Terms specify that "Administrator/Benchmark Event (Limb (3))" does not apply, it is not commercially reasonable to continue use of the Benchmark due to licensing restrictions or changes in licence costs; or (iv) a relevant supervisor and/or sponsor officially announces the benchmark is no longer representative, or as of a specified future date will no longer be capable of being representative, of any relevant underlying market(s) or economic reality that such Benchmark is intended to measure.
- The Relevant Agent may make adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of the relevant event or circumstance, including, without limitation, the selection of a successor benchmark. Alternatively and if applicable, the Issuer may redeem the Securities early. For related risks see "Risks relating to the occurrence of an Administrator/Benchmark Event" above.

Rate as an Underlying:

- If an event or circumstance occurs with respect to a Rate which is an Underlying and if the applicable Issue Terms specify a Rate as an Underlying, PROVIDED THAT neither the Reference Rate Event Provisions nor the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions apply to the relevant rate as a result of such relevant event or circumstance, the provisions of Underlying Schedule 13 relating to the determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on any Scheduled Trading Day in the event of the occurrence of any Disrupted Day and the provisions relating to the consequences of any such Disrupted Day set out in the Conditions shall apply. For related risks, see "Risks relating to the discontinuance or unavailability of a Rate".

Screen Rate Determination:

- If a floating rate cannot be determined and if the applicable Issue Terms specify Screen Rate Determination to be applicable, PROVIDED THAT none of the Reference Rate Event Provisions, the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions and the Rate Conditions apply to the relevant floating rate as a result of such relevant event or circumstance, the relevant provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(a) or Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(b) (as the case may be) shall apply as described below.
- Where Screen Rate Determination is applicable, if the Page is not available or if no offered quotation or fewer than three offered quotations appear or no rate is provided or published by the relevant administrator or a relevant authorised distributor or a component of the relevant rate is not provided or published (as applicable), in each case as at the Specified Time, or by 10.30 a.m. Sydney time in the case of BBSW, the Relevant Agent will determine the Screen Rate in good faith and a commercially reasonable manner having regard to such source as it deems appropriate and any alternative benchmark then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market). Such rate may be (without limitation) a rate published by another authorised distributor, a rate formally recommended by the administrator of the relevant rate or the administrator or supervisor or competent authority responsible for supervising such administrator, the last published rate or the arithmetic mean of quotations provided by reference banks selected by the Relevant Agent.

ISDA Determination:

Where ISDA determination is selected as the method of calculation of a rate of interest, the relevant rate will be determined on the same basis as the rate that would be calculated under an 'over-the-counter' derivative transaction documented using the market standard interest rate definitions published by ISDA. These definitions provide a standard method of calculating interest and include certain 'fallback' provisions which may be used to determine an interest rate in the event of temporary or permanent discontinuation of the relevant rate. However, for the purposes of the Securities, the fallback provisions set out in the relevant ISDA interest rate definitions will only apply in certain circumstances as described below.

The ISDA interest rate definitions have been amended, supplemented and replaced from time to time and, as at the date of this document, there are two versions which are relevant for the purposes of the Securities: the 2006 ISDA Definitions published by ISDA as amended or supplemented from time to time (the 2006 Definitions) and the 2021 ISDA Interest Rate Derivatives Definitions published by ISDA as restated from time to time (together with any Matrices referred to therein, the 2021 Definitions). The applicable Issue Terms will indicate the version of the ISDA definitions which apply in respect of the Securities.

- Where ISDA Determination is applicable and the 2006 Definitions are specified in the applicable Issue Terms, if the Calculation Agent determines that the ISDA Rate cannot be determined, then notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions and prior to the application of any provisions relating to an index cessation event (howsoever described) or other permanent cessation fallback provisions in the 2006 Definitions (including where applicable such fallbacks set out in any supplement to the 2006 Definitions and, for the avoidance of doubt, any Discontinued Rates Maturities provisions), the ISDA Rate for the relevant period and/or date shall be such rate as is determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to alternative benchmarks then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market). It should be noted, however, that even though relevant fallback provisions may be included in accordance with the terms of the ISDA Determination itself or the above provision, if prior ranking fallback provisions described in Valuation and Settlement Condition 8 apply then these prior ranking fallback provisions will be applied first, meaning that any fallback provisions included as part of the ISDA Determination itself may not apply.

- Where ISDA Determination is applicable and the 2021 Definitions are specified in the applicable Issue Terms, any fallback provisions relating to temporary cessation will apply in respect of the Securities. However, prior to the application of any provisions relating to permanent cessation or an Administrator/Benchmark Event in the 2021 Definitions (including, for the avoidance of doubt any Discontinued Rates Maturities provisions), then, PROVIDED THAT none of the Reference Rate Event Provisions, the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions and the Rate Conditions apply to the relevant ISDA Rate as a result of such event or circumstance and notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, the ISDA Rate for the relevant period and/or date shall be such rate as is determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to alternative benchmarks then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market). See further "The unavailability, disruption or discontinuance of any interest rate to which the Securities are linked will result in the application of certain fallback provisions" above.
- For related risks, see "If a floating rate becomes unavailable it may be determined in the Calculation Agent's discretion or by alternative methods".

SONIA Floating Rate Determination or SOFR Floating Rate Determination:

- If a floating rate cannot be determined and SONIA Floating Rate Determination and/or SOFR Floating Rate Determination are specified in the applicable Issue Terms, provided that none of the Reference Rate Event Provisions, the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions and the Rate Conditions apply to the relevant floating rate as a result of such relevant event or circumstance, the relevant provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(c)(i), Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(c)(ii) or Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(d)(iii) (as the case may be) shall apply as described below.
- Where SONIA Floating Rate Determination is applicable (other than where Index Determination applies), if the Calculation Agent determines that the SONIA rate is not available on the relevant Page or has not otherwise been published by the relevant authorised distributors on a relevant day, the Calculation Agent will determine such SONIA rate as being:
 - a) (i) the Bank of England's Bank Rate (the Bank Rate) prevailing at close of business on such day in the relevant Observation Period; plus (ii) the mean of the spread of the SONIA rate to the Bank Rate over the previous five days on which a SONIA rate has been published, excluding the highest spread (or, if there is more than one highest spread, one only of those spreads) and the lowest spread (or, if there is more than one lowest spread, one only of those spreads) to the Bank Rate; or
 - b) if the Bank Rate is not published by the Bank of England at close of business on such day in the relevant Observation Period, the SONIA rate published on the relevant Page (or otherwise published by the relevant authorised distributors) for the first preceding London Banking Day on which the SONIA rate was published on such Page (or otherwise published by the relevant authorised distributors).

Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event the Bank of England publishes guidance as to (A) how the SONIA rate is to be determined or (B) any rate that is to replace the SONIA rate, the Calculation Agent shall, to the extent that it is reasonably practicable, follow such guidance in order to determine the SONIA rate for the purpose of the Securities for so long as the SONIA rate is not available or has not been published by the authorised distributors. For related risks, see "If a floating rate becomes unavailable it may be determined in the Calculation Agent's discretion or by alternative methods" above.

- If the relevant rate is unavailable, where SONIA Floating Rate Determination is applicable (and Index Determination applies) and/or SOFR Floating Rate Determination is applicable, the relevant SONIA Compounded Index value, or SOFR or SOFR Index value, as applicable, will be determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to such sources as it deems appropriate and any alternative benchmark then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).

Summary of certain Floating Rate Options for the purposes of "ISDA Determination" and applicable methodologies – Frequently Asked Questions

The questions and answers set out below highlight selected information to help prospective investors understand certain Floating Rate Options (as defined below) and applicable methodologies that may be relevant when considering the application of "ISDA Determination" to the determination of certain rates of interest. However, any decision to invest in Securities should only be made after careful consideration of the Base Prospectus and the relevant General Conditions in their entirety, particularly Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(b) (ISDA Determination), as completed by the applicable Final Terms or as completed, modified and/or supplemented by the applicable Pricing Supplement, as applicable. This section is not intended to be a substitute for, nor a summary of, such Conditions.

Unless otherwise defined in the Base Prospectus, capitalised terms in relation to the following questions and answers shall have the meaning given to them in the General Conditions.

Introduction

What is "ISDA Determination"?

"ISDA Determination" is a method of calculating the ISDA Rate (i.e. the interest rate prior to adjustments for any margin or participation rate) applicable to certain rates of interest. Where "ISDA Determination" applies, the ISDA Rate for an Interest Period or a relevant day will be determined on the same basis as the rate that would be calculated for an equivalent period under an over-the-counter derivative (OTC) transaction documented using the market standard interest rate definitions published by ISDA, i.e. the 2006 Definitions or the 2021 Definitions, as applicable. These definitions provide a standard method of calculating interest and include certain fallback provisions which may be used to determine an interest rate in the event of temporary or permanent discontinuation of the relevant rate.

When will "ISDA Determination" apply?

"ISDA Determination" is applicable if "ISDA Determination" is elected as the method for calculating the rate of interest payable on the Securities.

What are the 2006 Definitions?

The 2006 Definitions is a definitional booklet published by ISDA, as amended and/or supplemented from time to time.

What are the 2021 Definitions?

The 2021 Definitions, including any Matrices referred to therein, is a definitional booklet published by ISDA, as amended and/or updated from time to time.

Floating Rate Options

What is a Floating Rate Option?

The interest rate under an OTC transaction incorporating the ISDA Definitions would be determined by reference to the underlying benchmark, which is referred to as the "Floating Rate Option" in the ISDA Definitions. Such Floating Rate Option would be as specified by the parties to such OTC transaction. Alternatively, in the context of the 2021 Definitions only, the parties may refer to the "Floating Rate Options" as set out within the Floating Rate Matrix, as updated from time to time.

For the purposes of a rate of interest to which "ISDA Determination" applies, the Floating Rate Option will be specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

What is the Floating Rate Matrix?

The Floating Rate Matrix is only relevant for only such swap transactions which incorporate the 2021 Definitions. It specifies certain standard characteristics of each Floating Rate Option (including the "Category" that such Floating Rate Option belongs to and its "Style"). These characteristics would previously have been described using "long-hand" legal drafting in the 2006 Definitions.

What are the different types of Floating Rate Options?

There are different types of Floating Rate Options, including the following:

- (a) an Overnight Floating Rate Option (see further "What is an Overnight Floating Rate Option?" below); and
- (b) an Index Floating Rate Option (see further "What is an Index Floating Rate Option?" below).

What is an Overnight Floating Rate Option?

An Overnight Floating Rate Option is a Floating Rate Option that directly references an overnight rate. Where the 2021 Definitions apply, the relevant benchmark will be identified as an "Overnight Rate" in the Floating Rate Matrix.

What is an Index Floating Rate Option?

An Index Floating Rate Option is a Floating Rate Option that either:

- (a) describes the level of a calculated index and, where the 2021 Definitions apply, the relevant benchmark will be identified as an "Index" in the Floating Rate Matrix; or
- (b) describes the level of an index that represents the rate of return of a daily compound interest rate investment and, where the 2021 Definitions apply, the relevant benchmark will be identified as a "Compounded Index" in the Floating Rate Matrix.

What methodologies may be applied to Floating Rate Options?

Certain compounding or averaging methodologies may be applied to Floating Rate Options where market participants require the flexibility to more accurately hedge cash products which use different methodologies. Further, certain compounding methodologies may be applied to Floating Rate Options which are indices with a view to providing a standardised way of calculating compounded rates, especially for less sophisticated market participants who may not have access to detailed financial data. In any case, this is a commercial (rather than a legal) consideration and therefore it is not mandatory that such methodologies must always apply. In fact, for certain Floating Rate Options (such as term rates), the application of a methodology is not consistent with the nature of the Floating Rate Option itself and, therefore, such considerations would not be relevant for such Floating Rate Options.

Under the Conditions, it is possible to apply a compounding or an averaging methodology to an Overnight Floating Rate Option (see further, "Overnight Rate Compounding Methods" and "Overnight Rate Averaging Methods" below) or certain index methodologies to an Index Floating Rate Option (see further, "Index Methods" below). Where such methodologies apply, these will be specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Overnight Rate Compounding Methods

Which compounding methods may be applied to Overnight Floating Rate Options?

Any of the following compounding methods may be applied to Overnight Floating Rate Options provided that such method is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) "OIS Compounding" (see further, "What is OIS Compounding?" below);

- (b) "Compounding with Lookback" (see further, "What is "Compounding with Lookback"?" below);
- (c) "Compounding with Observation Period Shift" (see further, "What is Compounding with Observation Period Shift?" below); and
- (d) "Compounding with Lockout" (see further, "What is Compounding with Lockout?" below).

Where the 2021 Definitions apply, any other overnight rate compounding method may also be specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement.

What is OIS Compounding?

If "OIS Compounding" applies to an Overnight Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period:

- (a) the rate for each Business Day in such Interest Period will be determined on the basis of the rate observed for such day and the levels of the daily observed rates will be compounded to determine the ISDA Rate for the relevant Interest Period; and
- (b) the weighting to be given to the rate is determined by reference to each day in such Interest Period.

As a result of the above, the compounded rate can be fixed only on the last Business Day of such Interest Period.

It is further possible to cap and/or floor the daily observed rate by switching on the elections for "Daily Capped Rate" and/or "Daily Floored Rate", as applicable, in the applicable Issue Terms.

What is "Compounding with Lookback"?

If "Compounding with Lookback" applies to an Overnight Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period:

- (a) the rate for each Business Day in such Interest Period will be determined on the basis of the rate observed for a day falling a certain number of Business Days prior to such date (referred to as the "Lookback") and the levels of the daily observed rates will be compounded to determine the ISDA Rate for such Interest Period;
- (b) the length of the "Lookback" will either be specified in the applicable Issue Terms or set out in the relevant ISDA Definitions; and
- (c) the weighting to be given to the rate will depend on the relevant day in the Interest Period.

What is Compounding with Observation Period Shift?

If "Compounding with Observation Period Shift" applies to an Overnight Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period:

- (a) the rate for each Business Day in such Interest Period will be determined on the basis of the rate observed for the corresponding day during an "observation period" which shadows such Interest Period (i.e. both the start and end dates of such Interest Period will be shifted by a specified number of days referred to as the "Observation Period Shift") and the levels of the daily observed rates will be compounded to determine the ISDA Rate for the relevant Interest Period;
- (b) the length of the "Observation Period Shift" will either be specified in the applicable Issue Terms or set out in the relevant ISDA Definitions; and
- (c) the weighting to be given to the rate will be determined on the basis of the relevant day in such observation period.

There is flexibility to fix the rate in advance of the relevant Interest Period by switching on "Set-in-Advance" in the applicable Issue Terms, in which case, the rate will be determined by reference to a period (a "set-in-advance observation period") ending prior to the beginning of the relevant Interest Period.

What is Compounding with Lockout?

If "Compounding with Lockout" applies to an Overnight Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period:

- (a) the rate for each Business Day in such Interest Period will be determined as follows:
 - (i) for each day in the Interest Period up and to (and including) a specified date falling a number of Business Days before the end of the Interest Period (the Lockout Date), on the basis of the rate observed for such day; and
 - (ii) for each day in the Interest Period from (but excluding) the Lockout Date up to the end of the Interest Period (referred to as the Lockout Period), on the basis of the rate observed on the Lockout Date (i.e. a single rate will apply during the Lockout Period), and the levels of the daily observed rates will be compounded to determine the ISDA Rate for such Interest Period;

- (b) the length of the Lockout Period will either be specified in the applicable Issue Terms or set out in the relevant ISDA Definitions; and
- (c) the weighting to be given to the rate will be determined on the basis of the relevant day in such Interest Period, including during the Lockout Period. This essentially means that the designation of a Lockout Period will not impact the weighting given to the rate.

Overnight Rate Averaging Methods

Which averaging methods may be applied to Overnight Floating Rate Options?

Any of the following averaging methods may be applied to Overnight Floating Rate Options provided that such method is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) "OIS Averaging" (see further, "What is "Overnight Averaging"?"" below);
- (b) "Averaging with Lookback" (see further, "What is "Averaging with Lookback"?"" below);
- (c) "Averaging with Observation Period Shift" (see further, "What is "Averaging with Observation Period Shift"?"" below); and
- (d) "Averaging with Lockout" (see further, "What is "Averaging with Lockout"?"" below).

Where the 2021 Definitions apply, any other overnight rate averaging method may be specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement.

What is "Overnight Averaging"?

If "Overnight Averaging" applies to an Overnight Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period:

- (a) the rate for each Business Day in such Interest Period will be determined on the basis of the rate observed for such day and the levels of the daily observed rates will be averaged to determine the ISDA Rate for the relevant Interest Period; and
- (b) the weighting to be given to the rate is determined by reference to each day in such Interest Period.

As a result of the above, the averaged rate can be fixed only on the last Business Day of such Interest Period.

It is further possible to cap and/or floor the daily observed rate by switching on the elections for "Daily Capped Rate" and/or "Daily Floored Rate", as applicable, in the applicable Issue Terms.

What is "Averaging with Lookback"?

"Averaging with Lookback" is similar to "Compounding with Lookback" (see "What is "Compounding with Lookback"?"" above), except that the ISDA Rate is determined by averaging (rather than compounding) the levels of the daily observed rates for the relevant Interest Period.

What is "Averaging with Observation Period Shift"?

"Averaging with Observation Period Shift" is similar to "Compounding with Observation Period Shift" (see "What is Compounding with Observation Period Shift?"" above), except that the ISDA Rate is determined by averaging (rather than compounding) the levels of the daily observed rates for the relevant Interest Period.

What is "Averaging with Lockout"?

"Averaging with Lockout" is similar to "Compounding with Lockout" (see "What is Compounding with Lockout?"" above), except that the ISDA Rate is determined by averaging (rather than compounding) the levels of the daily observed rates for the relevant Interest Period.

Index Methods

Which methodologies may be applied to Index Floating Rate Options?

In respect of Floating Rate Securities to which the 2021 Definitions apply, it is possible to apply the "Standard Index Method" (see further, "What is the "Standard Index Method"?"" below) provided that such method is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms.

Further, any of the following methodologies may be applied to Index Floating Rate Options provided that such method is specified as the Index Method in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) "Compounded Index Method" (see further, "What is the "Compounded Index Method"?"" below); and
- (b) "Compounded Index Method with Observation Period Shift" (see further, "What is the "Compounded Index Method with Observation Period Shift"?"" below); and
- (c) "All-In Compounded Index Method" (see further, "What is the "All-In Compounded Index Method"?"").

Where the 2021 Definitions apply, any other methodology may also be specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement.

What is the "Standard Index Method"?

If the "Standard Index Method" applies to an Index Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period, the ISDA Rate for such Interest Period will be calculated as the rate of return of the relevant index over such Interest Period (essentially, by comparing the change in the index level between the start of such Interest Period and the end of such Interest Period).

What is the "Compounded Index Method"?

If the "Compounded Index Method" applies to an Index Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period, the ISDA Rate for such Interest Period will be the rate of return of the relevant compounded index over such relevant Interest Period (as above, by comparing the change in the compounded index level between the start of such Interest Period and the end of such Interest Period).

What is the "Compounded Index Method with Observation Period Shift"?

If the "Compounded Index Method with Observation Period Shift" applies to an Index Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period:

- (a) the ISDA Rate for such Interest Period will be the rate of return of the relevant compounded index over the "observation period" which shadows such Interest Period (i.e. both the start and end dates of such Interest Period will be shifted by a specified number of days referred to as the "Observation Shift Period"); and

- (b) the length of the "Observation Period Shift" will either be specified in the applicable Issue Terms or set out in the relevant ISDA Definitions.

There is flexibility to fix the rate in advance of the relevant Interest Period by switching on "Set-in-Advance" in the applicable Issue Terms, in which case, the rate will be determined by reference to a period (a "set-in-advance observation period") ending prior to the beginning of the relevant Interest Period.

What is the "All-In Compounded Index Method"?

If the "All-In Compounded Index Method" applies to a Compounded Index Floating Rate Option in respect of an Interest Period, the ISDA Rate for such Interest Period will be the rate of return of the relevant compounded index over such relevant Interest Period (as above, by comparing the change in the compounded index level between the start of such Interest Period and the end of such Interest Period).

Considerations relating to linear interpolation provisions

If "ISDA Definitions Linear Interpolation" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then the provisions relating to "Linear Interpolation" set out in the ISDA Definitions will apply to the relevant Floating Rate Option. The Floating Rate Option shall be determined at the level of the related swap or hedging arrangement by straight line linear interpolation by reference to two rates based on the relevant Floating Rate Option, one of which shall be determined as if the Designated Maturity were the period of time for which rates are available next shorter than the length of the relevant Interest Period and the other of which shall be determined as if the Designated Maturity were the period of time for which rates are available next longer than the length of the relevant Interest Period, PROVIDED THAT if there is no rate available for a period of time next shorter or, as the case may be, next longer, then the calculation agent for the relevant swap shall determine such rate at such time and by reference to such sources as it determines appropriate. In such circumstances, the linear interpolation provisions set out in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(j) of the Conditions shall not apply to the Securities.

Citigroup Inc., Its Management and Its Businesses Must Continually Review, Analyse and Successfully Adapt to Ongoing Regulatory and Legislative Uncertainties and Changes in the U.S. and Globally

Despite the adoption of final regulations and laws in numerous areas impacting Citigroup Inc. and its businesses over the past several years, Citigroup Inc., its management and its businesses continually face ongoing regulatory and legislative uncertainties and changes, both in the United States of America (U.S.) and globally. While the areas of ongoing regulatory and legislative uncertainties and changes facing Citigroup Inc. are too numerous to list completely, various examples include, but are not limited to (i) potential fiscal, monetary, regulatory, tax and other changes arising from the U.S. federal government and other governments, including as a result of the differing priorities of the current U.S. presidential administration, changes in regulatory leadership or focus and actions of Congress or in response to the pandemic; (ii) potential changes to various aspects of the regulatory capital framework and requirements applicable to Citigroup Inc.; and (iii) future legislative and regulatory requirements in the U.S. and globally related to climate change, including any new disclosure requirements. When referring to "regulatory", Citigroup Inc. is including both formal regulation and the views and expectations of its regulators in their supervisory roles.

U.S. and international regulatory and legislative initiatives have not always been undertaken or implemented on a coordinated basis, and areas of divergence have developed and continue to develop with respect to the scope, interpretation, timing, structure or approach, leading to inconsistent or even conflicting requirements, including within a single jurisdiction. For example, in May 2019, the European Commission adopted, as part of Capital Requirements Directive V (CRD V), a new requirement for major banking groups headquartered outside the EU (which would include Citigroup Inc.) to establish an intermediate EU holding company where the foreign bank has two or more institutions (broadly meaning banks, broker-dealers and similar financial firms) established in the EU. While in some respects the requirement mirrors an existing U.S. requirement for non-U.S. banking organisations to form U.S. intermediate holding companies, the implementation of the EU holding company requirement could lead to additional complexity with respect to Citigroup Inc.'s resolution planning, capital and liquidity allocation and efficiency in various jurisdictions.

Moreover, ongoing regulatory and legislative uncertainties and changes make Citigroup Inc.'s and its management's long-term business, balance sheet and strategic budget planning difficult, subject to change and potentially more costly. U.S. and other regulators globally have implemented and continue to discuss various changes to certain regulatory requirements, which would require ongoing assessment by management as to the impact to Citigroup Inc., its businesses and business planning. For example, while the Basel III post-crisis regulatory reforms and revised market risk framework have been finalised at the international level, there remain significant uncertainties with respect to the integration of these revisions into the U.S. regulatory capital framework. Business planning is required to be based on possible or proposed rules or outcomes, which can change dramatically upon finalisation, or upon implementation or interpretive guidance from numerous regulatory bodies worldwide, and such guidance can change.

Regulatory and legislative changes have also significantly increased Citigroup Inc.'s compliance risks and costs and can adversely affect Citigroup Inc.'s businesses, results of operations and financial condition.

Green Bonds

The Issue Terms relating to any issuance of specific Securities may provide that it will be the relevant Issuer's intention to apply an amount equal to the net proceeds of such Securities to fund, in whole or in part, the financing or refinancing of "Eligible Green Assets", which refers to loans and/or investments made by entities within the Group for assets or projects that meet the Green Bond Eligibility Criteria (as specified in the Green Bond Framework) and do not meet any of the Exclusionary Criteria (as specified in the Green Bond Framework) (Green Bonds). You should make your own independent decision to invest in Green Bonds and as to whether an investment in such Securities is appropriate or proper for you based upon your own judgement, circumstances and investment criteria or guidelines and upon advice from such advisers as you may deem necessary.

Green Bond Framework

The Group has developed a Green Bond Framework (the Green Bond Framework) for securities issuances in order to finance or refinance projects that contribute to climate change mitigation as well as projects that promote sustainable infrastructure. The below description is based on the Green Bond Framework as at the date of this Base Prospectus. However, the Green Bond Framework may be amended or updated from time to time and you should therefore refer to the most recent version of the Green Bond Framework which will be available on the Group's website (<https://www.citigroup.com/global/investors/fixed-income-investor-relations/sustainable-debt-securities>) and the applicable Issue Terms for information on the use of proceeds of the relevant Securities.

As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the Green Bond Framework has received a Second Party Opinion by an independent consultant as detailed therein. Any such opinion is only current as of the date that opinion was issued and is not, nor should be deemed to be, a recommendation by the relevant Issuer, the Dealers or any other person to buy, sell or hold Green Bonds. You must determine for yourself the relevance of any such opinion and/or the information contained therein for the purpose of any investment in Green Bonds. As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the providers of such opinions are not subject to any specific oversight or regulatory or other regime. For the avoidance of doubt, the Green Bond Framework and any such opinion are not, nor shall be deemed to be, incorporated in and/or form part of this Base Prospectus.

Eligible Green Projects

The Green Bond Eligibility Criteria specified in the Green Bond Framework seek to support projects in one or more of the following areas (or any other eligible area described in the applicable Issue Terms) (Eligible Green Projects):

- Renewable energy: proceeds may be allocated towards the acquisition, development, operation and maintenance of new and ongoing renewable energy activities, including related costs.

- Energy efficiency: proceeds may be allocated towards the financing or refinancing of (i) warehouse facilities for residential energy efficiency loans, and (ii) consumer finance companies that provide residential energy efficiency loans for projects or assets that reduce energy consumption or mitigate greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions.
- Sustainable transportation: proceeds may be allocated towards building or operating mass transit and creating or constructing infrastructure to support mass transit.
- Water quality and conservation: proceeds may be allocated towards projects that improve water quality, efficiency and conservation.
- Green building: proceeds may be allocated towards financing of existing or new construction / renovation of residential and commercial buildings that earn certain efficiency and environmental certifications.

The Group has developed a list of exclusionary criteria (Exclusionary Criteria) for the use of proceeds from the sale of Green Bonds (for example, certain large-scale hydropower plants, nuclear power plants and fossil fuel projects) and commits itself to not knowingly being involved in financing any such projects or activities through the proceeds of any such sale.

Green Bond Asset Portfolio and Management of Proceeds

Under the Green Bond Framework, the Group will maintain a single pool for Eligible Green Assets (the Green Bond Asset Portfolio). If the investment by any entity within the Group in any asset in the Green Bond Asset Portfolio is terminated or if an asset no longer meets the Green Bond Eligibility Criteria, the asset will be reviewed and removed from the Green Bond Asset Portfolio.

The Group's Green Bond Asset Working Group (the GBA Working Group) is responsible for overseeing and reviewing the Green Bond Asset Portfolio and the aggregate amount of Green Bonds issued by entities within the Group with the aim of ensuring that the aggregate amount in the Green Bond Asset Portfolio is equal to or greater than the aggregate amount raised by such Green Bonds. For this purpose, the aggregate size and maturity of the Green Bond Asset Portfolio is monitored quarterly. If for any reason the aggregate amount in the Green Bond Asset Portfolio is less than the aggregate amount of Green Bonds issued, the unallocated amount will be held in cash, cash equivalents and/or other liquid marketable instruments (including U.S. Treasury securities) in the liquidity portfolio of the Group until the amount can be allocated towards the Green Bond Asset Portfolio.

Reporting

The Group publishes a report (the Green and Social Bond Report) on its website (<https://www.citigroup.com/global/investors/fixed-income-investor-relations/sustainable-debt-securities>) annually. The Green and Social Bond Report will cover all Green Bonds issued during the reporting period specified therein and any material changes to the Green Bond Asset Portfolio. You should note that no other or separate notification will be provided to investors in particular Green Bonds as to the Green Bond Asset Portfolio.

The Green and Social Bond Report will give details of (i) the total amount of assets in the Green Bond Asset Portfolio and the total outstanding amount raised by Green Bond issuances; (ii) the eligible assets within the Green Bond Asset Portfolio along with the Issuer's funded financial commitments to the assets; (iii) the total amount of unallocated proceeds, if any; and (iv) environmental impacts of the Green Bond Asset Portfolio to the extent data is available and relevant for reporting. Any such report is only current as of the date that report was issued and is not, nor should be deemed to be, a recommendation by the Issuer, the Dealers or any other person to buy, sell or hold Green Bonds.

Under the Green Bond Framework, the Group has also engaged external independent accountants to review management's assertion that the assets included in the Green Bond Asset Portfolio meet the Green Bond Eligibility Criteria and are not invested in assets as defined by the Exclusionary Criteria and that the aggregate amount in the Green Bond Asset Portfolio is equal to or greater than the aggregate amount raised by Green Bonds (or, to the extent the total amount of the outstanding bonds is less than the aggregate amount in Green Bond Asset Portfolio, that the difference is held in the manner described in the Green Bond Framework). Any review report is only current as of the date that report was issued and you must determine for yourself the relevance of any such report and/or the information contained therein for the purposes of your own investment considerations or expectations.

For the avoidance of doubt, neither the Green and Social Bond Report nor the report of any third party is, or shall be deemed to be, incorporated in and/or form part of this Base Prospectus.

Social Bonds issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI

The Issue Terms relating to any issuance of specific Securities may provide that it will be the relevant Issuer's intention to apply an amount equal to the net proceeds of such Securities to fund the financing or refinancing, in whole or in part, of a portion of Citigroup's portfolio of affordable housing assets (Social Bonds). You should make your own independent decision to invest in Social Bonds and as to whether an investment in such Securities is appropriate or proper for you based upon your own judgement, circumstances and investment criteria or guidelines and upon advice from such advisers as you may deem necessary.

Social Bonds shall not be issued by CGMFL.

Social Bond Framework

The Group has developed a Social Bond Framework for Affordable Housing (the Social Bond Framework) for securities issuances in order to finance or refinance, in whole or in part, a portion of Citigroup's portfolio of affordable housing assets. The below description is based on the Social Bond Framework as at the date of this Base Prospectus. However, the Social Bond Framework may be amended or updated from time to time and you should therefore refer to the most recent version of the Social Bond Framework which will be available on the Group's website (<https://www.citigroup.com/global/investors/fixed-income-investor-relations/sustainable-debt-securities>) and the applicable Issue Terms for information on the use of proceeds of the relevant Securities.

As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the Social Bond Framework has received a Second Party Opinion by an independent consultant as detailed therein. Any such opinion is only current as of the date that opinion was issued and is not, nor should be deemed to be, a recommendation by the relevant Issuer, the Dealers or any other person to buy, sell or hold Social Bonds. You must determine for yourself the relevance of any such opinion and/or the information contained therein for the purpose of any investment in Social Bonds. As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the providers of such opinions are not subject to any specific oversight or regulatory or other regime. For the avoidance of doubt, the Social Bond Framework and any such opinion are not, nor shall be deemed to be, incorporated in and/or form part of this Base Prospectus.

Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio and Management of Proceeds

Under the Social Bond Framework, an amount equivalent to the net proceeds of Social Bonds is allocated to finance or refinance a portion of the Group's portfolio of affordable housing assets (the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio), which consist of selected eligible financing instruments which are used to finance the construction, rehabilitation and/or the preservation of quality affordable housing for low-moderate income populations in the United States (the Social Bond Eligibility Criteria). If the investment in any asset in the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio is terminated or if an asset no longer meets the Social Bond Eligibility Criteria, the asset will be removed from the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio.

The Group's Affordable Housing Bond Asset Working Group (the AFBA Working Group) is responsible for oversight of the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio and monitoring the aggregate amount of Social Bonds issued by entities within the Group with the aim of ensuring that the aggregate amount in the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio is equal to or greater than the aggregate amount raised by such Social Bonds. For this purpose, the continued eligibility and aggregate size of the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio is monitored quarterly. If for any reason the aggregate amount in the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio is less than the outstanding amount of Social Bonds issued, the unallocated amount will be held in cash, cash equivalents and/or other liquid marketable instruments (including U.S. Treasury securities) until the amount can be allocated towards the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio.

The Group has developed a list of exclusionary criteria (Exclusionary Criteria) for the proceeds of the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio (for example, certain loans or investments for projects outside the United States, mortgage-backed securities and other derivatives, etc., all as further described in the Social Bond Framework) and commits itself to not knowingly be involved in financing any such projects or activities through the proceeds of any such sale.

Reporting

The Group publishes a report (the Green and Social Bond Report) on its website (<https://www.citigroup.com/global/investors/fixed-income-investor-relations/sustainable-debt-securities>) annually. The Green and Social Bond Report will cover all Social Bonds issued during the reporting period specified therein and any material changes in the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio. You should note that no other or separate notification will be provided to investors in particular Social Bonds as to the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio.

The Green and Social Bond Report will provide information on (i) the total outstanding par amount of Social Bonds issued during the reporting period; (ii) the total outstanding amount of funded financial assets that comprise the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio; (iii) the total amount of unallocated proceeds, if any, assigned to cash, cash equivalent and/or other liquid marketable instruments; and (iv) social impacts of the Social Bonds to the extent data is available and relevant for reporting. Any such report is only current as of the date that report was issued and is not, nor should be deemed to be, a recommendation by the Issuer, the Dealers or any other person to buy, sell or hold Social Bonds.

Under the Social Bond Framework, the Group will also engage external independent accountants to review management's assertion that the assets included in the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio meet the Social Bond Eligibility Criteria and are not invested in assets as defined by the Exclusionary Criteria and that the aggregate amount in the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio is equal to or greater than the aggregate amount raised by the issuance of Social Bonds (or, to the extent the total amount of the outstanding Social Bonds is less than the aggregate amount in the Affordable Housing Bond Asset Portfolio, that the difference is held in the manner described in the Social Bond Framework). Any review report is only current as of the date that report was issued and you must determine for yourself the relevance of any such report and/or the information contained therein for the purposes of your own investment considerations or expectations.

For the avoidance of doubt, neither the Green and Social Bond Report nor the report of any third party is, or shall be deemed to be, incorporated in and/or form part of this Base Prospectus.

Social Finance Bonds issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI

The Issue Terms relating to any issuance of specific Securities may provide that it will be the relevant Issuer's intention to allocate an amount equal to the net proceeds of such Securities to finance or refinance a portion of certain of the Group's portfolio of assets (such assets, the Social Finance Assets and any such portfolio, the Social Finance Assets Portfolio) that meet Citigroup's Social Finance Asset Portfolio Eligibility Criteria (as specified in the Social Finance Framework) and do not meet any of the Exclusionary Criteria (as specified in the Social Finance Framework). You should make your own independent decision to invest in the Social Finance Bonds and as to whether an investment in such Securities is appropriate or proper for you based upon your own judgement, circumstances and investment criteria or guidelines and upon advice from such advisers as you may deem necessary.

Social Finance Bonds shall not be issued by CGMFL.

Social Finance Framework

The Group has developed the Citigroup Social Finance Framework (the Social Finance Framework) for securities issuances in order to support lending to social inclusive businesses across Citigroup's emerging market footprint. The below description is based on the Social Finance Framework as at the date of this Base Prospectus. However, the Social Finance Framework may be amended or updated from time to time and you should therefore refer to the most recent version of the Social Finance Framework which will be available on the Group's website (<https://www.citigroup.com/global/investors/fixed-income-investor-relations/sustainable-debt-securities>) and the applicable Issue Terms for information on the use of proceeds of the relevant Securities.

As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the Social Finance Framework has received a "second party opinion" by an independent consultant as detailed therein. Any such opinion is only current as of the date that opinion was issued and is not, nor should be deemed to be, a recommendation by the relevant Issuer, the Dealers or any other person to buy, sell or hold Social Finance Bonds. You must determine for yourself the relevance of any such opinion and/or the information contained therein for the purpose of any investment in Social Finance Bonds. As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the providers of such opinions are not subject to any specific oversight or regulatory or other regime. For the avoidance of doubt, the Social Finance Framework and any such opinion are not, nor shall be deemed to be, incorporated in and/or form part of this Base Prospectus.

Social Finance Assets

The Social Finance Assets must meet the Social Finance Asset Portfolio Eligibility Criteria by falling into one of the categories outlined below:

- (1) Access to essential services: financing towards expanding access to financial services to unbanked and underserved individuals and small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs);
- (2) Affordable housing: financing for companies and financial service providers enabling access to housing and housing improvements for underserved purchasers and home owners;
- (3) Affordable basic infrastructure: financing for companies that expand availability of water, sanitation, or clean energy for off-grid communities in emerging markets;
- (4) Access to essential services (healthcare): financing for companies that expand access to inclusive healthcare, seek to ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for underserved individuals lacking access to healthcare and in emerging markets;
- (5) Access to essential services (education): financing for companies and organisations that deliver and promote inclusive lifelong learning opportunities for all, including underserved individuals lacking access to education and in emerging markets; and
- (6) Access to essential services (smallholder farmer finance): financing for social enterprises that deliver products and services to smallholder farmers.

The Group has developed a list of exclusionary criteria for the use of the proceeds from Social Finance Bonds (the Exclusionary Criteria) (for example, certain loans or investments (i) for projects in high income economies, (ii) in institutions not meeting employment regulations, (iii) supporting fossil fuel energy generation, (iv) which may result in economic loss to the Group, (v) in activities which are incompatible with the Social Finance Framework or the Group's social finance criteria or which generate significant adverse social impacts, (vi) which have matured or (vii) in "prohibited activities" as defined in the Social Finance Framework) and commits itself to not intentionally including any of such projects or activities in the Social Finance Asset Portfolio.

Eligible Social Finance Asset Selection and Evaluation Process

The Group's specialist Social Finance team will review assets to check they meet the Social Finance Asset Portfolio Eligibility Criteria and will identify a unique Social Finance Asset Portfolio for the aggregate principal amount of securities issued during a given reporting period that are intended to be used for Social Finance Assets (Social Finance Bonds). Once screened, Social Finance Assets will be added to the relevant Social Finance Asset Portfolio. The selection process for the Social Finance Assets takes into account whether the potential eligible asset satisfies the criteria for inclusion in the Social Finance Assets Portfolio. Additionally, the selection of Social Finance Assets is also governed by risk approval guidelines and credit monitoring standards in each relevant jurisdiction. If the Group's investment in any asset in any Social Finance Asset Portfolio is terminated or if an asset no longer meets the Social Finance Asset Portfolio Eligibility Criteria or satisfies any of the Exclusionary Criteria, the Social Finance team will remove such asset from the relevant Social Finance Asset Portfolio and may include additional eligible assets in a Social Finance Asset Portfolio.

Management of Proceeds

The Group's Sustainable Bond Working Group (the SB Working Group) is responsible for oversight of the Social Finance Asset Portfolio, and its responsibilities include monitoring the total aggregate amount of Social Finance Bonds issued and tracking the Social Finance Asset Portfolio. The SB Working Group aims to ensure that the aggregate amount in each Social Finance Asset Portfolio is equal to or greater than the aggregate amount raised by Social Finance Bonds issued during the associated reporting period by reviewing the aggregate size and maturity of the Social Finance Asset Portfolio each quarter. If for any reason the aggregate amount in any Social Finance Asset Portfolio is less than the total outstanding amount of such Social Finance Bonds issued, the Group will assign the unallocated balance to cash, cash equivalents and/or other liquid marketable instruments (including U.S. Treasury securities) until the amount can be allocated towards the Social Finance Asset Portfolio.

Reporting

The Group publishes a report (the Green and Social Bond Report) on its website (<https://www.citigroup.com/global/investors/fixed-income-investor-relations/sustainable-debt-securities>) annually. The Green and Social Bond Report will cover allocation and impact reporting for all Social Finance Bonds issued during the reporting period specified therein and will provide updated information should a material change in the Social Finance Asset Portfolio occur. You should note that no other or separate notification will be provided to investors in particular Social Finance Bonds as to the Social Finance Asset Portfolio.

External Review

The Group will engage external independent accountants to review management's assertion that the assets included in the Social Finance Asset Portfolio meet the Social Finance Asset Portfolio Eligibility Criteria and are not invested in assets defined in the Exclusionary Criteria and that the aggregate amount in the Social Finance Asset Portfolio is equal to or greater than the aggregate amount raised by the relevant Social Finance Bonds (or, to the extent the total amount of the relevant outstanding Social Finance Bonds is greater than the aggregate amount in the Social Finance Asset Portfolio, that the difference is held in the manner described in the Social Finance Framework). Any review report is only current as of the date that report was issued and you must determine for yourself the relevance of any such report and/or the information contained therein for the purposes of your own investment considerations or expectations.

For the avoidance of doubt, neither the Green and Social Bond Report nor the report of any third party is, or shall be deemed to be, incorporated in and/or form part of this Base Prospectus and is not, nor should be deemed to be a recommendation by the Issuer or any Dealer to buy, sell or hold the Securities.

Securities or Underlying(s) (or, in the case of Preference Share Linked Securities, the Preference Share Underlying(s)) labelled or marketed as having "green", "sustainable", "social", "ESG", "inclusive" or similar objectives

Securities or the Underlying(s) of Securities (or, in the case of Preference Share Linked Securities, the Preference Share Underlying(s)) (e.g. a Security Index) may be described or marketed as having "green", "sustainable", "social", "ESG", "inclusive" or similar objectives.

Notwithstanding the use of such term(s) in the title and/or marketing materials of the Securities or in the description of the Underlying(s) (or, in the case of Preference Share Linked Securities, the Preference Share Underlying(s)), such Securities or Underlying(s) (or, in the case of Preference Share Linked Securities, the Preference Share Underlying(s)) (or the administrator(s) thereof):

- may not meet investors' objectives or expectations as regarding investments which are "green", "sustainable", "social", "ESG", "inclusive" or other similar label; and/or
- may not fulfil legislative or regulatory requirements or criteria as regarding investments which are "green", "sustainable", "social", "ESG", "inclusive" or other similar label (including as set out under the EU Benchmarks Regulation, Regulation (EU) 2020/852 on the establishment of a framework to facilitate sustainable investment (the so called EU Taxonomy Regulation), Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector) and Regulation (EU) 2023/2631 (on European Green Bonds and optional disclosures for bonds marketed as environmentally sustainable and sustainability-linked bonds) or either of those regulations as they form part of the domestic law of the UK).

There is currently no universally agreed framework (legal, regulatory, or any other) or market consensus on what constitutes a "green", "sustainable", "social", "ESG", "inclusive" or similar product or the precise attributes required for a particular product to be defined as such, and no assurance can be given that such a universally accepted framework or consensus will develop over time. While there have been regulatory efforts in some jurisdictions and regions (particularly within the European Economic Area and the UK) to define similar concepts, the legal and regulatory framework governing sustainable finance is still developing and there can be no assurance that these local regimes will be more widely adopted in global financial markets.

Accordingly, no assurance can be given to investors that any product will meet any or all of the investor's objectives or expectations regarding investments which are "green", "sustainable", "social", "ESG", "inclusive" or other similar label or that no environmental, social and/or other impacts will occur in the implementation of the product.

Payment of Issue Price

Save as provided in the Conditions (including any costs, taxes, duties and/or expenses relating to the purchase, exercise and/or redemption of the Securities), the terms of the Securities are such that, in absence of error or overpayment by the Issuer, no payment is expected from Securityholders other than the Issue Price.

SECTION E – INFORMATION RELATING TO THE ISSUERS, THE CGMHI GUARANTOR AND THE CGMFL GUARANTOR

SECTION E.1 – DESCRIPTION OF CITIGROUP INC.

Citigroup Inc. (Citi, the Company, or Citigroup) is a global diversified financial services holding company whose businesses provide consumers, corporations, governments and institutions with a broad, yet focussed, range of financial products and services. Citigroup Inc. has approximately 200 million customer accounts and does business in nearly 160 countries and jurisdictions. Citigroup Inc. is a bank holding company within the meaning of the U.S. Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 registered with, and subject to examination by, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (the Federal Reserve). Some of Citi's subsidiaries are subject to supervision and examination by their respective federal and state authorities. At 31 December 2022, Citigroup Inc. had approximately 240,000 full-time employees worldwide.

Citigroup Inc.'s objects and purpose is to "engage in any lawful act or activity for which corporations may be organised under the General Corporation Law of Delaware", as stated in Article THIRD of Citi's Restated Certificate of Incorporation. As of 30 September 2023, Citigroup was managed pursuant to three operating segments: Institutional Clients Group (ICG), Personal Banking and Wealth Management (PBWM) and Legacy Franchises. Activities not assigned to the operating segments are included in Corporate/Other. Its businesses conduct their activities across the North America, Latin America, Asia and Europe, Middle East and Africa regions. Citigroup's principal subsidiaries are Citibank, N.A., Citigroup Global Markets Inc. and Grupo Financiero Banamex, S.A. de C.V., each of which is a wholly owned, indirect subsidiary of Citigroup.

Planned Revision to Operating Model and Financial Reporting Structure of Citigroup Inc.

As part of Citigroup Inc.'s overall simplification, Citigroup Inc. previously disclosed on 13 September 2023 that as of the fourth quarter of 2023 it will be making changes to its operating model to simplify the company and further align its organizational structure with its business strategy. Citigroup Inc.'s new operating model includes the elimination of the ICG, PBWM and Legacy Franchises operating segments and will result in five new reportable operating segments—Services, Markets, Banking, Wealth and U.S. Personal Banking—and a new financial reporting structure, effective as of the end of the fourth quarter of 2023. Activities not assigned to the reportable operating segments will be included in a new All Other category, which will consist of Legacy Franchises and Corporate/Other.

Citi will also consolidate its regional structure from four to two regions, consisting of North America and a newly created international group. Citi expects to incur charges through the first half of 2024 as additional phases of its overall simplification initiatives are finalized and implemented. For additional information on expenses, see "Executive Summary—Expenses" in Citigroup Inc.'s Q3 Form 10-Q.

Citigroup Inc. is a holding company and services its obligations primarily by earnings from its operating subsidiaries. Citigroup Inc. may augment its capital through issuances of common stock, perpetual preferred stock and equity issued through awards under employee benefit plans, among other issuances. Citigroup Inc. and Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries that operate in the banking and securities businesses can only pay dividends if they are in compliance with the applicable regulatory requirements imposed on them by federal and state bank regulatory authorities and securities regulators in the United States. Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries may be party to credit agreements that also may restrict their ability to pay dividends. Citigroup Inc. currently believes that none of these regulatory or contractual restrictions on the ability of its subsidiaries to pay dividends will affect Citigroup Inc.'s ability to service its own debt. Citigroup Inc. must also maintain the required capital levels of a bank holding company, and must submit a capital plan, subjected to stress testing, to the Federal Reserve, to which the Federal Reserve does not object, before it may pay dividends on its stock.

A bank holding company is required by law to act as a source of financial and managerial strength for its subsidiary banks. As a result, the Federal Reserve may require Citigroup Inc. to commit resources to its subsidiary banks even if doing so is not otherwise in the interests of Citigroup Inc. or its shareholders or creditors, reducing the amount of funds available to meet its obligations.

The principal offices for Citigroup Inc. are located at 388 Greenwich Street, New York, NY 10013, and its telephone number is + 1 212 559-1000. The website of Citigroup Inc. is www.citigroup.com. Citi Resolution Plan (CSA, etc.) in relation to Securities issued by Citigroup Inc.

U.S. GSIBs are required to maintain minimum levels of total loss-absorbing capacity (TLAC) and eligible long term debt (LTD), each set by reference to the GSIB's consolidated risk-weighted assets (RWA) and total leverage exposure. The intended purpose of the requirements is to facilitate the orderly resolution of U.S. GSIBs under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code and Title II of the Dodd-Frank Act. For additional information, including Citigroup's TLAC and LTD amounts and ratios, see "Capital Resources—Current Regulatory Capital Standards" and "Managing Global Risk—Liquidity Risk—Total Loss-Absorbing Capacity (TLAC)" in Citigroup Inc.'s most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Citigroup Inc. is required under Title I of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 (Dodd-Frank Act) and the rules promulgated by the FDIC and Federal Reserve to periodically submit a plan for Citigroup Inc.'s rapid and orderly resolution under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code in the event of material financial distress or failure. On 22 November 2022, the Federal Reserve and FDIC issued feedback on the resolution plans filed on 1 July 2021 by the eight U.S. Global Systemically Important Banks (GSIBs), including Citigroup Inc. The Federal Reserve and FDIC identified one shortcoming, but no deficiencies, in Citigroup Inc.'s 2021 resolution plan regarding data integrity and data quality management issues. Based on regulatory changes effective 31 December 2019, Citigroup Inc. will alternate between submitting a full resolution plan and a targeted resolution plan on a biennial cycle. Citigroup Inc.'s 2023 resolution plan submission, which was filed on 1 July 2023, was a full resolution plan. For additional information on Citigroup Inc.'s resolution plan submissions, see "Managing Global Risk—Liquidity Risk—Resolution Plan" in Citigroup Inc.'s most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Under Citigroup Inc.'s preferred "single point of entry" resolution plan strategy, only Citigroup Inc., the parent holding company, would enter into bankruptcy, while Citigroup Inc.'s material legal entities (as defined in the public section of its 2023 resolution plan, which can be found on the Federal Reserve's and FDIC's websites) would remain operational and outside of any resolution or insolvency proceedings. Citigroup Inc. believes its resolution plan has been designed to minimise the risk of systemic impact to the U.S. and global financial systems, while maximising the value of the bankruptcy estate for the benefit of Citigroup Inc.'s creditors, including the holders of the Securities being offered by this Base Prospectus. In addition, in line with the Federal Reserve's final TLAC rule, Citigroup Inc. believes it has developed the resolution plan so that Citigroup Inc.'s shareholders and unsecured creditors – including the holders of the Securities being offered by this Base Prospectus – bear any losses resulting from Citigroup Inc.'s bankruptcy. Accordingly, any value realised by holders of the Securities being offered by this Base Prospectus may not be sufficient to repay the amounts owed to such debt holders in the event of a bankruptcy or other resolution proceeding of Citigroup Inc. Claims of holders of the Securities offered by this Base Prospectus and other debt securities of Citigroup Inc. would have a junior position to the claims of creditors of Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries and to the claims of priority (as determined by statute) and secured creditors of Citigroup Inc. Accordingly, in a resolution of Citigroup Inc. under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, holders of the Securities offered by this Base Prospectus and other debt securities of Citigroup Inc. would realise value only to the extent available to Citigroup Inc. as a shareholder of its subsidiaries, and only after any claims of priority and secured creditors of Citigroup Inc. have been fully repaid. If Citigroup Inc. were to enter into a resolution, none of Citigroup Inc., the Federal Reserve or the FDIC is obligated to follow Citigroup Inc.'s preferred resolution strategy under its resolution plan.

In response to feedback received from the Federal Reserve and FDIC, Citigroup Inc. took the following actions:

- (i) Citicorp LLC (Citicorp), an existing wholly-owned subsidiary of Citigroup Inc., was established as an intermediate holding company for certain of Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities;
- (ii) Citigroup Inc. executed an inter-affiliate agreement with Citicorp, Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities and certain other affiliated entities pursuant to which Citicorp is required to provide liquidity and capital support to Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities in the event Citigroup Inc. were to enter bankruptcy proceedings (the Citi Support Agreement);
- (iii) pursuant to the Citi Support Agreement:
 - Citigroup Inc. made an initial contribution of assets, including certain high-quality liquid assets and inter-affiliate loans (the Contributable Assets), to Citicorp, and Citicorp became the business as usual funding vehicle for Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities;
 - Citigroup Inc. will be obligated to continue to transfer Contributable Assets to Citicorp over time, subject to certain amounts retained by Citigroup Inc. to, among other things, meet Citigroup Inc.'s near-term cash needs;
 - in the event of a Citigroup Inc. bankruptcy, Citigroup Inc. will be required to contribute most of its remaining assets to Citicorp; and
- (iv) the obligations of both Citigroup Inc. and Citicorp under the Citi Support Agreement, as well as the Contributable Assets, are secured pursuant to a security agreement.

The Citi Support Agreement provides two mechanisms, besides Citicorp's issuing of dividends to Citigroup Inc., pursuant to which Citicorp will be required to transfer cash to Citigroup Inc. during business as usual so that Citigroup Inc. can fund its debt service as well as other operating needs: (i) one or more funding notes issued by Citicorp to Citigroup Inc.; and (ii) a committed line of credit under which Citicorp may make loans to Citigroup Inc..

In addition to Citigroup Inc.'s required resolution plan under Title I of the Dodd-Frank Act, Title II of the Dodd-Frank Act grants the FDIC the authority, under certain circumstances, to resolve systemically important financial institutions, including Citigroup Inc. This resolution authority is commonly referred to as the FDIC's "orderly liquidation authority". Under the FDIC's stated preferred "single point of entry" strategy for such resolution, the bank holding company (Citigroup Inc.) would be placed in receivership; the unsecured long-term debt and shareholders of the parent holding company would bear any losses; the FDIC would use its power to create a "bridge entity" for Citigroup Inc; transfer the systemically important and viable parts of its business, principally the stock of Citigroup Inc.'s main operating subsidiaries and any intercompany claims against such subsidiaries, to the bridge entity; and recapitalize the operating subsidiaries using assets of Citigroup Inc. that have been transferred to the bridge entity and exchange external debt claims against Citigroup Inc. for equity in the bridge entity. Under this Title II resolution strategy, the value of the stock of the bridge entity that would be redistributed to holders of the Securities offered by use of this Base Prospectus and other debt securities of Citigroup Inc. may not be sufficient to repay all or part of the principal amount and interest on the Securities and those other securities. Any of the Securities being offered by this Base Prospectus may be fully subordinated to interests held by the U.S. government in the event of a receivership, insolvency, liquidation or similar proceeding with respect to Citigroup Inc., including a proceeding under the "orderly liquidity authority" provisions of the Dodd-Frank Act. To date, the FDIC has not formally adopted a single point of entry resolution strategy and it is not obligated to follow such a strategy in a Title II resolution of Citigroup Inc.

Under the regulations of the Federal Reserve, a bank holding company is expected to act as a source of financial strength for its U.S. insured depository institutions. As a result of this regulatory policy, the Federal Reserve might require Citigroup Inc. to commit resources to its U.S. insured depository institutions when doing so is not otherwise in the interests of Citigroup Inc. or its shareholders or creditors.

Citi Resolution Plan (CSA, etc.) in relation to Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc.

Citigroup Inc. is required under Title I of the Dodd-Frank Act and the rules promulgated by the FDIC and Federal Reserve to periodically submit a plan for the Citigroup Inc.'s rapid and orderly resolution under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code in the event of material financial distress or failure. Under Citigroup Inc.'s preferred "single point of entry" resolution plan strategy, only Citigroup Inc., the parent holding company, would enter into bankruptcy, while Citigroup Inc.'s material legal entities, including CGMHI (as further defined in the public section of its 2023 resolution plan, which can be found on the Federal Reserve's and FDIC's websites) would remain operational and outside of any resolution or insolvency proceedings. Citigroup Inc. believes its resolution plan has been designed to minimise the risk of systemic impact to the U.S. and global financial systems, while maximising the value of the bankruptcy estate for the benefit of Citigroup Inc.'s creditors. - (i) Citicorp LLC (Citicorp), an existing wholly-owned subsidiary of Citigroup Inc., was established as an intermediate holding company for certain of Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities, including CGMHI;
- (ii) Citigroup Inc. executed an inter-affiliate agreement with Citicorp, Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities and certain other affiliated entities pursuant to which Citicorp is required to provide liquidity and capital support to Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities in the event Citigroup Inc. were to enter bankruptcy proceedings (the Citi Support Agreement); or more funding notes issued by Citicorp to Citigroup Inc.; and (ii) a committed line of credit under which Citicorp may make loans to Citigroup Inc..

Under the terms and conditions of the Securities, a Citigroup Inc. bankruptcy, insolvency or resolution proceeding will not constitute an event of default with respect to any series of Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. Moreover, it will not constitute an event of default with respect to any series of Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. if the guarantee of the Securities by Citigroup Inc. (as CGMHI Guarantor) ceases to be (or is claimed not to be) in full force and effect for any reason, including by Citigroup Inc.'s insolvency or resolution. Should the Citigroup Inc. guarantee no longer be in effect, Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. will become the sole obligor under its Securities, and there can be no assurance that it would be able to continue to meet its obligations under such Securities.

In the event that Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. also enters bankruptcy, at the time of Citigroup Inc.'s bankruptcy filing or at a later time, you, as a holder of Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. would be an unsecured creditor of Citigroup Inc. in respect of the Citigroup Inc. guarantee and, accordingly, you cannot be assured that the Citigroup Inc. guarantee would protect you against losses resulting from a default by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc.

Institutional Clients Group

Institutional Clients Group (ICG) includes Services, Markets and Banking. ICG provides corporate, institutional and public sector clients around the world with a full range of wholesale banking products and services, including fixed income and equity sales and trading, foreign exchange, prime brokerage, derivative services, equity and fixed income research, corporate lending, investment banking and advisory services, cash management, trade finance and securities services. ICG transacts with clients in both cash instruments and derivatives, including fixed income, foreign currency, equity and commodity products.

ICG's revenue is generated primarily from fees and spreads associated with these activities. ICG earns fee income for assisting clients with transactional services and clearing and providing brokerage and investment banking services and other such activities. Such fees are recognised at the point in time when Citigroup's performance under the terms of a contractual arrangement is completed, which is typically at the trade/execution date or closing of a transaction. Revenue generated from these activities is recorded in Commissions and fees and Investment banking. Revenue is also generated from assets under custody and administration, which is recognised as/when the associated promised service is satisfied, which normally occurs at the point in time the service is requested by the customer and provided by Citi. Revenue generated from these activities is primarily recorded in Fiduciary fees.

In addition, as a market maker, ICG facilitates transactions, including holding product inventory to meet client demand, and earns the differential between the price at which it buys and sells the products. These price differentials and the unrealised gains and losses on the inventory are recorded in Principal transactions (for additional information on Principal transactions revenue, see Note 2 to CGMHI's Consolidated Financial Statements included in the CGMHI 2022 Annual Report and Note 2 to CGMHI's Consolidated Financial Statements included in the CGMHI 2023 Half-Yearly Financial Report).

The amount and types of Markets revenues are impacted by a variety of interrelated factors, including market liquidity; changes in market variables such as interest rates, foreign exchange rates, equity prices, commodity prices and credit spreads, as well as their implied volatilities; investor confidence and other macroeconomic conditions. Assuming all other market conditions do not change, increases in client activity levels or bid/offer spreads generally result in increases in revenues. However, changes in market conditions can significantly impact client activity levels, bid/offer spreads and the fair value of product inventory. For example, a decrease in market liquidity may increase bid/offer spreads, decrease client activity levels and widen credit spreads on product inventory positions.

ICG's management of the Markets businesses involves daily monitoring and evaluation of the above factors at the trading desk as well as the country level.

In the Markets businesses, client revenues are those revenues directly attributable to client transactions at the time of inception, including commissions, interest or fees earned. Client revenues do not include the results of client facilitation activities (e.g. holding product inventory in anticipation of client demand) or the results of certain economic hedging activities.

For additional information on ICG's business activities, see "Institutional Clients Group" in the Citigroup Inc. 2022 Form 10-K.

ICG's international presence is supported by trading floors in approximately 80 countries and a proprietary network in 95 countries and jurisdictions.

At 30 September 2023, ICG had $1.7 trillion in assets and $782 billion in deposits. Securities services managed $23.0 trillion in assets under custody and administration at 30 September 2023, of which Citi provided both custody and administrative services to certain clients related to $1.8 trillion of such assets. Managed assets under trust were $4.1 trillion at 30 September 2023.

SECTION E.5 – FORM OF CGMFL ALL MONIES GUARANTEE

THIS DEED OF GUARANTEE is made on 11 May 2017 by Citigroup Global Markets Limited (the Guarantor) in favour of each Beneficiary (as defined below).

NOW THIS DEED WITNESSES as follows:

1. DEFINITIONS

As defined herein:

Beneficiary means any person who is owed any sum or amount which is due and payable by CGMFL under or in respect of any Liability;

CGMFL means Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A.;

Liabilities means all the liabilities of CGMFL of any kind and in any currency (whether present or future, actual or contingent and whether incurred alone or jointly with another) together with all the charges, commission, interest and expenses payable by CGMFL in connection with the relevant liability; and

Taxes includes all present and future income and other taxes, levies, duties, imposts, deductions charges, fees and withholdings, in each case as imposed or levied by or on behalf of the United Kingdom, together with interest thereon and penalties with respect thereto (if any).

Where the context so admits, the singular includes the plural and vice versa. Headings are for convenience of reference only.

2. DEED OF GUARANTEE

Subject as provided herein, the Guarantor irrevocably and unconditionally guarantees by way of deed poll to each Beneficiary that if, for any reason, CGMFL does not pay any sum payable by it to such Beneficiary under or in respect of any Liability including any premium or any other amounts of whatever nature or additional amounts which may become payable under the foregoing as and when the same shall become due and payable under any of the foregoing, the Guarantor will duly and promptly pay to such Beneficiary on the request of such Beneficiary the sum or the amount payable by CGMFL to or for such Beneficiary.

3. GUARANTOR AS PRINCIPAL OBLIGOR

Without affecting CGMFL's obligations, the Guarantor will be liable under this Deed of Guarantee as if it were the sole principal obligor and not merely a surety. Accordingly, it will not be discharged, nor will its liability be affected, by anything which would not discharge it or affect its liability if it were the sole principal obligor (including (a) any time, indulgence, waiver or consent at any time given to CGMFL or any other person, (b) any amendment to any Liability or to any security or other guarantee or indemnity, (c) the making or absence of any demand on CGMFL or any other person for payment, (d) the enforcement or absence of enforcement of any Liability or of any security or other guarantee or indemnity, (e) the release of any such security, guarantee or indemnity, (f) the dissolution, amalgamation, reconstruction or reorganisation of CGMFL or any other person, (g) the illegality, invalidity or unenforceability of or any defect in any provision of any Liability or any of CGMFL's obligations under or in respect of a Liability or (h) any other act, event or omission which but for this sub-Clause might operate to discharge, impair or otherwise affect the obligations expressed to be assumed by the Guarantor herein or any of the rights, powers or remedies conferred upon the Beneficiaries or any of them by this Deed of Guarantee or by law).

4. GUARANTOR'S OBLIGATIONS CONTINUING

The Guarantor's obligations under this Deed of Guarantee are irrevocable and are and will remain in full force and effect by way of continuing security in respect of any outstanding Liabilities. Furthermore, these obligations of the Guarantor are additional to, and not instead of, any security or other guarantee or indemnity at any time existing in favour of a Beneficiary, whether from the Guarantor or otherwise. The Guarantor irrevocably waives all notices and demands whatsoever.

5. REPAYMENT TO CGMFL

If any payment or amount received by a Beneficiary is, on the subsequent liquidation or insolvency of CGMFL, avoided under any laws relating to liquidation or insolvency, such payment will not be considered as having discharged or diminished the liability of the Guarantor and this Deed of Guarantee will continue to apply as if such payment or amount had at all times remained owing by CGMFL.

6. INDEMNITY

As a separate and alternative stipulation, the Guarantor unconditionally and irrevocably agrees that any sum amount expressed to be payable by CGMFL under or in respect of any Liability but which is for any reason (whether or not now known or becoming known to CGMFL, the Guarantor or any Beneficiary) not recoverable from the Guarantor on the basis of a guarantee will nevertheless be recoverable from it as if it were the sole principal debtor and will be paid by it to the Beneficiary on the request of such Beneficiary subject as provided herein. This indemnity constitutes a separate and independent obligation from the other obligations in this Deed of Guarantee, gives rise to a separate and independent cause of action and will apply irrespective of any indulgence granted by any Beneficiary.

7. STATUS OF DEED OF GUARANTEE

This Deed of Guarantee shall take effect as a deed poll for the benefit of each Beneficiary from time to time and for the time being, each of which shall be entitled severally to enforce this Deed of Guarantee against the Guarantor. The payment obligations of the Guarantor under this Deed of Guarantee constitute direct, unconditional, unsubordinated and unsecured obligations of the Guarantor and rank and will at all times at least rank pari passu with all other unsecured and unsubordinated outstanding obligations of the Guarantor, save for such obligations as may be preferred by provisions of law that are both mandatory and of general application.

8. SETTLEMENT CONDITIONAL

Any settlement or discharge between the Guarantor and the Beneficiaries or any of them shall be conditional upon no payment to the Beneficiaries or any of them by the Guarantor or any other person on the Guarantor's behalf being avoided or reduced by virtue of any laws relating to bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation or similar laws of general application for the time being in force and, in the event of any such payment being so avoided or reduced, the Beneficiaries shall be entitled to recover the amount by which such payment is so avoided or reduced from the Guarantor subsequently as if such settlement or discharge had not occurred PROVIDED THAT such recovery is not contrary to any law applicable thereto.

9. NO PRIOR ACTION REQUIRED

No Beneficiary shall be obliged before exercising any of the rights, powers or remedies conferred upon it by this Deed of Guarantee or by law:

- (a) to make any demand of CGMFL;
- (b) to take any action or obtain judgment in any court against CGMFL; or
- (c) to make or file any claim or proof in a winding-up or dissolution of CGMFL, and the Guarantor hereby expressly waives presentment, demand, protest and notice of dishonour in respect of each Liability.

10. POSTPONEMENT OF GUARANTOR'S RIGHTS

The Guarantor agrees that, so long as any sums and or amounts are or may be owed by CGMFL under or in respect of the Liabilities or CGMFL is under any other actual or contingent obligation thereunder or in respect thereof, the Guarantor will not exercise any right which the Guarantor may at any time have by reason of the performance by the Guarantor of its obligations hereunder:

- (a) to claim any contribution from any other guarantor of CGMFL's obligations under or in respect of the Liabilities;
- (b) to take the benefit (in whole or in part) of any security enjoyed in connection with the Liabilities by any Beneficiary; or
- (c) to be subrogated to the rights of any Beneficiary against CGMFL in respect of amounts paid by the Guarantor under this Deed of Guarantee.

11. TAXATION

All payments by the Guarantor under or in connection with this Deed of Guarantee shall be made free and clear of and without deduction for or on account of all Taxes. All Taxes in respect of this Deed of Guarantee and payments thereunder shall be for the account of and shall be paid by the Guarantor for its own account prior to the date on which penalties attach thereto. If the Guarantor is compelled by law to make payment subject to any Tax and a Beneficiary does not actually receive for its own benefit on the due date the full amount provided for hereunder, the Guarantor will pay all necessary additional amounts to ensure receipt by the Beneficiary of the full amount so provided for. The Guarantor will indemnify each Beneficiary in respect of all such Taxes.

12. POWER TO EXECUTE

The Guarantor hereby warrants, represents and covenants with each Beneficiary that it has all corporate power, and that it has taken all necessary corporate or other steps, to enable it to execute, deliver and perform this Deed of Guarantee, and that this Deed of Guarantee constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of the Guarantor in accordance with its terms.

13. NO SET-OFF OR COUNTERCLAIM

All payments to be made by the Guarantor under this Deed of Guarantee will be calculated and be made without (and free and clear of any deduction for) set-off or counterclaim.

14. PRODUCTION OF DEED OF GUARANTEE

The Guarantor hereby acknowledges the right of every Beneficiary to the production of, and the right of every Beneficiary to obtain (upon payment of a reasonable charge) a copy of, this Deed of Guarantee, and further acknowledges and covenants that the obligations binding upon it contained herein are owed to, and shall be for the account of, each and every Beneficiary, and that each Beneficiary shall be entitled severally to enforce the said obligations against the Guarantor.

15. STAMP DUTIES

The Guarantor shall pay all stamp, registration and other taxes and duties (including any interest and penalties thereon or in connection therewith) which are payable upon or in connection with the execution and delivery of this Deed of Guarantee, and shall indemnify each Beneficiary against any claim, demand, action, liability, damages, cost, loss or expense (including, without limitation, legal fees and any applicable value added tax) which it incurs as a result or arising out of or in relation to any failure to pay or delay in paying any of the same.

16. PARTIAL INVALIDITY

If at any time any provision thereof is or becomes illegal, invalid or unenforceable in any respect under the laws of any jurisdiction, neither the legality, validity or enforceability of the remaining provisions hereof nor the legality, validity or enforceability of such provision under the laws of any other jurisdiction shall in any way be affected or impaired thereby.

17. NOTICES

The applicable Issue Terms may specify that, if an Interest Barrier Event does not occur in respect of the relevant Interest Payment Date, then no amount in respect of interest shall be paid on that Interest Payment Date.

If the Interest Barrier Event provisions are applicable and, in accordance with their terms, interest is to be calculated in respect of the relevant Interest Payment Date, the amount of interest due on such Interest Payment Date will also be determined by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s) if Interim Performance Interest Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms or, otherwise, the amount of interest due on such Interest Payment Date will be an amount determined by reference to the applicable fixed rate or amount, floating rate, CMS rate or inflation rate provisions set out in the applicable Issue Terms.

In addition to the features described under "Barrier Events" below, an Interest Barrier Event will occur (a) if "Interest Barrier Event Lock-In" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if the relevant interest lock-in condition has been satisfied in respect of a prior Interest Payment Date (such that, once the relevant Interest Lock-in Level has been satisfied in respect of an Interest Payment Date, then an Interest Barrier Event will occur in respect of each subsequent Interest Payment Date); and (b) if "Multi-Chance Provisions" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, only if an Interest Barrier Event has occurred in respect of a specified minimum number of relevant Underlying(s) and in such circumstances the amount of interest due may then depend on the exact number of relevant Underlying(s) above such minimum number in respect of which an Interest Barrier Event has occurred for such Interest Payment Date; and (c) if "Range Accrual" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, on each range accrual observation date during the relevant interest period and the amount of interest due will accrue in respect of each such date on which an Interest Barrier Event occurs; if an Interest Barrier Event occurs on no date during the relevant interest period, then no amount in respect of interest shall be due.

If the Securities are specified as "Buy the Dip Securities" in the applicable Issue Terms, the amount of interest due on such Interest Payment Date will be determined by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s) as well as a fixed rate specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Securities may, in addition to any amounts in respect of interest due as described above pay a Non-Contingent Interest Amount on each Non-Contingent Interest Payment Date, but only if the Non-Contingent Interest Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms.

If you invest in Securities to which an Interest Barrier Event applies, you should be aware that you may not receive any amount in respect of interest during the term of the Securities.

Mandatory early redemption or "autocall"

If "Mandatory Early Redemption Provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then such Issue Terms will specify what constitutes a "Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event" and, following the occurrence of a Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event, the Securities will be redeemed on the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date and the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Early Exit MER Amount, as the case may be, specified in the applicable Issue Terms will become payable on the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date, provided that, where a "Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer shall also pay the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon on the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon Payment Date in respect of the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date. No further amount shall be payable in respect of such Securities after the Mandatory Early Redemption Date. In this case, you are subject to a reinvestment risk, as you may not be able to replace your investment in such Securities with an investment that has a similar profile of chances and risks as the relevant Securities.

If any Securities are redeemed early in accordance with the above, the amount you receive will be limited to the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Early Exit MER Amount, as the case may be, and (if applicable) the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon irrespective of the price of the relevant Underlying(s) or any other reference factor(s) applicable to such Underlying(s). Furthermore, you will not benefit from any movement in the price of relevant Underlying(s) that may occur during the period between the relevant date of early redemption and the maturity date.

Unless the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or, as the case may be, Early Exit MER Amount (together with (if applicable) the Mandatory Early Redemption Coupon) is a specified fixed amount and such amount is greater than your initial investment in the Securities, then you should note that, unless a scheduled minimum redemption amount is specified in all circumstances, then you may lose all or part of your investment.

Securities subject to optional redemption by the Issuer

An optional redemption feature of Securities, as set out in General Condition 6 (Redemption and Purchase) and any related provisions in the applicable Issue Terms, is likely to limit their market value. During any period when the Issuer may elect to redeem Securities, the market value of those Securities generally will not rise substantially above the price at which they can be redeemed. This also may be true prior to any redemption period.

The Issuer may be expected to redeem Securities when its cost of borrowing is lower than the interest rate on the Securities. At those times, an investor generally would not be able to reinvest the redemption proceeds at an effective interest rate as high as the interest rate on the Securities being redeemed and may only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate. You should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time.

Redemption amount or Entitlement due on the maturity date

Where the Underlying Linked Securities Redemption Provisions are specified as not applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then a fixed redemption amount shall be due in respect of each Security on the Maturity Date. Such amount shall not be linked to the performance of any Underlying.

Where the Underlying Linked Securities Redemption Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the provisions relating to Redemption Barrier Event are specified as not applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then the redemption amount due or assets deliverable shall in all circumstances be linked to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Where the Underlying Linked Securities Redemption Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the provisions relating to Redemption Barrier Event are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then the redemption amount due or assets deliverable shall depend on whether a Redemption Barrier Event has occurred and, if the provisions relating to Redemption Upper Barrier Event or the provisions relating to Redemption Lower Barrier Event are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if a Redemption Upper Barrier Event or a Redemption Lower Barrier Event respectively has occurred. The applicable Issue Terms will specify what constitutes a "Redemption Barrier Event" and any "Redemption Upper Barrier Event" or

"Redemption Lower Barrier Event". Such alternate amounts may either be expressed as being a fixed redemption amount shall be due in respect of each Security or as being a redemption amount due or assets deliverable that is linked to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Where the redemption amount or assets deliverable at maturity is determined by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s), unless a scheduled minimum redemption amount is specified in all circumstances, then you may lose all or part of your investment.

Features which determine amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of Securities linked to the performance of the Underlying(s)

Where the Securities are linked to the performance of Underlying(s), then certain features of such Securities (as described below) may determine amounts due or assets deliverable thereunder.

Performance

Interim Performance, Mandatory Early Redemption Performance and Final Performance may be determined in respect of one or more Underlyings as follows:

- "single underlying observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the Underlying performance of a single Underlying for the relevant payment date (assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of the relevant Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked only to the performance of that Underlying.
- "best of basket observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the Underlying having the specified highest performance for the relevant payment date (assessed as the appreciation in level of such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked to such specified highest performing Underlying(s) only. Where the "Himalaya Interim Performance – European Observation" provisions apply, then once an Underlying has had the highest performance for any Interest Payment Date, such Underlying's performance shall be disregarded for each subsequent Interest Payment Date.
- "worst of basket observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the Underlying having the specified lowest performance for the relevant payment date (assessed as the depreciation in level of such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked to such specified lowest performing Underlying(s) only and, for example where the "first lowest performance" applies, if one Underlying performs negatively, then any positive performance of all other Underlying(s) will be irrelevant in the determination of the applicable amount(s) due or assets deliverable.
- "Himalaya interim performance – Asian observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the arithmetic average of the performance of the Underlying having the highest performance for each relevant Valuation Date relating to the relevant payment date (assessed as the appreciation in level of such Underlying on each such relevant Valuation Date compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities) but PROVIDED THAT, once an Underlying has had the highest performance for any valuation date relating to that payment date, such Underlying's performance shall be disregarded for each subsequent Valuation Date relating to that payment date (but shall not be disregarded in respect of subsequent Interest Payment Dates). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable are not directly linked to any one Underlying(s) and positive performance of some Underlying(s) may be negated by negative performance of other Underlying(s), particularly as a consistently high performing Underlying will only have its first-occurring highest performance included in the calculation of the arithmetic average performance for the relevant payment date.

- "weighted basket observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the performance of a weighted basket of Underlying(s) (assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s)) and multiplied by the weighting. As such, amounts due or assets deliverable are not directly linked to the performance of any one Underlying and positive performance of some Underlying(s) may be negated by negative performance of other Underlying(s), particularly when the weighting attributed to such Underlying(s) having a negative performance is greater than that attributed to those Underlying(s) having a positive performance. Where "rainbow weighting" is applicable, the higher the weighting attributed to the relevant Underlying having the lowest performance for the relevant Valuation Date, the lower the Interim Performance, Mandatory Early Redemption Performance or Final Performance, as the case may be.
- "outperformance" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the difference in the performance of the Underlying or Underlyings comprising the Outperformance A Underlyings and the Underlying or Underlyings comprising the Outperformance B Underlying. Therefore, the performance will be positive where the performance of the Outperformance A Underlyings is greater than the performance of the Underlying or Underlyings comprising the Outperformance B Underlying. In determining which Underlyings comprise each of the Outperformance A Underlyings and the Outperformance B Underlyings, any of the above observation provisions may apply, as further detailed in the applicable Issue Terms.
- "arithmetic mean underlying return" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the arithmetic average of the underlying returns of a basket of Underlying(s). Each underlying return being assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of each such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or a capped, floored, collared or fixed percentage (which may be zero) instead of such appreciation or depreciation for that Underlying, all as further detailed in the terms and conditions of the Securities. As such, amounts due or assets deliverable are not directly linked to the performance of any one specified Underlying.
- "cliquet" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the sum or product of the re-setting performance of a single Underlying for each relevant Valuation Date relating to that payment date (assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of the Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date compared with its value on the last relevant Valuation Date(s) or, if none, the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). If period performance provisions apply, then that sum or product of the re-setting performance of the Underlying shall be subtracted from the performance of the single Underlying for the period relating to the relevant payment date (such performance for the period being assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of the Underlying on the relevant last occurring Valuation Date relating to the payment date compared with its value on first occurring Valuation Date relating to that payment date or, if none, the strike date(s)) or vice versa. As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked only to the performance of that Underlying.

You must ensure that you read and understand the relevant performance provisions in respect of the Securities as these will influence if certain amounts are paid or delivered and may impact the relevant amount or assets due in respect of the Securities.

Barrier Events

Whether a Barrier Event has occurred or not may be determined by reference (a) to one or more Underlying(s) and, in the case of each such Underlying, whether it is less than, less than or equal to, greater than, greater than or equal to or within specified barrier levels; (b) to specified dates only ("European" observation) or during a period ("American" observation); (c) the aggregate interest amounts calculated by reference to the performance of such Underlying(s) and paid in respect of the Securities; and/or (d) to the performance of such Underlying(s) as detailed under Performance above, or by reference to the closing level or the level of the relevant Underlying(s) continuously observed or the arithmetic average, highest or lowest of the closing level or the level of the relevant Underlying(s) observed on specified dates.

You must ensure that you read and understand what constitutes each relevant Barrier Event in respect of the Securities as the relevant contingencies will influence if certain amounts are paid or delivered and may impact the relevant amount or assets due in respect of the Securities.

Participation rates, caps, floors and collars applied to formulae

Certain formulae for determining amounts due or assets deliverable under the Securities may be subject to one or a combination of the following features:

- A maximum amount (a cap)
- A minimum amount (a floor)
- A maximum amount and a minimum amount (a collar)
- An "absolute value" (meaning that the relevant calculation, if resulting in a negative number, will be determined as if it were a positive number)
- One or more participation rates
- Addition or subtraction of a specified adjustment amount
- An "fx performance" feature (meaning that the formulae shall be adjusted to take into account the performance or change in value of a specified fx rate from a specified initial valuation date to a specified final valuation date)

In such circumstances, the relevant calculation will not be made only by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s) and the application of such features may result in the calculation being subject to a minimum and/or maximum amount or otherwise increasing or decreasing the amount that would otherwise have been calculated had no such feature(s) been applicable. Movements in the value of the relevant Underlying will be magnified where a participation rate applies and may therefore result in greater gains or losses than if no participation rate applied. Therefore, amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of the Securities will also be linked to the performance of the relevant exchange rate and negative performance of such exchange rate could negate positive performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Swaption provisions

Where the Performance Linked Redemption Amount is determined by reference to the "Swaption" provisions, the value of the Annuity will go down as the value of the relevant underlying Rate goes up. In addition, you should note that, if the Annuity Factor is negative, the Performance Linked Redemption Amount will increase as the underlying Rate decreases or, if the Annuity Factor is positive, the Performance Linked Redemption Amount will decrease as the underlying Rate increases. Changes in market interest rates may therefore adversely affect the value of the relevant Securities.

FX

Where FX Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and a relevant Underlying is denominated in a currency other than the relevant Specified Currency of the Securities then values of such Underlying will be converted into the relevant Specified Currency. Such conversion may, as provided in the terms and conditions of the Securities, be determined by referring to a cross rate (meaning that such conversion will be determined via the exchange rate of a third currency). Therefore, amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of the Securities will also be linked to the performance of the relevant exchange rate and negative performance of such exchange rate could negate positive performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Credit Linked Notes and/or Index Skew Notes

Credit Events

The amount of principal and/or interest payable is dependent upon whether bankruptcy has occurred with respect to the Reference Entity and whether certain credit events (Credit Events) have occurred in respect of obligations of the Reference Entity that fall within a specified category (e.g., bonds, loans, borrowed money) and where applicable have specified characteristics (e.g., subordination, currency, governing law). Whereas bankruptcy is a Credit Event that relates to the Reference Entity itself, other Credit Events, such as failure to pay or restructuring, relate to obligations of the Reference Entity and only in the case of a restructuring credit event and in certain cases relating to failure to pay where "Credit Deterioration Requirement" applies in the applicable Issue Terms, deterioration of creditworthiness of the Reference Entity is a pre-condition for a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, to occur. Depending on the terms of the Credit Linked Note, obligations for which the Reference Entity acts in a capacity other than direct obligor (for example, as a guarantor or insurer) may or may not be within the class of obligations that is relevant for purposes of determining whether a Credit Event has occurred. Investors should additionally be aware that a Reference Entity may decide to restructure only certain classes of its obligations and such a selective restructuring may not result in a Credit Event for the classes of obligations that are relevant for a particular Credit Linked Note. Investors should therefore carefully review the applicable Credit Events and their definitions under the Credit Linked Notes and independently evaluate its appropriateness to the objective for purchasing the Credit Linked Notes.

Impact of a Credit Event or Risk Event on principal and/or interest

Following a Credit Event which is a Governmental Intervention or certain Restructuring Credit Events, an Asset Package Credit Event may occur and the amount of principal payable may be determined based on the value of a package of assets which a relevant obligation of a Reference Entity has been converted into or exchanged for (which may be worth significantly less than the principal amount of such original obligation of such Reference Entity or, where such original obligation has been expropriated for no compensation, may be zero). Prospective investors in such Credit Linked Notes should be aware that depending on the terms thereof (i) they may receive no or a limited amount of interest, (ii) payment of principal or interest or delivery of any specified assets may occur at a different time than expected and (iii) they may lose all or a substantial portion of their investment.

The occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in relation to any Reference Entity from time to time may result in either full or partial redemption of the Credit Linked Notes on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date which shall depend on whether "Credit Payment on Maturity" or "Credit Payment Following Credit Event" applies and any recovery (which could be zero) or any incurred recovery amounts (to the extent that such recovery falls within the tranche to which the Index Tranched Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranched Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)) will be payable to the investor, but the investor shall be exposed to all losses incurred (to the extent that such losses fall within the tranche to which the Index Tranched Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranched Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)), which will reduce its principal redemptions. Where "Physical Redemption" applies, the occurrence of a Credit Event may result in the redemption of the Credit Linked Notes based on the delivery of certain direct or indirect obligations of the affected Reference Entity, which may have a market value which is substantially less than their nominal amount. In respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, the payment of Contingent Interest only (and not any Non-Contingent Interest or principal) is contingent upon a Credit Event not occurring in respect of the Reference Entity. Accordingly, if a Credit Event occurs in relation to the Reference Entity, this will not result in full or partial redemption of such Securities; however, such Securities will cease to accrue Contingent Interest (in full or in part) as detailed below.

Following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, investors should note that interest (in full or in part) will cease to accrue on a specified portion of the relevant Credit Linked Notes as set out in the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes depending on whether "Interest Accrual on Default" or "No Interest Accrual on Default" applies in the applicable Issue Terms.

If "No Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) will cease from the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date. If "Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) will cease to accrue on the first Business Day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. In such case, interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) shall accrue on the affected applicable proportion from (and including) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable (or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date) to (and including) the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. With respect to the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes, interest will cease to accrue on the Principal Writedown Amount with effect from the Credit Event Writedown Date, being the business day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date.

The Issuer may also suspend interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) in certain circumstances where (a) an Applicable DC Credit Event Question has been submitted in respect of which a DC Resolution (including, but not limited to, a DC Credit Event Announcement, a DC No Credit Event Announcement or a DC Credit Event Question Dismissal) has not been published or the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not resolved whether it will convene a meeting to Resolve the Applicable DC Credit Event Question or (b) where the Calculation Agent has determined that Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, could occur but no Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, has been provided to the Issuer and/or the Securityholders. In such circumstances, investors should note that the Issuer would suspend the maximum amount of interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) payable assuming the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, had occurred, in the case of an M(M)R Restructuring, as though no partial exercise occurred and where the amount to be withheld requires calculation of any recovery amount, assuming that fixed recovery of zero per cent. applies. Such suspension of interest shall be effected although no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date has occurred.

Investors should be aware that although payment of any interest wrongly suspended will be repayable in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes and where insufficient interest has been suspended, being the Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount, such interest shall be claimed by the Issuer from any amount payable or assets Delivered upon the redemption or write down in full of the relevant Credit Linked Notes (whether at maturity or upon early redemption). The Issuer however shall have no further claims against any investors for any Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount which cannot be deducted in full or in part (on account of the relevant redemption amount being insufficient).

Interest shall continue to be suspended until the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee makes the relevant announcements or the Calculation Agent determines that no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, can occur. In such circumstances, investors should note that they may not receive any interest for multiple Interest Periods and no liability will attach to the Issue for any such non-payment of interest.

Interest (or, in respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Contingent Interest) will otherwise continue to accrue as usual on any remaining portion of the Credit Linked Note unaffected by the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, to and excluding the earlier to occur of any full redemption at Scheduled Maturity Date or any relevant early redemption. In respect of Credit Linked Interest Notes only, Non-Contingent Interest will also continue to be payable in full on the Securities. Where "Credit Payment on Maturity applies", additional interest shall accrue on the Credit Linked Notes in respect of the Credit Payment on Maturity Amount at the funding interest rate.

Investors should note that the Issuer is not obliged to suffer any loss as a result of a Credit Event or Risk Event. Credit losses on Credit Linked Notes will be calculated irrespective of whether the Issuer has suffered an actual loss in relation to a Reference Entity or any obligations thereof. The Issuer is not obliged to account for any recovery which it may subsequently make in relation to such Reference Entity or its obligations.

Successors

Investors should note that, from time to time, the Reference Entity may be subject to change following the determination of any Successor or Successors to the Reference Entity, and any such change may affect the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes. "Successor" means, the entity or entities, if any, determined to have succeeded to a requisite amount of relevant obligations of the Reference Entity. For a Sovereign Reference Entity, an entity may only be a Successor to a Reference Entity that is a sovereign following the occurrence of a unification, annexation, unification, secession, partition, dissolution, consolidation, reconstitution or other similar event.

The Credit Linked Conditions provide that if a Reference Entity has more than one successor entity, the Calculation Agent shall amend the terms of the Credit Linked Notes, without consent of the investors, to reflect that the relevant Reference Entity has been succeeded by more than one Successor and for the purposes of calculation, the affected notional representing such Reference Entity will be divided equally among the Successors. Following such determination, the Credit Linked Notes shall remain outstanding in an amount equal to the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount and interest will accrue on such amount in accordance with the adjustments determined by the Calculation Agent in its discretion, acting in a commercially reasonable manner to reflect the economic effects of the identification of more than one Successor, considered in the aggregate. The Calculation Agent will also be responsible for determining, as soon as reasonably practicable after it becomes aware of the relevant succession, the sovereign or entity, if any, that qualifies as the Successor. Investors should note that the Credit Linked Note may reference substantially different credit risks following the determination of one or more Successors. These credit risks could potentially be greater or lesser than the credit risk of the original Reference Entity, which could adversely impact the value of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should also be aware that the determination of a Successor will not necessarily result in the assumption of that obligation by the Successor either at all or in the same proportion as the allocation of the notional amount of the original Credit Linked Note.

Exposure to Credit Events and successions prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date

Investors should note that a Credit Event occurring prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date may result in a Credit Event being triggered under the Credit Linked Notes as the Credit Linked Notes have a "Credit Event Backstop Date", which is a look-back period of 60 calendar days from the Credit Event Resolution Request Date or the effective date of the Credit Event Notice. Credit Linked Notes may also be exposed to Successor determinations in respect of events occurring prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date as the Credit Linked Notes have a similar "Successor Backstop Date", which is a look-back period of 90 calendar days prior to the date of a request to convene the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee (or, if applicable, the effective date of a notice to the investor describing the relevant succession) is applicable for purposes of any Successor determination. In both cases, investors should note that a Credit Event or succession that occurred prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date could affect the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Where on or after 1 January 2014, an entity assumes all of the obligations (including at least one relevant obligation) of a Reference Entity which is not a sovereign, in circumstances where a Reference Entity has ceased to exist, or is in the process of being dissolved and has not issued or incurred any borrowed money obligation at any time since the legally effective date of the assumption (such entity, a Universal Successor), the look-back period of 90 calendar days will not apply.

Investors should conduct their own review of any recent developments with respect to any Reference Entity(ies) by consulting publicly available information. If, prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date, a request to convene a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to determine whether a Credit Event or Successor determination has occurred with respect to a Reference Entity has been made, details of such request may be found on the DC Secretary's webpage at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website). If a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not been convened to determine such matter as of the Trade Date or Issue Date, investors should note that one may still be convened after the Trade Date or Issue Date in respect of an event that has occurred which occurs up to 60 days (in the case of a Credit Event), 90 days in the case of the determination of a Successor) or any time (in the case of the determination of a Universal Successor) before the date of a request to convene such Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to make the relevant determinations. Equally, Credit Events and successions may occur but where issues are not raised within the requisite time period to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to qualify for a Credit Event or a qualifying succession, the events will not impact the relevant Credit Linked Notes, subject to any further actions undertaken by the Calculation Agent (where applicable).

Reference Obligations under the Credit Linked Notes

Where "Standard Reference Obligation" is specified as "Applicable" in the applicable Issue Terms, the reference obligation will be the obligation specified as the market standard reference obligation for the relevant Reference Entity for the relevant seniority level (the Standard Reference Obligation or SRO)

when such SRO is published on the relevant SRO list and from the date of such publication any non-standard reference obligation set out in the applicable Issue Terms (if any) will no longer be the reference obligation. The rules outlining the selection and replacement of the Standard Reference Obligation are contained within the rules relating to Standard Reference Obligation, as published by ISDA (www.isda.org or any successor website) and as amended and/or supplemented from time to time in accordance with the terms thereof (the SRO Rules). The SRO for a relevant seniority level will only be replaced by the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee by majority vote in certain circumstances set out in the SRO Rules (for example, if the Standard Reference Obligation matures, is redeemed or is no longer an obligation of the Reference Entity, or in the case of where Financial Reference Entities is stated to be applicable in the Issue Terms and where Mod R or Mod Mod R applies, if the Standard Reference Obligation has less than one year remaining maturity and a replacement Standard Reference Obligation is available in the first maturity bucket, amongst others) after performing the necessary legal review and the Calculation Agent, the Issuer, the Dealer and/or one or more of their respective affiliates are not under an obligation to replace the SRO if a substitution event occurs. The Issue Terms may specify that Standard Reference Obligation does not apply, in which case the Reference Obligation will be the non-standard reference obligation specified in the Issue Terms, if any. Where certain substitution events occur with respect to such non-standard reference obligations, the Calculation Agent will attempt to substitute the same in accordance with the criteria and conditions set out in the Credit Linked Notes.

Where a Reference Obligation Only Series is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms, the Credit Linked Notes shall early redeem without any substitution of the reference obligation where the reference obligation is redeemed in whole but otherwise, no substitution will be required if the aggregate amounts under the said obligation have reduced or it no longer is an obligation of the Reference Entity.

Asset Package Delivery

Under the Credit Linked Conditions, asset package delivery provisions may apply in respect of a Financial Reference Entity in certain circumstances if either (i) a "Governmental Intervention" Credit Event has occurred or (ii) if "Restructuring" is an applicable Credit Event, a restructuring has occurred in respect of the reference obligation of a Financial Reference Entity, and such restructuring does not constitute a "Governmental Intervention" Credit Event. Asset package delivery options may also apply in respect of certain Sovereigns subject to restructuring of a package observable bond if Package Observable Bonds, being a certain number of deliverable bonds of the sovereign, exist. Following a "Governmental Intervention" Credit Event or a restructuring of a reference obligation, in each case in respect of a Financial Reference Entity, or in the case of certain sovereigns subject to restructuring of a package observable bond, provided that there was an existing obligation of the Reference Entity which, immediately prior to the relevant event constituted a deliverable obligation (a "Prior Deliverable Obligation" in the case of a Financial Reference Entity and "Package Observable Bond" in the case of certain sovereigns), the assets which result from such Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond can be used for purposes of redeeming the Credit Linked Notes (such redemption "Asset Package Delivery").

Asset Package Delivery may apply if an Asset Package Credit Event occurs unless (i) such Asset Package Credit Event occurs prior to the Credit Event Backstop Date determined in respect of the Credit Event that triggered redemption, (ii) the Reference Entity is a Sovereign and no Package Observable Bond exists immediately prior to such Asset Package Credit Event, or (iii) the Reference Entity is a Sovereign and "Sovereign Reference Entity No Asset Package Delivery" is specified as "Applicable" in the applicable Issue Terms (even if such a Package Observable Bond has been published by ISDA or any other successor entity).

Asset Package Delivery may apply in circumstances where the deliverable obligation has either been converted into something that does not constitute a deliverable obligation (e.g. equity), written-down in part (such that it becomes uneconomic to deliver) or written-down in full (such that it is uneconomic to deliver, but in any event, there is no obligation that can actually be delivered). In such circumstances, investors should note that the Outstanding Principal Balance will be treated to be the Outstanding Principal Balance immediately prior to the relevant Asset Package Credit Event and where the Outstanding Principal Balance is deemed to be written down to zero, the Asset Package shall be deemed to be zero and delivery of the Package Observable Bond or Prior Deliverable Obligation will be deemed to have been satisfied in full. For purposes of Asset Package Delivery, the asset package for any holder of the relevant Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond will consist of all of the assets in the proportion received or retained by such holder in connection with the Asset Package Credit Event. The relevant asset package must be delivered in the proportion received or retained by such a holder. If the asset package is not capable of being transferred (excluding due to market conditions) or is not of the type typically traded in, or suitable for being traded in, financial markets, the asset shall be deemed to be an amount of cash equal to the market value thereof by the calculation agent by reference to an appropriate specialist valuation or in accordance with the methodology determined by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee. In such case, Asset Package Delivery will occur by payment of such cash amount.

Sovereign Restructured Deliverable Obligations

Investors should note that where Asset Package Delivery is not applicable, an Obligation of a Reference Entity which is a Sovereign (either directly or as provider of a Relevant Guarantee) (a) in respect of which a Restructuring that is the subject of the Credit Event Notice or DC Credit Event Announcement has occurred and (b) which meets the deliverable obligation criteria falling within the specific category (Bond and/or Loan) and meeting certain characteristics immediately preceding the date on which such Restructuring is legally effective in accordance with the terms of the documentation governing such Restructuring remains a good deliverable for the purposes of inclusion on any Final List or Physical Redemption save that unlike in the case of Asset Package Delivery, the outstanding principal balance will not be deemed to be such outstanding principal balance prior to the restructuring credit event but will be assessed as per the terms of the Credit Linked Note at the time of determination. Accordingly, the Issuer may be required to deliver additional deliverable obligations in order to meet the outstanding principal balance requirements for delivery.

M(M)R Restructuring and Movement Option

If "Restructuring Maturity Limitation and Fully Transferable Obligation Applicable" or "Modified Restructuring Maturity Limitation and Conditionally Transferable Obligation Applicable" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms and M(M)R Restructuring occurs, investors should note that the deliverable obligations which qualify for inclusion on the Final List or for "Physical Redemption" must not only meet the specific deliverability obligation category or characteristics but is further restricted by virtue of its tenor to maturity. Accordingly, the loss suffered by an investor will depend on the recovery (expressed as a percentage) for the relevant deliverables. Longer dated obligations are subjected to lower recovery in comparison with the shorter dated obligations. Where the Calculation Agent determines in respect of an M(M)R Restructuring that a No Auction Announcement Date has occurred in certain circumstances, it may elect (in its sole and absolute discretion) to deliver a Notice to Exercise Movement Option to the Issuer in order for redemption to be effected by virtue of the relevant Auction Redemption Amount being determined by reference to a "Parallel Auction" identified by the Calculation Agent in the Notice to Exercise Movement Option, where the permissible deliverables are more limited in order to accommodate "Auction Redemption". Accordingly, in these circumstances, the loss suffered by an investor will depend on the recovery for the deliverable obligations associated with the particular "Parallel Auction".

Auction Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, the amounts payable under the Credit Linked Notes will be determined on the basis of the final price determined pursuant to the auction procedure set out in the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms (available at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website)). In respect of specified obligations of the relevant Reference Entity, provided that the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that an applicable auction will be held, an auction final price determination date will occur. Credit losses determined pursuant to a market auction process may be greater or less than the losses which would have been determined in the absence of the auction. In particular, the auction process may be affected by technical factors or operational errors, which would not otherwise apply or may be the subject of actual or attempted manipulation. The administrator(s) specified in the auction settlement terms conduct auctions. Investors are subject to the risk that where a final price is determined in accordance with an auction, this may result in a lower recovery value than an obligation of the Reference Entity would have had if such final price had been determined pursuant to alternative methods.

In addition, the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may amend the form of auction settlement terms for a particular auction. The DC Rules provide for certain amendments by resolution of a convened Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee. Other amendments may be made subject to a public comment period; however, the DC Rules permit the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to forego a public comment period by supermajority action. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms for a particular auction will be on similar terms to the form of auction settlement terms or the terms of previous auctions.

Where the only relevant Credit Event is a restructuring, several concurrent but separate auctions may occur with respect to the Reference Entity and such Credit Event. The auction settlement amount may be based on the price of one or more obligations of the Reference Entity having a final maturity date different from the restructured obligation.

Although auctions can generally be expected to be held for Reference Entities that are widely traded in the credit markets, there can be no assurance that an auction will be held for future Credit Events or that, if held, the auction will result in the determination of an auction final price. If an auction is not held or fails to result in the determination of an auction final price (as might occur if an auction is cancelled by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee due, for example, to an inability to obtain the requisite number of initial bids) and if "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then the "Fallback Redemption Method" shall apply which, depending on the nature of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed, may be cash redemption, or physical redemption. In such circumstances of cash redemption, the final price will be determined pursuant to the valuation method specified in the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should carefully assess and understand the elections specified in relation to the relevant Credit Linked Notes and the circumstances and/or events as described above, which may affect the value of and return on such Credit Linked Notes.

Physical Redemption following a Credit Event or Risk Event

Where Physical Redemption applies to Credit Linked Notes, then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, the Issuer must select obligations of the Reference Entity that satisfy specified deliverability criteria and deliver those obligations to the investor in an amount determined in accordance with the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that physical redemption may not be possible to accomplish under some circumstances, including where the Issuer is unable to procure the specified or selected deliverable obligation(s) due to market dislocations or prior redemptions or refinancings by the Reference Entity, failure to receive necessary transfer consents (such as from a borrower or agent) or delays in receiving such consents, or court orders prohibiting transfers of an obligation. In such event, the terms of the Credit Linked Notes may provide the Issuer with alternative methods of settlement or permit partial cash settlement subject to certain conditions or specify other fallback consequences which may include redemption by way of payment of a cash amount.

Investors should understand the terms of the obligation and applicable securities laws as these may restrict their ability to take delivery of Deliverable Obligations. Investors should also note that delivery expenses will be taken into account in determining the Outstanding Principal Balance or Due and Payable Amount of the relevant Deliverable Obligations to be delivered.

Outstanding Principal Balance

The calculation of the outstanding principal balance of a deliverable obligation is determined by (i) first, ascertaining all principal payment obligations of a Reference Entity (ii) then deducting any delivery expenses and any interest suspension shortfall amounts and determining all or any portion of such principal payment obligations that are subject to a contingency (other than a Permitted Contingency (as defined below)) or prohibited action which need to be disregarded, leaving an amount equal to the non-contingent amount and (iii) finally, determining the quantum of the claim that could be validly asserted against a Reference Entity in respect of such non-contingent amount if the obligation was redeemed or accelerated which would be the outstanding principal balance. If payments of principal are subject to a contingency, the outstanding principal balance could be less than the principal balance (and depending upon the type of contingency, could be zero).

"Permitted Contingency" means, with respect to an obligation, any reduction to the Reference Entity's payment obligations: (a) as a result of the application of: (i) any provisions allowing a transfer, pursuant to which another party may assume all of the payment obligations of the Reference Entity; (ii) provisions implementing the subordination of the obligation; (iii) provisions allowing for a transfer of a qualifying guarantee (or provisions allowing for the release of the Reference Entity from its payment obligations in the case of any other guarantees); (iv) any solvency capital provisions if "Subordinated European Insurance Terms" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms; or (v) if "Financial Reference Entity Terms" is specified as applicable to the Reference Entity in the Issue Terms, provisions (a) which permit the Financial Reference Entity's obligations to be altered, discharged, released or suspended in circumstances which would constitute a governmental intervention; or (b) which is within the control of the holders of the obligation or a third party acting on their behalf (such as an agent or trustee).

Outstanding Principal Balance – Fallback Discounting

The definition of "Outstanding Principal Balance" provides for the quantum of the claim to be determined in accordance with any applicable laws that reduce or discount the size of the claim to reflect the original issue price or accrued value of the obligation. Where "Fallback Discounting" applies and if certain other conditions are met, being (i) the Outstanding Principal Balance of an obligation is not reduced or discounted in accordance with applicable law, and (ii) the relevant obligation is either a Bond that has an issue price less than 95 per cent. of the principal redemption amount or a Loan where the amount advanced is less than 95 per cent. of the principal repayment amount where, in each case, no provisions relating to the accretion over time of the amount which would be payable on an early redemption or repayment of such Bond or Loan that are customary for the applicable type of Bond or Loan as the case may be exists, prospective investors should note that Delivery by the Issuer of impacted Deliverable Obligations or LA Settlement Assets, as applicable, would need to account for the Outstanding Principal Balance which would be further reduced in such case which could result in an anticipated par claim being treated as less than par. In such circumstances, the Credit Linked Conditions provide that the Outstanding Principal Balance would instead be the lesser of (I) the Non-Contingent Amount; and (II) an amount determined by straight line interpolation between the issue price of the Bond or the amount advanced under the Loan and the principal redemption amount or principal repayment amount, as applicable. Further details relating to determinations as to whether the issue price of a Bond or the amount advanced under a Loan is less than 95 per cent. of the principal redemption amount or principal repayment amount (as applicable) or, where applicable, for applying straight line interpolation in the context of exchanges are set out in the Credit Linked Conditions.

Partial cash redemption and Fallback Cash Redemption

If all or any part of the Physical Redemption Assets that would be required to be Delivered to a Securityholder is not a whole integral multiple of the smallest unit of transfer for any such Physical Redemption Assets at the relevant time of Delivery, as determined by the Calculation Agent, the Issuer will only Deliver the portion of the Physical Redemption Assets specified by the Issuer which is as large a size as possible but less than the full Physical Redemption Assets, after consideration of such smallest unit or units of transfer and application of rounding. The value of the undelivered obligations will be deemed to be zero and the Issuer's obligations to an investor in respect of such portion shall be fully and effectively discharged in such circumstances.

The Issuer may elect in lieu of delivering all or any part of the Asset Package to pay cash instead to investors the asset market value" of any non delivered asset package converted if necessary, into the currency of denomination of the Credit Linked Notes at the prevailing market rate of exchange determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith. Such asset market value may be determined by the Calculation Agent based on any specialised valuation or methodology determined by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee or the Calculation Agent or based on a value obtained as though Cash Redemption were to apply on a Valuation Date selected by the Calculation Agent.

Final Physical Redemption Cut-Off Date

The terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes allow for the Issuer in certain circumstances to attempt to continue performing its delivery obligations after the Physical Redemption Date. If Delivery is not completed in full by the Latest Permissible Physical Settlement Date, in certain circumstances when the event affecting Delivery is cured, the Issuer may be required to complete Delivery on or prior to the Final Physical Redemption Cut-Off Date.

Delivery of loans

Where Physical Redemption applies and to the extent investors would be required to receive loans as deliverable obligations under a Credit Linked Note, investors should be familiar with the documentation and settlement practices of the relevant secondary loan trading markets and applicable laws and regulations (including the legal consequences of furnishing or receiving non-public information regarding a Reference Entity).

Provisions of the Reference Entity's credit agreements may affect a party's ability to deliver or receive loans, the economic consequences of doing so and whether loans meet deliverability criteria. Accordingly, investors should review such agreements carefully, including the provisions governing assignments, any collateral allocation mechanisms i.e., a mandatory exchange of obligations for other obligations under a credit agreement, not all of which may be deliverable and provisions that may require or entitle a lender to advance funds.

Payment/Delivery Failure Event – failure to deliver

Investors should note that a Payment/Delivery Failure Event will occur where certain relevant definitive Credit Linked Notes and/or the Deliverable Obligation Notice are not delivered or there is a failure to duly execute, deliver and/or accept a transfer certificate or other transfer document on or before any Delivery Date and/or specify a date for transfer of the relevant Deliverable Obligation that is on or before any Delivery Date. In such case, investors should note that the obligations of the Issuer to procure Delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and make any payment shall cease until such time such event is cured whereupon deferred delivery shall apply or if "Fallback Cash Redemption" is specified to apply in the applicable Issue Terms, fallback cash settlement shall apply. Investors will not be entitled to any payment, whether of interest or otherwise, in the event of such deferred delivery or payment.

Cash Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Cash Redemption" applies to the Credit Linked Notes, then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, the Calculation Agent will be required to seek quotations in respect of selected obligations of the Reference Entity in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that such obligations may no longer exist and no qualifying substitute obligations may have been identified, such quotations may not be available, or the level of such quotations may be substantially reduced as a result of illiquidity in the relevant markets or as a result of factors other than the credit risk of the Reference Entity (for example, liquidity constraints affecting market dealers). Moreover, the market value of a Reference Entity's obligations may be highly volatile in the period following a Credit Event or Risk Event. Accordingly, any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations. Furthermore, the price of the selected obligations of the Reference Entity may be deemed to be zero in the event that no such quotations are available. Further, valuation of the selected obligations will be determined at a particular determination date and as such the recovery price which would be adopted in any loss amount or incurred loss amount that would be suffered by an investor following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, will reflect the value of relevant obligations at a given date. As such, the exposure to loss suffered by an investor or any principal write-down may be more than that ultimately realised by a holder of debt obligations of the Reference Entity, whether by means of enforcement of rights following a default or receipt of distributions following an insolvency or otherwise.

Investors should note that if an Asset Package Credit Event has occurred, (A) valuation of a Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond may be satisfied by valuation of the related Asset Package and such Asset Package shall be treated as having the same currency and Outstanding Principal Balance as that of the Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond, as applicable, to which it corresponds immediately prior to the Asset Package Credit Event, (B) if the Asset Package is zero, a Quotation shall be deemed to have been obtained for the Outstanding Principal Balance of the Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond, as applicable, equal to zero.

Further, where quotations are sought on an asset package, such asset package may contain assets which are hard to value and for which a valuation methodology may not be readily available or suitable, which may reduce the value of quotations or the availability of quotations that may otherwise have been obtained. Accordingly, investors should note that any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation (or asset package) which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations.

Fixed Recovery Redemption may be subject to a fixed recovery price

Where the Credit Event Redemption Amount of the Credit Linked Notes is calculated by reference to a fixed recovery price of the obligations of a Reference Entity(ies), then, except for Credit Linked Interest Notes, the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, may result in the recovery being materially lower than the prevailing price of the relevant obligations of the relevant Reference Entity. Investors should note that Fixed Recovery Redemption could occur with a Fixed Recovery Percentage set at zero per cent. where the Issue Terms specify accordingly.

If the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the occurrence of the Cash Redemption Date or the Final Cash Redemption Date, the LA Cash Redemption Date or Final LA Cash Redemption Date, as applicable, shall fully and effectively discharge the Issuer's obligation to redeem the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that where the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, the loss amount in respect of the Affected Reference Entity will be 100 per cent. and, accordingly, no redemption amounts will be payable or assets deliverable to the Securityholders. Investors accordingly will bear the loss of their principal.

No early redemption or frustration

Investors should note that the Credit Linked Notes will not early redeem and no frustration shall occur solely because the Reference Entity does not exist on, or ceases to exist on or following, the Trade Date or Issue Date or Obligations, Deliverable Obligations or the Reference Obligation do not exist on, or cease to exist on or following, the Trade Date or Issue Date. Accordingly, investors should conduct their own investigation as to the existence of a Reference Entity and/or relevant obligations prior to the purchase of the Credit Linked Notes to ensure that the exposure to the particular Reference Entity is within the contemplated objectives of the investor.

Early redemption, merger event redemption and redemption in respect of Reference Obligation Only Series

If "Redemption following Merger" is specified as being applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, investors should note that the Credit Linked Notes (other than Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes) may be redeemed earlier by the Issuer where it or the Calculation Agent determines that the Issuer or a Reference Entity consolidates or amalgamates with, or merges into, or transfers all or substantially all of its respective assets to, a Reference Entity or the Issuer, as applicable, or the Issuer and a Reference Entity become Affiliates. Accordingly, a Merger Event will result in the relevant Credit Linked Notes being redeemed in full or in part at the Merger Redemption Amount.

If a Reference Obligation is fully redeemed with respect to a Reference Obligation for a Series of Credit Linked Notes in respect of a Reference Entity to which "Reference Obligation Only" applies, investors should note that the relevant Credit Linked Notes shall be redeemed in part or in full at the Substitution Event Redemption Amount.

If the Credit Linked Notes are so redeemed early in the circumstances described above, the Issuer will pay to investors, as holder of such Securities, an amount specified in the General Conditions or the Credit Linked Conditions or such other amount (or method for calculating the amount) specified in the applicable Issue Terms. There is no guarantee that the amount repaid to any investor will be equal to or higher than the initial investment in the relevant Credit Linked Notes and such amount may be substantially less than such initial investment.

Relevant Credit Events and Relevant Risk Events disregarded

Where a Relevant Credit Event or a Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, occurs immediately after an event triggering early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes, the occurrence of the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, will be disregarded (to the extent that the relevant Credit Linked Notes have not already been redeemed in full and cancelled) and the Early Redemption Amount, Optional Redemption Amount, Merger Redemption Amount or the Substitution Event Redemption Amount, as applicable, payable to Securityholders will be determined on the basis of the event triggering early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes only.

Local Access Credit Linked Notes

Risk Events

Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be redeemed pursuant to the occurrence of any Credit Event or an Additional Risk Event (together, the Risk Events) in respect of one or more Reference Entities and, in either case, unless the Local Access Credit Linked Notes are fixed recovery, on the value of certain specified assets of any such Reference Entities or where, if any of such events has occurred, on settlement the Issuer's obligation is to deliver certain specified assets. Any such settlement will be reduced to take into account any Unwind Costs and so will depend upon the level of such Unwind Costs.

Additional Risk Events are indicative of defaults or risks specific to certain local access jurisdictions and will apply to Local Access Credit Linked Notes to the extent that such events apply in the applicable Issue Terms. Prospective investors should note that not all possible Additional Risk Events are related directly to default or credit risk in respect of a Reference Entity or default in respect of the Reference Investor Assets and such Additional Risk Events may include, without limitation, the occurrence of one or more of the following:

- (a) an Inconvertibility Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or condition that has the effect of it being impossible, illegal or impracticable for, or of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor (i) to convert currency; or (ii) to effect currency transactions on terms as favourable as those available to residents of the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iii) to freely and unconditionally transfer or repatriate any funds from accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction to accounts outside the Reference Jurisdiction or between accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iv) to receive the full value of any cash payment made under the Reference Investor Assets due to the introduction after the Additional Risk Event Start Date by any Governmental Authority of a new currency regime (including the introduction of a dual currency regime) or the imposition of currency exchange limitations;
- (b) an Ownership Restriction Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or existence of any condition that has the effect of it being illegal, impossible or impracticable for, or has the effect of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor to purchase, hold, receive, sell, freely transfer or remain the owner of any Reference Investor Asset or any amount received in respect thereof; and
- (c) a Settlement/Custodial Event - (i) the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of the bankruptcy of any Custodian or (ii) in respect of the Reference Investor Assets owned by a Reference Investor or any amount received in respect thereof, a Custodian (A) fails to perform in a timely manner any or all of its obligations owed under any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement, or (B) fails to take any action when instructed to do so by a Reference Investor, or (C) takes any action which is contrary to the terms of any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement; in each case that affects or may affect, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the hedging arrangements of the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates in respect of the Issuer's obligations with respect to the Local Access Credit Linked Note(s).

The loss incurred by an Investor may be unrelated to or disproportionate in comparison with the Additional Risk Event itself. Moreover, the Calculation Agent may designate an Additional Risk Event, which could cause such losses to be incurred by an Investor, if the Additional Risk Event occurs at any time during the term of the Local Access Credit Linked Notes, whether or not the Additional Risk Event is ongoing or effective or has been remedied or cured at the time such designation has been made.

Exposure to Reference Asset

In respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes for which "Reference Asset Only Settlement" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, following a Risk Event, the Local Access Credit Linked

Notes will be redeemed by valuation or delivery (as applicable) of the Reference Asset in respect of a Reference Entity (rather than obligations of the relevant Reference Entity generally). It follows therefore that returns on such Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be adversely affected by circumstances affecting the Reference Asset even where other obligations of the Reference Entity are not affected. The creditworthiness or market value of the relevant Reference Asset may be less favourable than other obligations of the relevant Reference Entity due to liquidity, marketability, circumstances of origination, legal or validity risks, local access risks described below, or one or more other characteristics. Investors in the Local Access Credit Linked Notes should understand that their recovery in relation to the relevant Reference Asset may be substantially less than for more generally representative obligations of the relevant Reference Entity.

Index Skew Notes

The Index Skew Notes are linked, through a Hypothetical Skew Transaction constituting a combination of (i) an index CDS and (ii) individual credit default swaps on the Reference Entities included in the index underlying the index CDS (the component CDSs). Where the Issuer is the protection seller under the index CDS it is the protection buyer under the component CDSs, and vice versa. The value of the combined positions reflects the difference (the skew) between the value of the index CDS and the aggregate value of its component CDSs. Although each constituent of the Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to give rise to an equal and opposite payment obligation on each Fixed Rate Payer Payment Date, Auction Settlement Date or Cash Settlement Date (as applicable), no actual payments will be due from the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or vice versa due to the application of payment netting.

The value of an index CDS may differ from the aggregate value of its component CDSs for several reasons, including (a) differences in liquidity and other characteristics in the markets for the index CDS the component CDSs; (b) differences in relevant terms of the index CDS and its component CDSs; (c) factors that affect the activities of arbitrageurs; and (d) changes in the default correlation among the Reference Entities included in the index CDS.

As the notional of the Hypothetical Skew Transactions may be far greater than the principal amount issued under the Index Skew Notes, the value of the Index Skew Notes may be very volatile and any Index Skew Early Redemption Amount will be linked to, inter alia, the difference between the pricing of credit protection on the relevant index and the market levels of the constituent single name Reference Entities that comprise the relevant index.

Liquidity differences may make a greater contribution to skew during periods of heightened volatility, as the value of the more liquid instrument(s) may change more quickly than the value of the less liquid instrument(s). Furthermore, during periods when transaction costs (such as funding costs and bid-ask spreads) to market participants increase, skew may become greater, as the increased transaction costs may reduce the activities of arbitrageurs (i.e. market participants that seek to profit from the skew and, in the process, tend to reduce it).

Although the payments under a Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to be equal to zero due to the application of payment netting as described above, if the Index Skew Notes were to be redeemed early, a termination payment would be determined in respect of the each constituent transaction within the relevant Hypothetical Skew Transactions and the aggregate of such termination payments may result in an amount being payable by the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or by the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty to the Issuer which could result in the Early Redemption Amount or Optional Early Redemption Amount (as the case may be) due to Securityholders being reduced further if the Issuer is required to make a payment to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty for such termination payment or if the Issuer is subject to further Unwind Costs.

In addition, prospective investors in the Index Skew Notes should be aware that no notifications shall be given by the Issuer or any other party to Securityholders following the occurrence of a Credit Event. To the extent that the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that a Credit Event has occurred in respect of a particular entity, information will be published on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees website at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

SECTION F.4 – FORM OF THE SECURITIES

Subject as provided below in relation to Swedish Securities, Finnish Securities and French Law Securities, the Securities of each Series will be in registered form. Registered Securities may be offered and sold either outside the United States to non-U.S. persons in reliance on Regulation S under the Securities Act (Regulation S) or, in the case of Registered Securities representing Notes issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI, within the United States to QIBs (as defined below) in reliance on Rule 144A under the Securities Act (Rule 144A).

Securities that are not Swedish Securities, Finnish Securities or French Law Securities and are Registered Securities

The Registered Securities of each Tranche offered and sold in reliance on Regulation S, which will be sold in offshore transactions to persons that are not U.S. persons (as defined in Regulation S) outside the United States, will be represented by a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate (a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate). Beneficial interests in a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate may not be offered, sold or transferred at any time in the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, a U.S. person and may not be held otherwise than through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) and such Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate will bear a legend regarding such restrictions on transfer.

Each Security Certificate will be numbered serially with an identifying number which will be recorded in the Register.

The Registered Securities representing Notes of each Tranche offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A, which may only be issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI, may only be offered and sold in private transactions to "qualified institutional buyers" within the meaning of Rule 144A (QIBs). The Registered Securities representing Notes of each Tranche sold to QIBs will be represented by a Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate (a Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate and, together with a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate, the Global Registered Security Certificates), and beneficial interests in such Global Registered Security Certificates may not be offered, sold or otherwise transferred at any time except to a QIB purchasing (or holding) the Notes for its account or for the account of one or more QIBs in reliance on Rule 144A.

Global Registered Security Certificates will either (i) be deposited with a custodian for, and registered in the name of a nominee of, the Depository Trust Company (DTC) for the accounts of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg or (ii) be deposited with a common depositary or if the Global Registered Security Certificate is to be held under the new safekeeping structure (the NSS) a common safekeeper (the Common Safekeeper), as the case may be, for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg, and registered in the name of a common nominee of a common depositary for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg or in the name of a nominee of the Common Safekeeper, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms. Persons holding beneficial interests in Global Registered Security Certificates will be entitled or required, as the case may be, to receive physical delivery of definitive Securities in fully registered form.

Where the Global Registered Security Certificate issued in respect of any Tranche is intended to be held under the NSS, the applicable Issue Terms will indicate whether or not such Global Registered Security Certificate is intended to be held in a manner which would allow Eurosystem eligibility. Any indication that the Global Registered Security Certificate are to be so held does not necessarily mean that the Securities of the relevant Tranche will be recognised as eligible collateral for Eurosystem monetary policy and intra-day credit operations by the Eurosystem either upon issue or at any time during their life as such recognition depends upon satisfaction of the Eurosystem eligibility criteria. The common safekeeper for a Global Registered Security Certificate held under the NSS will be either Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or another entity approved by Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg.

The Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate will be subject to certain restrictions on transfer described in such Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate and will bear a legend regarding such restrictions.

No Securities represented by a Combined Global Registered Note Certificate (as defined in the Fiscal Agency Agreement) will be issued under this Base Prospectus.

Relationship of Accountholders with Clearing Systems

For so long as any of the Securities is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate held on behalf of Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France), each person (other than Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg or Euroclear France) who is for the time being shown in the records of Euroclear or of Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) as the holder of a particular principal amount or number of such Securities (in which regard any certificate or other document issued by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) as to the principal amount or number of such Securities standing to the account of any person shall be conclusive and binding for all purposes save in the case of manifest error) shall be treated by the Issuer, the CGMHI

Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and the Agents as the holder of such principal amount or number of such Securities for all purposes other than with respect to the payment of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts in respect of the Securities, for which purpose the registered holder of the relevant Global Registered Security Certificate shall be treated by the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and each Agent as the holder of such principal amount or number of such Securities in accordance with and subject to the terms of the relevant Global Registered Security Certificate, and the expressions Securityholder and holder of Securities and related expressions shall be construed accordingly.

So long as DTC or its nominee is the registered owner or holder of a Global Registered Security Certificate, DTC or such nominee, as the case may be, will be considered the sole owner or holder of the Securities represented by such Global Registered Security Certificate for all purposes under the Fiscal Agency Agreement and such Securities except to the extent that, in accordance with DTC's published rules and procedures, any ownership rights may be exercised by its participants or beneficial owners through participants.

Securities which are represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate will be transferable only in accordance with the rules and procedures for the time being of Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg and/or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France), as the case may be, subject to the restrictions on transfer described in this Base Prospectus. Each of the persons shown in the records of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) as the beneficial holder of a particular principal amount or number of Securities represented by such Global Registered Security Certificate must look solely to Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France), as the case may be, for his share of each payment made by the Issuer or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor to the holder of such Global Registered Security Certificate and the obligations of the Issuer in respect of the relevant Securities will be discharged by payment to the holder of such Global Registered Security Certificate in respect of each amount so paid.

Exchanges

Exchange of Global Registered Security Certificates

A Global Registered Security Certificate may be exchanged in whole but not in part (free of charge) for definitive Registered Security Certificates only upon the occurrence of an Exchange Event.

An Exchange Event means:

- (a) an Event of Default (as defined in General Condition 11 (Events of Default)) has occurred and is continuing; or
- (b) if the Global Registered Security Certificate is registered in the name of a nominee for a common depository for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg or in the name of a nominee of the Common Safekeeper, as the case may be, the Issuer has been notified that Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as the case may be, has/have been closed for business for a continuous period of 14 days (other than by reason of holiday, statutory or otherwise) or has/have announced an intention permanently to cease business or has/have in fact done so and no successor clearing system is available; or
- (c) if the Global Registered Security Certificate is registered in the name of a nominee for DTC, either DTC has notified the Issuer that it is unwilling or unable to continue to act as depository for the Securities and no alternative clearing system is available or DTC has ceased to constitute a clearing agency registered under the Exchange Act and no successor clearing system is available; or
- (d) the Issuer has or will become subject to adverse tax consequences which would not be suffered were the Securities represented by the Registered Security Certificate in definitive form.

The Issuer will promptly give notice to Securityholders upon the occurrence of an Exchange Event. In the event of the occurrence of an Exchange Event as described in (a) to (c) above, Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, and/or DTC, as the case may be, acting on the instructions of any holder of an interest in such Global Registered Security Certificate may give notice to the Registrar requesting exchange and, in the event of the occurrence of an Exchange Event as described in (a) to (d) above, the Issuer may also give notice to the Registrar requesting exchange. Any exchange shall occur no later than 10 days after the date of receipt of the relevant notice by the Registrar.

Any exchanges of a Global Registered Security Certificate will be made upon presentation of the Global Registered Security Certificate at the specified office of the Registrar by the holder of it on any day (other than a Saturday or Sunday) on which banks are open for general business in the city of the specified office of the Registrar.

Deed of Covenant

Where any Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and (a) the Global Registered Security Certificate (or any part of such Global Registered Security Certificate) has become due and repayable in accordance with the Conditions of such Securities or the Maturity Date has occurred and, in either case, payment in full of the amount due has not been made to the holder of an interest in such Global Registered Security Certificate through the relevant Clearing System(s) on such date, or (b) following an Exchange Event, the Global Registered Security Certificate is not duly exchanged for Registered Security Certificates in definitive form by the date provided in the Global Registered Security Certificate, then from 8.00 p.m. (London time) on such date each holder of an interest in such Global Registered Security Certificate through the relevant Clearing System(s) will become entitled to proceed directly against the Issuer on, and subject to, the terms of the relevant Deed of Covenant, the relevant registered holder will have no further rights under the Global Registered Security Certificate (but without prejudice to the rights any person may have under the relevant Deed of Covenant).

Clearing Systems

Any reference in this Base Prospectus to Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, DTC, Euroclear Sweden, Euroclear Finland and/or Euroclear France shall, whenever the context so permits, be deemed to include a reference to any additional or alternative clearance system specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

SECTION F.5 – BOOK ENTRY CLEARANCE SYSTEMS

The information set out below is subject to any change in or reinterpretation of the rules, regulations and procedures of DTC, Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg, Euroclear Sweden, Euroclear Finland or Euroclear France (together, the Clearing Systems) currently in effect.

The information in this section concerning the Clearing Systems has been obtained from sources that the Issuers believe to be reliable, but none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and any Dealer takes any responsibility for the accuracy of such information, except that the Issuers and the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) accept responsibility for accurately reproducing such information and, as far as the Issuers and the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) are aware and are able to ascertain from information published by the relevant Clearing Systems, no facts have been omitted which would render the reproduced information inaccurate or misleading.

Investors wishing to use the facilities of any of the Clearing Systems are advised to confirm the continued applicability of the rules, regulations and procedures of the relevant Clearing System. None of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor, and any other party to the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement or the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, as the case may be, will have any responsibility or liability for any aspect of the records relating to, or payments made on account of, beneficial ownership interests in the Securities held through the facilities of any Clearing System or for maintaining, supervising or reviewing any records relating to such beneficial ownership interests.

Book-entry Systems*DTC*

DTC has advised the Issuers that it is a limited purpose trust company organised under the New York Banking Law, a banking organisation within the meaning of the New York Banking Law, a member of the Federal Reserve System, a clearing corporation within the meaning of the New York Uniform Commercial Code and a clearing agency registered pursuant to Section 17A of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. DTC holds securities that its participants (Direct Participants) deposit with DTC. DTC also facilitates the settlement among Direct Participants of sales and other securities transactions, such as transfers and pledges, in deposited securities through electronic computerised book-entry changes in Direct Participants' accounts, thereby eliminating the need for physical movement of securities certificates. Direct Participants include both U.S. and non-U.S. securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies, clearing corporations and certain other organisations. DTC is a wholly-owned subsidiary of The Depository Trust & Clearing Corporation (DTCC). DTCC is the holding company for DTC, National Securities Clearing Corporation and Fixed Income Clearing Corporation, all of which are registered clearing agencies. DTCC is owned by the users of its regulation subsidiaries. Access to the DTC system is also available to others such as securities brokers and dealers, banks and trust companies that clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with a Direct Participant, either directly or indirectly (Indirect Participants and, together with Direct Participants, Participants). More information about DTCC can be found at www.dtcc.com.

Under the rules, regulations and procedures creating and affecting DTC and its operations (the DTC Rules), DTC makes book-entry transfers of Registered Securities among Direct Participants on whose behalf it acts with respect to Securities accepted into DTC's book-entry settlement system (DTC Securities) as described below and receives and transmits distributions of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts due on DTC Securities. The DTC Rules are on file with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Direct Participants and Indirect Participants with which beneficial owners of DTC Securities (Owners) have accounts with respect to the DTC Securities similarly are required to make book-entry transfers and receive and transmit such payments on behalf of their respective Owners. Accordingly, although Owners who hold DTC Securities through Direct Participants or Indirect Participants will not possess Registered Securities, the DTC Rules, by virtue of the requirements described above, provide a mechanism by which Direct Participants will receive payments and will be able to transfer their interest in respect of the DTC Securities.

Purchases of DTC Securities under the DTC system must be made by or through Direct Participants, which will receive a credit for the DTC Securities on DTC's records. The ownership interest of each actual purchaser of each DTC Security (Beneficial Owner) is in turn to be recorded on the Direct Participant's and Indirect Participant's records. Beneficial Owners will not receive written confirmation from DTC of their purchase, but Beneficial Owners are expected to receive written confirmations providing details of the transaction, as well as periodic statements of their holdings, from the Direct Participant or Indirect Participant through which the Beneficial Owner entered into the transaction. Transfers of ownership interests in the DTC Securities are to be accomplished by entries made on the books of Participants acting on behalf of Beneficial Owners. Beneficial Owners will not receive certificates representing their ownership interests in DTC Securities, except in the event that use of the book-entry system for the DTC Securities is discontinued.

To facilitate subsequent transfers, all DTC Securities deposited by Participants with DTC are registered in the name of DTC's partnership nominee, Cede & Co, or such other name as may be requested by an authorised representative of DTC. The deposit of DTC Securities with DTC and their registration in the name of Cede & Co. or such other DTC nominee effect no change in beneficial ownership. DTC has no knowledge of the actual Beneficial Owners of the DTC Securities; DTC's records reflect only the identity of the Direct Participants to whose accounts such DTC Securities are credited, which may or may not be the Beneficial Owners. The Participants will remain responsible for keeping account of their holdings on behalf of their customers.

Conveyance of notices and other communications by DTC to Direct Participants, by Direct Participants to Indirect Participants, and by Direct Participants and Indirect Participants to Beneficial Owners will be governed by arrangements among them, subject to any statutory or regulatory requirements as may be in effect from time to time.

Redemption notices shall be sent to DTC. If less than all of the DTC Securities within an issue are being redeemed, DTC's practice is to determine by lot the amount of the interest of each Direct Participant in such issue to be redeemed.

Neither DTC nor Cede & Co. (nor any other DTC nominee) will consent or vote with respect to DTC Securities unless authorised by a Direct Participant in accordance with DTC's MMI Procedures. Under its usual procedures, DTC mails an Omnibus Proxy to the Issuer as soon as possible after the record date. The Omnibus Proxy assigns Cede & Co.'s consenting or voting rights to those Direct Participants to whose accounts the DTC Securities are credited on the record date (identified in a listing attached to the Omnibus Proxy).

Principal, interest, termination or any other amounts due on the DTC Securities will be made to Cede & Co., or such other nominee as may be requested by an authorised representative of DTC. DTC's practice is to credit Direct Participants' accounts upon DTC's receipt of funds and corresponding detail information from the Issuer or the relevant agent (or such other nominee as may be requested by an authorised representative of DTC), on the relevant payment date in accordance with their respective holdings shown in DTC's records. Payments by Participants to Beneficial Owners will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is the case with securities held for the accounts of customers, and will be the responsibility of such Participant and not of DTC or the Issuer, subject to any statutory or regulatory requirements as may be in effect from time to time. Payment of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts to DTC is the responsibility of the Issuer, disbursement of such payments to Direct Participants is the responsibility of DTC, and disbursement of such payments to the Beneficial Owners is the responsibility of Direct Participants and Indirect Participants.

Under certain circumstances, DTC will exchange the DTC Securities for definitive Registered Securities, which it will distribute to its Participants in accordance with their proportionate entitlements and which will be legended as set forth under "Subscription and Sale and Transfer and Selling Restrictions".

A Beneficial Owner shall give notice to elect to have its DTC Securities purchased or tendered, through its Participant, to the relevant agent, and shall effect delivery of such DTC Securities by causing the Direct Participant to transfer the Participant's interest in the DTC Securities, on DTC's records, to the relevant agent. The requirement for physical delivery of DTC Securities in connection with an optional tender or a mandatory purchase will be deemed satisfied when the ownership rights in the DTC Securities are transferred by Direct Participants on DTC's records and followed by a book-entry credit of tendered DTC Securities to the relevant agent's DTC account.

DTC may discontinue providing its services as depository with respect to the DTC Securities at any time by giving reasonable notice to the Issuer or the relevant agent. Under such circumstances, in the event that a successor depository is not obtained, DTC Security certificates are required to be printed and delivered.

The Issuer may decide to discontinue use of the system of book-entry-only transfers through DTC (or a successor securities depository). In that event, DTC Security certificates will be printed and delivered to DTC.

Since DTC may only act on behalf of Direct Participants, who in turn act on behalf of Indirect Participants, any Owner desiring to pledge DTC Securities to persons or entities that do not participate in DTC, or otherwise take actions with respect to such DTC Securities, will be required to withdraw its Registered Securities from DTC as described below.

Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg customers are world-wide financial institutions, including underwriters, securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies and clearing corporations. Indirect access to Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg is available to other institutions that clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with an accountholder of either system.

Euroclear Sweden

Euroclear Sweden is a subsidiary within the Euroclear group of companies. It is authorised and regulated by the Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority (Sw. Finansinspektionen) as a central securities depository within the meaning of the Regulation (EU) No 909/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 July 2014 on improving securities settlement in the European Union and on central securities depositories and amending Directives 98/26/EC and 2014/65/EU and Regulation (EU) No 236/2012, the SFIA Act and as a clearing organisation within the meaning of the Swedish Securities Market Act (2007:528 (as amended)). Swedish Securities will be issued in registered, uncertificated and dematerialised book-entry form with Euroclear Sweden. No physical notes, certificates or other physical instruments (whether in global, temporary or definitive form) will be issued in respect of the Swedish Securities. All transactions relating to the Swedish Securities (such as issuance, sale and transfer, pledge arrangements and other dispositions and redemptions) are executed as computerised book-entry registrations. Consequently, in order to effect such entries holders must establish a book-entry account through a credit institution or a securities firm acting as an account operator at Euroclear Sweden. More information regarding Euroclear Sweden and its rules and operating procedures can be found at its internet web site at <http://www.euroclear.com/sweden/sv.html>.

Euroclear Finland

Euroclear Finland, a subsidiary within the Euroclear group of companies, is authorised and regulated as a central securities deposit within the meaning of the Finnish Act on the Book-Entry System and Clearing Operations (Fin. laki arvo-osuusjärjestelmästä ja selvitystoiminnasta (348/2017, as amended)). Euroclear Finland holds securities for its customers and facilitates the clearance and settlement of securities transactions by electronic book-entry transfer between its account holders. Euroclear Finland offers clearing and settlement of securities denominated in EUR through its systems. The systems support different types of securities, equities and interest-bearing cash instruments as well as the respective derivatives. Euroclear Finland does not act as a qualified intermediary.

Euroclear France

Euroclear France is a subsidiary within the Euroclear group of companies. It is regulated by The Banque de France and the Autorité des Marchés financiers (AMF) and handles the full range of French government and corporate debt securities, global bonds, equities, warrants and investment funds. French Law Securities are issued in dematerialised form. French Law Securities must at all times be in book-entry form in compliance with Articles L.211–3 and R.211–1 of the French Code monétaire et financier. No physical notes, certificates or other physical instruments (whether in global, temporary or definitive form) will be issued in respect of the French Law Securities. All transactions relating to the French Law Securities (such as issuance, sale and transfer, pledge arrangements and other dispositions and redemptions) are executed as computerised book-entry registrations. Consequently, in order to effect such entries holders must establish a book-entry account through a credit institution or a securities firm having an account at Euroclear France.

Book-entry Ownership of and Payments in respect of DTC Securities

The Issuer may apply to DTC in order to have any Tranche of Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted in its book-entry settlement system. Upon the issue of any such Global Registered Security Certificate, DTC or its custodian will credit, on its internal book-entry system, the respective principal amounts or number of the individual beneficial interests represented by such Global Registered Security Certificate to the accounts of persons who have accounts with DTC. Such accounts initially will be designated by or on behalf of the relevant Dealer. Ownership of beneficial interests in such a Global Registered Security Certificate will be limited to Direct Participants or Indirect Participants, including, in the case of any Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate, the respective depositories of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg. Ownership of beneficial interests in a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC will be shown on, and the transfer of such ownership will be effected only through, records maintained by DTC or its nominee (with respect to the interests of Direct Participants) and the records of Direct Participants (with respect to interests of Indirect Participants).

Payments in U.S. dollars of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts in respect of a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC will be made to the order of DTC or its nominee as the registered holder of such Security. In the case of any payment in a currency other than U.S. dollars, payment will be made to the Exchange Agent on behalf of DTC or its nominee and the Exchange Agent will (in accordance with instructions received by it) remit all or a portion of such payment for credit directly to the beneficial holders of interests in the Global Registered Security Certificate in the currency in which such payment was made and/or cause all or a portion of such payment to be converted into U.S. dollars and credited to the applicable Participants' account.

The Issuer expects DTC to credit accounts of Direct Participants on the applicable payment date in accordance with their respective holdings as shown in the records of DTC unless DTC has reason to believe that it will not receive payment on such payment date. The Issuer also expects that payments by Participants to beneficial owners of Securities will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is the case with securities held for the accounts of customers, and will be the responsibility of such Participant and not the responsibility of DTC, the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) or any Agent. Payment of principal, premium, interest, termination or any other amounts, if any, on Securities to DTC is the responsibility of the Issuer.

Transfers of Securities Represented by Global Registered Security Certificates

Transfers of any interests in Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate within Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) will be effected in accordance with the customary rules and operating procedures of the relevant clearing system and will be subject to the transfer restrictions described in this Base Prospectus. The laws in some States within the United States require that certain persons take physical delivery of securities in definitive form. Consequently, the ability to transfer Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate to such persons may depend upon the ability to exchange such Securities for Securities in definitive form. Similarly, because DTC can only act on behalf of Direct Participants in the DTC system who in turn act on behalf of Indirect Participants, the ability of a person having an interest in Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC to pledge such Securities to persons or entities that do not participate in the DTC system or otherwise to take action in respect of such Securities may depend upon the ability to exchange such Securities for Securities in definitive form. The ability of any holder of Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC to resell, pledge or otherwise transfer such Securities may be impaired if the proposed transferee of such Securities is not eligible to hold such Securities through a Direct Participant or Indirect Participant in the DTC system.

Subject to compliance with the transfer restrictions applicable to the Registered Securities described under "Subscription and Sale and Transfer and Selling Restrictions", cross-market transfers between DTC, on the one hand, and directly or indirectly through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg accountholders, on the other, will be effected by the relevant clearing system in accordance with its rules and through action taken by the Registrar, the Fiscal Agent and any custodian with whom the relevant Global Registered Security Certificates have been deposited.

On or after the Issue Date of the first Tranche of any Series, transfers of Securities of such Series between accountholders in Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and transfers of Securities of such Series between participants in DTC will generally have a settlement date three business days after the trade date (T+3). The customary arrangements for delivery versus payment will apply to such transfers.

On or after the Issue Date of the first Tranche of any Series, transfers of French Cleared Securities of such Series between accountholders in Euroclear France will generally have a settlement date two business days after the trade date (T+2) in the case of transactions conducted on trading venues. The customary arrangements for delivery versus payment will apply to such transfers.

Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) have each published rules and operating procedures designed to facilitate transfers of beneficial interests in Global Registered Security Certificates among participants and accountholders of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France). However, they are under no obligation to perform or continue to perform such procedures, and such procedures may be discontinued or changed at any time. None of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, the Agents and any Dealer will be responsible for any performance by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) or their Direct or Indirect Participants or accountholders of their obligations under the rules and procedures governing their operations nor will any of them have any liability for any aspect of the records relating to or payments made on account of beneficial interests in the Securities represented by Global Registered Security Certificates or for maintaining, supervising or reviewing any records relating to such beneficial interests.

Euroclear UK and Ireland (CREST)

If so specified in the applicable Issue Terms, indirect interests in Securities will be accepted for settlement through Euroclear UK & Ireland Limited (formerly known as CRESTCo Limited) (CREST). Following their delivery into a clearing system, interests in the relevant Securities may be delivered, held and settled in CREST by means of the creation of CREST Depository Interests (CDIs) representing the interests in the relevant Securities. The CDIs will be issued by the CREST Depository Limited (the CREST Depository) to investors (CDI Holders) pursuant to the global deed poll dated 25 June 2001 (as subsequently modified, supplemented and/or restated) (the CREST Deed Poll) and will be governed by English law.

The CDIs will represent indirect interests in the interest of CREST International Nominees Limited or any other body appointed to act as nominee on behalf of the CREST Depository (the CREST Nominee) in the relevant Securities. Pursuant to the documents setting out the legal relationship of CREST with its users and participants (the CREST Manual), Securities held in global form by a common depository may be settled through CREST, and the CREST Depository will issue CDIs. The CDIs will be independent securities, constituted under English law which may be held and transferred through CREST.

Interests in the relevant Securities will be credited to the CREST Nominee's account with Euroclear and the CREST Nominee will hold such interests as nominee for the CREST Depository which will issue CDIs to the relevant CREST participants.

Each CDI will be treated by the CREST Depository as if it were a relevant Security, for the purposes of determining all rights and obligations and all amounts payable in respect of such CDI. The CREST

Depository will pass on to CDI Holders any interest or other amounts received by it as holder of the relevant Securities on trust for such CDI Holder. CDI Holders will also be able to receive from the CREST Depository notices of meetings of holders of the relevant Securities and other relevant notices issued by the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL).

Transfers of interests in Securities by a CREST participant to a participant of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg will be effected by cancellation of the CDIs and transfer of an interest in such Securities to the account of the relevant participant with Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg.

The CDIs will have the same ISIN as the ISIN of the relevant Securities and if listed do not require a separate listing.

Prospective subscribers for Securities represented by CDIs are referred to Chapter 8 of the CREST International Manual which contains the form of the CREST Deed Poll to be entered into by the CREST Depository. The rights of the CDI Holders will be governed by the arrangements between CREST, Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg and the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) and the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) including the CREST Deed Poll (in the form contained in Chapter 8 of the CREST International Manual (as defined below)) executed by the CREST Depository. These rights may be different from those of holders of Securities which are not represented by CDIs.

CDIs will be delivered, held and settled in CREST, by means of the CREST International Settlement Links Service (the CREST International Settlement Links Service). The settlement of the CDIs by means of the CREST International Settlement Links Service has the following consequences for CDI Holders:

- (a) CDI Holders will not be the legal owners of the relevant Securities. The CDIs are separate legal instruments from such Securities and represent an indirect interest in such Securities.
- (b) The relevant Securities themselves (as distinct from the CDIs representing indirect interests in such Securities) will be held in account with a custodian. The custodian will hold the relevant Securities through a clearing system. Rights in the relevant Securities will be held through custodial and depository links through the appropriate clearing systems. The legal title to the relevant Securities or to interests in such Securities will depend on the rules of the clearing system in or through which the relevant Securities are held.
- (c) Rights under the relevant Securities cannot be enforced by CDI Holders except indirectly through the intermediary depositories and custodians described above. The enforcement of rights under the relevant Securities will therefore be subject to the local law of the relevant intermediary. The rights of CDI Holders to the relevant Securities are represented by the entitlements against the CREST Depository which (through the CREST Nominee) holds interests in the relevant Securities. This could result in an elimination or reduction in the payments that otherwise would have been made in respect of the relevant Securities in the event of any insolvency or liquidation of the relevant intermediary, in particular where the relevant Securities held in clearing systems are not held in special purpose accounts and are fungible with other securities held in the same accounts on behalf of other customers of the relevant intermediaries.
- (d) The CDIs issued to CDI Holders will be constituted and issued pursuant to the CREST Deed Poll. CDI Holders will be bound by all provisions of the CREST Deed Poll and by all provisions of, or prescribed pursuant to, the CREST International Manual dated 3 January 2018 as amended, modified, varied or supplemented from time to time (the CREST International Manual) and the CREST Rules dated 1 October 2018, as amended, modified, varied or supplemented from time to time (the CREST Rules) (which, in each case, form part of the CREST Manual) applicable to the CREST International Settlement Links Service and CDI Holders must comply in full with all obligations imposed on them by such provisions.
- (e) Potential investors should note that the provisions of the CREST Deed Poll, the CREST International Manual and the CREST Rules contain indemnities, warranties, representations and undertakings to be given by CDI Holders and limitations on the liability of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and the CREST Depository.

- (f) CDI Holders may incur liabilities resulting from a breach of any such indemnities, warranties, representations and undertakings in excess of the money invested by them. The attention of potential investors is drawn to the terms of the CREST Deed Poll, the CREST International Manual and the CREST Rules, copies of which are available from CREST at 33 Cannon Street, London EC4M 5SB or by calling +44 (0) 207 849 0000 or from the CREST website at www.euroclear.com/site/public/EUI.
- (g) Potential investors should note CDI Holders may be required to pay fees, charges, costs and expenses to the CREST Depository in connection with the use of the CREST International Settlement Links Service. These will include the fees and expenses charged by the CREST Depository in respect of the provision of services by it under the CREST Deed Poll and any taxes, duties, charges, costs or expenses which may be or become payable in connection with the holding of the CDIs through the CREST International Settlement Links Service.
- (h) Potential investors should note that none of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL), any Dealer, any distributor, any Paying Agent, the Registrar and any Transfer Agent will have any responsibility for the performance by any intermediaries or their respective direct or indirect participants or accountholders of their respective obligations under the rules and procedures governing their operations.

SECTION F.6 – ERISA MATTERS

The U.S. Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (ERISA), prescribes rules pertaining to the management of "plan assets" of pension and other employee benefit plans subject to ERISA (ERISA Plans) and the appointment of parties who may manage such assets. Section 406 of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code prohibit ERISA Plans, as well as those plans and other arrangements that are not subject to ERISA but that are subject to Section 4975 of the Code, such as individual retirement accounts and Keogh plans (together with ERISA Plans, Plans), and certain entities in which Plans invest, from engaging in certain transactions involving "plan assets" with persons who are "parties in interest" under ERISA or "disqualified persons" under Section 4975 of the Code with respect to such Plans.

The rules and regulations applicable under ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code contain certain "look-through" provisions. Under these provisions, if a Plan invests in an equity interest of an entity, the assets of the Plan will be deemed to include not only the equity interest but also an undivided interest in each of the underlying assets of the entity, unless an exception to the look-through rule were to apply. An "equity interest" is defined under the rule as any interest in an entity other than an instrument treated as indebtedness under applicable local law that has no substantial equity features. No assurance can be given that the Securities will not be treated as equity interests for these purposes. The look-through rule would not apply if the Securities or the Issuer qualified for an exception available under applicable rules. If a Plan were to acquire an interest in the Securities, and no exception to the look-through rule were to apply, the Issuer could be regarded as a plan asset entity and its assets and transactions could be attributed to the Plan investor. In this event, the Plan investor could be viewed as having improperly delegated to the Issuer responsibility for the management of the Plan's assets, and the transactions and holdings of the Issuer might result in violations of the prohibited transaction rules of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code, as well as violations of other rules applicable under ERISA.

In addition, certain governmental plans, church plans and non-U.S. plans (Non-ERISA Arrangements) are not subject to such provisions of ERISA or the Code, but may be subject to similar rules under other applicable laws or regulations.

Based on the foregoing, the Securities may not be acquired or held by a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement or any party acting on behalf of or using the assets of a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement. Any purchaser or subsequent transferee of the Securities or any interest therein will be deemed to have represented by its purchase or holding of the Securities or any interest therein that it is not a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement and is not acting on behalf of or using the assets of a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement.

SECTION F.7 – SUBSCRIPTION AND SALE AND TRANSFER AND SELLING RESTRICTIONS

Subject to the terms and conditions contained in an amended and restated Dealership Agreement dated 14 December 2023 (as further amended, supplemented and/or restated, the Dealership Agreement) between, inter alia, Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, the Arranger and the Dealers (as defined in the Dealership Agreement), the Securities will be offered on a continuous basis by the Issuer to the Dealers. However, each Issuer reserves the right to sell Securities directly on its own behalf to other entities and to offer Securities in specified jurisdictions directly to the public through distributors, in accordance with all applicable rules and regulations. The Dealership Agreement also provides for Securities to be issued in syndicated Tranches which are jointly and severally underwritten by two or more Dealers.

The Issuer and the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) have agreed to indemnify the Dealers against certain liabilities in connection with the offer and sale of the Securities issued by such Issuer, including in relation to liabilities arising under the Securities Act. The Dealership Agreement may be terminated in relation to all the Dealers and the Arranger or any of them by Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor or, in relation to itself and Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor, by any Dealer or the Arranger, at any time on giving not less than ten days' notice.

United States of America

The Securities, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee have not been and will not be registered under the Securities Act or any state securities laws. Trading in the Securities has not been approved by the United States Commodity Futures Trading Commission under the United States Commodity Exchange Act, as amended. No issue of Securities may be offered or sold within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons except, in the case of Notes issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI and offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A, to "qualified institutional buyers" (QIBs), each purchasing (or holding) for its own account or for the account of one or more QIBs, in a transaction meeting the requirements of Rule 144A and in accordance with all applicable securities laws of the States of the United States and any other jurisdiction. Terms used in this section have the meanings given to them by Regulation S or Rule 144A under the Securities Act.

Each Dealer has represented and agreed that it, its affiliates (if any) and any person acting on its or their behalf (i) have not offered or sold and will not offer or sell any Securities at any time within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons, except, in the case of Notes issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI and offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, to persons it reasonably believes to be QIBs, each purchasing (or holding) for its own account or for the account of one or more QIBs and (ii) at or prior to confirmation of sale of Securities offered in reliance on Regulation S, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, it will have sent to each distributor, dealer or person receiving a selling concession, fee or other remuneration that purchases such Securities from it a confirmation or other notice stating that such distributor, dealer or person is subject to the restrictions on offers and sales of such Securities within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons that are set forth herein.

An offer or sale of Securities within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, a U.S. person by any dealer (whether or not participating in the offering) at any time may violate the registration requirements of the Securities Act if such offer or sale is made otherwise than in accordance with an available exemption from registration under the Securities Act.

The minimum aggregate principal amount of Notes which may be purchased by a QIB pursuant to Rule 144A is U.S.$100,000 (or the approximate equivalent thereof in any other Specified Currency). requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act or the information furnishing requirements of Rule 12g3-2(b) thereunder, Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI have agreed to furnish to holders of Notes offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A and to prospective purchasers designated by such holders, upon request, such information as may be required by Rule 144A(d)(4).

Each issuance of Securities shall be subject to such additional U.S. selling restrictions as the Issuer and the relevant Dealer(s) may agree with the Issuer as a term of the issuance and purchase or, as the case may be, subscription of such Securities. Each Dealer agrees that it shall offer, sell and deliver such Securities only in compliance with such additional U.S. selling restrictions.

Pursuant to the Chilean Securities Market Law, a public offering of securities is an offering that is addressed to the general public or to certain specific categories or groups thereof. - (b) the offering of the Securities to be issued under the Programme has not been approved or licensed by the UAE Central Bank, the UAE Securities and Commodities Authority (the SCA), the Dubai Financial Services Authority (the DFSA), the Financial Services Regulatory Authority or any other relevant licensing authorities in the UAE, and accordingly does not constitute an offer of securities for public subscription in the UAE in accordance with the commercial companies law, Federal Decree-Law No. 32 of 2021 (as amended), SCA Resolution No. 9 R.M. of 2016 Concerning the Regulation of Mutual Funds (as amended), SCA Resolution No. 11 R.M. of 2016 Concerning the Regulation of Offering and Issuing Shares in Public Joint-Stock Companies (as amended) or SCA Resolution No. 3 R.M. of 2017 Concerning the Organisation of Promotion and Introductions (together, the SCA Resolutions) or otherwise. Accordingly, the Securities to be issued under the Programme may not be offered to the public in the UAE (including the Dubai International Financial Centre); and
- (c) the Base Prospectus is strictly private and confidential and is being issued to a limited number of institutional and individual investors in the UAE:
 - (i) who fall within the exceptions to the SCA Resolutions and who qualify as Qualified Investors as defined under the SCA Resolutions;
 - (ii) upon their request and confirmation that they understand that the Securities have not been approved or licensed by or registered with the UAE Central Bank, the SCA, DFSA or any other relevant licensing authorities or governmental agencies in the UAE; and
 - (iii) must not be provided to any person other than the original recipient, and may not be reproduced.

Uruguay

Securities issued under the Programme are not and will not be registered with the Financial Services Superintendence of the Central Bank of Uruguay to be publicly offered in Uruguay, but will only be placed relying on private placement exemption (oferta privada) pursuant to section 2 of law 18,627. None of the Issuers qualify as an investment fund regulated by Uruguayan law 16,774, as amended. Each Dealer has represented and/or agreed (as applicable), and each further Dealer appointed under the Programme will be required to represent and/or agree (as applicable), that Securities placed in Uruguay will be placed relying on a private placement (oferta privada) pursuant to Section 2 of law 18,627.

General

These selling restrictions may be amended by the agreement of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and the relevant Dealers. Any such amendment will be set out in either the subscription agreement or the dealer accession letter, as relevant, and/or the Pricing Supplement issued in respect of the issue of Securities to which it relates or in a supplement to this Base Prospectus.

No action has been taken or will be taken in any jurisdiction that would permit a public offering of any of the Securities, or possession or distribution of this Base Prospectus or any other offering material or any Issue Terms, in any country or jurisdiction where, or under circumstances in which, action for that purpose is required and has not been taken. No offers, sales, resales or deliveries of any Securities, or distribution of any offering material relating to any Securities, may be made in or from any jurisdiction except in circumstances which will result in compliance with any applicable laws and regulations and which will not impose any obligation on any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any Dealer.

Each Dealer has agreed that it will comply with all relevant laws, regulations and directives in each jurisdiction in which it purchases, offers, sells or delivers Securities or has in its possession or distributes this Base Prospectus, any other offering material or any Issue Terms, in all cases at its own expense, and none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and any other Dealer shall have responsibility therefor.

SECTION F.8 – TAXATION OF SECURITIES

GENERAL

Purchasers of Securities may be required to pay taxes (including stamp taxes) and other charges in accordance with the laws and practices of the country of purchase in addition to the issue price of each Security.

TRANSACTIONS INVOLVING SECURITIES MAY HAVE TAX CONSEQUENCES FOR POTENTIAL PURCHASERS WHICH MAY DEPEND, AMONGST OTHER THINGS, UPON THE STATUS OF THE POTENTIAL PURCHASER AND LAWS RELATING TO TRANSFER AND REGISTRATION TAXES. INVESTORS SHOULD ALSO BE AWARE THAT THE TAX LEGISLATION OF THE COUNTRY IN WHICH THE INVESTOR IS RESIDENT AND OF THE RELEVANT ISSUER'S COUNTRY OF INCORPORATION MAY HAVE AN IMPACT ON THE INCOME RECEIVED FROM THE SECURITIES. POTENTIAL PURCHASERS WHO ARE IN ANY DOUBT ABOUT THE TAX POSITION OF ANY ASPECT OF TRANSACTIONS INVOLVING SECURITIES SHOULD CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS.

Unless otherwise expressly provided below, the relevant Issuer, where the relevant Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and, where the relevant Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, do not accept responsibility for the withholding of taxes at source. This statement should be read in conjunction with General Condition 9 (Taxation).

References in this Section F.8 to a "Member State" shall be to a Member State of the EEA.

UNITED STATES FEDERAL TAX CONSIDERATIONS

General

The following is a summary of certain U.S. federal income and estate tax consequences that may be relevant to the ownership and disposition of Securities that are in registered form for U.S. federal income tax purposes. This summary does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all of the tax consequences that may be relevant to the decision to purchase Securities by any particular investor, including tax consequences that arise from rules of general application to all taxpayers or to certain classes of taxpayers or that are generally believed to be known by investors. For example, this summary does not address the tax consequences to (i) persons that may be subject to special treatment under U.S. federal income tax law, such as banks, insurance companies, thrift institutions, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, tax-exempt organisations, traders in securities that elect to mark to market for tax purposes and dealers in securities, (ii) persons that will hold the Securities as part of a "straddle", "conversion" or other integrated investment transaction or a constructive sale for U.S. federal income tax purposes, (iii) U.S. Holders (as defined below) whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar, (iv) Non-U.S. Holders (as defined below) who recognise gain in respect of a Security in a taxable year in which the Non-U.S. Holder is present in the United States for 183 days or more, (v) persons that do not hold the Securities as capital assets, or (vi) except where the context indicates otherwise, persons that did not purchase the Securities for cash in the initial offering.

This summary is based on the Code, U.S. Treasury regulations and judicial and administrative interpretations thereof, in each case as in effect on the date hereof. Changes to any of the foregoing could affect the tax consequences described below, possibly with retroactive effect. Further, this summary does not describe any tax consequences arising out of the tax laws of any state, local or non-U.S. jurisdiction, or any U.S. federal taxes other than income taxes and, to a limited extent, estate taxes. Accordingly, this summary does not address alternative minimum tax consequences, special tax accounting rules under Section 451(b) of the Code, or the Medicare tax on investment income. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal, state, local and non-U.S. tax consequences of owning and disposing of Securities in light of their own particular circumstances.

This discussion does not address the U.S. federal tax consequences of the ownership or disposition of the Underlying that a beneficial owner may receive in respect of a Physical Delivery Security. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the relevant U.S. federal tax consequences of the ownership and disposition of the Underlying.

The Issuer will not attempt to ascertain whether any issuer of any Shares, shares that underlie an Index or any other equity interest to which the Securities relate should be treated as a "passive foreign investment company" (PFIC) within the meaning of Section 1297 of the Code or a "United States real property holding corporation" (USRPHC) within the meaning of Section 897 of the Code (including a non-corporate entity treated as a USRPHC for relevant purposes of Section 897 of the Code). If any relevant issuer were so treated, certain adverse U.S. federal income tax consequences might apply to a Non-U.S. Holder, in the case of a USRPHC, and to a U.S. Holder, in the case of a PFIC, upon the sale, exchange or other disposition of the Securities. If a U.S. Holder owns or is deemed to own an equity interest in a PFIC for any taxable year, the U.S. Holder would generally be required to file IRS Form 8621 with its annual U.S. federal income tax return for that year, subject to certain exceptions. Failure to timely file the form may extend the time for tax assessment by the IRS. Prospective purchasers of the Securities are urged to refer to information filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission or another governmental authority by the relevant issuers and consult their tax advisors regarding the possible consequences if any relevant issuer is or becomes a USRPHC or PFIC.

For the purposes hereof, the term U.S. Holder means a beneficial owner of the Securities that for U.S. federal income tax purposes is (i) an individual citizen or resident of the United States, (ii) a corporation organized in or under the laws of the United States or any state thereof or the District of Columbia or (iii) an estate or trust the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income taxation regardless of its source. The term Non-U.S. Holder means a beneficial owner of the Securities that for U.S. federal income tax purposes is a non-resident alien individual, a foreign corporation or a foreign estate or trust.

If a partnership (including any entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes) holds the Securities, the tax treatment of a partner generally will depend on the status of the partner and upon the activities of the partnership. Prospective purchasers that are partnerships should consult their tax advisors regarding the tax consequences to their partners of an investment in the Securities.

Because the Issuer does not expect to issue (i) Preference Share Linked Securities, (ii) Securities with Target Redemption Barrier Event or (iii) certain Securities designated as "Non-U.S. Securities" (as discussed below) to U.S. Holders, the discussion below does not address the U.S. federal income tax consequences to a U.S. Holder of purchasing, owning, and disposing of such Securities.

This discussion may be supplemented, modified or superseded by further discussion regarding U.S. federal tax considerations set out in the applicable Issue Terms, which a prospective purchaser is urged to read before making a decision to invest in the relevant Securities.

Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders

Securities Treated as Debt

The following discussion applies only to Securities that the Issuer intends to treat as debt instruments for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as evidenced by the statement under "United States Tax Considerations" in the applicable Issue Terms (Debt Designated Securities).

It generally assumes that the Issuer's intended treatment of the Securities as debt instruments, as well as any specific treatments indicated in the applicable Issue Terms (e.g., as variable rate debt instruments or contingent payment debt instruments, each as discussed below), are respected. The Issuer's intended treatment of the Securities is not binding on the IRS, and the IRS could disagree with it, in which case the timing and character of a U.S. Holder's taxable income in respect of the Securities could be adversely affected. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors about the risk that the IRS challenges the Issuer's treatment of the Securities. Please review the discussion under "Possible Alternative Tax Treatment" regarding the risk of an alternate treatment of the Securities.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

The general discussion below is subject to special rules applicable to Short-Term Securities, Contingent Securities and Foreign Currency Contingent Securities as described below.

Interest Payments on Securities

Payments of qualified stated interest, as defined below under "Original Issue Discount", will be taxable to a U.S. Holder as ordinary interest income at the time that such payments are accrued or are received, in accordance with the U.S. Holder's method of tax accounting. Instalment payments on Securities providing for instalment payments will not be taxable to a U.S. Holder to the extent such payments are attributable to the repayment of principal, but will reduce the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security, as discussed below.

If such payments of interest are made in respect of a Security that is denominated in a single currency other than the U.S. dollar (for purposes of this discussion, a foreign currency), the amount of interest income realised by a U.S. Holder that uses the cash method of tax accounting (a cash-method holder) will be the U.S. dollar value of the currency payment based on the spot rate of exchange on the date of receipt regardless of whether the payment in fact is converted into U.S. dollars. No foreign currency gain or loss should be recognised by a cash-method holder with respect to the receipt of such payment (other than foreign currency gain or loss realised on the disposition of the currency received). In the case of a Security that provides for payments in U.S. dollars determined by reference to a single foreign currency, a cash-method holder generally should recognise interest income on the Security in an amount equal to the U.S. dollars received. Both types of Securities are referred to herein as "Foreign Currency Securities". A U.S. Holder that uses the accrual method of tax accounting (an accrual-method holder) will accrue interest income on a Foreign Currency Security in the relevant foreign currency and translate the amount accrued into U.S. dollars based on:

- the average exchange rate in effect during the interest accrual period, or portion thereof within the holder's taxable year; or
- at the holder's election, at the spot rate of exchange on (1) the last day of the accrual period, or the last day of the taxable year within the accrual period if the accrual period spans more than one taxable year, or (2) the date of receipt, if that date is within five business days of the last day of the accrual period.

Such an election must be applied consistently by the accrual-method holder to all foreign currency debt instruments from year to year and can be changed only with the consent of the IRS. An accrual-method holder will recognise foreign currency gain or loss on the receipt of an interest payment made on a Foreign Currency Security if the spot rate of exchange on the date the payment is received differs from the rate applicable to a previous accrual of that interest income. Such foreign currency gain or loss will be treated as ordinary income or loss, but generally will not be treated as an adjustment to interest income received on the Security.

Taxable Disposition of Securities

A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Security generally will equal the cost of that Security to the holder, increased by any amounts includible in income by the holder as original issue discount (OID) and market discount (each as described below) and reduced by any amortised premium and any payments on the Security other than payments of qualified stated interest (each as described below).

In the case of a Foreign Currency Security, the cost of the Security to a U.S. Holder generally should be the U.S. dollar value of the foreign currency purchase price on the date of purchase. In the case of a Foreign Currency Security that is traded on an established securities market, a U.S. Holder generally should determine the U.S. dollar value of the cost of the Security by translating the amount paid in foreign currency into its U.S. dollar value at the spot rate of exchange (1) on the settlement date of the purchase, in the case of a cash-method holder, and (2) on the trade date, in the case of an accrual-method holder, unless the holder elects to use the spot rate applicable to cash-method holders. Such an election by an accrual-method holder must be applied consistently by the accrual-method holder to all debt instruments from year to year and can be changed only with the consent of the IRS. The amount of any subsequent adjustments to a U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Foreign Currency Security in respect of OID, market discount and premium will be determined in the manner described under "Original Issue Discount", "Market Discount" and "Securities Purchased at a Premium" below.

Upon the sale, exchange, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Security (each, a taxable disposition), a U.S. Holder generally will recognise gain or loss equal to the difference between (1) the amount realised on the taxable disposition, less any accrued qualified stated interest, which will be treated as a payment of interest and taxed in the manner described above under "Interest Payments on Securities", and (2) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the Security.

If a U.S. Holder receives a currency other than the U.S. dollar in respect of the taxable disposition of a Foreign Currency Security, the amount realised generally should be the U.S. dollar value of the currency received calculated at the spot rate of exchange on the date of the taxable disposition of the Security. In the case of a taxable disposition of a Foreign Currency Security that is traded on an established securities market, a U.S. Holder that receives a currency other than the U.S. dollar generally should determine the amount realised by translating that currency into its U.S. dollar value at the spot rate of exchange (1) on the settlement date of the taxable disposition, in the case of a cash-method holder and (2) on the trade date, in the case of an accrual-method holder, unless the accrual-method holder elects to use the spot rate applicable to cash-method holders. Such an election by an accrual-method holder must be applied consistently by the accrual-method holder to all debt instruments from year to year and can be changed only with the consent of the IRS.

Gain or loss recognised by a U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Security (other than a Short-Term Security, Foreign Currency Security, Contingent Security, Foreign Currency Contingent Security or Market Discount Security, each as discussed below) generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder has held the Security for more than one year at the time of the taxable disposition and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise.

Gain or loss recognised by a U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Foreign Currency Security generally will be treated as ordinary income or loss to the extent that the gain or loss is attributable to changes in exchange rates during the period in which the U.S. Holder held the Security. A U.S. Holder will also recognise ordinary income or loss upon the receipt of instalment payments that are attributable to principal equal to the gain or loss attributable to changes in exchange rates. A U.S. Holder might be required to file a disclosure statement with the IRS if the U.S. Holder recognises foreign currency loss above certain thresholds (as described below under "Reportable Transactions").

Original Issue Discount

Securities with a term greater than one year may be issued with OID for United States federal income tax purposes (such Securities, OID Securities). U.S. Holders generally must accrue OID in gross income over the term of an OID Security on a constant yield basis, regardless of their regular method of tax accounting. As a result, U.S. Holders may recognise taxable income in respect of an OID Security in advance of the receipt of cash attributable to such income.

OID generally will arise if the stated redemption price at maturity of a Security exceeds its issue price by an amount equal to or greater than 0.25 per cent. of the Security's stated redemption price at maturity multiplied by the number of complete years to maturity. In the case of a Security providing for instalment payments (i.e., payments prior to maturity other than qualified stated interest), this test is generally applied based on the Security's weighted average maturity. OID may arise if a Security is issued at a discount to its principal amount, and may also arise if a Security has particular interest payment characteristics, such as interest holidays, interest payable in additional securities or stepped interest. For this purpose, the issue price of a Security is the first price at which a substantial amount of Securities of that issue is sold for cash, other than to bond houses, brokers or similar persons or organisations acting in the capacity of underwriters, placement agents or wholesalers. The stated redemption price at maturity of a Security is the sum of all payments due under the Security other than payments of qualified stated interest. The term qualified stated interest generally means stated interest that is unconditionally payable in cash or property, other than debt instruments of the issuer, at least annually during the entire term of a Security at a single fixed rate of interest or, under particular conditions, based on one or more floating interest rates described below under "Variable Rate Debt Instruments".

Under the OID rules, certain contingencies, including those that are remote, are disregarded for purposes of determining qualified stated interest on a Security. However, if a remote contingency actually occurs, the Security could be treated as retired and reissued with OID. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the application of these rules.

For each taxable year of a U.S. Holder, the amount of OID that must be included in gross income in respect of an OID Security will be the sum of the daily portions of OID for each day during that taxable year or any portion of the taxable year in which the U.S. Holder holds the OID Security. Daily portions are determined by allocating to each day in an accrual period a pro rata portion of the OID allocable to that accrual period. Accrual periods may be of any length and may vary in length over the term of an OID Security. However, accrual periods may not be longer than one year, and each scheduled payment of principal or interest must occur on the first day or the final day of an accrual period.

The amount of OID allocable to any accrual period generally will equal (1) the product of the OID Security's adjusted issue price at the beginning of the accrual period multiplied by its yield to maturity (as adjusted to take into account the length of the accrual period), less (2) the amount, if any, of qualified stated interest allocable to that accrual period. The adjusted issue price of an OID Security at the beginning of any accrual period will equal the issue price of the OID Security, as defined above, (1) increased by previously accrued OID from prior accrual periods, and (2) reduced by any payment made on the Security, other than payments of qualified stated interest, on or before the first day of the accrual period.

The Securities may have special redemption, repayment or interest rate reset features, as indicated in the applicable Issue Terms, that may affect whether a Security is an OID Security and, if so, the proper timing of recognition of the OID by a U.S. Holder. Securities containing such features may be subject to special rules that differ from the general rules discussed herein. Accordingly, prospective purchasers of Securities with such features should consult their tax advisors regarding these special rules.

In the case of an OID Security that is also a Foreign Currency Security, a U.S. Holder should determine the U.S. dollar amount includible in income as OID for each accrual period by calculating the amount of OID allocable to that accrual period in the relevant foreign currency, using the constant-yield method described above and translating that amount into U.S. dollars using the average exchange rate in effect during that accrual period (or a portion thereof), or, at the U.S. Holder's election, at the spot rate of exchange on (1) the last day of the accrual period, or the last day of the taxable year within the accrual period if the accrual period spans more than one taxable year, or (2) on the date such OID is treated as paid (as described in the following paragraph), if that date is within five business days of the last day of the accrual period. Such an election must be applied consistently by the U.S. Holder to all Foreign Currency Securities from year to year and can be revoked only with the consent of the IRS.

Each payment on an OID Security that is a Foreign Currency Security, other than payments of qualified stated interest, generally will be viewed first as a payment of previously accrued OID to the extent thereof, with the payment attributed first to the earliest accrued OID, and then as a payment of principal. Upon the receipt of an amount attributable to OID, whether in connection with a payment of an amount that is not qualified stated interest or the taxable disposition of the OID Security, a U.S. Holder will recognise foreign currency gain or loss that is ordinary income or loss measured by the difference between (1) the amount received and (2) the corresponding amount(s) previously accrued. The amount received will be translated into U.S. dollars at the spot rate of exchange on the date of receipt, in the case of a payment on the OID Security, or on the date of the taxable disposition of the OID Security. The corresponding amount(s) accrued will be determined by using the rate(s) of exchange applicable to such previous accrual(s). Upon a taxable disposition of the Security, the amount of foreign currency income or loss recognised will be limited by the overall amount of gain or loss recognised on the taxable disposition.

A U.S. Holder that purchases an OID Security for an amount less than or equal to the remaining redemption amount (as defined below), but in excess of the OID Security's adjusted issue price, generally is permitted to reduce the daily portions of OID by a fraction. The numerator of this fraction is the acquisition premium (as defined below) and the denominator of the fraction is the excess of the remaining redemption amount over the OID Security's adjusted issue price. For the purposes of this section, acquisition premium means the excess of the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in an OID Security over the OID Security's adjusted issue price and remaining redemption amount means the sum of all amounts payable on an OID Security after the purchase date other than payments of qualified stated interest. In the case of a Foreign Currency Security, the rules described in this paragraph are applied using units of the relevant foreign currency.

Variable Rate Debt Instruments

Certain Securities may be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as variable rate debt instruments (VRDIs). Prospective purchasers should note that other Securities providing for variable rates of interest are treated not as VRDIs but as "contingent payment debt instruments", with consequences discussed below under "Contingent Payment Debt Instruments".

Stated interest on a VRDI that provides for a single variable rate (a Single-Rate VRDI) will be treated as qualified stated interest and will be taxable to a U.S. Holder as ordinary interest income at the time it accrues or is received, in accordance with the U.S. Holder's method of tax accounting. If the stated principal amount of a Single-Rate VRDI exceeds its issue price by an amount equal to or greater than the de minimis amount described above under "Original Issue Discount", this excess will be treated as OID that a U.S. Holder must include in income as it accrues, generally in accordance with the constant-yield method described above under "Original Issue Discount". The constant-yield accrual of OID on a VRDI is determined by substituting the value of the variable rate on the issue date (or, in certain cases, a fixed rate that reflects the yield that is reasonably expected for the VRDI) for each scheduled payment of the variable rate. A fixed rate for an initial period of one year or less followed by a variable rate where the variable rate on the issue date is intended to approximate the fixed rate (which will be conclusively presumed if the value of the variable rate on the issue date does not differ from the value of the fixed rate by more than 0.25 per cent.) will be treated as a single variable rate for the purposes of this and the next paragraph.

Different rules may apply to a VRDI that provides for (i) multiple variable rates or (ii) one or more variable rates and a single fixed rate (other than a fixed rate described in the preceding paragraph) (a Multiple-Rate VRDI). Under applicable Treasury regulations, in order to determine the amount of qualified stated interest and OID (if any) in respect of a Multiple-Rate VRDI, an equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument must be constructed. The equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument is constructed in the following manner: (i) if the Multiple-Rate VRDI contains a fixed rate, that fixed rate is converted to a variable rate that preserves the fair market value of the Security and then (ii) each variable rate (including a variable rate determined under (i) above) is converted to a fixed rate substitute (which generally will be the value of that variable rate as of the issue date of the Multiple-Rate VRDI (or, in certain cases, a fixed rate that reflects the yield that is reasonably expected for the VRDI)) (the equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument). The rules discussed in "Original Issue Discount" are then applied to the equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument to determine the amount, if any, of OID and the amount of qualified stated interest. A U.S. Holder will be required to include any such OID in income for U.S. federal income tax purposes as it accrues, in accordance with a constant-yield method based on a compounding of interest, as described above under "Original Issue Discount".

The U.S. Holder is required to make adjustments to income to account for differences between actual payments on the Multiple-Rate VRDI and payments on the equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument. Prospective purchasers of Multiple-Rate VRDIs should consult their tax advisors regarding the rules applicable to these Securities.

Upon the taxable disposition of a VRDI, a U.S. Holder generally will recognise capital gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount realised (other than amounts attributable to accrued qualified stated interest, which will be treated as described above under "Interest Payments on Securities") and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the VRDI. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a VRDI will equal the amount the U.S. Holder paid to purchase the VRDI, increased by the amounts of OID (if any) the U.S. Holder has previously included in income with respect to the VRDI and reduced by any payments the U.S. Holder has received other than qualified stated interest. Such gain or loss generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder has held the VRDI for more than one year at the time of the taxable disposition and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise. Special rules apply to VRDIs that are Foreign Currency Securities, Market Discount Securities and Securities purchased at a premium, as discussed above and below.

Contingent Payment Debt Instruments

Certain Securities may be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as contingent payment debt instruments (Contingent Securities). Under applicable U.S. Treasury regulations, interest on a Contingent Security is treated as OID and must be accrued on a constant-yield basis using (i) a yield to maturity that reflects the rate at which the Issuer would issue a comparable fixed-rate instrument with no contingent payments but with terms and conditions otherwise similar to the Contingent Security (the comparable yield) and (ii) a projected payment schedule determined by the Issuer at the time the Contingent Security is issued (the projected payment schedule). This projected payment schedule must include each non-contingent payment on the Contingent Security and an estimated amount for each contingent payment, and must produce the comparable yield.

The Issuer is generally required to provide to holders, solely for U.S. federal income tax purposes, a schedule of the projected amounts of payments on the Contingent Securities. If required in respect of an issue of Securities, the applicable Issue Terms will either contain the comparable yield and projected payment schedule, or will provide contact information through which a U.S. Holder of a Contingent Security can submit a request for this information.

THE COMPARABLE YIELD AND PROJECTED PAYMENT SCHEDULE ARE NOT DETERMINED FOR ANY PURPOSE OTHER THAN FOR THE DETERMINATION OF INTEREST ACCRUALS AND ADJUSTMENTS THEREOF IN RESPECT OF THE CONTINGENT SECURITIES FOR U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX PURPOSES. THEY ARE BASED UPON A NUMBER OF ASSUMPTIONS AND ESTIMATES AND DO NOT CONSTITUTE A PROJECTION OR REPRESENTATION REGARDING THE ACTUAL AMOUNTS PAYABLE TO THE HOLDERS OF, OR THE ACTUAL YIELD ON, THE CONTINGENT SECURITIES.

A U.S. Holder generally will be bound by the comparable yield and the projected payment schedule determined by the Issuer unless the U.S. Holder determines its own comparable yield and projected payment schedule and explicitly and timely discloses and justifies such schedule to the IRS. The Issuer's determination, however, is not binding on the IRS, and it is possible that the IRS could conclude that some other comparable yield or projected payment schedule should be used instead.

The amount of OID includible in income, as interest, by a U.S. Holder of a Contingent Security is the sum of the daily portions of OID with respect to the Contingent Security for each day during the taxable year or portion of the taxable year in which the U.S. Holder holds the Contingent Security, generally as described above in "Original Issue Discount" (determined by substituting in that discussion the comparable yield for the "yield to maturity" and the projected payment schedule for the actual payments on the Security and treating no payment as qualified stated interest). Any net differences between actual payments received by the U.S. Holder on the Contingent Security in a taxable year and the projected amounts of those payments will be accounted for as additional interest (in the case of a net positive adjustment) or as an offset to interest income in respect of the Contingent Security (in the case of a net negative adjustment) for that taxable year. If the net negative adjustment for a taxable year exceeds the amount of interest on the Contingent Security for that year, the excess will be treated as ordinary loss in that year, but only to the extent the U.S. Holder's total interest inclusions on the Contingent Security exceed the total amount of any ordinary loss in respect of the Contingent Security claimed by the U.S. Holder under this rule in prior taxable years. Such a loss (as well as any ordinary loss incurred in connection with the taxable disposition of a Contingent Security, as described in the following paragraph) is not treated as a miscellaneous itemised deduction (for which a deduction would be unavailable or, beginning in 2026, available only to a limited extent). Any net negative adjustment that is not allowed as an ordinary loss for the taxable year is carried forward to the next taxable year, and is taken into account in determining whether the U.S. Holder has a net positive or negative adjustment for that year. Any net negative adjustment that is carried forward to a taxable year in which the U.S. Holder sells or taxably disposes of the Contingent Security reduces the U.S. Holder's amount realised on the sale or other taxable disposition.

Upon the taxable disposition of a Contingent Security prior to its stated maturity, a U.S. Holder generally will recognise taxable income or loss equal to the difference between the amount received from the taxable disposition and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Contingent Security. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Contingent Security will equal the cost thereof, increased by any interest income the U.S. Holder has previously accrued (determined by taking into account any adjustments made because the U.S. Holder purchased the Contingent Security at more or less than its adjusted issue price, as discussed in the next paragraph, but not taking into account adjustments due to differences between projected and actual payments) and decreased by the projected amounts of any payments previously made on the Contingent Security (without regard to actual amounts paid). At maturity, a U.S. Holder will be treated as receiving the projected amount for that date (reduced by any carryforward of a net negative adjustment), and any difference between the amount received and that projected amount will be treated as a positive or negative adjustment governed by the rules described above. A U.S. Holder generally must treat any income realised on the taxable disposition of a Contingent Security as interest income and any loss as ordinary loss to the extent of previous interest inclusions (reduced by the total amount of net negative adjustments previously taken into account as ordinary losses) and the balance as capital loss, the deductibility of which is subject to limitations. If a U.S. Holder recognises a loss above certain thresholds, the U.S. Holder may be required to file a disclosure statement with the IRS (as described below under "Reportable Transactions"). U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding this reporting obligation.

The discussions below under "Market Discount" and "Securities Purchased at a Premium" do not apply to Contingent Securities. If a U.S. Holder purchases a Contingent Security for an amount that is less than its adjusted issue price, the U.S. Holder must (i) make a positive adjustment increasing the interest the U.S. Holder would otherwise accrue to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in interest rates and/or (ii) make a positive adjustment increasing the ordinary income (or decreasing the ordinary loss) that the U.S. Holder would otherwise recognise upon the date of a projected payment to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in expectations as to the amount of that projected payment. If a U.S. Holder purchases a Contingent Security for an amount that is greater than its adjusted issue price, the U.S. Holder must (i) make a negative adjustment decreasing the interest that the U.S. Holder would otherwise accrue to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in interest rates and/or (ii) make a negative adjustment decreasing the ordinary income (or increasing the ordinary loss) that the U.S. Holder would otherwise recognise upon the date of a projected payment to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in expectations as to the amount of that projected payment.

Special rules may apply if all the remaining payments on a Contingent Security become fixed substantially contemporaneously. For this purpose, payments will be treated as fixed if the remaining contingencies with respect to them are remote or incidental. Under these rules, a U.S. Holder would be required to account for the difference between the original projected payments and the fixed payments in a reasonable manner over the period to which the difference relates. In addition, a U.S. Holder would be required to make adjustments to, among other things, its accrual periods and its tax basis in the Contingent Security. The character of any gain or loss on a sale or other taxable disposition of the Contingent Security also might be affected. If one or more (but not all) contingent payments on a Contingent Security became fixed more than six months prior to the relevant payment date(s), a U.S. Holder would be required to account for the difference between the original projected payment(s) and the fixed payment(s) on a present value basis. Prospective purchasers of Contingent Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the application of these rules.

Foreign Currency Contingent Payment Debt Instruments

Special rules apply to determine the accrual of OID and the amount, timing, and character of any gain or loss on a Security that is a contingent payment debt instrument denominated in, or whose payments are determined by reference to, a foreign currency (a Foreign Currency Contingent Security). The term "Foreign Currency Contingent Security" also applies to certain debt instruments denominated in, or providing for payments determined by reference to, multiple currencies. The discussions below under "Securities Purchased at a Premium" and "Market Discount" do not apply to Foreign Currency Contingent Securities.

Under these rules, a U.S. Holder of a Foreign Currency Contingent Security generally will be required to accrue OID in the foreign currency in which the Foreign Currency Contingent Security is denominated, if applicable, or in the foreign currency with reference to which payments on the Security are determined (or, in the case of a Foreign Currency Contingent Security that has payments determined by reference to more than one foreign currency, in the "predominant currency" determined under applicable Treasury regulations) (the relevant foreign currency). A U.S. Holder of a Foreign Currency Contingent Security will apply rules similar to those applicable to Contingent Securities, as described above under "Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", to determine OID accruals, account for net positive or net negative adjustments, and calculate income or loss on the taxable disposition of the Foreign Currency Contingent Security. All such determinations are made in the relevant foreign currency. A highly complex set of rules governs the translation into U.S. dollars of the amounts determined in the relevant foreign currency and the related determination of foreign currency gain or loss. Prospective purchasers of Foreign Currency Contingent Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding these rules. A U.S. Holder might be required to file a disclosure statement with the IRS if the U.S. Holder recognises foreign currency loss above certain thresholds (as described below under "Reportable Transactions").

Short-Term Securities

Certain modifications to the general rules apply to Securities with a term of one year or less (from but excluding the issue date to and including the last possible date that the Securities could be outstanding pursuant to their terms) (Short-Term Securities).

First, none of the interest on a Short-Term Security is treated as qualified stated interest. Instead, interest on a Short-Term Security is treated as part of the Short-Term Security's stated redemption price at maturity, thereby giving rise to OID equal to the sum of all payments on the Security less the Security's issue price. OID will be treated as accruing on a Short-Term Security rateably, or, at the election of a U.S. Holder, under a constant yield method.

Second, a cash-method holder of a Short-Term Security generally will not be required to include OID in respect of the Short-Term Security in income on a current basis. However, the cash-method holder may not be allowed to deduct all of the interest paid or accrued on any indebtedness incurred or maintained to purchase or carry the Security until the maturity of the Security or its earlier taxable disposition. In addition, such a cash-method holder will be required to treat any gain realised on a taxable disposition of the Security as ordinary income to the extent of the holder's accrued OID on the Security, and as short-term capital gain to the extent the gain exceeds the accrued OID. Any resulting loss generally will be treated as a short-term capital loss, the deductibility of which is subject to limitations. If a U.S. Holder recognises a loss above certain thresholds, the U.S. Holder may be required to file a disclosure statement with the IRS (as described below under "Reportable Transactions"). A cash-method holder of a Short-Term Security may, however, elect to accrue OID into income on a current basis. In that case, the limitation on the deductibility of interest described above will not apply. An accrual-method holder generally will be required to include OID on a Short-Term Security in income on a current basis.

Third, Short-Term Securities will not be subject to the rules applicable to Contingent Securities. However, a Short-Term Security may have special redemption features or provide for other contingent payments. These features may cause uncertainty regarding the timing and character of income to be recognised on the Short-Term Security. Prospective purchasers of Short-Term Securities with such features should consult their tax advisors regarding these uncertainties.

Market Discount

If a U.S. Holder purchases a Security, other than a Short-Term Security, Contingent Security or Foreign Currency Contingent Security, for an amount that is less than the Security's stated redemption price at maturity or, in the case of an OID Security, for an amount that is less than the Security's revised issue price (i.e., the Security's issue price increased by the amount of accrued OID), the Security will be considered to have market discount (a Market Discount Security). The market discount rules are subject to a de minimis rule similar to the rule relating to de minimis OID described above (in the second paragraph under "Original Issue Discount"). Any gain recognised by the U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Market Discount Security generally will be treated as ordinary income to the extent of the market discount that accrued on the Security while held by such U.S. Holder. For Securities providing for instalment payments, a U.S. Holder will be required to recognise accrued market discount upon receipt of instalment payments.

Alternatively, the U.S. Holder may elect to include market discount in income currently over the term of the Security. Such an election will apply to debt instruments with market discount acquired by the U.S. Holder on or after the first day of the first taxable year to which such election applies and may be revoked only with the consent of the IRS. Market discount will accrue on a straight-line basis unless the U.S. Holder elects to accrue the market discount on a constant-yield method. Unless the U.S. Holder elects to include market discount in income on a current basis, as described above, the U.S. Holder generally will be required to defer the deduction of a portion of the interest paid on any indebtedness incurred or maintained to purchase or carry the Security.

Market discount on a Foreign Currency Security will be determined by a U.S. Holder in the relevant foreign currency. The amount includible in income by a U.S. Holder in respect of accrued market discount will be the U.S. dollar value of the amount accrued. This is generally calculated at the spot rate of exchange on the date that the Security is disposed of by the U.S. Holder. Any accrued market discount on a Foreign Currency Security that is currently includible in income generally will be translated into U.S. dollars at the average exchange rate for the accrual period or portion of such accrual period within the U.S. Holder's taxable year.

Securities Purchased at a Premium

A U.S. Holder that purchases a Security (other than a Contingent Security or Foreign Currency Contingent Security) for an amount in excess of the remaining redemption amount (as defined above under "Original Issue Discount") will be considered to have purchased the Security at a premium. In that case, the OID rules will not apply to the Security. The U.S. Holder may elect to amortise the premium, as an offset to qualified stated interest, using a constant-yield method, over the remaining term of the Security. This election, once made, generally applies to all debt instruments held or subsequently acquired by the U.S. Holder on or after the beginning of the first taxable year to which the election applies and may be revoked only with the consent of the IRS. A U.S. Holder that elects to amortise bond premium must reduce its tax basis in a Security by the amount of the premium amortised during its holding period. Special rules may affect the U.S. Holder's ability to amortise bond premium if a Security may be redeemed at the Issuer's election at a price in excess of the Security's stated redemption price at maturity. Prospective purchasers who anticipate acquiring Securities with such features at a premium should consult their tax advisors regarding these special rules. If a U.S. Holder does not elect to amortise bond premium, the U.S. Holder generally will treat the premium as capital loss when the Security matures.

Amortisable bond premium in respect of a Foreign Currency Security will be computed in the relevant currency and will reduce qualified stated interest in that currency. At the time amortised bond premium offsets interest income, foreign currency gain or loss, which will be taxable as ordinary income or loss, will be realised on the amortised bond premium on such Security based on the difference between (1) the spot rate of exchange on the date or dates such premium offsets interest payments on the Security and (2) the spot rate of exchange on the date on which the U.S. Holder acquired the Security.

Possible Alternative Tax Treatment

There is no authority regarding the proper U.S. federal tax treatment of Debt Designated Securities (including certain Credit Linked Notes that are Debt Designated Securities) that do not provide for the return at maturity of a holder's investment under all circumstances. It is possible that all or any portion of such a Security could be recharacterised as other than a debt instrument, in which case the character and timing of income on the Security may be different for U.S. federal income tax purposes. In addition, even if the Issuer treats a Credit Linked Note as debt for U.S. federal tax purposes, the consequences of a Risk Event or a Credit Event may not be clear, depending on the circumstances.

Even if the tax treatment of the Securities as debt is respected, it is possible that Securities that the Issuer does not intend to treat as Contingent Securities or Foreign Currency Contingent Securities could be treated as Contingent Securities or Foreign Currency Contingent Securities, with the consequences described above under "Contingent Payment Debt Instruments" or "Foreign Currency Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", respectively.

Securities Not Treated as Debt

The discussions below address various categories of Securities that the Issuer intends to treat for U.S. federal income tax purposes as other than debt, as indicated by the statement under "United States Tax Considerations" in the applicable Issue Terms. As discussed under "—General", this section does not address the U.S. federal tax treatment of Preference Share Linked Securities (Non-Debt Designated Securities).

Due to the absence of controlling statutory, judicial or administrative authorities that directly address the U.S. federal tax treatment of non-debt Securities or similar instruments, significant aspects of the tax treatment of an investment in these Securities are uncertain. The following discussions of specific types of non-debt Securities generally assume that the Issuer's intended treatment of each type of Security is respected. These discussions are subject to, and should be read in conjunction with, the section below entitled "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt". As discussed in that section, alternative treatments of the Securities are possible, and even if the Issuer's general characterisation of the relevant Securities is respected there may nonetheless be uncertainty about specific aspects of the tax treatment of the relevant Securities. The Issuer does not plan to request a ruling from the IRS, and the IRS or a court might not agree with the treatments described below. Accordingly, prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding all aspects of the U.S. federal income tax consequences of an investment in the Securities.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options

The following discussion applies only to Securities, not providing for any payments prior to maturity or early redemption, that the Issuer treats for U.S. federal income tax purposes as prepaid forward contracts or options.

A U.S. Holder generally should not be required to recognise taxable income over the term of a Security prior to maturity, other than pursuant to a taxable disposition as described below.

Upon a taxable disposition of a Security for cash and/or property (other than the Underlying), a U.S. Holder should recognise gain or loss equal to the difference between the cash and/or property received and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Security generally should equal the amount paid to acquire it. This gain or loss generally should be long-term capital gain or loss if at the time of the sale, exchange or retirement the U.S. Holder held the Security for more than one year, and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise.

The tax consequences of receipt of the Underlying in settlement of a Physical Delivery Security are not clear. If receipt of the Underlying is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as the physical settlement of the Security, the U.S. Holder generally should not recognise any gain or loss with respect to the Underlying received. Under this treatment, a U.S. Holder should have an aggregate tax basis in the Underlying (including any fractional Underlying for which cash is received) equal to the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security and should have a holding period in that Underlying beginning on the day after receipt. With respect to any cash received in lieu of a fractional Underlying, a U.S. Holder should recognise capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of that cash and the tax basis allocable to the fractional Underlying. However, it is possible that receipt of the Underlying could be treated as a taxable disposition of the Security for an amount equal to the fair market value of the Underlying, in which case the U.S. Holder would recognise gain or loss (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules) as described in the previous paragraph. In that event, the Underlying received would generally be treated as purchased for its fair market value on the date of receipt.

In some cases, a Security may provide for amounts that are fixed or accrue prior to maturity but are paid at maturity (or, depending on the terms of the Security, upon an early retirement). In that event, a U.S. Holder might be required to treat such amounts as ordinary income, either at maturity or as they are fixed or accrue. Alternatively, if the entire amount of the payment at maturity becomes fixed or subject to a minimum level prior to maturity, the Security might be treated as terminated for U.S. federal income tax purposes at such time, in which case a U.S. Holder could be required to recognise capital gain in respect of the Security and to treat the Security as debt thereafter. See "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt". Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the treatment of such payments.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options with Associated Periodic Payments

The following discussion applies only to Securities that the Issuer treats for U.S. federal income tax purposes as prepaid forward contracts or options with associated periodic payments. Unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, this discussion also applies to a Security that provides for non-periodic payment(s) prior to maturity or early retirement.

Insofar as it has information reporting responsibility in respect of a Security, the Issuer expects to treat the periodic payments (including the periodic payment at maturity) as ordinary income, which the U.S. Holder would recognise in accordance with its method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes. It is possible that the timing and character of income with respect to a periodic payment could be different, as described below. See "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt".

Upon a taxable disposition of a Security for cash and/or property (other than the Underlying) a U.S. Holder generally should recognise gain or loss equal to the difference between (i) the cash and/or property received and (ii) the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security. However, any periodic payment received at maturity will, and the treatment of any sales proceeds attributable to an accrued but unpaid periodic payment may, be treated as described in the preceding paragraph. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Security generally should equal the amount paid to acquire it. This gain or loss generally should be long-term capital gain or loss if at the time of the taxable disposition the U.S. Holder held the Security for more than one year, and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise.

The tax consequences of receipt of the Underlying in settlement of a Physical Delivery Security are not clear. If receipt of the Underlying is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as the physical settlement of the Security, the U.S. Holder generally should not recognise any gain or loss with respect to the Underlying received. Under this treatment, a U.S. Holder should have an aggregate tax basis in the Underlying received (including a fractional Underlying for which cash is received) equal to the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security and should have a holding period in that Underlying beginning on the day after receipt. With respect to any cash received in lieu of a fractional Underlying, a U.S. Holder should recognise capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of that cash and the tax basis allocable to the fractional Underlying. However, it is possible that receipt of the Underlying could be treated as a taxable disposition of the Security for an amount equal to the fair market value of the Underlying, in which case the U.S. Holder would recognise gain or loss (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules) as described in the previous paragraph. In that event, the Underlying received would generally be treated as purchased for its fair market value on the date of receipt.

Securities Treated as Put Options and Deposits

The following discussion applies only to a Security that the Issuer treats as a put option (the Put Option) written by the U.S. Holder with respect to the Underlying, secured by a deposit equal to the stated principal amount of the Security (the Deposit). It generally assumes that the U.S. Holder purchases the Security for its stated principal amount. Under this treatment:

- a portion of each periodic payment made with respect to a Security will be attributable to interest on the Deposit; and
- the remainder will represent option premium attributable to the U.S. Holder's grant of the Put Option (with respect to each payment received and, collectively, all periodic payments received, the Put Premium).

It is possible that the timing and character of income with respect to a periodic payment could be different, as described below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt".

If the term of a Security is not more than one year, the Deposit will be treated as a "short-term obligation" generally subject to the rules described under "Securities Treated as Debt—Short-Term Securities" above.

If the term of a Security is more than one year, subject to anything to the contrary in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer generally intends to treat the Deposit as a fixed rate debt instrument or a Single-Rate VRDI, depending on the terms of the Security, and the following discussion is based on this treatment. Under this treatment, interest on the Deposit generally will be taxable as ordinary interest income at the time it accrues or is received in accordance with the U.S. Holder's method of tax accounting. If, however, the terms of the Deposit cause it instead to be treated as a "contingent payment debt instrument", as described above under "Securities Treated as Debt – Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", the timing and character of income recognised on the Deposit will be as described in that section.

The Put Premium should not be taken into account until the taxable disposition of a Security. Where relevant, the Issuer will provide the percentage of each periodic payment that is allocated to interest on the Deposit and to Put Premium in the applicable Issue Terms. This allocation is binding on a U.S. Holder unless the U.S. Holder discloses otherwise on its U.S. federal income tax return; however, it is not binding on the IRS.

Upon a taxable disposition of a Security prior to maturity or earlier redemption, a U.S. Holder should apportion the amount realised between the Deposit and the Put Option based on their respective values on the date of the taxable disposition. Except with respect to any amount attributable to accrued interest on the Deposit, which, if not previously included in income, will be treated as a payment of interest (in the case of a short-term Security, only to the extent of the gain recognised), a U.S. Holder will recognise gain or loss with respect to the Deposit in an amount equal to the difference between (i) the amount realised that is apportioned to the Deposit (the Deposit Value) and (ii) the U.S. Holder's basis in the Deposit (i.e., the issue price of the Security). Such gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder has held the Security for more than one year, and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise. If the amount of a periodic payment in respect of an accrual period is not known until the end of the relevant observation period, it is not clear how much interest, if any, will be treated as having accrued on the Deposit at the time of a taxable disposition prior to maturity.

Any difference between the amount realised on the taxable disposition and the Deposit Value will be apportioned to the Put Option. If the Deposit Value exceeds the amount realised upon the taxable disposition of a Security, a U.S. Holder will be treated as having made a payment equal to such excess in exchange for the purchaser's assumption of the Put Option. A U.S. Holder should recognise short-term capital gain or loss in respect of the Put Option in an amount equal to the total Put Premium previously received, decreased by the amount deemed to be paid by the U.S. Holder, or increased by the amount deemed to be paid to the U.S. Holder, in exchange for the purchaser's assumption of the Put Option.

The periodic payment received at maturity or earlier redemption should be treated as described above.

If a Security is retired for its stated principal amount (without taking into account any periodic payment), the Put Option should be deemed to have expired unexercised, in which case a U.S. Holder should recognise short-term capital gain in an amount equal to the sum of all payments of Put Premium received, including the Put Premium received at maturity.

At maturity, if a U.S. Holder receives an amount of cash and/or property (other than the Underlying), not counting the final periodic payment, that is different from the stated principal amount, the Put Option should be deemed to have been exercised and the U.S. Holder should be deemed to have applied the Deposit toward the cash settlement of the Put Option. In that case, the U.S. Holder should recognise short-term capital gain or loss with respect to the Put Option in an amount equal to the difference between (i) the sum of the total Put Premium received (including the Put Premium received at maturity) and the cash and/or other property the U.S. Holder receives at maturity, excluding the final periodic payment, and (ii) the Deposit.

If the Underlying is an interest in an entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes, it is unclear whether any capital gain or loss recognised in respect of the Put Option upon retirement of the Security should be treated as long-term or short-term capital gain or loss, respectively, if the U.S. Holder has held the Security for more than a year at that time. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the tax consequences of purchasing a Security linked to such an interest.

The tax consequences of receipt of the Underlying in settlement of a Physical Delivery Security are not clear. If receipt of the Underlying is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as the physical settlement of the Security, the Put Option will be deemed to have been exercised, and the U.S. Holder should be deemed to have applied the Deposit toward the physical settlement of the Put Option. Under this treatment, a U.S. Holder should not recognise any income or gain in respect of the total Put Premium received (including the Put Premium received at maturity) and should not recognise any gain or loss with respect to any Underlying received. Instead, a U.S. Holder should have an aggregate tax basis in the Underlying received (including any fractional Underlying) equal to the Deposit less the total Put Premium received over the term of the Securities. A U.S. Holder's holding period for any Underlying received will start on the day after receipt. With respect to any cash received in lieu of a fractional Underlying, a U.S. Holder should recognise capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of cash received in lieu of the fractional Underlying and the pro rata portion of the U.S. Holder's aggregate tax basis that is allocable to the fractional Underlying. However, it is possible that receipt of the Underlying could be treated as a taxable disposition of the Security for an amount equal to the fair market value of the Underlying, in which case the U.S. Holder would recognise gain or loss as described in the previous paragraph (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules). In that event, the Underlying received would generally be treated as purchased for its fair market value on the date of receipt.

Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt

Alternative U.S. federal income tax treatments of the Securities are possible that, if applied, could materially and adversely affect the timing and/or character of income, gain or loss with respect to non-debt Securities. For instance, a Security could be treated as a debt instrument, notwithstanding the Issuer's treatment of it as a non-debt instrument, in which case (i) physical delivery of the Underlying would be a taxable event, and (ii) the consequences of owning the Security would generally be as described above under "Securities Treated as Debt—Short-Term Securities" or "Securities Treated as Debt—Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", as applicable. Moreover, if the payment at maturity on a non-debt Security were to become fixed or subject to a minimum level prior to maturity, a U.S. Holder might be required to treat the Security as debt after that date and also possibly to recognise gain at that time. It is also possible that a U.S. Holder could be treated as owning the Underlying, in which case the tax consequences might be materially and adversely affected.

For Securities linked to an Underlying that is not a specific asset, for example a Rate, it is possible that (i) any gain recognised at maturity of the Security could be treated as ordinary income instead of capital gain and (ii) any loss so recognised could be treated as a "miscellaneous itemized deduction" subject to significant limitations on use.

With respect to Securities treated as prepaid forward contracts or options with associated periodic payments and Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits, the periodic payments on the Securities might not be accounted for separately as giving rise to income to a U.S. Holder until the sale, exchange or retirement of the Securities. In the case of Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits, the entire periodic payment on the Security could be treated as ordinary income at the time received or accrued. In either case, such an alternative treatment would affect, among other things, the determination of gain or loss upon the taxable disposition of the relevant Security.

Other possible U.S. federal income tax treatments of the Securities could also affect the timing and character of income or loss with respect to the Securities. In addition, the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS have requested comments on various issues regarding the U.S. federal income tax treatment of "prepaid forward contracts" and similar financial instruments and have indicated that such transactions may be the subject of future regulations or other guidance. In addition, members of Congress have proposed legislative changes to the tax treatment of derivative contracts. Any legislation, Treasury regulations or other guidance promulgated after consideration of these issues could materially and adversely affect the tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, possibly with retroactive effect. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors concerning the U.S. federal income tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, including possible alternative treatments and potential changes in applicable law.

Possible Application of Section 1260 of the Code

If a Security is linked to an Underlying that is an equity interest in one of a specified list of entities, including an exchange-traded fund or other regulated investment company (e.g., a mutual fund), a real estate investment trust, partnership, trust or PFIC, it is possible, depending upon the specific terms of the Security, that an investment in the Security will be treated as a "constructive ownership transaction" within the meaning of Section 1260 of the Code. In that case, all or a portion of any long-term capital gain otherwise recognised by a U.S. Holder in respect of the Security would be recharacterised as ordinary income to the extent such gain exceeded the "net underlying long-term capital gain." Although the matter is unclear, the "net underlying long-term capital gain" may equal the amount of long-term capital gain a U.S. Holder would have realised if on the issue date the U.S. Holder had invested the amount paid to acquire the Security in the relevant Underlying and sold those Underlying units for their fair market value at the time the relevant Security is sold, exchanged or retired (which would generally reflect the percentage increase, if any, in the value of the Underlying over the term of the Securities). However, the "net underlying long-term capital gain" could be calculated in other ways. The amount of "net underlying long-term capital gain" is treated as zero unless the actual amount of "net underlying long-term capital gain" is established by clear and convincing evidence. Any long-term capital gain recharacterised as ordinary income under Section 1260 would be treated as accruing at a constant rate over the period the U.S. Holder held the Security, and the U.S. Holder would be subject to a notional interest charge in respect of the deemed tax liability on the income treated as accruing in prior tax years. Moreover, Securities linked to certain Underlyings could, if a U.S. Holder is an individual or other non-corporate investor, be subject to tax at the higher rates applicable to "collectibles" instead of the general rates that apply to long-term capital gain. See "Possible Higher Tax on Securities Linked to 'Collectibles'" below. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the possible application of Section 1260 of the Code to the Securities.

Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code

If there is (i) any Adjustment Event, including but not limited to the replacement of the Underlying, (ii) a change in the methodology by which an Index is calculated, (iii) a change in the components of an Index, (iv) any other circumstance resulting in a material change to the Underlying or a rate referenced by a Security, (v) a redenomination, (vi) a designation by the Issuer of a Substitute for itself, or (vii) any other circumstance resulting in a material change to the terms of a Security, it is possible that the Securities could be treated, in whole or part, as retired and reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes. In the event of a deemed retirement, a U.S. Holder might be required to recognise gain or loss (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules) with respect to the Securities. Moreover, the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the risk of such an event.

Possible Application of Section 988 of the Code

If the Underlying in respect of a Security consists of one or more foreign currencies, foreign currency debt instruments, contingent foreign currency debt instruments, or indices or derivatives with respect to the foregoing, it is likely that the Security will be subject to Section 988 of the Code. In that case, subject to the election discussed in the next sentence, any gain or loss recognised on the Security generally will be treated as ordinary income or loss instead of capital gain or loss. While a taxpayer may elect to treat gain or loss on certain non-debt instruments linked to one or more foreign currencies as capital gain or loss (a Section 988 election), depending on the terms of the Security, it is unclear whether a "Section 988 election" would be available for Securities treated as prepaid forward contracts or options, and doubtful that it would be available for other Securities. In addition, assuming Section 988 of the Code applies to the Securities and a valid Section 988 election is not made, a U.S. Holder might be subject to special reporting requirements that apply to foreign currency losses that exceed certain thresholds (as described below under "Reportable Transactions"). Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 988 of the Code and the availability and advisability of making a "Section 988 election".

With respect to Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits, not described in the preceding paragraph, that are denominated in or determined by reference to a foreign currency, the Deposit (but not, generally, a Put Option that references a non-currency Underlying) may be subject to special rules under Section 988 of the Code that are applicable to foreign currency debt as described above under "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Securities Treated as Debt". Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 988 to the Securities.

Possible Application of Section 1256 of the Code

Special rules will apply if a Security is treated in whole or in part as subject to the mark-to-market rules of Section 1256 of the Code. Section 1256 applies, among others, to "foreign currency contracts," as well as certain options listed on or subject to the rules of a qualified board or exchange. If Section 1256 of the Code were to apply to a Security, a U.S. Holder would be required (i) to recognise gain or loss on all, or a portion, of the Security as if it were sold at its fair market value on the last business day of each year it is held, and (ii) to treat such gain or loss as 40 per cent. short-term capital gain or loss and 60 per cent. long-term capital gain or loss (subject, in the case of a foreign currency contract, to the U.S. Holder's making a valid Section 988 election as described above). In the absence of a valid Section 988 election with respect to a Security treated as a "foreign currency contract," the gain or loss recognised would be ordinary. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 1256 of the Code to the Securities.

Possible Higher Tax on Securities Linked to "Collectibles"

Under current law, long-term capital gain recognised on a sale of "collectibles" (which includes, among others, metals) or an ownership interest in certain entities that hold collectibles is generally taxed at the maximum 28 per cent. rate applicable to collectibles. It is possible that long-term capital gain from a taxable disposition of certain non-debt Securities linked to an Underlying that is a collectible or is one of certain entities holding collectibles would be subject to the maximum 28 per cent. rate applicable to collectibles, instead of the lower long-term capital gain rate. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding an investment in a Security linked to a collectible or to an entity holding collectibles.

Tax Consequences to Non-U.S. HoldersSecurities Issued by a U.S. IssuerSecurities Treated as Debt

This section describes certain generally applicable U.S. federal income tax consequences to Non-U.S. Holders in respect of Debt Designated Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI (each, a U.S. Issuer). It generally assumes that the Issuer's intended treatment of the Securities as debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes is respected. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors about the risk that the IRS challenges the Issuer's treatment of the Securities. Certain exceptions to these general rules are discussed below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders" and "FATCA", and therefore this discussion is subject to, and should be read in conjunction with, the discussion contained in those sections.

Interest payments on a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding tax, as long as (1) the Non-U.S. Holder does not actually or constructively own 10 per cent. or more of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of the U.S. Issuer entitled to vote, (2) the Non-U.S. Holder is not (i) a controlled foreign corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes that is related to the U.S. Issuer through stock ownership or (ii) a bank extending credit pursuant to a loan agreement entered into in the ordinary course of its trade or business, (3) such interest is not contingent on the U.S. Issuer's profits, revenues or changes in the value of its property and is not otherwise excluded from the definition of "portfolio interest" by Section 871(h)(4) of the Code, and (4) the Non-U.S. Holder provides a statement signed under penalties of perjury that certifies that it is a non-United States person in compliance with applicable requirements (generally, an appropriate IRS Form W-8) or satisfies certain documentary evidence requirements for establishing that it is a non-United States person. Gain realised by a Non-U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Security (which excludes amounts attributable to accrued interest) generally will not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

As discussed under "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Securities Treated as Debt—Possible Alternative Tax Treatment" above, there is no authority regarding the proper U.S. federal tax treatment of Debt Designated Securities (including certain Credit Linked Notes that are Debt Designated Securities) that do not provide for the return at maturity of a holder's investment under all circumstances. The Issuer's intended treatment of such Securities is not binding on the IRS, and the IRS could disagree with it. If such a Security were treated as an instrument other than debt, interest payments on the Security, if paid by a U.S. Issuer, could be subject to withholding at a rate of 30 per cent., subject to reduction under an applicable income tax treaty. Insofar as it has responsibility as a withholding agent in respect of such Securities, the Issuer currently does not intend to withhold on payments on such Securities to Non-U.S. Holders (subject to the certification requirements and the exceptions described herein). However, it is possible that other withholding agents may withhold on interest payments on such Securities, and in the future the Issuer may determine that it is required to so withhold. In addition, even if the Issuer treats a Credit Linked Note as debt for U.S. federal tax purposes, the consequences of a Risk Event or a Credit Event may not be clear, depending on the circumstances.

Securities Not Treated as Debt

This section describes certain generally applicable U.S. federal income tax consequences to Non-U.S. Holders in respect of Non-Debt Designated Securities issued by a U.S. Issuer. It generally assumes that the Issuer's intended treatment of the Securities as financial instruments other than debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes is respected. Certain exceptions to these general rules are discussed below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders" and "FATCA", and therefore this discussion is subject to, and should be read in conjunction with, the discussions contained in those sections. Prospective purchasers should note that a U.S. Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts with respect to U.S. federal income taxes, if any, withheld, whether by the Issuer or by another withholding agent, with respect to Non-Debt Designated Securities.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

Non-U.S. Holders should refer to "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders – Securities Not Treated as Debt" above for the definitions of certain terms used below.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options

Generally, subject to the discussion in the next paragraph, a Non-U.S. Holder should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax in respect of the taxable disposition of a Security, not providing for any payments prior to maturity or early redemption, that is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a prepaid forward contract or an option.

In some cases, a Security may provide for amounts that are fixed or accrue prior to maturity but are paid at maturity. In that event, such amounts paid to a Non-U.S. Holder might be subject to withholding tax at a rate of 30 per cent. (which may be reduced under an applicable income tax treaty). Even if the Issuer or an applicable withholding agent generally treats such amounts as eligible for an exemption from withholding, in light of the uncertain treatment of such amounts the Issuer or an applicable withholding agent might require a Non-U.S. Holder to provide a statement signed under penalties of perjury that certifies that it is a non-United States person in compliance with applicable requirements (generally an appropriate IRS Form W-8) or to satisfy certain documentary evidence requirements for establishing that it is a non-United States person. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the treatment of such payments.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options with Associated Periodic Payments

With respect to Securities treated as prepaid forward contracts or options with associated periodic payments, to the extent the Issuer has withholding responsibility in respect of the Securities, it intends to treat the periodic payments as subject to withholding at a rate of 30 per cent., unless the Non-U.S. Holder provides a properly executed and appropriate IRS Form W-8 claiming eligibility for a reduction of or an exemption from withholding under an applicable income tax treaty. A Non-U.S. Holder generally should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax with respect to the taxable disposition of a Security (although any amount received in respect of a periodic payment may be treated as subject to withholding). Unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, this discussion also applies to a Security that provides for non-periodic payment(s) prior to maturity or early retirement.

Securities Treated as Put Options and Deposits

A Non-U.S. Holder generally should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax in respect of amounts paid on a Security treated as a Put Option and a Deposit, as long as the requirements in the second paragraph under "Securities Treated as Debt" are met. While the Issuer currently does not intend to withhold on payments to Non-U.S. Holders on Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits (assuming these requirements are met), in light of the uncertain treatment of the Securities other persons having withholding responsibility in respect of the Securities may treat some or all of each periodic payment on a Security as subject to withholding tax at a rate of 30 per cent. (which may be reduced under an applicable income tax treaty). Moreover, it is possible that in the future the Issuer may determine that it should so withhold at a rate of 30 per cent., subject to reduction under an applicable income tax treaty, on periodic payments on the Securities. A Non-U.S. Holder generally should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax with respect to the taxable disposition of a Security (other than with respect to amounts attributable to an accrued periodic payment, which are discussed above).

Securities Issued by the Non-U.S. Issuer

Securities issued by CGMFL (the Non-U.S. Issuer) to Non-U.S. Holders will be designated as "Non-U.S. Securities" in the applicable Issue Terms. For such Securities, subject to the discussions below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders—Effectively Connected Income", "Section 871(m) Withholding on Dividend Equivalents", "FIRPTA" and "FATCA", the Issuer currently intends to treat payments made with respect to the Securities as not subject to U.S. federal withholding tax.

Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders

Except where specified otherwise, the discussion in this section applies to any Security issued by either the Non-U.S. Issuer or a U.S. Issuer and held by a Non-U.S. Holder.

Possible Alternative Tax Treatments of an Investment in the Securities

If all or any portion of a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer that the Issuer treats as a financial instrument other than debt were recharacterised as a debt instrument, any payment made to a Non-U.S. Holder with respect to the Security generally would not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax as long as the requirements in the second paragraph under "Tax Consequences to Non-U.S. Holders—Securities Treated as Debt" are met. Moreover, if the payment at maturity on a non-debt Security were to become fixed or subject to a minimum level prior to maturity, a Non-U.S. Holder might be required to treat the Security as debt after that date. Alternatively, it is possible that a Non-U.S. Holder could be treated as owning the Underlying, in which case the tax consequences might be materially and adversely affected.

As discussed above under "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt", the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS released a notice requesting comments on the U.S. federal income tax treatment of "prepaid forward contracts" and similar financial instruments and have indicated that such transactions may be the subject of future regulations or other guidance. In addition, members of Congress have proposed legislative changes to the tax treatment of derivative contracts. Any legislation, Treasury regulations or other guidance promulgated after consideration of these issues could materially and adversely affect the tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, possibly with retroactive effect. If withholding is required on Non-Debt Designated Securities, the Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts with respect to amounts so withheld.

If all or any portion of a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer that the Issuer treats as a debt instrument were recharacterised as a financial instrument other than debt, certain payments made to a Non-U.S. Holder could be treated as being subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax, as discussed above under "Tax Consequences to Non-U.S. Holders—Securities Treated as Debt". In addition, even if the Issuer treats a Credit Linked Note as debt for U.S. federal tax purposes, the consequences of a Risk Event or a Credit Event may not be clear, depending on the circumstances.

Effectively Connected Income

If a Non-U.S. Holder is engaged in a U.S. trade or business, and if income (including gain) from a Security is effectively connected with the conduct of that trade or business, the Non-U.S. Holder generally will be subject to regular U.S. federal income tax with respect to that income in the same manner as if the Non-U.S. Holder were a U.S. Holder, unless an applicable income tax treaty provides otherwise. If such a Non-U.S. Holder is a corporation, the Non-U.S. Holder should also consider the potential application of a 30 per cent. (or lower treaty rate) branch profits tax. A Non-U.S. Holder would be required to provide an IRS Form W-8ECI to the applicable withholding agent to establish an exemption from withholding for amounts, otherwise subject to withholding, paid on a Security.

Section 871(m) Withholding on Dividend Equivalents

Section 871(m) of the Code and the Treasury regulations thereunder (Section 871(m)) impose a 30 per cent. (or lower treaty rate) withholding tax on "dividend equivalents" paid or deemed paid to Non-U.S. Holders with respect to certain financial instruments linked to U.S. equities (Underlying Securities, as defined under the applicable Treasury regulations), or indices that include Underlying Securities. Section 871(m) generally applies to specified equity-linked instruments (Specified ELIs), which are financial instruments that substantially replicate the economic performance of one or more Underlying Securities, as determined based on tests set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations and discussed further below. Section 871(m) provides certain exceptions to this withholding regime, in particular for instruments linked to certain broad-based indices that meet requirements set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations (Qualified Indices) as well as securities that track such indices (Qualified Index Securities).

Although the Section 871(m) regime became effective in 2017, the applicable Treasury regulations, as modified by an IRS notice, phase in the application of Section 871(m) as follows:

- For financial instruments issued prior to 2025, Section 871(m) will generally apply only to financial instruments that have a "delta" of one.
- For financial instruments issued in 2025 and thereafter, Section 871(m) will apply if either (i) the "delta" of the relevant financial instrument is at least 0.80, if it is a "simple" contract, or (ii) the financial instrument meets a "substantial equivalence" test, if it is a "complex" contract.

Delta is generally defined as the ratio of the change in the fair market value of a financial instrument to a small change in the fair market value of the number of shares of the Underlying Security. The "substantial equivalence" test measures whether a complex contract tracks its "initial hedge" (shares of the Underlying Security that would fully hedge the contract) more closely than would a "benchmark" simple contract with a delta of 0.80.

The calculations are generally made at the calculation date, which is the earlier of (i) the time of pricing of the Security, i.e., when all material terms have been agreed on, and (ii) the issuance of the Security. However, if the time of pricing is more than 14 calendar days before the issuance of the Security, the calculation date is the date of the issuance of the Security. Under these rules, information regarding the Issuer's final determinations for purposes of Section 871(m) may be available only after a Non-U.S. Holder agrees to acquire a Security. As a result, a Non-U.S. Holder should acquire such a Security only if it is willing to accept the risk that the Security is treated as a Specified ELI subject to withholding under Section 871(m).

In addition, Securities of a Series that are issued in different Tranches, or otherwise priced on different dates, may have different calculation dates for purposes of determining whether they are Specified ELIs. As a result, Securities acquired by a Non-U.S. Holder may be Specified ELIs, and therefore subject to withholding under Section 871(m), even if other Securities of the same Series are not Specified ELIs. In such a situation, a withholding agent may treat all of the Securities in that Series as being subject to Section 871(m) withholding if it is not able to distinguish among those Securities.

If the terms of a Security are subject to a "significant modification" (for example, upon an Issuer substitution, as discussed above under "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code") the Security generally will be treated as reissued for this purpose at the time of the significant modification, in which case the Security could become a Specified ELI at that time.

If a Security is a Specified ELI, withholding in respect of dividend equivalents will, depending on the applicable withholding agent's circumstances, generally be required either (i) on the underlying dividend payment date or (ii) when cash payments are made on the Security or upon the date of maturity, lapse or other disposition of the Security by the Non-U.S. Holder, or possibly upon certain other events. Depending on the circumstances, the applicable withholding agent may withhold the required amounts from coupons or other payments on the Security, from proceeds of the retirement or other disposition of the Security, or from other cash or property of the Non-U.S. Holder held by the withholding agent.

The dividend equivalent amount will include the amount of any actual or, under certain circumstances, estimated dividend. If the dividend equivalent amount is based on the actual dividend, it will be equal to the product of: (i) in the case of a "simple" contract, the per-share dividend amount, the number of shares of an Underlying Security and the delta; or (ii) in the case of a "complex" contract, the per-share dividend amount and the initial hedge. The dividend equivalent amount for Specified ELIs issued prior to 2025 that have a "delta" of one will be calculated in the same manner as (i) above, using a "delta" of one. The per-share dividend amount will be the actual dividend (including any special dividends) paid with respect to a share of the Underlying Security. If the dividend equivalent amount is based on an estimated dividend, the Issue Terms will generally state the estimated amounts.

Depending on the terms of a Security and whether or not it is issued prior to 2025, the Issue Terms may contain additional information relevant to Section 871(m), such as whether the Security references a Qualified Index or Qualified Index Security; whether it is a "simple" contract; the "delta" and the number of shares multiplied by delta (for a simple contract); and whether the "substantial equivalence test" is met and the initial hedge (for a complex contract).

The Issuer's determination is binding on Non-U.S. Holders and withholding agents, but it is not binding on the IRS. The Section 871(m) regulations require complex calculations to be made with respect to Securities linked to Underlying Securities and their application to a specific issue of Securities may be uncertain. Accordingly, even if the Issuer determines that certain Securities are not Specified ELIs, the IRS could challenge the Issuer's determination and assert that withholding is required in respect of those Securities.

Moreover, the consequences under Section 871(m) may depend on the particular circumstances of the Non-U.S. Holder. For example, if a Non-U.S. Holder enters into other transactions relating to an Underlying Security, the Non-U.S. Holder could be subject to withholding tax or income tax liability under Section 871(m) even if the relevant Securities are not Specified ELIs subject to Section 871(m) as a general matter. Non-U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding the application of Section 871(m) in their particular circumstances.

Specified Current Payment Securities:

The following discussion applies to certain Securities that are Specified ELIs and that provide solely for (i) a payment at maturity or earlier retirement or exercise that is determined by reference to the value of the Underlying(s) (or physical delivery of the Underlying(s)) and (ii) cash payments equal to dividends (if any) on each Underlying Security to which the Securities relate multiplied by the number of shares of such Underlying Security to which the Securities relate (such cash payments, U.S. dividend-linked payments) and each such Security, (a Specified Current Payment Security). It is expected that each U.S. dividend-linked payment will be made on the payment date for the related dividend.

The Issuer will treat each U.S. dividend-linked payment as the payment of a dividend equivalent. Accordingly, Non-U.S. Holders should expect withholding agents to withhold 30 per cent. (or a lower rate under the dividend provision of an applicable income tax treaty) of each U.S. dividend-linked payment. However, because the application of Section 871(m) to Specified Current Payment Securities is not entirely clear, it is possible that a withholding agent could treat such a Security as subject to additional withholding, for example from amounts due at maturity or exercise of the Security. In addition, a withholding agent may withhold at the 30 per cent. (or other applicable maximum) rate regardless of whether the Non-U.S. Holder is eligible for the benefits of an income tax treaty in respect of the payment.

Specified Net Total Return Securities

The following discussion applies to certain Securities that are Specified ELIs and that provide solely for a payment at maturity or earlier retirement or exercise that is determined by reference to the value of the Underlying(s) (or physical delivery of the Underlying(s)), where such final value, in the case of an Underlying that is an Underlying Security, reflects the deemed reinvestment of any dividends paid over the term of the Security in respect of the number of shares of such Underlying Security to which the Security relates, net of the maximum amount of U.S. withholding tax that would be applicable to each such dividend (currently, 30 per cent.) (such net amount, the Net Dividend Amount). The discussion herein refers to each such Security as a Specified Net Total Return Security.

Upon the payment of a dividend with respect to an Underlying Security in respect of a Specified Net Total Return Security, the Issuer will deposit with the IRS an amount equal to the relevant gross dividend amount multiplied by the maximum applicable U.S. withholding tax rate on dividends (not reduced by the application of any U.S. income tax treaty). Because (i) the Net Dividend Amount plus (ii) the amount to be deposited with the IRS will equal 100 per cent. of the gross dividend amount, the Issuer will treat the aggregate of (i) and (ii) as the payment of a dividend equivalent equal to 100 per cent. of such gross dividend amount for purposes of Section 871(m).

Prospective purchasers of Securities that are Specified ELIs should consult their tax advisors regarding whether they are eligible for a refund of any part of the withholding tax discussed above on the basis of an applicable U.S. income tax treaty, as well as the process for obtaining such a refund (which will generally require the filing of a U.S. federal income tax return). In some circumstances, including when the Issuer or another intermediary performs the withholding required under Section 871(m), it may not be possible for a Non-U.S. Holder to obtain the documentation necessary to support a refund claim under an applicable treaty.

The Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor will not be required to pay any additional amounts in respect of amounts withheld under Section 871(m).

Prospective purchasers of the Securities should be aware that if a Section 871(m) Event (as defined under "Valuation and Settlement Schedule—Definitions—Section 871(m) Event") occurs, an Early Redemption Event may occur, in which case the relevant Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of such Securities.

FIRPTA

Section 897 of the Code, commonly referred to as "FIRPTA", applies to certain interests in entities that beneficially own significant amounts of United States real property interests (each, a USRPI). As discussed above, the Issuer will not attempt to ascertain whether any issuer of Shares, shares that underlie an Index, or any other equity interest to which Securities relate should be treated as a USRPHC for purposes of Section 897 of the Code (including a non-corporate entity treated for relevant purposes of Section 897 of the Code as a USRPHC). If a relevant issuer were so treated, it is possible that, subject to the exceptions discussed in the following paragraph, a Security could be treated as a USRPI, in which case any gain from the disposition of the Security would generally be subject to U.S. federal income tax and would be required to be reported by the Non-U.S. Holder on a U.S. federal income tax return, generally in the same manner as if the Non-U.S. Holder were a U.S. Holder, and would in certain cases be subject to withholding in the amount of 15 per cent. of the gross proceeds of such disposition.

An exception to the FIRPTA rules applies in respect of interests in entities that have a regularly traded class of interests outstanding. Under this exception, a Security that is not "regularly traded" on an established securities market generally should not be subject to the FIRPTA rules unless its fair market value upon acquisition exceeds 5 per cent. of the relevant issuer's regularly traded class of interests as specified in the applicable Treasury regulations. In the case of Securities that are "regularly traded", a holding of 5 per cent. or less of the outstanding Securities of that class or series generally should not be subject to the FIRPTA rules. Certain attribution and aggregation rules apply, and prospective purchasers are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding whether their ownership interest in the Securities will be subject to an exemption from the FIRPTA rules in light of their circumstances, including any other interest they might have in a relevant issuer.

U.S. Federal Estate Tax

An individual Non-U.S. Holder or an entity the property of which is potentially includible in such an individual's gross estate for U.S. federal estate tax purposes (for example, a trust funded by such an individual and with respect to which the individual has retained certain interests or powers) should note that, absent an applicable treaty exemption, a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer that is not treated as debt for U.S. federal estate tax purposes may be treated as U.S. situs property subject to U.S. federal estate tax. A Security issued by a U.S. Issuer that is treated as debt for U.S. federal estate tax purposes generally will not be treated as U.S. situs property subject to U.S. federal estate tax if payments on the Security, if received by the decedent at the time of death, would not have been subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax because of the exemption from withholding of "portfolio interest". A holder that is such an individual or entity should consult its tax advisor regarding the U.S. federal estate tax consequences of investing in the Securities.

Reportable Transactions

A taxpayer that participates in a "reportable transaction" is subject to information reporting requirements under Section 6011 of the Code. "Reportable transactions" include, among other things, "loss transactions" that result in a taxpayer's claiming certain losses in excess of specified amounts and certain transactions identified by the IRS. In 2015, the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS released notices designating certain "basket options", "basket contracts" and substantially similar transactions as reportable transactions. The notices apply to specified transactions in which a taxpayer or its "designee" has, and exercises, discretion to change the assets or an algorithm underlying the transaction. An exception to the reporting requirements described in the 2015 notices applies to financial instruments that are treated as "variable rate debt instruments" or "contingent payment debt instruments" (including for this purpose Short-Term Securities with contingent payments) for U.S. federal income tax purposes. If the Issuer, an index sponsor or calculation agent or other person were to exercise discretion under the terms of a Security or an index underlying a Security and were treated as a holder's "designee" for these purposes, unless an exception applied (such as the exception for certain categories of debt instruments) certain holders of the relevant Securities would be required to report certain information to the IRS, as set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations, or be subject to penalties. The Issuer might also be required to report information regarding the transaction to the IRS. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding these rules.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

Payments on the Securities, as well as the proceeds of a sale, exchange or other disposition (including retirement) of the Securities, may be subject to information reporting and, if an investor fails to provide certain identifying information (such as an accurate taxpayer identification number for a U.S. Holder) or meet certain other conditions, may also be subject to backup withholding at the rate specified in the Code. A Non-U.S. Holder that provides the applicable withholding agent with the appropriate IRS Form W-8 will generally establish an exemption from backup withholding. Amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules are not additional taxes and may be refunded or credited against a holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, provided the relevant information is timely furnished to the IRS.

FATCA

Legislation commonly referred to as "FATCA" generally imposes a withholding tax of 30 per cent. on payments to certain non-U.S. entities (including financial intermediaries) with respect to certain financial instruments, unless various U.S. information reporting and due diligence requirements (that are in addition to, and potentially significantly more onerous than, the requirement to deliver an IRS Form W-8) have been satisfied. An intergovernmental agreement between the United States and the non-U.S. entity's jurisdiction may modify these requirements. This legislation generally applies to payments of U.S.-source "fixed or determinable annual or periodical" income, which includes, among other things, interest and certain dividend equivalents (as defined above) under Section 871(m). While existing Treasury regulations would also require withholding on payments of gross proceeds from the disposition (including upon retirement) of financial instruments that provide for U.S.-source interest or certain dividend equivalents, the U.S. Treasury Department has indicated in subsequent proposed regulations its intent to eliminate this requirement. The U.S. Treasury Department has stated that taxpayers may rely on these proposed regulations pending their finalisation. A Non-U.S. Holder, or a U.S. Holder holding Securities through a non-U.S. intermediary, should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of FATCA to the Securities, including the availability of certain refunds or credits.

THE TAX CONSEQUENCES TO BENEFICIAL OWNERS OF OWNING AND DISPOSING OF SECURITIES MAY BE UNCLEAR. BENEFICIAL OWNERS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS REGARDING THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF OWNING AND DISPOSING OF SECURITIES, INCLUDING THE TAX CONSEQUENCES UNDER STATE, LOCAL, NON-U.S. AND OTHER TAX LAWS AND THE POSSIBLE EFFECTS OF CHANGES IN U.S. FEDERAL OR OTHER TAX LAWS.

UNITED KINGDOM TAXATION

The following is a summary of the Issuers' understanding of current United Kingdom law and published HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC) practice relating only to the United Kingdom withholding tax treatment of payments of interest (as that term is understood for United Kingdom tax purposes) in respect of Securities. It does not deal with any other United Kingdom taxation implications of acquiring, holding or disposing of Securities. The United Kingdom tax treatment of prospective Securityholders depends on their individual circumstances and may be subject to change in the future. Prospective Securityholders who may be subject to tax in a jurisdiction other than the United Kingdom or who may be unsure as to their tax position should seek their own professional advice.

Interest on Securities

Payments of interest on the Securities that do not have a United Kingdom source may be made without deduction or withholding on account of United Kingdom income tax. If interest paid on the Securities does have a United Kingdom source, then payments may be made without deduction or withholding on account of United Kingdom income tax where one of the exemptions below applies:

- (a) where the Securities carry a right to interest and are and continue to be "listed on a recognised stock exchange", within the meaning of section 1005 of the Income Tax Act 2007 then interest can be paid without deduction or withholding on account of United Kingdom income tax.

The London Stock Exchange is a recognised stock exchange. Securities will be treated as listed on the London Stock Exchange if they are included in the Official List (within the meaning of and in accordance with the provisions of Part 6 of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000) and admitted to trading on the London Stock Exchange. The Frankfurt Stock Exchange, Euronext Dublin, Euronext Paris, the Italian Stock Exchange, the Luxembourg Stock Exchange and the Stockholm Stock Exchange have been recognised as "recognised stock exchanges". The Securities will satisfy this listing requirement if they are officially listed in Germany, Ireland, France, Italy, Luxembourg or Sweden in accordance with provisions corresponding to those generally applicable in EEA states and are admitted to trading on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange, Euronext Dublin, Euronext Paris, the Italian Stock Exchange, the Luxembourg Stock Exchange or the Stockholm Stock Exchange (as applicable). HMRC published guidance is that Securities listed and admitted to trading on the following markets satisfy these requirements: the Regulierter markets of the Frankfurt Stock Exchange (but not the Freiverkehr markets), the main market and Global Exchange Market of Euronext Dublin (but not the Enterprise Securities Market), the electronic bond market and the electronic securitised derivatives market of the Italian Stock Exchange, the regulated market and the Euro MTF market of the Luxembourg Stock Exchange and the main market (but not the First North market) of the Stockholm Stock Exchange forming part of NASDAQ OMX Nordic Exchange. Provided, therefore, that the Securities carry a right to interest and are and remain so "listed on a recognised stock exchange", interest on the Securities will be payable without deduction of or withholding on account of United Kingdom tax;

- (b) where the Securities are admitted to trading on a "multilateral trading facility" operated by a "regulated recognised stock exchange" (both as defined by section 987 Income Tax Act 2007) interest can be paid without deduction or withholding on account of United Kingdom income. Some of the markets that do not satisfy the requirement at (a) above, may instead satisfy this requirement (b). In particular, Securities admitted to trading on the ISM operated by the London Stock Exchange should satisfy this exemption; or
- (c) where the maturity of the Securities is less than 365 days (and the Securities do not form part of a scheme or arrangement of borrowing intended to be capable of remaining outstanding for more than 364 days) interest can be paid without deduction or withholding on account of United Kingdom income.

In other cases where interest on the Securities is regarded as having a United Kingdom source, an amount must generally be withheld from payments of interest on the Securities on account of United Kingdom income tax at the basic rate (currently 20 per cent.), subject to any other available exemptions or reliefs. However, where an applicable double tax treaty provides for a lower rate of withholding tax (or for no tax to be withheld) in relation to a Securityholder, HMRC can issue a notice to the Issuer to pay interest to the Securityholder without deduction of tax (or for interest to be paid with tax deducted at the rate provided for in the relevant double tax treaty).

An amount may also be required to be withheld from payments on the Securities that have a United Kingdom source and do not constitute interest, but are nevertheless treated for United Kingdom tax purposes as either: (i) annual payments; or (ii) manufactured payments. Any such withholding on account of United Kingdom income tax would be at the basic rate. However, where an applicable double tax treaty provides for a lower rate of withholding tax (or for no tax to be withheld) in relation to a Securityholder, HMRC can issue a notice to the Issuer to pay annual payments to the Securityholder without deduction of tax (or for annual payments to be paid with tax deducted at the rate provided for in the relevant double tax treaty).

References to "interest" are to interest as interpreted for UK tax purposes and may therefore in certain cases include payments of premium.

Payments under the Guarantee

The United Kingdom withholding tax treatment of payments by the CGMFL Guarantor under the terms of the Guarantee is uncertain. Accordingly, if the Guarantor makes any such payments, these may be subject to United Kingdom withholding tax at the basic rate (currently 20 per cent.). In particular, such payments by the Guarantor may not be eligible for the exemptions in relation to payments of interest by the Issuer as described above. Accordingly, if the CGMFL Guarantor makes any such payments, these may be subject to UK withholding tax at the basic rate (currently 20 per cent.).

LUXEMBOURG TAXATION

The following information is of a general nature only and is based on the laws presently in force in Luxembourg, though it is not intended to be, nor should it be construed to be, legal or tax advice. The information contained within this section is limited to Luxembourg withholding tax issues. Prospective investors in the Securities should therefore consult their own professional advisers as to the effects of state, local or foreign laws, including Luxembourg tax law, to which they may be subject.

Please be aware that the residence concept used under the respective headings below applies for Luxembourg income tax assessment purposes only. Any reference in the present section to a withholding tax or a tax of a similar nature, or to any other concepts, refers to Luxembourg tax law and/or concepts only.

Taxation of the holders of Securities

Withholding Tax

(a) Non-resident holders of Securities

Under Luxembourg general tax laws currently in force, there is no withholding tax on payments of principal, premium or interest made to non-resident holders of Securities, nor on accrued but unpaid interest in respect of the Securities, nor is any Luxembourg withholding tax payable upon redemption or repurchase of the Securities held by non-resident holders of Securities.

(b) Resident holders of Securities

Under Luxembourg general tax laws currently in force and subject to the law of 23 December 2005, as amended (the Relibi Law), there is no withholding tax on payments of principal, premium or interest made to Luxembourg resident holders of Securities, nor on accrued but unpaid interest in respect of Securities, nor is any Luxembourg withholding tax payable upon redemption or repurchase of Securities held by Luxembourg resident holders of Securities.

Under the Relibi Law, payments of interest or similar income made or ascribed by a paying agent established in Luxembourg to an individual beneficial owner who is a resident of Luxembourg will be subject to a withholding tax of 20 per cent. Such withholding tax will be in full discharge of income tax if the beneficial owner is an individual acting in the course of the management of his/her private wealth. Responsibility for the withholding of the tax will be assumed by the Luxembourg paying agent, if any. Accordingly, payments of interest under Securities coming within the scope of the Relibi Law will be subject to withholding tax at a rate of 20 per cent.

BELGIAN TAXATION

Set out below is a summary of certain Belgian tax consequences of acquiring, holding and selling Securities. This summary is not intended to be an exhaustive description of all relevant Belgian tax considerations and the investors should consult their own professional tax advisors regarding the Belgian tax and other tax consequences (including the applicability and effect of tax treaties for the avoidance of double taxation) of acquiring, owning and disposing of Securities in their particular circumstances. The description of certain taxes in the Kingdom of Belgium (Belgium) set out below is for general information only and does not purport to be comprehensive. In particular, it does not cover the situation of non-residents nor the tax treatment of securities which may be received upon repurchase or settlement of the Securities.

This summary is based on current legislation, published case law and other published guidelines and regulations as in force at the date of this document and remains subject to any future amendments, which may or may not have retroactive effect. Each investor should consult a professional adviser with respect to the tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, taking into account the applicable terms and the influence of each regional, local, federal or national law.

Any payment of interest (as defined by Belgian tax law) on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium will in principle be subject to Belgian withholding tax on the gross amount of the interest, currently at the rate of 30 per cent.

For Belgian tax purposes, if interest is in a foreign currency, it is converted into euro at the exchange rate applicable on the date of payment or attribution.

Belgian income tax

Variable Income

If the repurchase, redemption or exercise by the Issuer(s) is in full or in part settled by means of a delivery of securities or other assets, interest includes any positive difference between the sales value of those assets on the date of their payment or attribution and the initial issue price of the Securities.

Under Belgian tax law, 'interest' income includes: (i) periodic interest income; (ii) any amount paid by the Issuer(s) in excess of the Issue Price; and (iii) only if the Securities qualify as 'fixed income securities' (in the meaning of Article 2, §1, 8° Belgian Income Tax Code of 1992), in the case of a realisation of the Securities between two interest payment dates, the pro rata interest accrued during the holding period. In general, securities are qualified as 'fixed income securities' if there is a causal link between the amount of interest income and the holding period of the security, on the basis of which it is possible to calculate the amount of pro rata interest income at the moment of the sale of the Securities during their lifetime. On 25 January 2013, the Belgian tax authorities issued a circular letter on the Belgian tax treatment of income from structured securities characterised by an uncertain return on investment due to the variation of the coupons or the repayment terms at maturity, such as securities whose return is linked to the evolution of underlying products. According to the circular letter, the transfer of structured securities to a third party (other than the issuer) results in taxation as interest income of the "pro rata interest", calculated on an unclear formulae. In addition, any amount paid in excess of the initial issue price upon redemption or repayment of the structured securities by the issuer is considered as interest for Belgian tax purposes. It is highly debatable whether the circular letter is in line with Belgian tax legislation. Furthermore, it is unclear whether the Belgian tax authorities will seek to apply the principles set out in the circular letter to the Securities.

It is assumed that any gains realised upon redemption or repayment by the Issuer(s) will indeed be viewed as interest by the Belgian tax authorities (and any such gains are therefore referred to as "interest" for the purposes of the following paragraphs), but that the effective taxation of the "pro rata interest" in case of sale to a third party (i.e. other than the Issuer(s)) would not be possible, on the basis that it is currently impossible to determine the amount of the "pro rata interest".

Repayment or redemption by the Issuer(s)

- Belgian resident individuals

Belgian resident individuals, i.e. individuals who are subject to Belgian personal income tax (Personenbelasting/Impôt des personnes physiques), who are holding the Securities as a private investment are subject to the following tax treatment with respect to the Securities in Belgium. Other rules may be applicable in special situations, in particular when Belgian resident individuals acquire the Securities for professional purposes or when their transactions with respect to the Securities fall outside the scope of the normal management of their own private estate or are speculative in nature.

Payments of interest (as defined above) on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium will in principle be subject to a 30 per cent. withholding tax in Belgium (calculated on the interest received after deduction of any non-Belgian withholding taxes). The Belgian withholding tax constitutes in principle the final income tax for Belgian resident individuals. This means that they do not have to declare the interest obtained on the Securities in their personal income tax return, provided Belgian withholding tax was effectively levied on these interest payments.

Nevertheless, Belgian resident individuals may elect to declare interest on the Securities in their personal income tax return if that is beneficial from a tax perspective. Also, if the interest is paid outside Belgium without the intervention of a Belgian paying agent or other financial intermediary, the interest received (after deduction of any non-Belgian withholding tax) must be declared in the personal income tax return. Interest income which is declared this way will in principle be taxed at a flat rate of 30 per cent. (or at the relevant progressive personal income tax rate(s), taking into account the taxpayer's other declared income, whichever is more beneficial) and no local surcharges will be due. If the interest income is declared, the Belgian withholding tax levied may be credited against the personal income tax liability and any excess will be refundable.

- Belgian resident companies

Belgian resident companies, i.e. companies that are subject to Belgian corporate income tax (Vennootschapsbelasting/Impôt des sociétés), are subject to the following tax treatment with respect to the Securities in Belgium.

Interest received by Belgian resident companies on the Securities will be subject to Belgian corporate income tax at the ordinary corporate income tax rate of 25 per cent. Small and medium-sized companies are taxable – subject to conditions – at a reduced corporate tax rate of 20 per cent. for the first EUR100,000 of taxable profits. If the income has been subject to a foreign withholding tax, a foreign tax credit will be applied on the Belgian tax due. For interest income, the foreign tax credit is generally equal to a fraction where the numerator is equal to the foreign tax and the denominator is equal to 100 minus the rate of the foreign tax, up to a maximum of 15/85 of the net amount received (subject to some further limitations). Capital losses are in principle tax deductible.

Interest payments (as defined above) on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium are in principle subject to a 30 per cent. withholding tax, but can be exempt from Belgian withholding tax, PROVIDED THAT certain formalities are complied with (articles 108 and 117, §12 of the Royal Decree of 27 August 1993 implementing the Belgian Income Tax Code of 1992). For zero or capitalisation bonds, an exemption from withholding tax will only apply if the Belgian company and the Issuer(s) are associated companies within the meaning of article 105, 6° of the Royal Decree of 27 August 1993 implementing the Belgian Income Tax Code of 1992. The withholding tax that has been levied is creditable in accordance with the applicable legal provisions and any excess will be refundable.

- Belgian non-profit legal entities

Belgian non-profit legal entities, i.e. legal entities that are subject to Belgian tax on legal entities (Rechtspersonenbelasting/Impôt des personnes morales), are subject to the following tax treatment with respect to the Securities in Belgium.

Payments of interest on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium will in principle be subject to a 30 per cent. withholding tax in Belgium and no further tax on legal entities will be due on the interest.

However, if the interest is paid outside Belgium without the intervention of a Belgian paying agent or other financial intermediary and without the deduction of Belgian withholding tax, the Belgian non-profit legal entity itself is responsible for declaring the interest income and for the payment of the 30 per cent. withholding tax.

Sale to a third party

No Belgian withholding tax should in principle apply to the Securities.

- Belgian resident individuals

Subject to the assumptions stated above under the heading "Variable Income", Belgian resident individuals, i.e. individuals who are subject to Belgian personal income tax (Personenbelasting/Impôt des personnes physiques), are currently not liable to Belgian income tax on the capital gains (if any) realised upon disposal of the Securities to a third party, PROVIDED THAT the Securities have not been used for their professional activity and that the capital gain is realised within the framework of the normal management of their private estate and is not speculative in nature. Capital losses realised upon disposal of the Securities held as a non-professional investment are in principle not tax deductible.

However, capital gains on the Securities may be subject to a 33 per cent. Belgian income tax (plus local surcharges) if they are deemed to be speculative or outside the scope of the normal management of a private estate. Capital losses arising from such transactions are not tax deductible, unless they can be deducted from gains realised on such type of transactions.

Capital gains realised upon transfer of Securities held for professional purposes are taxable at the ordinary progressive income tax rates (plus local surcharges), except for Securities held for more than five years as fixed assets, which are taxable at a separate rate of 16.5 per cent. (plus local surcharges). Capital losses on the Securities incurred by Belgian resident individuals holding the Securities for professional purposes are in principle tax deductible.

- Belgian resident companies

Belgian resident companies, i.e. companies that are subject to Belgian corporate income tax (Vennootschapsbelasting/Impôt des sociétés), are liable to Belgian corporate income tax on the capital gains (if any) realised upon disposal of the Securities to a third party, irrespective of whether such Securities relate to shares or other assets or indices. The current standard corporate income tax rate in Belgium is 25 per cent. Small and medium-sized companies benefit from a 20 per cent. corporate tax rate on the first EUR100,000 of taxable profits, subject to conditions.

Capital losses realised upon disposal of the Securities are in principle tax deductible.

- Belgian non-profit legal entities

Belgian non-profit legal entities, i.e. legal entities that are subject to Belgian tax on legal entities (Rechtspersonenbelasting/Impôt des personnes morales), are currently not liable to Belgian income tax on capital gains (if any) realised upon disposal of the Securities to a third party.

Capital losses realised upon disposal of the Securities are in principle not tax deductible.

Tax on stock exchange transactions

The sale and acquisition of the Securities on the secondary market is subject to a stock exchange tax (Taks op de beursverrichtingen/Taxe sur les opérations de bourse). It will be levied on the acquisition and disposal of the Securities for consideration on the secondary market executed through a professional intermediary in Belgium or if the order is transmitted directly or indirectly to a financial intermediary established outside of Belgium by either a physical person with habitual residence in Belgium or by a legal person for the account of a seat or establishment located in Belgium. The tax is due separately from each party to any such transaction, i.e. the seller (transferor) and the purchaser (transferee), and in both cases collected by the professional intermediary. Where the intermediary is established outside of Belgium, the tax will be due by the party giving the order, save where evidence is provided that the tax was already paid.

The tax rate is in principle 0.12 per cent. for transactions in debt instruments (such as bonds) and 0.35 per cent. for transactions in other securities, with a maximum amount of respectively EUR1,300 per transaction and per party and EUR1,600 per transaction and per party.

However, the tax referred to above will not be payable if no professional intermediary intervenes in the transaction or, even if a professional intermediary intervenes in the transaction, for transactions by exempt persons acting for their own account, including investors who are Belgian non-residents provided they deliver an affidavit to the financial intermediary in Belgium confirming their non-resident status and certain Belgian institutional investors, as defined in Article 126-1, 2 of the Code of various duties and taxes (Wetboek diverse rechten en taksen/Code des droits et taxes divers). Transactions on the primary market are not subject to the tax on stock exchange transactions.

As stated above, the European Commission has published a proposal for a Directive for a common financial transactions tax (the FTT). The proposal currently stipulates that once the FTT enters into force, the participating Member States (including Belgium for the time being) shall not maintain or introduce taxes on financial transactions other than the FTT (or VAT as provided in the EU Council Directive 2006/112/EC on the common system of value added tax). For Belgium, the tax on stock exchange transactions should thus be abolished once the FTT enters into force. The FTT proposal is still subject to negotiation between the participating Member States and therefore may be changed at any time.

Annual tax on securities accounts

The Law of 17 February 2021 introduced a new annual tax on securities accounts (Jaarlijkse taks op de effectenrekeningen/Taxe annuelle sur les comptes-titres). An annual tax of 0.15 per cent. (Annual Tax on Securities Accounts) will be levied on securities accounts of which the average value of the taxable financial instruments (covering, amongst others, financial instruments such as bonds, notes and warrants) held thereon during a reference period of twelve consecutive months (in principle) starting on 1 October and ending on 30 September of the subsequent year, would exceed EUR 1 million. The tax base will be established by reference to four reference dates, i.e. 31 December, 31 March, 30 June and 30 September. The tax base is the sum of the values of the taxable financial instruments at the different reference points in time (i.e. 31 December, 31 March, 30 June and 30 September) divided by the number of those reference points in time. The applicable tax rate is equal to the lowest amount of either 0.15 per cent. of the average value of the account or 10 per cent. of the difference between the average value of the account and EUR 1,000,000. The tax will target securities accounts held by resident individuals, companies and other legal entities, irrespective as to whether these accounts are held with a financial intermediary which is incorporated or established in Belgium or abroad. The tax will also apply to securities accounts held by non-resident individuals, companies and other legal entities with a financial intermediary incorporated or established in Belgium. There are various exemptions, such as securities accounts held by specific types of regulated entities for their own account.

A financial intermediary is defined as (i) the National Bank of Belgium, the European Central Bank and foreign central banks performing similar functions, (ii) a central securities depository included in Article 198/1, §6, 12° of the Belgian Income Tax Code of 1992, (iii) a credit institution or a stockbroking firm as defined by Article 1, §3 of the Law of 25 April 2014 on the status and supervision of credit institutions and stockbroking firms and (iv) the investment companies as defined by Article 3, §1 of the Law of 25 October 2016 on access to the activity of investment services and on the legal status and supervision of portfolio management and investment advice companies, which are, pursuant to national law, admitted to hold financial instruments for the account of clients.

A Belgian intermediary is an intermediary incorporated under Belgian law, as well as an intermediary established in Belgium. A Belgian intermediary withholds, declares and pays the tax to the Belgian treasury.

Intermediaries not incorporated or established in Belgium have the possibility, when managing a securities account subject to the tax, to appoint a responsible representative established in Belgium, who will be approved by or on behalf of the Minister of Finance (Annual Tax on Securities Accounts Representative). The Annual Tax on Securities Accounts Representative is jointly and severally liable for the declaration and payment of the tax and for all other formalities.

In cases where no intermediary has withheld, declared and paid the Annual Tax on Securities Accounts, the holder of the securities account needs to declare and pay the tax, unless the holder can prove that the tax has already been withheld, declared and paid by either a Belgian intermediary or an Annual Tax on Securities Accounts Representative of a foreign intermediary.

Certain specific transactions regarding securities accounts executed as from 30 October 2020 were not effective vis-à-vis the Belgian tax authorities, i.e. splitting of a securities account in multiple securities accounts held with the same financial intermediary and the conversion of taxable financial instruments held in a securities account in financial instruments in registered form. In addition, a general anti-abuse provision was introduced in the Code of various duties and taxes with effect from 30 October 2020. The specific anti-abuse provision, as well as the retroactive date of entry into force of the general anti-abuse provision in relation to the Annual Tax on Securities Accounts were, however, annulled by the Belgian Constitutional Court in its decision n° 138/2022 of 27 October 2022.

The Law of 17 February 2021 entered into force on 26 February 2021, i.e. the day following its publication in the Belgian State Gazette, which is now also the date on which the general anti-abuse provision took effect in relation to the Annual Tax on Securities Accounts. The current reference period started on 1 October 2022 and will end on 30 September 2023, with 31 December 2022, 31 March, 30 June and 30 September 2023 as reference dates.

Holders should consult their own tax advisers in relation to this Annual Tax on Securities Accounts.

Belgian estate and gift tax

Individuals resident in Belgium

An estate tax is levied on the value of the Securities transferred as part of a Belgian resident's estate.

Gifts of Securities in Belgium are subject to gift tax, unless the gift is made by way of a purely physical delivery of bearer securities (if any) or otherwise without written evidence of the gift being submitted to the Belgian tax administration for registration purposes. However, estate taxes on donated Securities are avoided only if a person can demonstrate that the gift (not subject to gift tax) occurred more than three years (five years in the Walloon Region) preceding the death of the grantor.

Individuals not resident in Belgium

There is no Belgian estate tax on the transfer of Securities on the death of a Belgian non-resident.

Gifts of Securities in Belgium are subject to gift tax, unless the gift is made by way of a purely physical delivery of bearer securities (if any) or otherwise without written evidence of the gift being submitted to the Belgian tax administration for registration purposes.

BULGARIAN TAXATION

The information provided below regarding certain tax considerations under Bulgarian law is based on the laws in force in the Republic of Bulgaria as of the date of this Base Prospectus and is subject to any changes in law that may take effect after such date. It does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all the considerations that may be relevant to an investment decision and does not purport to deal with the tax consequences applicable to all categories of investors. The acquisition of Securities by non-Bulgarian holders, or the receipt of income under Securities may trigger additional tax payments in the country of residence of the relevant holder, which is not covered by this summary. Furthermore, the receipt of income under Securities may trigger additional tax payments in the country of residence of the relevant Issuer(s), but in such case the provisions of any effective and applicable treaties on the avoidance of double taxation should be taken into consideration. Investors should consult their professional advisers on the tax consequences of their acquiring, holding and disposing of Securities under the laws of their country of citizenship, residence, domicile or incorporation.

Summary

As a general rule and to the extent that the Issuer(s) is/are not a Bulgarian tax resident (nor does it have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria), only income realised in relation to the Securities by investors who are legal entities and/or individuals resident for tax purposes in Bulgaria (or, as an exception, foreign investors who act through a permanent establishment in Bulgaria) may be subject to taxation in Bulgaria. Provided that the Issuer(s) is/are not Bulgarian tax residents (nor do they have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria), Bulgarian withholding tax will not apply to income under the Securities realised by investors (legal entities and/or individuals) who are not Bulgarian tax residents.

Tax Residence Status of Holders of Securities

From a Bulgarian tax perspective the mere acquisition, holding or disposal of Securities would not qualify a foreign corporate or individual holder as a Bulgarian tax resident.

In order to qualify as a Bulgarian tax resident under Bulgarian local laws a corporate investor should either (i) be incorporated in the Republic of Bulgaria under the applicable Bulgarian laws or (ii) be an entity established under Council Regulation (EC) №2157/2001 or (iii) be a cooperative society established under Council Regulation (EC) 1435/2003, in case its registered office is within Bulgaria and it is entered in a Bulgarian register.

An individual investor will qualify as a Bulgarian tax resident, without regard to its citizenship, in the event that he or she (i) has a permanent address in the Republic of Bulgaria; (ii) resides in the Republic of Bulgaria for more than 183 days during each twelve month period, (iii) has been sent abroad by the Bulgarian state, its authorities or organisations or by Bulgarian enterprises, or (iv) has a centre of vital interest in the Republic of Bulgaria.

Tax Treatment of Interest Income

Non-resident Corporate Holders

To the extent that the Issuer(s) is/are not a Bulgarian tax resident (nor does it have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria), Bulgarian tax on interest income of corporate holders that are not Bulgarian tax residents and do not have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria (Non-resident Corporate Holders) derived under the Securities would not apply. Where any interest income is paid under the Securities to a Non-resident Corporate Holder acting through a permanent establishment in Bulgaria said interest income will be included in the corporate income taxable base of the relevant entity's permanent establishment in Bulgaria which, in turn, is subject to corporate income tax in Bulgaria at the rate of 10 per cent.

Non-resident Individual Investors

To the extent that the Issuer(s) is/are not a Bulgarian tax residents (nor does it have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria), interest income of non-resident individual investors derived under the Securities would not be subject to Bulgarian tax.

Bulgaria-resident Corporate Holders

Irrespective of whether the Securities are traded on a regulated market in financial instruments (as defined in Directive 2014/65/EU) in Bulgaria or in an EU/the European Economic Area (EEA) state (Regulated Market), the interest income received by a Bulgarian tax resident corporate holder will be treated as a form of business income, and would therefore be included in its financial result. After netting off with recognised business expenses, any resulting profit is subject to general corporate tax at a flat rate of 10 per cent. The Bulgarian resident corporate holder would be liable for payment of the corporate income tax (provided its annual financial result is a positive figure), as well as for complying with certain reporting obligations under Bulgarian law. The annual corporate income tax, if any, should be paid by 30 June of the following year, otherwise interest for the delay shall accrue thereon.

Bulgaria-resident Individual Investors

The interest income derived from Securities issued in accordance with the laws and regulations of Bulgaria, another EU Member State or another EEA state, and received by a Bulgarian tax resident individual is tax exempt in Bulgaria. Interest income derived from Securities issued in accordance with the laws and regulations of a country outside the EU/EEA and received by a Bulgarian tax resident individual are subject to Bulgarian personal income tax levied at a flat rate of 10 per cent.

Special Treatment of Sole Proprietors (ednolicen targovetz)

An individual who is a Bulgarian tax resident and with regards to the Securities is acting as sole proprietor (ednolicen targovetz) within the meaning of the Bulgarian Commerce Act, whether registered or not, is subject to taxation for any interest as a legal entity at the rate of 15 per cent.

Tax Treatment of Dividend Income

Non-resident Corporate Holders

To the extent that the Issuer(s) is/are not a Bulgarian tax resident (nor does it have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria) and relevant dividend income is not paid in relation to and based on equity participation in a Bulgaria-tax-resident entity, Bulgarian tax on dividend income of corporate holders that are not Bulgarian tax residents and do not have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria (Non-resident Corporate Holders) derived under the Securities would not apply.

Where any dividend income is paid under the Securities to a Non-resident Corporate Holder acting through a permanent establishment in Bulgaria and if the issuing entity is not resident for tax purposes within the EU or EEA, said dividend income will be included in the corporate income taxable base of the relevant entity's permanent establishment in Bulgaria which, in turn, is subject to corporate income tax in Bulgaria at the rate of 10 per cent. (unless an exemption is granted under an applicable double tax treaty). Conversely, where dividend income is paid under the Securities to a Non-resident Corporate Holder acting through a permanent establishment in Bulgaria and if the issuing entity is resident for tax purposes within the EU or EEA, said dividend payments will not be recognised income for Bulgarian tax purposes (pass through income) and will not lead to increase of the permanent establishment's taxable result in Bulgaria.

Non-resident Individual Investors

Unless the relevant Issuer(s) of Securities is a Bulgarian tax resident, dividend income of non-resident individual investors derived under the Securities would not be subject to Bulgarian tax.

Bulgaria-resident Corporate Holders

Where any dividend income is paid under the Securities to a Bulgaria-resident corporate holder and if the issuing entity is not resident for tax purposes within the EU or EEA, said dividend income will be included in the corporate income taxable base of the relevant holder in Bulgaria which, in turn, is subject to corporate income tax in Bulgaria at the rate of 10 per cent. (unless an exemption is granted under an applicable double tax treaty). Conversely, where dividend income is paid under the Securities to a Bulgaria-resident corporate holder and if the issuing entity is resident for tax purposes within the EU or EEA, said dividend payments will not be recognised income for Bulgarian tax purposes (pass through income) and will not lead to increase of the Bulgarian holder's taxable result in Bulgaria.

Bulgaria-resident Individual Investors

Unless an exemption is granted under an applicable double tax treaty, any dividend income realised by a Bulgarian tax resident individual is subject to Bulgarian tax levied at a flat rate of 5 per cent.

Special Treatment of Sole Proprietors (ednolicen targovetz)

An individual who is a Bulgarian tax resident and with regards to the Securities is acting as sole proprietor (ednolicen targovetz) within the meaning of the Bulgarian Commerce Act, whether registered or not, is subject to taxation for any dividend income with Bulgarian tax levied at a flat rate of 5 per cent. (unless an exemption is granted under an applicable double tax treaty).

Tax Treatment of Capital Gains

Non-resident Corporate Holders

To the extent that the Issuer(s) is/are not a Bulgarian tax resident (nor do they have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria), capital gains income from disposal of Securities realised by Non-resident Corporate Holders would not be subject to Bulgarian tax unless such income is realised by the relevant Non-resident Corporate Holders through a permanent establishment in Bulgaria. In the latter case, the capital gains realised through disposal of Securities by a Non-resident Corporate Holder acting through a permanent establishment in Bulgaria would be included in the corporate income taxable result of the permanent establishment which – if positive (i.e. if there is profit realised) - is subject to corporate income tax in Bulgaria at the rate of 10 per cent.

Non-resident Individual Holders

To the extent that the Issuer(s) is/are not Bulgarian tax residents (nor do they have a permanent establishment in Bulgaria), capital gains income from disposal of Securities realised by non-resident individual holders would not be subject to Bulgarian tax.

Bulgaria-resident Corporate Holders

The tax treatment of capital gains from the disposal of Securities realised by a Bulgaria-tax-resident corporate holder, will be the same as the tax treatment of the interest income from Securities described above with respect to Bulgaria-resident Corporate Holders. The capital gains will be treated as a form of business income of the Bulgaria-tax-resident corporate holder and will be included in its taxable result. Should the taxable result be a positive figure, the Bulgarian investor would be liable for a payment of 10 per cent. corporate tax thereon.

Bulgaria-resident Individual Investors

As a general rule under the Bulgarian Law on Personal Income Taxation, income derived by a Bulgaria-tax-resident individual as a result of disposal of financial instruments shall be exempt from taxation with Bulgarian personal income tax. For the purposes of said exemption 'disposal of financial instruments' is defined to include: (i) transactions with shares in collective investment schemes and national investment funds (as defined by law), and with shares, warrants (meaning instruments granting their holder the right to subscribe shares upon capital increase) and state-issued securities carried out on a Regulated Market; (ii) transactions completed under the terms and procedures for re-purchase by collective investment schemes admitted for offering in Bulgaria or in another EU Member State or EEA party; (iii) transactions completed under the terms and procedures for re-purchase (including distribution of money upon liquidation of a closed-type national investment fund) by national investment funds admitted for offering in Bulgaria; (iv) transactions completed under the terms and procedures for takeover bids regulated under the Bulgarian Law on Public Offering of Securities, or for similar transaction in another EU Member State or EEA party.

The income of Bulgaria-tax-resident individuals derived from transfer of Securities which do not fall under the exemptions described above shall be subject to personal income tax at 10 per cent, as part of the overall annual income.

Special Treatment of Sole Proprietors (ednolicen targovetz)

An individual who is a Bulgarian tax resident and with regards to the Securities is acting as sole proprietor (ednolicen targovetz) within the meaning of the Bulgarian Commerce Act, whether registered or not, is subject to taxation for any capital gains as a legal entity at the rate of 15 per cent.

Other Taxes

There is no Bulgarian value added tax, registration tax, stamp duty or any other similar duty payable in Bulgaria as a consequence of the receipt of interest income from Securities, or holding or disposal of Securities.

Under Bulgarian law, the transfer of Securities by way of succession (through corporate reorganisation of a legal entity or inheritance of an individual) does not trigger separate transfer tax, except for inheritance taxes that may be due in the case of succession by individual holders who are Bulgarian tax residents.

Application of Double Tax Treaties

Bulgaria has a number of double tax treaties in place with various jurisdictions (including the USA and the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg). Each investor should seek further tax advice from qualified advisor(s) on whether any such double tax treaty may apply with respect to a particular type of income derived from the Securities, and if such application may allow the investor to avail of a tax relief from taxes which would otherwise be levied in Bulgaria or in another relevant jurisdiction (e.g. the country where the relevant Issuer(s) is/are resident for tax purposes).

CZECH REPUBLIC TAXATION

General

The following text is a general discussion of certain Czech tax consequences that may be relevant to the ownership and disposition of Securities (the Discussion) by their holders who are Czech tax residents, beneficially own, within the OECD meaning of this term, any income from such Securities, and who, if they are individuals, have held their Securities as private investment and not as part of their business assets (a Czech Holder). It does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all tax considerations which may be relevant to a decision to purchase Securities, and, in particular, does not consider any specific features of any of the Securities or any facts or circumstances that may apply to a particular purchaser. It is based on laws currently in force in the Czech Republic and applicable on the date of this Base Prospectus, but subject to change, possibly with retrospective effect. Due to the absence of statutory, judicial or administrative authorities that directly address the Czech tax treatment of structured instruments, such as Securities, significant aspects of the tax treatment of an investment in these Securities are uncertain. Therefore, prospective purchasers of Securities are advised to consult their own tax advisers as to the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of Securities, including the effect of any state or local taxes, under the tax laws of the Czech Republic and each country where income from Securities can become subject to tax.

Application of special bonds tax regime

In 2021, new Czech income tax rules for the taxation of bonds came into effect. According to these rules, income from bonds is classified and taxed strictly by reference to the Czech bonds regulations. However, these regulations do not consider securities to be bonds if the right to repayment of a certain amount, which is linked to such securities, depends even partially on the occurrence of a certain event. Therefore, except in cases of a full capital protection ensuring that a holder's investment is returned at redemption or maturity under all circumstances, it can be reasonably argued that this new tax regime does not cover instruments with complex payoff structures, such as Securities. This Discussion assumes that the special bonds tax regime does not apply to Securities.

Classification of Securities and income from them

This Discussion assumes that Securities are treated as debt securities (other than bonds) for Czech tax purposes and that the income from them is considered as interest income. However, alternative treatments are possible, and even if the general characterisation of the relevant Securities as debt is respected there may nonetheless be uncertainty about specific aspects of the tax treatment of the relevant Securities.

Czech interest income sourcing rules

Interest is considered as Czech source income if it is paid by a Czech tax resident or a Czech permanent establishment of a non-resident. As such, there can be uncertainty as to whether the appointment of a paying agent or similar person in the Czech Republic could cause the interest to have a Czech source and become subject to withholding tax. However, it can be argued that the sourcing rules have not been designed to establish a paying-agent withholding tax system. Accordingly, interest income should be treated as having a Czech source only if the relevant Issuer is resident in the Czech Republic for tax purposes or if it has a permanent establishment in the Czech Republic and there is an economic link between Securities on which the interest is paid and that permanent establishment. This Discussion assumes that none of the Issuers is resident in the Czech Republic or has a permanent establishment in the Czech Republic.

Czech income taxation

Withholding tax on interest

All payments of interest in respect of Securities can be made by the Issuer without any deduction or withholding for or on account of any taxes imposed or assessed in the Czech Republic.

Czech Holders – Individuals

The interest accruing on Securities is subject to taxation in the Czech Republic when such interest is paid to the Czech Holders who are individuals.

The gross amount of interest income (including any tax withheld abroad and not reduced by any expenses) is treated as capital income. Such income is included in a general tax base of the Czech Holder which is subject to progressive personal income tax of 15 or 23 per cent., depending on the Czech Holder's income bracket (the higher rate applying on the tax base exceeding CZK 1,935,552, in 2023). However, the Czech Holders may decide to include the gross amount of interest into a separate tax base designated for taxation of certain foreign-sourced income in which case a flat personal income tax of 15 per cent. will apply. The Czech tax law does not provide for any unilateral foreign-tax credit or a similar arrangement and, therefore, any double taxation relief must be resolved solely according to an applicable Czech tax treaty, if any.

Unless exempt from tax, capital gains realised by Czech Holders upon sale of Securities are subject to progressive personal income tax of 15 or 23 per cent., depending on the Czech Holder's income bracket (the higher rate applying on the tax base exceeding CZK 1,935,552, in 2023). Any loss will generally be treated as non-deductible, except where such loss is compensated by taxable gains on the sales of other securities in the same year and the income from the sale of Securities is not tax-exempt.

Capital gains realised by a Czech Holder from the sale of Securities are exempt from Czech personal income tax if:

- (a) the individual has held such Securities continuously for more than three years before their sale; or
- (b) the total gross income (i.e. not a gain) from the sale of securities (including Securities) in one calendar year does not exceed CZK 100,000.

If the income from the sale of the Securities is tax exempt and such income exceeds CZK 5,000,000, then the Czech Holder must report such income to the tax authorities.

Czech Holders – Corporations (holders other than individuals)

Interest derived from Securities is included in the general tax base of the Czech Holder, which is subject to corporate income tax at a flat rate of 19 per cent., in 2023. The Czech Holders are generally required to recognize the interest in its profit and loss statement on an accrual (as opposed to cash) basis.

Capital gains realised upon the sale of Securities are included in the general tax base, which is subject to corporate income tax at the flat rate of 19 per cent., in 2023. No exemption from tax is available and losses are generally tax deductible.

A different regime may apply to certain corporations (e.g., pension funds, investment funds).

Stamp, duty, transfer and other similar taxes

No Czech stamp duty, registration, transfer or similar taxes will be payable in connection with the acquisition, ownership, sale or disposal of Securities by Czech Holders.

FRENCH TAXATION

The following is a summary of certain material French tax considerations relating to Securities issued to holders resident in or otherwise subject to tax in France. This information is of general nature and aims at addressing only the French compulsory withholding tax treatment of income arising from the Securities and certain transfer tax implications relevant in case of physical delivery in respect of the Securities. This summary is based on the laws and regulations in full force and effect in France as at the date of this Base Prospectus, which may be subject to change in the future, potentially with retroactive effect. Investors should be aware that the summary below is of a general nature and does not constitute legal or tax advice and should not be understood as such. Prospective investors are therefore advised to consult their own qualified advisors so as to determine, in the light of their individual situation, the tax consequences of the purchase, holding, redemption or disposal of the Securities.

Withholding tax

The following has been prepared on the assumption that the Securities are treated as debt instruments for French tax purposes; the Issuer(s) and the Guarantor(s) are not (and will not be) French residents for French tax purposes and the Securities (and any transaction in connection therewith) are not (and will not be) attributed or attributable to a French branch, permanent establishment or fixed place of business in France of any Issuer(s) or the Guarantor(s); and that the Holders of the Securities are French tax resident individuals.

Payments of interest and other similar revenues in respect of the Securities made by any Issuer(s) and the Guarantor(s) will be made free of any compulsory withholding or deduction for or on account of any taxes of whatsoever nature imposed, levied, withheld, or assessed by France or any French political subdivision or taxing authority thereof or therein.

However, pursuant to Article 125 A I of the French tax code, if the paying agent (établissement payeur) is established in France or in an EU or EEA Member State and has been appointed by the French individual Holder to withhold, pay and report the flat tax on his behalf, and subject to certain exceptions, interest and other similar revenues received by such individual Holder who is fiscally domiciled in France are subject to a 30 per cent. flat tax composed of individual income tax at a rate of 12.8 per cent. (which is deductible from their personal income tax liability in respect of the year in which the payment has been made) and social contributions (CSG, CRDS and solidarity levy) levied at an aggregate rate of 17.2 per cent.

Interest or similar revenues must be reported by the French individual Holder in his annual tax return to be filed during the following year for final computation of the income tax.

If the French individual Holder expressly and irrevocably elects to the progressive individual income tax regime on his whole revenues otherwise subject to the flat tax, the above-mentioned 30 per cent. flat tax withheld would be regarded as a prepayment and further offset against the individual income tax due by the taxpayer, in which case 6.8 per cent. of the social contributions will be deductible from the taxable income of the year of their payment.

French financial transaction tax and transfer tax

The following may be relevant in connection with Securities which are settled, redeemed or repaid by way of physical delivery of French shares issued by an issuer whose registered office is located in France or certain assimilated securities.

The French financial transaction tax provided under Article 235 ter ZD of the French tax code (the Financial Transaction Tax) is applicable, subject to certain exemptions, at a rate of 0.3 per cent. to any acquisitions for consideration of (i) equity securities (titres de capital) as defined by Article L.212-1 A of the French monetary and financial code or assimilated equity securities (titres de capital assimilés) as defined by Article L.211-41 of the French monetary and financial code which are listed on a regulated market and issued by an issuer whose registered seat is located in France and whose market capitalisation exceeds 1 billion Euros on 1 December of the year preceding the imposition (the French Shares) or (ii) securities (titres) representing French Shares, irrespective of the location of the registered office of the issuer of such securities. If the Financial Transaction Tax applies to the acquisition of French Shares, this transaction is exempt from transfer taxes (droits de mutation à titre onéreux) provided under Article 726 of the French tax code (the Transfer Taxes) which generally apply at a rate of 0.1 per cent. to the sale of shares issued by an issuer whose registered seat is located in France, PROVIDED THAT in case of shares listed on a recognised stock exchange, Transfer Taxes are due only if the transfer is evidenced by a written deed or agreement.

GERMAN TAXATION

The following is a general discussion of certain German tax consequences of the acquisition, ownership and the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities and the receipt of interest thereon. It does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all tax considerations, which may be relevant to a decision to purchase Securities, and, in particular, does not consider any specific facts or circumstances that may apply to a particular purchaser. This summary is based on the laws of Germany currently in force and as applied on the date of this Base Prospectus, which are subject to change, possibly with retroactive or retrospective effect.

As each Series or Tranche of Securities may be subject to a different tax treatment due to the specific terms of such Series or Tranche, the following section only provides some very generic information on the possible tax treatment and has to be read in conjunction with the more specific information on the taxation of each Series or Tranche of Securities as provided in the applicable Issue Terms. Furthermore, the taxation of the different types of Securities may differ from each other. The following summary only describes the tax treatment of Securities in general and certain particularities with respect to individual types of Securities. Where the term "certificates" is used in the following summary it refers – according to a German understanding of the term – to certain types of Securities linked to an underlying.

Prospective purchasers of Securities are advised to consult their own tax advisors as to the tax consequences of the acquisition, the ownership and the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities and the receipt of interest thereon, including the effect of any state or local taxes, under the tax laws of Germany and each country of which they are residents or citizens or may otherwise be liable to tax. Only these advisers will be able to take into account appropriately the details relevant to the taxation of the respective holders of the relevant Securities.

Tax Residents

Private Investors

Interest/Capital gains

Interest payable on Securities to persons holding such Securities as private assets (Private Investors) who are tax residents of Germany (i.e. persons whose residence or habitual abode is located in Germany) qualifies as investment income (Einkünfte aus Kapitalvermögen) according to Sec. 20 para. 1 German Income Tax Act (Einkommensteuergesetz) and is, in general, taxed at a separate flat tax rate of 25 per cent. according to Sec. 32d para. 1 German Income Tax Act (Abgeltungsteuer, in the following also referred to as flat tax), plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax. The German flat tax regime is currently under review of the German Federal Constitutional Court (BVerfG) after the Lower Saxony Finance Court in Hanover held that the withholding tax on capital gains violated the principle of equal treatment and was therefore unconstitutional (Submission order dated 18 March 2022 (docket no. 7 K 120/21)).

Capital gains from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities, including the original issue discount and interest having accrued up to the disposition of a Security and credited separately (Accrued Interest, (Stückzinsen)), if any, qualify – irrespective of any holding period – as investment income pursuant to Sec. 20 para. 2 German Income Tax Act and are also generally taxed at the flat tax rate of 25 per cent., plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax. If the Securities are assigned, redeemed, repaid or contributed into a corporation by way of a hidden contribution (verdeckte Einlage in eine Kapitalgesellschaft) rather than sold, as a rule, such transaction is treated like a sale.

Capital gains are determined by taking the difference between the sale, assignment or redemption price (after the deduction of expenses directly and factually related to the sale, assignment or redemption) and the acquisition price of the relevant Securities. Where the relevant Securities are issued in a currency other than Euro the sale, assignment or redemption price and the acquisition costs have to be converted into Euro on the basis of the foreign exchange rates prevailing on the acquisition date and the sale, assignment or redemption date respectively. If the Issuer(s) exercise(s) the right to substitute the Issuer(s) of the Securities, the substitution might, for German tax purposes, be treated as an exchange of the Securities for new notes issued by the new Issuer(s). Such a substitution could result in the recognition of a taxable gain or loss for the respective investors.

Expenses (other than such expenses directly and factually related to the sale, assignment or redemption) related to interest payments or capital gains under the Securities are – except for a standard lump sum (Sparer-Pauschbetrag) of Euro 1,000 (Euro 2,000 for jointly assessed holders) – in principle not deductible.

According to the flat tax regime losses from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities can only be set-off against other investment income including capital gains. If the set-off is not possible in the assessment period in which the losses have been realised, such losses can be carried forward into future assessment periods only and can be set-off against investment income including capital gains generated in these future assessment periods. The offsetting of losses incurred by a Private Investor is subject to several restrictions. Losses incurred with respect to the Securities can only be offset against investment income of the Private Investor realised in the same or the following years. According to new legislation losses from capital claims of private investors can now be offset against income derived from capital investments up to an amount of EUR20,000.00 p.a. Further, loss from Securities which qualify as derivative transactions (Termingeschäfte) may only be applied against profits from other derivative transactions, and only up to an amount of EUR20,000.00 in a given year. Losses exceeding any of these thresholds can be carried forward. The Federal Fiscal Court (Bundesfinanzhof) considers loss offsetting restrictions for losses on the sale of shares to be unconstitutional and has submitted the question by decision of 17 November 2020 (docket no. VIII R 11/18) to the German Federal Constitutional Court (BVerfG) for a decision on constitutionality.

Particularities apply with respect to so-called full risk certificates with several payment dates. According to the decree of the German Federal Ministry of Finance (Bundesfinanzministerium) dated 19. May 2022 (IV C 1 - S 2252/19/10003 :009) (as last amended by decree dated 20 December 2022 (IV C 1 - S 2252/19/10003:011)), all payments to the investor under such full risk certificates that are made prior to the final maturity date shall qualify as taxable income from an "other capital receivable" (sonstige Kapitalforderung) pursuant to Sec. 20 para 1 no. 7 German Income Tax Act, unless the offering terms and conditions stipulate that such payments shall be redemption payments and the parties act accordingly. If there is no final redemption payment, the final maturity date shall not constitute a sale-like event in the meaning of Sec. 20 para. 2 German Income Tax Act. Therefore, capital losses, if any, shall not be deductible; however, based on case law a non-payment on a security due to certain thresholds being breached or an early termination of a security for this reason without any further payment shall be treated like a disposal resulting in the acquisition costs of such security being treated as a tax-deductible loss. Although this decree only refers to certain types of certificates, the German tax authorities apply the above described principles to other kinds of certificates as well. However, according to the decrees dated 23 January 2017 (IV C 1 – S 2252/08/10004:018) and 12 April 2018 (IV CI-5 2252/08/10004:021) the German Federal Ministry of Finance now accepts losses in connection with the expiration of option rights (including options with knock out character) and respective warrants as well as certain derivative transactions which may also affect other financial instruments.

Further, the German Federal Ministry of Finance in its decree dated 19 May 2022 (IV C 1 - S 2252/19/10003:009, marginal number 61)) (as amended) has taken the position that a bad debt loss (Forderungsausfall) and a waiver of a receivable (Forderungsverzicht) shall, in general, be treated as a sale, so that losses suffered upon such bad debt loss or waiver shall be deductible for tax purposes. It is not clear, whether the position of the German tax authorities may affect securities which are linked to a reference value in case such value decreases.

Withholding

If Securities are held in custody with or administered by a German credit institution, financial services institution (including a German permanent establishment of such foreign institution), securities trading company or securities trading bank (Disbursing Agent), the flat tax at a rate of 25 per cent. (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax) will be withheld by the Disbursing Agent on interest payments and the excess of the proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption (after the deduction of expenses directly and factually related to the sale, assignment or redemption) over the acquisition costs for the relevant Securities (if applicable converted into Euro terms on the basis of the foreign exchange rates as of the acquisition date and the sale, assignment or redemption date respectively). Church tax is collected by way of withholding as a standard procedure unless the Private Investor has filed a blocking notice (Sperrvermerk) with the German Federal Central Tax Office (Bundeszentralamt für Steuern).

The Disbursing Agent will provide for the set-off of losses against investment income including capital gains from other securities. If, in the absence of sufficient investment income derived through the same Disbursing Agent, a set-off is not possible, the holder of Securities may – instead of having a loss carried forward into the following year – file an application with the Disbursing Agent until 15 December of the current fiscal year for a certification of losses (Verlustbescheinigung) in order to set-off such losses against investment income derived through other institutions in the holder's personal income tax return.

If custody has changed since the acquisition and the acquisition data is not proved as required by Sec. 43a para. 2 German Income Tax Act or not permitted to be proved, the flat tax rate of 25 per cent. (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax) will be imposed on an amount equal to 30 per cent. of the proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption of the relevant Securities.

In the course of the tax withholding provided for by the Disbursing Agent foreign taxes may be credited in accordance with the German Income Tax Act.

If Securities are not kept in a custodial account with a Disbursing Agent, the flat tax will – by way of withholding – apply on interest paid by a Disbursing Agent upon presentation of a coupon (whether or not presented with the relevant Security to which it appertains) to a holder of such coupon (other than a non-German bank or financial services institution) (Tafelgeschäft), if any. In this case proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption of the relevant Securities will also be subject to the withholding of the flat tax.

In general, no flat tax will be levied if the holder of a Security filed a withholding exemption certificate (Freistellungsauftrag) with the Disbursing Agent (in the maximum amount of the standard lump sum of current Euro 1,000 (Euro 2,000 for jointly assessed holders) to the extent the income does not exceed the maximum exemption amount shown on the withholding exemption certificate. Similarly, no flat tax will be deducted if the holder of a Security has submitted to the Disbursing Agent a valid certificate of non-assessment (Nichtveranlagungsbescheinigung) issued by the competent tax office.

For Private Investors, the withheld flat tax is, in general, definitive. Exceptions apply e.g. if and to the extent the actual investment income exceeds the amount which was determined as the basis for the withholding of the flat tax by the Disbursing Agent. In such case, the exceeding amount of investment income must be included in the Private Investor's income tax return and will be subject to the flat tax in the course of the assessment procedure. According to the decree of the German Federal Ministry of Finance dated 19 May 2022 (IV C 1 - S 2252/19/10003 :009) (as last amended by decree dated 20 December 2022 (IV C 1 - S 2252/19/10003 :011) marginal numbers 143,183), however, any exceeding amount of not more than Euro 500 per assessment period will not be claimed on grounds of equity, PROVIDED THAT no other reasons for an assessment according to Sec. 32d para. 3 German Income Tax Act exist. Further, Private Investors may request that their total investment income, together with their other income, is subject to taxation at their personal, progressive income tax rate rather than the flat tax rate, if this results in a lower tax liability (Günstigerprüfung). According to Sec. 32d para. 2 no. 1 German Income Tax Act the flat tax rate is also not available in situations where an abuse of the flat tax rate is assumed (e.g. "back-to-back" financing). In order to prove such investment income and the withheld flat tax thereon, the investor may request from the Disbursing Agent a respective certificate in officially required form.

Investment income not subject to the withholding flat tax (e.g. if there is no Disbursing Agent) must be included in the personal income tax return and will be subject to the flat tax rate of 25 per cent. (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax), unless the investor requests the investment income to be subject to taxation at lower personal, progressive income tax rate or the investment income is not subject to the flat tax rate according to Sec. 32d para. 2 no. 1 German Income Tax Act. Foreign taxes on investment income may be credited in accordance with the German Income Tax Act.

Business Investors

Interest payable on Securities to persons holding the relevant Securities as business assets (Business Investors) who are tax residents of Germany (i.e. Business Investors whose residence, habitual abode, statutory seat or place of effective management and control is located in Germany) and capital gains from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities, including the original issue discount and Accrued Interest, if any, are subject to income tax at the Business Investor's personal, progressive income tax rate (plus currently 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax), or, in case of corporate entities, to corporate income tax at a uniform 15 per cent. tax rate (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon). Such interest payments and capital gains may also be subject to trade tax if the relevant Securities form part of the property of a German trade or business. Losses from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities are, in general, recognised for tax purposes; this may be different if certain (in particular index linked) Securities qualify as derivative transactions.

Withholding tax, if any, including solidarity surcharge thereon, is credited as a prepayment against the Business Investor's personal, progressive or corporate income tax liability and the solidarity surcharge in the course of the tax assessment procedure, i.e. the withholding tax is not definitive. Any potential surplus will be refunded. However, in general and subject to further requirements, no withholding deduction will apply on capital gains from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities if (i) such Securities are held by a corporation, association or estate in terms of Sec. 43 para. 2 sentence 3 no. 1 German Income Tax Act or (ii) the proceeds from such Securities qualify as income of a domestic business and the investor notifies this to the Disbursing Agent by use of the required official form according to Sec. 43 para. 2 sentence 3 no. 2 German Income Tax Act (Erklärung zur Freistellung vom Kapitalertragsteuerabzug).

Where notes qualify as zero bonds and form part of a trade or business, each year the part of the difference between the issue or purchase price and the redemption amount attributable to such year must be taken into account as income.

Foreign taxes may be credited in accordance with the German Income Tax Act. Alternatively, foreign taxes may also be deducted from the tax base for German income tax purposes.

Non-residents

Interest payable on Securities and capital gains, including Accrued Interest, if any, are not subject to German taxation, unless (i) the relevant Securities form part of the business property of a permanent establishment, including a permanent representative, or a fixed base maintained in Germany by the holder of the relevant Securities; (ii) the investment income otherwise constitutes German-source income; or (iii) the relevant Securities are not kept in a custodial account with a Disbursing Agent and interest or proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption of the relevant Securities are paid by a Disbursing Agent upon presentation of a coupon to a holder of such coupon (other than a non-German bank or financial services institution) (Tafelgeschäft), if any. In the cases (i), (ii) and (iii) a tax regime similar to that explained above under "Tax Residents" applies.

Insofar as the prerequisites for a limited tax liability are not met in the case of non resident who has capital income, no withholding tax is to be withheld by the Disbursing Agent for this income, even if the relevant Securities are held in custody with a Disbursing Agent (cf. margin number 313 of the decree dated 19 May 2022 (IV C 1 - S 2252/19/10003 :009) (as last amended by decree dated 20 December 2022 (IV C 1 - S 2252/19/10003 :011)). However, where the investment income is subject to German taxation as set forth in the preceding paragraph and the relevant Securities are held in a custodial account with a Disbursing Agent or in case of a Tafelgeschäft, withholding tax is levied as explained above under "Tax Residents". The withholding tax may be refunded based upon German national tax law or an applicable tax treaty.

Inheritance and Gift Tax

No inheritance or gift taxes with respect to any Security will arise under the laws of Germany if, in the case of inheritance tax, neither the decedent nor the beneficiary or, in the case of gift tax, neither the donor nor the donee, is a resident of Germany and such Security is not attributable to a trade or business for which a permanent establishment is maintained, or a permanent representative has been appointed, in Germany. Exceptions from this rule apply to certain German expatriates.

Other Taxes

No stamp, issue, registration or similar taxes or duties will be payable in Germany in connection with the issuance, delivery, execution or conversion of Securities. Currently, net assets tax (Vermögensteuer) is not levied in Germany. Germany and other EU Member States intend to introduce a financial transaction tax (see below). However, it is unclear if and in what form such tax will be actually introduced. In case such tax is introduced, the acquisition and disposal of Securities (in the secondary market) could be subject to a tax of at least 0.1 per cent. of the acquisition or disposal price.

EU Residents

The EU Council Directive 2003/48/EC on the taxation of savings income has been repealed as of 1 January 2016 (1 January 2017 in the case of Austria) (in each case subject to transitional arrangements). However, the Council of the European Union has also adopted Directive 2014/107/EU (the Amending Cooperation Directive), amending Directive 2011/16/EU on administrative cooperation in the field of taxation so as to introduce an extended automatic exchange of information regime in accordance with the Global Standard released by the OECD Council as of 1 January 2016 (1 January 2017 in the case of Austria). Germany has implemented the Amending Cooperation Directive by means of a Financial Account Information Act (Finanzkonten-Informationsaustauschgesetz, FKAustG) according to which it will provide information on financial accounts to EU Member States and certain other states as of 1 January 2016.

Solidarity surcharge

Please note that the solidarity surcharge is partially abolished as of the assessment period 2021 for certain individuals (Law on the return of the solidarity surcharge 1995 of 10 December 2019 - Federal Law Gazette 2019 I pg. 2115). The solidarity surcharge shall, however, continue to apply for investment income and, thus, on withholding taxes levied. In case the individual income tax burden for a non-business Holders of Securities tax resident in Germany is lower than 25 per cent. such Holder can apply for his/her investment income being assessed at his/her individual tariff-based income tax rate in which case solidarity surcharge would be refunded (see above).

HUNGARIAN TAXATION

The following is a general discussion of certain Hungarian tax consequences relating to the acquisition and ownership of Securities. It does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all tax considerations which may be relevant to a decision to purchase Securities, and, in particular, does not consider any specific facts or circumstances that may apply to a particular purchaser. It is based on laws currently in force in Hungary and applicable on the date of this Base Prospectus, but subject to change, possibly with retrospective effect. The acquisition of Securities by non-Hungarian holders, or the payment of interest under Securities may trigger additional tax payments in the country of residence of the relevant holder, which is not covered by this summary, but where the provisions of the treaties on the avoidance of double taxation should be taken into consideration. Prospective purchasers of Securities are advised to consult their own tax advisers as to the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of Securities, including the effect of any state or local taxes, under the tax laws of Hungary and each country of which they are residents.

Withholding tax (foreign resident individual holders)

Foreign resident individual holders are subject to personal income tax in Hungary if they realise income that qualifies as Hungarian sourced income (i) in accordance with an applicable tax treaty; or, (ii) in the absence of a tax treaty, in accordance with Act CXVII of 1995 on Personal Income Tax (the Personal Income Tax Act).

If a tax treaty is applicable, then Hungary's taxation right has to be determined based on the treaty. If the income is taxable in Hungary – which is generally the case if the income qualifies as interest or dividend under the treaty – then 15 per cent. Hungarian withholding tax applies but such tax rate may be reduced by the treaty. In the absence of a tax treaty generally any income realised on the Securities is subject to 15 per cent. withholding tax in Hungary. Please note, however, that the Hungarian tax rules and taxation practice are rather ambiguous in relation to source taxation of non-residents' capital income.

The tax on payments of certain income types are to be withheld by the Payor (kifizető) (as defined below).

Pursuant to Act CL of 2017 on the Rules of Taxation (ART) a Payor means a Hungarian resident legal person, organisation or private entrepreneur who provides taxable income, irrespective of whether such payment is made directly or through an intermediary (post office, credit institution). In respect of interest, Payor shall mean the borrower of a loan or the issuer of a note, including the investment service provider or credit institution providing the interest instead of it. In respect of a dividend, Payor means the entity paying the dividend from its assets. In respect of revenues originating from a transaction concluded with the involvement of a licensed stockbroker, Payor shall mean such stockbroker. The Hungarian permanent establishment of a foreign resident entity is also considered as a Payor.

Interest, as defined by Schedule 7 of the ART (which implements the provisions of the Savings Directive), realised on Securities by citizens of any other Member State is not subject to Hungarian tax where a paying agent based in Hungary provides data to the Hungarian state tax authority on the basis of Schedule 7 of the ART.

Please note that the provisions of the applicable double tax conventions, if any, should be considered when assessing the Hungarian tax liabilities of a foreign resident individual holder.

Withholding tax (foreign resident corporate holders)

Proceeds from Securities paid to foreign resident corporate holders who do not have a permanent establishment in Hungary, by resident legal entities or other persons and any capital gains realised by such foreign resident holders on the sale of the Securities is not subject to tax in Hungary.

The tax liability of a foreign resident corporate holder, which has a permanent establishment in Hungary is limited, in general, to the income from business activities realised through its Hungarian permanent establishment.

Taxation of Hungarian resident individual holders

The tax liability of Hungarian tax resident private individuals covers the worldwide income of such persons.

According to the provisions of the Personal Income Tax Act, in the case of tax resident individual holders of Securities, interest, dividends and the capital gains realised upon the redemption or the sale of publicly offered and publicly traded debt securities is subject to personal income tax at the rate of 15 per cent. Securities listed on a regulated market of a Member State are considered publicly offered and traded Securities. In addition, in the case of tax resident individual holders of Securities, interest paid and yield and capital gains realised with respect to debt securities purchased following 30 June 2023 is subject to social contribution tax at the rate of 13 per cent.

The rules of the Personal Income Tax Act may in certain circumstances impose a requirement upon the "Payor" (kifizető) (as defined below) to withhold tax on the certain payments to individual holders.

Pursuant to the ART the definition of a Payor covers a Hungarian resident legal person, other organisation, or private entrepreneur that (who) provides taxable income, irrespective of whether such payment is made directly or through an intermediary (post office, credit institution). In respect of interest, Payor shall mean the borrower of a loan or the issuer of a note, including the investment service provider or credit institution providing the interest instead of it. In respect of a dividend, Payor means the entity paying the dividend from its assets. In respect of revenues originating from a transaction concluded with the involvement of a licensed stockbroker, Payor shall mean such stockbroker. In respect of income that is earned in a foreign country and taxable in Hungary, "Payor" shall mean the "paying agent" (megbízott) (legal person, organisation or private entrepreneur) having tax residency in Hungary, except in cases where the role of a financial institution is limited to performing the bank transfer or payment.

Taxation of Hungarian resident corporate holders

Under Act LXXXI of 1996 on Corporate Tax and Dividend Tax, Hungarian resident taxpayers have a full, all-inclusive tax liability. In general, resident entities are those established under the laws of Hungary (i.e. having a Hungarian registered seat). Foreign persons having their place of management in Hungary are also considered as Hungarian resident taxpayers.

In general, interest and capital gains realised by Hungarian resident corporate holder on Securities will be taxable in the same way as the regular income of the relevant holder. The general corporate tax rate in Hungary is flat 9 per cent.

Financial institutions, financial enterprises, insurance companies and investment enterprises may be subject to local business tax and innovation tax on the basis of the proceeds realised on Securities.

IRISH TAXATION

The following is a summary of the principal Irish withholding tax and stamp duty tax consequences of ownership of the Securities. It is based on the laws and practice of the Revenue Commissioners currently in force in Ireland as at the date of this Base Prospectus and may be subject to change. The statements in this summary are based on the understanding that Securities will be treated as debt for Irish tax purposes. This summary applies to Holders who beneficially own Securities as an investment. Particular rules not discussed below may apply to certain classes of taxpayers holding Securities including dealers in Securities and trusts. This summary does not constitute tax or legal advice and the comments below are of a general nature only and it does not discuss all aspects of Irish taxation that may be relevant to any particular holder of Securities. Prospective investors in any Securities should consult their professional advisers on the tax implications of the purchase, holding, redemption or sale of Securities and the receipt of payments thereon under any laws applicable to them.

Taxation of Holders(a) Withholding Tax

Tax at the standard rate of income tax (currently 20 per cent.) is required to be withheld from payments of Irish source interest. The Issuer(s) will not be obliged to withhold Irish income tax from payments of interest on any Securities so long as such payments do not constitute Irish source income. Interest paid on Securities should not be treated as having an Irish source unless:

- (i) the relevant Issuer(s) is/are resident in Ireland for tax purposes; or
- (ii) the Issuer(s) has/have a branch or permanent establishment in Ireland, the assets or income of which is used to fund the payments on such Securities; or
- (iii) the Issuer(s) is/are not resident in Ireland for tax purposes but the register for such Securities is maintained in Ireland or (if the Securities are in bearer form) the Securities are physically held in Ireland.

It is anticipated that (i) none of the Issuer(s) are, or will be, resident in Ireland for tax purposes; (ii) none of the Issuer(s) will have a branch or permanent establishment in Ireland; and (iii) bearer Securities will not be physically located in Ireland and none of the Issuer(s) will maintain a register of any Registered Securities in Ireland.

(b) Encashment Tax

Irish tax will be required to be withheld at the standard rate of income tax (currently 25 per cent.) on any interest, dividends or annual payments payable out of or in respect of the stocks, funds, shares or securities of a company not resident in Ireland, where such interest, dividends or annual payments are collected or realised by a bank or encashment agent in Ireland.

Encashment tax will not apply where the beneficial holder of the Securities (i) is not resident in Ireland and has made a declaration in the prescribed form to the encashment agent or bank or (ii) is a company which is within the charge to Irish corporation tax in respect of the payment.

(c) Stamp Duty on Transfer of Securities

As the Issuer(s) will not be registered in Ireland, stamp duty will not arise on a document effecting a transfer of the Securities so long as (i) the Securities do not derive their value or the greater part of their value directly or indirectly from any immovable property situated in Ireland and (ii) the instrument of transfer of the Securities does not relate to:

- (i) any immovable property situated in Ireland or any right over or interest in such property; or
- (ii) any stocks or marketable securities of a company which is registered in Ireland (other than a company which is (i) an "investment undertaking" within the meaning of section 739B of the Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997 (TCA) or (ii) a "qualifying company" within the meaning of Sections 110 of the TCA.

ITALIAN TAXATION

The following is a summary of current Italian law and practice relating to the taxation of Securities. The statements herein regarding taxation are based on the laws in force in Italy as at the date of this Base Prospectus and are subject to any changes in law occurring after such date, which changes could be made on a retroactive basis. The following summary does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all the tax considerations which may be relevant to a decision to subscribe for, purchase, own or dispose of Securities and does not purport to deal with the tax consequences applicable to all categories of investors, some of which (such as dealers in securities or commodities) may be subject to special rules.

Prospective Holders are advised to consult their own tax advisers concerning the overall tax consequences under Italian tax law, under the tax laws of the country in which they are resident for tax and receiving payments of interest, principal and/or other amounts under the Securities, including in particular the effect of any state, regional or local tax laws.

In any case, Italian legal or tax concepts may not be identical to the concepts described by the same English term as they exist under terms of different jurisdictions and any legal or tax concept expressed by using the relevant Italian term shall prevail over the corresponding concept expressed in English terms.

Italian tax treatment of the Securities

The Securities may be subject to different tax regimes depending on whether:

- (a) they represent a debt instrument implying a use of capital (impiego di capitale), through which the Holder transfers to the Issuer(s) a certain amount of capital, for the economic exploitation of the same, subject to the right to obtain a (partial or entire) reimbursement of such amount at maturity; or
- (b) they represent derivative financial instruments or bundles of derivative financial instruments, through which the Holders purchase indirectly underlying financial instruments.

Securities representing debt instruments implying a "use of capital"

Securities which provide for full reimbursement of the issue price (at maturity or upon early redemption)

Italian-resident Holders

Legislative Decree No. 239 of 1 April 1996, as subsequently amended, (Decree No. 239) provides for the applicable regime with respect to the tax treatment of interest, premium and other income (including the difference between the redemption amount and the issue price) from notes falling within the category of bonds (obbligazioni) or debentures similar to bonds (titoli similari alle obbligazioni) (i) issued, inter alia, by companies with shares listed on an EU or EEA regulated market or multilateral trading facility, or in case of issuers whose shares are not listed therein (ii) listed in the aforesaid EU or EEA regulated market or multilateral trading facility or (iii) held by "qualified investors" pursuant to Article 100 of the Legislative Decree No. 58 of 24 February 1998.

For these purposes, debentures similar to bonds are defined as debentures that incorporate an unconditional obligation to pay, at redemption, an amount not less than their principal amount (whether or not providing for interim payments) that do not give any right to directly or indirectly participate in the management of the relevant Issuer(s) or of the business in relation to which they are issued nor any type of control on such management and that do not provide for a remuneration which is entirely linked to the profits of the issuer, or other companies belonging to the same group or to the business in respect of which the securities have been issued.

Where an Italian resident Holder is (i) an individual not engaged in an entrepreneurial activity to which the relevant Securities are connected, (ii) a non-commercial partnership pursuant to Article 5 of the Presidential Decree No. 917 of 22 December 1986 (TUIR) (i.e. partnership other than a società in nome collettivo or società in accomandita semplice or similar partnership), (iii) a non-commercial private or public institution, or (iv) an investor exempt from Italian corporate income taxation, interest, premium and other income relating to Securities, accrued during the relevant holding period, are subject to tax, referred to as "imposta sostitutiva", levied at the rate of 26 per cent. All the above categories are qualified as "net recipients" (unless the Holders referred to under (i), (ii) and (iii) above have entrusted the management of their financial assets, including the Securities, to an authorised intermediary and have opted for the so called "risparmio gestito" regime according to Article 7 of Legislative Decree No. 461 of 21 November 1997, as amended (Decree No. 461) – see "Capital Gains Tax" below). In the event that Holders described under (i), (ii) and (iii) above are engaged in an entrepreneurial activity to which the relevant Securities are connected, the imposta sostitutiva applies as a provisional tax.

Subject to certain limitations and requirements (including a minimum holding period), Italian resident individuals not acting in connection with an entrepreneurial activity or social security entities pursuant to Legislative Decree No. 509 of 30 June 1994 and Legislative Decree No. 103 of 10 February 1996 may be exempt from any income taxation, including the imposta sostitutiva, on interest, premium and other income relating to the Securities if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements set forth by Italian law, as amended and supplemented from time to time.

Where an Italian resident Holder is a company or similar commercial entity pursuant to Article 73 of TUIR or a permanent establishment in Italy of a foreign company to which Securities are effectively connected and such Securities are deposited with an authorised intermediary, interest, premium and other income from such Securities will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva, but must be included in the relevant Holder's income tax return and are therefore subject to general Italian corporate taxation (IRES) and, in certain circumstances, depending on the "status" of the Holder, also to the regional tax on productive activities (IRAP).

Under the regime provided by Law Decree No. 351 of 25 September 2001, converted into Law No. 410 of 23 November 2001, Law Decree No. 78 of 31 May 2010, converted into Law No. 122 of 30 July 2010 and Legislative Decree No. 44 of 4 March 2014, all as amended, Italian real estate investment funds established pursuant to Article 37 of Legislative Decree No. 58 of 24 February 1998, as amended and supplemented, and Article 14-bis of Law No. 86 of 25 January 1994 and Italian real estate SICAFs (the Real Estate Funds) are subject neither to imposta sostitutiva nor to any other income tax in the hands of the Real Estate Funds PROVIDED THAT the Securities are timely deposited directly or indirectly with an authorised intermediary. A withholding tax may apply in certain circumstances at the rate of up to 26 per cent. (the Real Estate Fund Tax) on distributions made by a Real Estate Fund and, in certain cases, a tax transparency regime may apply in respect of certain categories of investors in a Real Estate Fund owning more than 5 per cent. of the Real Estate Fund's units or shares.

If the investor is resident in Italy and is an open-ended or closed-ended investment fund (other than a Real Estate Fund) a SICAF (an investment company with fixed share capital other than a Real Estate Fund) or a SICAV (an investment company with variable capital) established in Italy (the Fund) and either (i) the Fund or (ii) its manager is subject to the supervision of a regulatory authority, and the relevant Securities are deposited with an authorised intermediary, interest, premium and other income accrued during the holding period on such Securities will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva, but must be included in the management results of the Fund. The Fund will not be subject to taxation on such results but a withholding tax of 26 per cent., will apply, in certain circumstances to distributions made in favour of unitholders or shareholders (the Collective Investment Fund Tax).

Where an Italian resident Holder is a pension fund (subject to the regime provided for by article 17 of the Legislative Decree No. 252 of 5 December 2005) and Securities are deposited with an authorised intermediary, interest, premium and other income relating to such Securities and accrued during the holding period will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva, but must be included in the result of the relevant portfolio accrued at the end of the tax period, to be subject to a 20 per cent. substitute tax (the Pension Fund Tax). Subject to certain conditions (including minimum holding period requirement) and limitations, interest, premium and other income may be excluded from the taxable base of the 20 per cent. substitute tax pursuant to Article 1 (92) of Financial Act 2017, if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements set forth by Italian law, as subsequently amended and restated from time to time.

Pursuant to Decree No. 239, imposta sostitutiva is applied by banks, Società di intermediazione mobiliare (SIMs), fiduciary companies, Società di gestione del risparmio (SGRs), stockbrokers and other entities identified by a decree of the Ministry of Economics and Finance (each an Intermediary) as subsequently amended and integrated.

An Intermediary to be entitled to apply the imposta sostitutiva must (i) be (a) resident in Italy or (b) a permanent establishment in Italy of a non-Italian resident financial intermediary or (c) an entity or a company not resident in Italy, acting through a system of centralised administration of securities and directly connected with the Department of Revenue of the Italian Ministry of Finance having appointed an Italian representative for the purposes of Decree No. 239; and (ii) intervene, in any way, in the collection of interest or in the transfer of Securities. For the purpose of the application of the imposta sostitutiva, a transfer of Securities includes any assignment or other act, either with or without consideration, which results in a change of the ownership of the relevant Securities or in a change of the Intermediary with which such Securities are deposited.

Where the Securities are not deposited with an Intermediary, the imposta sostitutiva is applied and withheld by any entity paying interest to a Holder. If interest, premium and other income on the Securities are not collected through an Intermediary or any entity paying interest and as such no imposta sostitutiva is levied, the Italian resident beneficial owners qualified as "net recipient" will be required to include interest, premium and other income in their yearly income tax return and subject them to a final substitute tax at a rate of 26 per cent.

Non-Italian Resident Holders

No Italian imposta sostitutiva is applied on payments of interest or premium relating to the Securities that qualify as obbligazioni or titoli similari alle obbligazioni to a non-Italian resident Holder not having a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are affectively connected.

If the Securities are deposited with an Italian bank or other resident intermediary (or permanent establishment in Italy of foreign intermediary) or are sold through an Italian bank or other resident intermediary (or permanent establishment in Italy of foreign intermediary) or in case an Italian resident intermediary (or permanent establishment in Italy of foreign intermediary) intervenes in the payment of interest or premium on such Securities, to ensure payment of interest or premium without application of Italian taxation a non-Italian resident Holder may be required to produce to the Italian bank or other intermediary a self-declaration stating that he/she is not resident in Italy for tax purposes.

Capital Gains Tax

Capital Gains Tax – Italian Resident Holders

Any gain obtained from the sale, early redemption or redemption of Securities would be treated as part of the taxable income (and, in certain circumstances, depending on the "status" of the Holder, also as part of the net value of production for IRAP purposes) if realised by an Italian company or a similar commercial entity (including the Italian permanent establishment of foreign entities to which the relevant Securities are connected) or Italian resident individuals engaged in an entrepreneurial activity to which the relevant Securities are connected.

Where an Italian resident Holder is (i) an individual not holding Securities in connection with an entrepreneurial activity, (ii) a non-commercial partnership, (iii) a non-commercial private or public institution any capital gain realised by such Holder from the sale, early redemption or redemption of such Securities would be subject to an imposta sostitutiva, levied at the current rate of 26 per cent. Under some conditions and limitations, Holders may set off losses with gains.

Subject to certain limitations and requirements (including a minimum holding period), Italian resident individuals not engaged in an entrepreneurial activity or social security entities pursuant to Legislative Decree No. 509 of 30 June 1994 and Legislative Decree No. 103 of 10 February 1996 may be exempt from Italian capital gain taxes, including the imposta sostitutiva, on capital gains realised upon sale or redemption of the Securities, if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements set forth by Italian law, as subsequently amended and restated from time to time.

In respect of the application of the imposta sostitutiva, taxpayers under (i) to (iii) above may opt for one of the three regimes described below.

Under the "tax declaration" regime (regime della dichiarazione), which is the default regime for Holders under (i) to (iii) above, the imposta sostitutiva on capital gains will be chargeable, on a yearly cumulative basis, on all capital gains, net of any incurred capital loss, realised by the Italian resident Holders pursuant to all sales, early redemption or redemptions of the relevant Securities carried out during any given tax year. These Holders must indicate the overall capital gains realised in any tax year, net of any relevant incurred capital loss, in the annual tax return and pay imposta sostitutiva on such gains together with any balance of income tax due for such year. Capital losses in excess of capital gains may be carried forward against capital gains realised in any of the four succeeding tax years. As an alternative to the tax declaration regime, Italian resident individual Holders under (i) to (iii) above may elect to pay the imposta sostitutiva separately on capital gains realised on each sale, early redemption or redemption of the relevant Securities (the "risparmio amministrato" regime provided for by Article 6 of the Decree No. 461). Such separate taxation of capital gains is allowed subject to (i) Securities being deposited with Italian banks, SIMs or certain authorised financial intermediaries; and (ii) an express valid election for the risparmio amministrato regime being punctually made in writing by the relevant Holder. The depository is responsible for accounting for imposta sostitutiva in respect of capital gains realised on each sale, early redemption or redemption of Securities (as well as in respect of capital gains realised upon the revocation of its mandate), net of any incurred capital loss, and is required to pay the relevant amount to the Italian tax authorities on behalf of the taxpayer, deducting a corresponding amount from the proceeds to be credited to the Holder or using funds provided by the Holder for this purpose.

Under the risparmio amministrato regime, where a sale, early redemption or redemption of Securities results in a capital loss, such loss may be deducted from capital gains subsequently realised, within the same securities management, in the same tax year or in the following tax years up to the fourth. Under the risparmio amministrato regime, the Holder is not required to declare the capital gains in its annual tax return. Any capital gains realised or accrued by Italian Holders under (i) to (iii) above who have entrusted the management of their financial assets, including Securities, to an authorised intermediary and have validly opted for the so-called "risparmio gestito" regime (regime provided by Article 7 of Decree No. 461) will be included in the computation of the annual increase in value of the managed assets accrued, even if not realised, at year end, subject to a 26 per cent. substitute tax, to be paid by the managing authorised intermediary. Under the risparmio gestito regime, any depreciation of the managed assets accrued at year end may be carried forward against increase in value of the managed assets accrued in any of the four succeeding tax years. Under the risparmio gestito regime, the Holder is not required to declare the capital gains realised in its annual tax return.

Italian Real Estate Funds are not subject to any substitute tax nor to any other income tax in the hands of the Real Estate Fund, but subsequent distributions made in favour of unitholders or shareholders will be subject, in certain circumstances, to the Real Estate Fund Tax; in certain cases, a tax transparency regime may apply in respect of certain categories of investors in a Real Estate Fund owning more than 5 per cent. of the Real Estate Fund's units or shares.

Any capital gains realised by a Holder which is a Fund will be included in the result of the relevant portfolio accrued at the end of the tax period. The Fund will not be subject to taxation on such result, but the Collective Investment Fund Tax will apply under certain circumstances.

Any capital gains realised by a Holder which is an Italian pension fund (subject to the regime provided for by article 17 of the Legislative Decree No. 252 of 5 December 2005) will be included in the result of the relevant portfolio accrued at the end of the tax period, to be subject to the Pension Fund Tax. Subject to certain conditions (including minimum holding period requirement) and limitations, capital gains realised upon sale or redemption of the Securities may be excluded from the taxable base of the 20 per cent. substitute tax pursuant to Article 1 (92) of Financial Act 2017, if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements set forth by Italian law, as subsequently amended and restated from time to time.

Capital Gains Tax – Non-Italian Resident Holders

Capital gains realised by non-Italian resident Holders from the sale or redemption of Securities are not subject to Italian taxation, PROVIDED THAT the relevant Securities (i) are traded on regulated markets, or (ii) if not traded on regulated markets, are held outside Italy.

Moreover, even if the Securities are held in Italy, no Italian imposta sostitutiva applies on any capital gains realised upon sale for consideration or redemption of the Securities if the non-Italian resident beneficial owner of the Securities with no permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are effectively connected is resident for tax purposes in a State or territory which allows an adequate exchange of information with the Italian tax authorities and is listed in the Italian Ministerial Decree dated 4 September 1996 as amended and supplemented from time to time (last amendment being made by Italian Ministerial Decree dated 23 March 2017) (the White List). The same exemption applies where the beneficial owners of the Securities are (i) international entities or organisations established in accordance with international agreements ratified by Italy; (ii) certain foreign institutional investors established in countries included in the White List, even if they do not have the status of taxpayers in their own country of residence; or (iii) central banks or entities which manage, inter alia, the official reserves of a foreign State. Under these circumstances, if non-Italian residents without a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are effectively connected elect for the risparmio gestito or are subject to the risparmio amministrato, exemption from Italian capital gains tax will apply upon condition that they provide in time with the authorised financial intermediary an appropriate self-declaration (autocertificazione) stating that they meet the requirement indicated above. Additional statements may be required for non-Italian resident Holders who are institutional investors.

Non-Italian resident individuals or entities without a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are connected that may benefit from a double taxation treaty with the Republic of Italy providing that capital gains realised upon the sale or redemption of Securities are to be taxed only in the country of tax residence of the recipient, will not be subject to the imposta sostitutiva in the Republic of Italy on any capital gains realised upon the sale or redemption of Securities. In such a case, in order to benefit from this exemption from Italian taxation on capital gains, non-Italian resident Holders who hold the Securities with an Italian authorised financial intermediary and elect to be subject to the risparmio gestito or are subject to the risparmio amministrato, may be required to produce in due time to the Italian authorised financial intermediary appropriate documents which include, inter alia, a statement from the competent tax authorities of the country of residence.

Please note that for a non-Italian resident, the risparmio amministrato shall automatically apply, unless it is expressly waived, where the Securities are deposited in custody or administration with an Italian resident authorised financial intermediary or permanent establishment in the Republic of Italy of a foreign intermediary.

Payments made by a non-resident guarantor

With respect to payments made to Italian resident Holders by a non-Italian resident guarantor, in accordance with one interpretation of Italian tax law, any such payment made by the Italian non-resident guarantor could be treated, in certain circumstances, as a payment made by the Issuer(s) and would thus be subject to the tax regime described in the following paragraphs of this section.

Securities issued by CGMHI will be guaranteed by the CGMHI Guarantor pursuant to the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee. Securities issued by CGMFL will be guaranteed by the CGMFL Guarantor pursuant to the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee. Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. or CBNA will not be guaranteed by any entity.

Securities which do not provide for full reimbursement of the issue price (at maturity or upon early redemption)

Italian-resident Holders

In case of Securities representing debt instruments implying a "use of capital" do not guarantee the total reimbursement of the principal, under Italian tax law they should qualify as "atypical securities" (titoli atipici) pursuant to Law Decree No. 512 of 30 September 1983 (Decree No. 512) and payments in respect of such Securities received by Italian Holders would be subject to the following regime:

- (a) if the Securities are placed (collocati) in Italy, payments made to individual Holder holding the Securities not in connection with an entrepreneurial activity will be subject to a 26 per cent. final withholding tax. This withholding tax is levied by the entrusted Italian resident bank or financial intermediary, if any, that is involved in the collection of payments on the Securities, in the repurchase or in the transfer of the Securities;
- (b) if the Securities are not placed (collocati) in Italy or in any case where payments on the Securities are not received through an entrusted Italian resident bank or financial intermediary (that is involved in the collection of payments on the Securities, in the repurchase or in the transfer thereof) and no withholding tax is levied, the individual beneficial owners will be required to declare the payments in their income tax return and subject them to a final substitute tax at a rate of 26 per cent. The Italian individual Holder may elect instead to pay ordinary IRPEF at the progressive rates applicable to them in respect of the payments; if so, the Holder should generally benefit from a tax credit for withholding taxes applied outside Italy, if any.

Subject to certain limitations and requirements (including a minimum holding period), Italian resident individuals not acting in connection with an entrepreneurial activity or social security entities pursuant to Legislative Decree No. 509 of 30 June 1994 and Legislative Decree No. 103 of 10 February 1996 may be exempt from any income taxation, including the withholding tax on interest, premium and other income relating to the Securities that are classified as atypical securities, if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements set forth by Italian law, as subsequently amended and restated from time to time.

The 26 per cent. withholding tax does not apply to payments made to Italian resident Holder which is (i) an Italian resident commercial partnership, (ii) an Italian resident company or a similar Italian resident commercial entity (including the Italian permanent establishment of a foreign entity to which the Securities are effectively connected) and (iii) a commercial private or public institution. In particular, in such cases, payments must be included in the relevant Holder's ordinary Italian taxable business taxation and the Holders are generally entitled to benefit from tax credit for any withholding tax applied outside Italy.

Non-Italian Resident Holders

No Italian withholding tax is applied on payments of interest or premium relating to the Securities issued by the issuer that qualify as "atypical securities" (titoli atipici) to a non-Italian resident Holder not having a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are affectively connected.

If the Securities are deposited with an Italian bank or other resident intermediary (or permanent establishment in Italy of foreign intermediary) or are sold through an Italian bank or other resident intermediary (or permanent establishment in Italy of foreign intermediary) or in case an Italian resident intermediary (or permanent establishment in Italy of foreign intermediary) intervenes in the payment of interest or premium on such Securities, to ensure payment of interest or premium without application of Italian taxation a non-Italian resident Holder may be required to produce to the Italian bank or other intermediary a self-declaration stating that he/she is not resident in Italy for tax purposes.

Securities representing derivative financial instruments or bundles of derivative financial instruments

Italian-resident Holders

Payments in respect of Securities qualifying as securitised derivative financial instruments received by Italian investors (not engaged in a commercial activity (esercizio di attività commerciali) to which the Securities are connected) as well as capital gains realised by such Italian investors on any sale or transfer for consideration of the Securities or redemption thereof are subject to a 26 per cent. capital gain tax, which applies under the "tax declaration" regime (regime della dichiarazione), the risparmio amministrato tax regime or the risparmio gestito tax regime according to the same rules described above under the section "Capital Gains Tax" above.

Payments in respect of Securities qualifying as securitised derivative financial instruments received by Italian investors which carry out commercial activities are not subject to the 26 per cent. capital gain tax, but are included in the relevant Holder's ordinary Italian taxable business taxation and the Holders are generally entitled to benefit from tax credit for any capital gain tax applied outside Italy.

Non-Italian Resident Holders

Capital gains realised by non-Italian-resident Holders without a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are effectively connected from the sale or redemption of Securities executed on regulated markets in Italy or abroad are not subject to Italian taxation, regardless of whether the Securities are held in Italy. In such a case, in order to benefit from this exemption from Italian taxation on capital gains, non-Italian resident Holders who hold the Securities with an Italian authorised financial intermediary and elect to be subject to the risparmio amministrato tax regime or are subject to the risparmio gestito regime, may be required to produce in due time to the Italian authorised financial intermediary an appropriate self-declaration (autocertificazione) that they are not resident in Italy for tax purposes.

Capital gains realised by non-Italian resident Holders without a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are effectively connected from the sale or redemption of Securities not executed on regulated markets issued by an Italian or non-Italian resident issuer may in certain circumstances be taxable in Italy, if the Securities are held in Italy. In that case, the tax regime applicable to Securities representing derivative financial instruments or bundles of derivative financial instruments is the same described above under the caption "Capital Gains Tax – Non-Italian Resident Holders".

Securities that cannot be qualified as securitised derivative financial instruments, may qualify as "atypical securities" (titoli atipici), whose tax regime is described under section "Securities representing debt instruments implying a "use of capital" - Securities which do not provide for full reimbursement of the issue price (at maturity or upon early redemption)" above.

Inheritance and gift taxes

Pursuant to Law Decree No. 262 of 3 October 2006, converted into Law No. 286 of 24 November 2006, as subsequently amended, the transfers of any valuable asset (including shares, bonds or other securities) as a result of death or donation are taxed as follows:

- (a) transfers in favour of spouses and direct descendants or direct ancestors are subject to an inheritance and gift tax applied at a rate of 4 per cent. on the value of the inheritance or the gift exceeding, for each beneficiary, EUR 1,000,000;
- (b) transfers in favour of relatives to the fourth degree or relatives-in-law to the third degree, are subject to an inheritance and gift tax applied at a rate of 6 per cent. on the entire value of the inheritance or the gift. Transfers in favour of brothers/sisters are subject to the 6 per cent. inheritance and gift tax on the value of the inheritance or the gift exceeding, for each beneficiary, EUR 100,000; and
- (c) any other transfer is, in principle, subject to an inheritance and gift tax applied at a rate of 8 per cent. on the entire value of the inheritance or the gift.

If the transfer is made in favour of persons with severe disabilities, the tax is levied at the rate mentioned in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) above on the value exceeding, for each beneficiary, EUR 1,500,000.

The mortis causa transfer of financial instruments included in a long-term savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine), that meets the requirements set forth by Italian law, as subsequently amended and restated from time to time, are exempt from inheritance taxes.

Transfer Tax

Contracts relating to the transfer of securities are subject to the registration tax as follows: (i) public deeds and notarised deeds are subject to fixed registration tax at a rate of EUR 200; (ii) private deeds are subject to registration tax only in case of use (caso d'uso), explicit reference (enunciazione) or voluntary registration.

Stamp duty

Pursuant to Article 19(1) of Law Decree No. 201 of 6 December 2011 (the Decree No. 201), a proportional stamp duty applies on an annual basis to the periodic reporting communications sent by financial intermediaries to their clients for the Securities deposited in Italy. The stamp duty applies at a rate of 0.2 per cent. and cannot exceed EUR 14,000, for taxpayers different from individuals; this stamp duty is determined on the basis of the market value or - if no market value figure is available - the nominal value or redemption amount of the Securities held.

Based on the wording of the law and the implementing decree issued by the Italian Ministry of Economy on 24 May 2012, the stamp duty applies to any investor who is a client (as defined in the regulations issued by the Bank of Italy on 20 June 2021) of an entity that exercises in any form a banking, financial or insurance activity within the Italian territory. The communication is deemed to be sent to the customers at least once a year, even for instruments for which it is not mandatory.

Wealth Tax on securities deposited abroad

Pursuant to Article 19(18) of Decree No. 201, Italian resident individuals holding the Securities outside the Italian territory are required to pay an additional tax at a rate of 0.2 per cent. (IVAFE). Starting from 2020, Law No. 160 of 27 December 2019 has provided for the extension of the application scope of IVAFE to Italian resident non-commercial entities, simple partnership and equivalent entities, in addition to Italian resident individuals.

This tax is calculated on the market value of the Securities at the end of the relevant year or, if no market value figure is available, the nominal value or the redemption value of such Securities held outside the Italian territory or where the nominal or redemption values cannot be determined, on the purchase value of the Securities. The maximum wealth tax amount due is set at EUR 14,000 per year for taxpayers other than individuals. Taxpayers are entitled to an Italian tax credit equivalent to the amount of wealth taxes paid in the State where the financial assets are held (up to an amount equal to the IVAFE due). The financial assets held abroad are excluded from the scope of the wealth tax if administered by Italian financial intermediaries pursuant to an administration agreement.

Tax monitoring obligations

Italian resident individuals (and certain other entities) are required to report in their yearly income tax return, according to Law Decree No. 167 of 28 June 1990, converted into law by Law No. 227 of 4 August 1990, as amended from time to time, for tax monitoring purposes, the amount of Securities held abroad (or beneficially owned abroad under Italian anti-money laundering provisions). This also applies in the case that at the end of the tax year, Securities are no longer held by the above Italian resident individuals and entities.

However, the above reporting obligation is not required with respect to Securities deposited for management with qualified Italian financial intermediaries and with respect to contracts entered into through their intervention, PROVIDED THAT the same intermediaries apply a withholding tax or imposta sostitutiva on any income derived from the Securities.

Financial Transaction Tax (FTT) depending on the features of the Securities

Pursuant to Law No. 228 of 24 December 2012, a FTT applies to (a) transfer of ownership of shares and other participating securities issued by Italian resident companies or of financial instruments representing the just mentioned shares and/or participating securities (irrespective of whether issued by Italian resident issuers or not) (the Relevant Securities), (b) transactions on financial derivatives (i) the main underlying assets of which are the Relevant Securities, or (ii) whose value depends mainly on one or more Relevant Securities, as well as to (c) any transaction on certain securities (i) which allow to mainly purchase or sell one or more Relevant Securities or (ii) implying a cash payment determined with main reference to one or more Relevant Securities.

Securities could be included in the scope of application of the FTT if they meet the requirements set out above. On the other hand, Securities falling within the category of bonds (obbligazioni) or debentures similar to bonds (titoli similari alle obbligazioni) are not included in the scope of the FTT.

The FTT on derivative instruments is levied at a fixed amount that varies depending on the nature of the relevant instrument and the notional value of the transaction, and ranges between Euro 0.01875 and Euro 200 per transaction. The amount of FTT payable is reduced to 1/5 of the standard rate in case the transaction is performed on regulated markets or multilateral trading facilities of certain EU and EEA member States. The FTT on derivatives is due by each of the parties to the transactions. FTT exemptions and exclusions are provided for certain transactions and entities.

The FTT is levied and paid by the subject (generally a financial intermediary) that is involved, in any way, in the execution of the transaction. Intermediaries which are not resident in Italy but are liable to apply the FTT can appoint an Italian tax representative for the purposes of the FTT. If no intermediary is involved in the execution of the transaction, the FTT must be paid by the taxpayers. Investors are advised to consult their own tax advisers also on the possible impact of the FTT.

POLISH TAXATION*General Information*

The following is a discussion of certain Polish tax considerations relevant to an investor resident in Poland or which is otherwise subject to Polish taxation. This statement should not be deemed to be tax advice. Taxation of a Polish tax resident individual

Under Art. 3.1 of the Personal Income Tax Act dated 26 July 1991 (the PIT Act), natural persons, if residing in the Republic of Poland, are liable for tax on their total income (revenue) irrespective of the location of the sources of revenue (unlimited obligation to pay tax).

Under Art. 3.1a of the PIT Act, a Polish tax resident individual is a natural person who (i) has his/her centre of personal or business interests located in Poland or (ii) stays in Poland for longer than 183 days in a year, unless any relevant tax treaty dictates otherwise.

(a) Withholding Tax on Interest Income

According to Article 30a.7 of the PIT Act, interest income, including discount, derived by a Polish tax resident individual does not cumulate with general income subject to the progressive tax rate but under Art. 30a.1.2 of the PIT Act is subject to 19 per cent. flat rate tax.

Under Art. 30a.9 of the PIT Act, withholding tax incurred outside Poland (including countries which have not concluded a tax treaty with Poland), up to an amount equal to the tax paid abroad, but not higher than 19 per cent. tax on the interest amount, could be deducted from the Polish tax liability. Particular double tax treaties can provide other methods of withholding tax settlements.

Under Article 41.4 of the PIT Act, the interest payer, other than an individual not acting within the scope of his/her business activity, should withhold the Polish 19 per cent. tax upon any interest payment.

Under Art. 41.4d of the PIT Act, the entities operating securities accounts for individuals, acting as tax remitters, should withhold this interest income if such interest income (revenue) has been earned in Poland and is connected with securities registered in said accounts, and the interest payment to the individual (the taxpayer) is made through said entities; this principle also applies to remitters who are payers of corporate income tax and are subject to limited tax liability in Poland, to the extent they conduct their business through a foreign establishment and it is to that establishment's operations that the securities account is linked.

There are no regulations defining in which cases income earned (revenue) by a Polish tax resident should be considered income (revenue) earned in Poland. However, we can expect those cases to be analogous to those of non-residents. Pursuant to Art. 3.2b of the PIT Act, income (revenues) earned in the Republic of Poland by non-residents shall include in particular income (revenues) from:

1. work performed in the Republic of Poland based on a service relationship, employment relationship, outwork system and co-operative employment relationship irrespective of the place where remuneration is paid;
2. activity performed in person in the Republic of Poland irrespective of the place where remuneration is paid;
3. economic activity pursued in the Republic of Poland, including through a foreign establishment located in the Republic of Poland;
4. immovable property located in the Republic of Poland or rights to such property, including from its disposal in whole or in part, or from disposal of any rights to such property;
5. securities and derivatives other than securities, admitted to public trading in the Republic of Poland as part of the regulated stock exchange market, including those obtained from the disposal of these securities or derivatives, or the exercise of rights resulting from them;
6. the transfer of ownership of shares in a company, of all rights and obligations in a partnership without legal personality, or participation in an investment fund, a collective investment undertaking, or other legal entity and rights of similar character or from receivables being a consequence of holding those shares, rights and obligations, participation or rights, if at least 50 per cent. of the value of assets of this company, partnership, investment fund, collective investment undertaking or legal entity is constituted, directly or indirectly, by immovable properties located in the Republic of Poland, or rights to such immovable properties;

7. the transfer of ownership of shares, all rights and obligations, participation or similar rights in a real estate company (as defined in the PIT Act);
8. the receivables settled, including receivables put at disposal, paid out or deducted, by natural persons, legal persons, or organisational units without legal personality, having their place of residence, registered office, or management board in the Republic of Poland, irrespective of the place of concluding and performing the agreement; and
9. unrealised gains as referred to in the exit tax regulations.

The above list is not exhaustive; therefore, the tax authorities may also consider that income (revenues) not listed above is sourced in Poland.

Given the above, each situation should be analysed to determine whether interest earned by a Polish tax resident individual from the Securities is considered to be income sourced in Poland and whether the entity operating the securities account for the individual will withhold the tax. Since the Issuer(s) is/are not a Polish entity, as a rule, interest from the Securities should not be considered as earned in the territory of Poland, unless specific situation occurs (e.g. the Securities are admitted to public trading in Poland).

Although this is not clearly regulated in Polish tax law, according to the established practice, foreign entities do not act as Polish withholding tax remitters (save when such foreign entities operate by way of a branch that constitutes a tax establishment in Poland). Therefore, it should not be expected that the Issuer(s) will collect the withholding tax.

According to Article 45.3b and Art. 45.1 of the PIT Act, if the tax is not withheld, the individual is obliged to settle the tax himself/herself by 30 April of the following year.

Separate, specific rules apply to interest income on securities held in Polish omnibus accounts (within the meaning of the provisions of the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, hereinafter "Omnibus Accounts"). Under Art. 41.10 of the PIT Act, insofar as securities registered in Omnibus Accounts are concerned, the entities operating Omnibus Accounts through which the amounts due are paid are liable to withhold the flat-rate income tax on interest income. The tax is charged on the day of placing the amounts due at the disposal of the Omnibus Account holder. This rule also applies to remitters who are payers of corporate income tax and are subject to limited tax liability in Poland, to the extent they conduct their business through a foreign establishment and it is to that establishment's operations that the securities account is linked.

Additionally, under Art. 30a.2a of the PIT Act, with respect to income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities (including the Securities referred to herein) registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 19 per cent. flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter (under Art. 41.10 of the PIT Act the entity operating the Omnibus Account) from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder.

Under Art. 45.3c of the PIT Act, taxpayers are obliged to disclose the amount of interest (discount) on securities (including the Securities referred to herein) in the annual tax return if the Securities were registered in Omnibus Account and the taxpayer's identity was not revealed to the tax remitter.

Under Art. 30a.9 of the PIT Act, withholding tax incurred outside Poland (including countries which have not concluded a tax treaty with Poland), up to an amount equal to the tax paid abroad, but not higher than 19 per cent. tax on the interest amount, could be deducted from the Polish tax liability. Double tax treaties can provide other methods of withholding tax settlements.

(b) Income from the Securities other than interest

Income other than interest, including income from transfer of Securities against a consideration, derived by a Polish tax resident individual from financial instruments, such as the Securities, held as non-business assets, qualify as capital gains according to Article 17 of the PIT Act. Such income does not cumulate with the general income subject to the progressive tax scale but is subject to a 19 per cent. flat rate tax. Under Art. 30b.2. of the PIT Act the income from disposal of securities is calculated as the difference between the sum of revenues from a transfer of securities against a consideration and tax deductible costs, calculated on the basis of the relevant provisions of the PIT Act under Art. 30b.2. of the PIT Act. Based on Art. 17.2 and Art. 19.1 of the PIT Act, if the price expressed in the contract without a valid reason significantly deviates from the market value, the amount of income is determined by the tax authority or fiscal control authority in the amount of the market value.

The taxpayer itself is obliged to settle the tax on the transfer of securities (including the Securities) against a consideration. Taxpayers should prepare their annual tax return by the end of April of the year following the tax year in which the income was earned. No tax or tax advances are withheld by the person making the payments.

Furthermore, capital gains are subject to a 4 per cent. solidarity levy calculated on the surplus of various incomes above PLN 1 million in total. The levy must be calculated and settled by the individuals themselves.

If an individual holds the Securities as a business asset, in principle, income other than interest such as income from a transfer of Securities against a consideration, should be treated as income from business activities and should be subject to tax in the same way as other business income. The tax, at 19 per cent. flat rate or the 12 per cent. to 32 per cent. progressive tax rate depending on the choice and meeting of certain conditions, should be settled by the individuals themselves.

Furthermore, business income is subject to a 4 per cent. solidarity levy calculated on the surplus of various incomes above PLN 1 million in total. The levy must be calculated and settled by the individuals themselves.

Taxation of a Polish tax resident corporate income taxpayer

Under Art. 3.1 of the Corporate Income Tax Act dated 15 February 1992 (the CIT Act) the entire income of taxpayers who have their registered office or management in Poland is subject to tax obligation in Poland, irrespective of where the income is earned.

According to Art. 3.1a of the CIT Act, a taxpayer has a place of management in the territory of the Republic of Poland, inter alia, when the current affairs of this taxpayer are conducted in an organised and continuous manner on the territory of the Republic of Poland, based in particular on:

- (i) an agreement, decision, court ruling or other act regulating the establishment or functioning of the taxpayer; or
- (ii) powers of attorney; or
- (iii) Affiliations.

Income (revenue) from the Securities, both on account of interest/discount and other income, including transfer of securities against a consideration, earned by a Polish tax resident corporate income taxpayer whose entire income is subject to tax liability in Poland, is subject to income tax following the same general principles as those which apply to any other income received from business activity within the same source of income. As a rule, for Polish income tax purposes, interest is recognised as revenue on a cash basis, i.e. when it is received and not when it has accrued. Income from a transfer of securities against a consideration is in principle their value expressed in the price specified in the contract. According to Art. 14 of the CIT Act, if the price expressed in the contract, without a valid reason, significantly deviates from the market value, the revenue amount is determined by the tax authority in the amount of the market value. In the case of income from the transfer of securities against a consideration, tax deductible costs are generally recognised when the corresponding revenue has been achieved. The taxpayer itself (without the remitter's participation) settles income tax on interest/discount and on the transfer of securities against a consideration, which is settled along with other income from the taxpayer's business activity within the same source of income.

Regarding the proper source of revenue, in principle, the income (revenue) from the Securities, including their transfer against a consideration, is combined with revenues from capital gains (Art. 7b.1 of the CIT Act). In the case of insurers, banks and some other entities (financial institutions), this revenue is included in revenues other than revenues from capital gains (Art. 7b (2) of the CIT Act).

The appropriate tax rate is the same as the tax rate applicable to business activity, i.e. 19 per cent. for a regular corporate income taxpayer or 9 per cent. for small and new taxpayers, taking into consideration the appropriate source of income (the lower rate does not apply to incomes classified as capital incomes – Article 7b of the CIT Act).

Although, in principle, no Polish withholding tax should apply on interest payable to Polish corporate income taxpayers, under specific rules applying to interest income on securities held in Omnibus Accounts, under Art. 26.2a of the CIT Act, for income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 20 per cent. flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder. If such tax is withheld for a Polish tax resident corporate income taxpayer, to receive a refund of such tax, the entity should contact its tax advisor.

Any withholding tax incurred outside Poland (including countries which have not concluded any tax treaty with Poland), up to an amount equal to the tax paid abroad, but not higher than the tax calculated in accordance with the applicable domestic tax rate, can be deducted from the Polish tax liability. Double tax treaties can provide other methods of withholding tax settlements.

Securities held by a non-Polish tax resident (natural person or corporation)

Under Art. 3.2a of the PIT Act, natural persons, if they do not reside in Poland, are liable to pay tax only on income (revenue) earned in Poland (limited obligation to pay tax).

Under Art. 3.2 of the CIT Act, in the case of taxpayers who do not have their registered office or management in Poland, only the income they earn in Poland is subject to tax obligation in Poland.

Non-Polish residents are subject to Polish income tax only with respect to their income earned in Poland. Under Art. 3.3 of the CIT Act, income (revenues) earned in the Republic of Poland by non-residents shall include in particular income (revenues) from:

1. all types of activity pursued in the Republic of Poland, including through a foreign establishment located in the Republic of Poland;
2. immovable property located in the Republic of Poland or rights to such property, including from its disposal in whole or in part, or from the disposal of any rights to such property;
3. securities and derivatives other than securities, admitted to public trading in the Republic of Poland as part of the regulated stock exchange market, including those obtained from the disposal of these securities or derivatives, or the exercise of rights resulting from them;
4. the transfer of ownership of shares in a company, of all rights and obligations in a partnership without legal personality, participation in an investment fund or a collective investment undertaking, or other legal entity and rights of similar character or from receivables being a consequence of holding those shares, rights and obligations, participation or rights, if at least 50 per cent. of the value of assets of this company, partnership, investment fund, collective investment undertaking or legal entity is constituted, directly or indirectly, by immovable properties located in the Republic of Poland, or rights to such immovable properties;
5. the transfer of ownership of shares, all rights and obligations, participation or similar rights in a real estate company (as defined in the CIT Act);
6. the receivables settled, including receivables put at disposal, paid out or deducted, by natural persons, legal persons, or organisational units without legal personality, having their place of residence, registered office, or management board in the Republic of Poland, irrespective of the place of concluding or performing the agreement; and
7. unrealised gains referred to in the exit tax regulations.

Similar provisions are included in Art. 3.2b of the PIT Act.

It should be noted that the list of incomes (revenues) gained in Poland, as provided in Art. 3.3. of the CIT Act and Art. 3.2b of the PIT Act is not exhaustive, therefore, other income (revenues) may also be considered as earned in Poland.

Given the above, each situation should be analysed to determine whether interest earned by a Polish tax resident from the Securities is considered to be income sourced in Poland. However, since the Issuer(s) is/are not a Polish entity, income from the Securities should not be considered as earned in Poland and no Polish withholding tax should apply, unless specific circumstances occur, e.g. the Securities are admitted to public trading in Poland.

If income from the Securities is considered as sourced in Poland, the following applies:

(a) Special exemption for Securities meeting special conditions

Under Art. 17.1.50c of the CIT Act, tax-free income is income earned by a CIT taxpayer subject to limited tax liability in Poland in respect of interest or a discount on securities:

- (i) having a maturity of at least one year; and
- (ii) admitted to trading on a regulated market or introduced into an alternative trading system within the meaning of the Act of 29 July 2005 on Trading in Financial Instruments, in the territory of Poland or in the territory of a state that is a party to a double tax convention concluded with Poland which regulates the taxation of income from dividends, interest and royalties;

unless the taxpayer is an Affiliated Entity, within the meaning of the transfer pricing law, of the Issuer(s) of such securities, and holds, directly or indirectly, together with other Affiliated Entities, more than 10 per cent. of the nominal value of those securities.

Under Art. 26.1aa of the CIT Act, remitters are not obliged to withhold tax on interest or discount in respect of the securities meeting the above requirements

Analogous provisions apply to personal income tax (Art. 21.1.130c and Art. 41.24 of the PIT Act).

(b) Failure to meet the conditions for a special exemption

In the absence of the exemption referred to above, the following rules apply.

In the case of taxpayers subject to limited tax liability in Poland, the interest (discount) on the Securities earned in the Polish territory is taxed as a general rule at a flat rate of 20 per cent. in the case of corporate income tax payers (Art. 21.1.1 of the CIT Act) or 19 per cent. in the case of natural persons (Art. 30a.1.2 of the PIT Act). Under Art. 26.1 of the CIT Act, interest payers, other than individuals not acting within the scope of their business activity, should withhold this tax and a similar provisions are provided in Art. 41.4 of the PIT Act.

Under Art. 26.2c.1 of the CIT Act, the entities operating securities accounts and Omnibus Accounts for taxpayers, acting as tax remitters, should withhold this interest income if such interest income (revenue) was earned in Poland and is connected with securities registered in said accounts, and the interest payment to the taxpayer is made through said entities. Although it is considered that foreign entities do not act as Polish tax remitters, according to the discussed provision, this obligation applies to non-residents to the extent they operate a permanent establishment in Poland and the account, on which securities are registered, is linked to the activity of this permanent establishment. Similar provisions concerning interest payments to individuals are provided in Art. 41.4d of the PIT Act.

The described rules of taxation may be modified by the relevant provisions of double tax treaties concluded by Poland, based on which a reduced tax rate or income tax exemption may apply to income (revenue) obtained from interest/discount (Art. 21.2 of the CIT Act, Art. 30a.2 of the PIT Act). To benefit from the tax rate or income tax exemption under the tax treaty, the taxpayer should present a valid certificate of its tax residence. As a rule, the tax residence certificate is considered valid for twelve consecutive months from its date of issue. Tax remitters may require additional documentation in order to be able to apply double tax treaty benefits described above, such as the confirmation of the recipient's beneficial owner status towards the interest payments.

Moreover, many tax treaties provide protection only for beneficial owners. Pursuant to Art. 4a.29 of the CIT Act and, respectively, Art. 5a.33d of the PIT Act, beneficial owner means an entity meeting all of the following conditions:

- (a) it receives the amount due for its own benefit, which includes deciding independently about its purpose, and bears the economic risk associated with the loss of that receivable or part of it;
- (b) it is not an intermediary, representative, trustee, or another entity legally or actually obliged to transfer the receivable in whole or in part to another entity; and
- (c) it conducts actual business activity in the country of its registration, if the receivables are obtained in connection with the conducted business activity, whereas when assessing whether the entity conducts actual business activity, the nature and scale of such activity in the scope of received receivables are taken into account.

Although the definition of the beneficial owner does not refer to and Art. 24a.18 of the CIT Act and Art. 30f. 20 of the PIT Act those are the only places in the income tax legislation where actual business activity is defined. Therefore, it cannot be ruled out that factors listed there will be taken into account by the tax authorities in determining beneficial ownership status. Those factors include:

- (i) the business activity carried out by the taxpayer is performed through an existing enterprise that actually performs activities constituting an economic activity; in particular, it possesses premises, qualified personnel and equipment used for performing business activity;
- (ii) the taxpayer does not create artificial arrangement without a connection with any business activity;
- (iii) the taxpayer's actual premises, its personnel or equipment correspond to the scope of its actual business activity;
- (iv) the agreements concluded by the taxpayer are realistic in economic terms, they have economic justification and they are not noticeably contrary to the general business interest of the taxpayer; and
- (v) the taxpayer carries out its business functions independently, using its own resources, including managers who are present in the country of taxpayer's tax residency.

The majority of double tax treaties concluded by Poland provide for an exemption from income tax on capital gains, including income from the sale of securities obtained in Poland by a tax resident of a given country.

Separate, specific rules apply to interest income on securities held in Omnibus Accounts. Also, in cases where Polish withholding tax should not apply on interest payable to non-Polish tax residents (natural persons or corporate income taxpayers), under specific rules applicable to interest income on securities held in Omnibus Accounts there is a risk that such tax would be withheld. Under Art. 26.2a of the CIT Act, with respect to income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 20 per cent. flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder. Under Art. 30a.2a of the PIT Act, with respect to income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 19 per cent. flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder. If such tax is withheld for non-Polish tax resident taxpayers, to receive a refund of such tax, the entity should contact its tax advisor.

If a person or an entity subject to limited tax liability in Poland acts through a foreign establishment in Poland to which income is related, as a matter of principle provisions of law should apply that are analogous to taxpayers subject to unlimited tax liability in Poland, with some necessary additional requirements (e.g. the requirement to present the interest payer with a certificate of tax residence along with a declaration that the interest is related to the establishment's activities).

Pay & Refund

In addition to the rules set out above, in the event of failure to meet the conditions for a special exemption, the following regime applies.

(a) Corporate income tax

Under Art. 26.2e of the CIT Act, if the total amount paid out between Affiliated Entities on account of the items listed in Art. 21.1.1 of the CIT Act (including interest / discount on securities) and Art. 22.1 of the CIT Act to the same taxpayer exceeds PLN 2,000,000 in the tax year of the payer, payers are, as a general rule, required to withhold, on the day of payment, a flat-rate income tax at the basic rate (20 per cent. in the case of interest/discount on securities) from the excess over that amount, without being able not to withhold that tax on the basis of an appropriate double tax treaty, and also without taking into account exemptions or rates resulting from special regulations or double tax treaties (hereinafter the Pay & Refund).

Under Art. 26.2i and 26.2j of the CIT Act, if the payer's tax year is longer or shorter than 12 months, the amount to which the Pay & Refund applies is calculated by multiplying 1/12 of PLN 2,000,000 and the number of months that have begun in the tax year in which the payment was made; if the calculation of that amount is not possible by reference to the payer's tax year, the Pay & Refund shall apply accordingly to the payer's current financial year and, in its absence, with respect to the payer's other period with features specific to the financial year, not longer however than 23 consecutive months.

Based on Art. 26.2ca of the CIT Act, the entities making payments through securities accounts or Omnibus Accounts are obliged to provide the entities maintaining these accounts, at least 7 days before the payment is made, with information about the existence of Affiliations between them and the taxpayer and about exceeding the amount of PLN 2,000,000. Entities providing this information are required to update it before making the payment in the event of a change in the circumstances covered by the information.

Under Art. 26.2k of the CIT Act, if the payment was made in a foreign currency, to determine whether the amount to which the Pay & Refund applies was exceeded, the amounts paid are converted into PLN at the average exchange rate published by the National Bank of Poland on the last business day preceding the payment day.

Under Art. 26.2l of the CIT Act, if it is not possible to determine the amount paid to the same taxpayer, it is presumed that it exceeded the amount from which the Pay & Refund applies.

Under Art. 26.7a of the CIT Act, the Pay & Refund does not apply if the payer has declared that:

- (a) it holds the documents required by the tax law for the application of the tax rate or tax exemption or non-taxation under special regulations or double tax treaties;
- (b) after the verification of the conditions to apply an exemption or reduced withholding tax rate resulting from special regulations or double tax treaties, it is not aware of any grounds for the assumption that there are circumstances that exclude the possibility of applying the tax rate or tax exemption or non-taxation under special regulations or double tax treaties, in particular it is not aware of the existence of circumstances preventing the fulfilment of certain conditions referred to in other regulations, including the fact that the interest/discount recipient is their beneficial owner and, if the interest/discount is obtained in connection with the business activity conducted by the taxpayer, that in the country of tax residence the taxpayer carries on the actual business activity.

The above is to be declared by the head of the unit within the meaning of the Accounting Act or a designated member of such head being a collegiate body (e.g. the Issuer's management board). The declaration cannot be made by proxy. The declaration is to be made by in electronic form not later than on the last day of the second month following the month in which the threshold specified above was exceeded, however, the performance of this obligation after the payment is made does not release the payer from the obligation to exercise due diligence before the payment is made. (Art. 26.7b and 26.7c of the CIT Act).

In the case of withholding tax being a result of the Pay & Refund, if double tax treaties or special regulations provide for a tax exemption or reduced tax rate, the taxpayer or tax remitter (if the taxpayer has paid tax with its own funds and has borne the economic burden of such tax, e.g. as a result of a gross-up clause) may apply for a refund of that tax by submitting the relevant documents and declarations. When recognizing that the refund is justified, the tax authorities shall carry it out within six months.

Pay & Refund does not apply in the case of the special exemption applicable to Securities meeting certain conditions referred to in the section Special exemption for Securities meeting special conditions above.

(b) Personal income tax

Analogous provisions apply to personal income tax, including Art. 41.12 of the PIT Act which provides for an analogous Pay & Refund.

(c) Withholding taxation of certain payments made to tax havens

Based on Art. 26.1m of the CIT Act, if a tax remitter makes a payment on account of certain capital profits (e.g. revenues from financial instruments, including interest and capital gains) to a corporate entity resident for tax purposes in a tax haven, such tax remitter is obliged to withhold tax at 19 per cent. rate calculated from the amount being paid out.

The list of the tax havens is included in the Regulation of the Minister of Finance from 28 March 2019 on identifying the countries and territories applying harmful tax competition for corporate taxation purposes.

Establishing the income from operations with derivative financial instruments, carried out through intermediaries defined according to the relevant legislation

Profit/Loss from operations with derivative financial instruments represents the positive/negative difference between the income realised from the closed positions and the expenses related to these positions, highlighted in the account, for each type of contract and maturity, regardless of whether it has reached maturity or not.

In the case of derivative financial instruments that provide for periodic settlements between the parties, without closing the position, the gain/loss from operations with such financial instruments represents the positive/negative difference between the incomes realised on the occasion of periodic settlements and the related expenses, highlighted in the account.

The determination of the gain/loss from operations with derivative financial instruments is made by the intermediary, as defined by the relevant legislation, Romanian fiscal resident or non-resident who has a permanent establishment in Romania that has the capacity of an intermediary, at the time of each transaction, on the basis supporting documents.

The income from operations with closed positions with derivative financial instruments represents the actual receipts from all these operations, with closed positions, highlighted in the income recipient's account, less principal receipts.

Establishing the income from operations with derivative financial instruments, which are not carried out through intermediaries defined according to the relevant legislation

Profit/Loss from operations with derivatives that are not carried out through an intermediary defined according to the relevant legislation, a Romanian fiscal resident or a non-resident who has a permanent establishment in Romania that has the capacity of an intermediary, is determined for closed positions starting from the first day of trading of the fiscal year up to and including its last trading day.

The determination of the gain/loss is carried out in the case of derivative financial instruments that provide for periodic settlements between the parties, without closing the position, within a fiscal year.

The determination of the gain/loss is carried out annually, cumulatively, at the end of the fiscal year, by the income recipient, based on supporting documents.

Tax rate - transfers of securities and derivatives - for transactions carried out through authorised intermediaries

Income in the form of gains from the transfer of securities and operations with derivative financial instruments, determined for transfers/operations carried out through intermediaries defined according to the relevant legislation, investment management companies, self-managed investment companies, managers of alternative investment funds, residents Romanian taxpayers or non-residents who have a permanent establishment in Romania that has the quality of an intermediary, are imposed through withholding tax as follows:

- (a) in the case of securities:
 - (i) by applying a rate of 1 per cent. on each gain from the transfer of securities that have been acquired and disposed of in a period greater than 365 days, inclusive, from the date of acquisition;
 - (ii) by applying a rate of 3 per cent. on each gain from the transfer of securities that were acquired and disposed of within a period of less than 365 days from the date of acquisition;
- (b) in the case of operations with derivative financial instruments:
 - (i) by applying a rate of 1 per cent. on each gain from carrying out operations with derivative financial instruments held for a period greater than 365 days, inclusive, from the date of acquisition;
 - (ii) by applying a rate of 3 per cent. on each gain from carrying out operations with derivative financial instruments held for a period less than 365 days from the date of acquisition.

To determine the period in which they were held, it is considered that the securities and financial instruments are sold/repurchased in the same order in which they were acquired, respectively first in - first out, for each symbol.

The fiscal value is determined by applying the weighted average price method, including the costs related to the transfer/operation, on each token, regardless of the holding period.

The obligation to calculate and withhold income tax rests with intermediaries, for each transfer/operation.

The income tax calculated and withheld at source is declared and transferred to the state budget by the intermediaries up to and including the 25th of the month following the month in which it was withheld and is final tax.

The losses obtained from the transfer of securities and from operations with derivative financial instruments, carried out through the mentioned entities, as the case may be, are not carried forward and are not compensated, they represent definitive losses of the taxpayer.

If we refer to transactions carried out through resident intermediaries, the tax will be withheld at source by them. The losses obtained and not compensated until 1 January 2023 from these transfers/operations carried out through these entities are not carried forward, they represent definitive losses regardless of the date they were recorded.

If we are talking about non-resident intermediaries, natural persons will still have the obligation to calculate, declare and pay income tax.

Tax on dividends

It is paid when investing in companies, ETFs or Investment Funds that distribute dividends.

The amount of tax on dividends varies depending on where the company or fund that distributes the dividends has its registered office: in Romania or abroad.

Tax on dividends paid by companies or funds in Romania

Starting from 1 January 2023, dividends are taxed at a rate of 8%, and the tax is withheld at source.

The tax is withheld and transferred directly to the state on behalf of the investor by the company that distributes it, and the net difference of 92 per cent. of the dividends is received by the investor in the accounts of the broker in which he owns the shares.

Contribution for Social Health Insurance (CASS)

The Social Health Insurance Contribution has a more special regime because it is paid only when the cumulative income obtained by an individual, from one or more sources, exceeds a certain threshold.

As a result, in order to determine whether CASS is also due, to the gains from the investments listed above, the gains obtained from: independent activities, intellectual property rights, association with a legal person, assignment of the use of goods (rental), agricultural activities, forestry and fish farming, trading with cryptocurrencies or other sources.

This means that even if the cumulative income from dividends and from the transfer of securities does not exceed the threshold for CASS, there is still the possibility that the health contribution will be due if the sum of all types of income mentioned above exceeds the thresholds below.

The tax rate for CASS is 10%. applied to the total amount of income collected throughout the year

- (a) If the incomes are below the level of 6 gross minimum wages per country, no CASS is due-3000 ron is minimum salary starting with 1 January 2023 - 30 September 2023, starting with 1 October 2023 the minimum salary is 3300 ron;
- (b) If the incomes are between 6 and 12 gross minimum wages per country, the basis for calculating CASS is the level of 6 gross minimum wages;
- (c) If the incomes are between 12 and 24 gross minimum wages per country, the CASS calculation basis is the level of 12 gross minimum wages;
- (d) If the earned income exceeds 24 gross minimum wages, the CASS calculation basis is the level of 24 gross minimum wages per country.

Taxation of resident entities holders

Resident entities which are tax resident in Romania (i.e. if they are incorporated in Romania or if they have their effective place of management in Romania or if they are legal entities incorporated according to European legislation with registered office in Romania) will be subject to corporate income tax on their worldwide income, including any income and gains resulting from the holding, redemption, sale or any other transaction with the Securities. The applicable tax rate is 16 per cent. The tax loss incurred by these entities can be carried forward for 7 consecutive years.

The taxable base for corporate tax purpose is computed as the difference between revenues and expenses registered by entities as per the accounting rules, adjusted with tax items. Therefore, the corporate tax consequences deriving from holding, redemption, sale or any other transaction with the Securities is dependent also on the accounting treatment applied to such Securities, especially as regards the recognition of the related revenues and expenses.

The Romanian fiscal legislation, exempt from corporate income tax, in certain conditions, the incomes derived from dividends and from evaluation/revaluation/sale of shares.

The Romanian fiscal legislation, states that the losses incurred by a company from selling receivables is deductible within the limit of 30 per cent. In case of credit institutions, if receivables are partially covered by provisions or taken off from the balance sheet and then sold, 70 per cent. of the difference between the value of receivable and their selling price represents taxable income. However, starting 14 May 2020 this restriction does no longer apply to transfers of government securities, bonds and other debt instruments that give the holder a contractual right to collect cash, the expenses recorded from such transfers being deductible when calculating the tax result.

Relief for withholding tax paid in a foreign country in relation with Securities may be available if Romania has in place a double tax treaty in place with the country where the tax was withheld. The relief is granted under the form of deduction from and within the limit of the corporate income tax due in Romania.

Note that, legal entities with an annual income lower than RON equivalent of EUR 500,000 as at 31 December of the previous year, fall under the obligation to pay tax for micro-entities of 1 per cent. (if it has at least 1 full-time employee) applied to income obtained (except certain income specifically provided) without possibility to deduct expenses.

Taxation of non-residents

Non-resident (legal entities and/or individuals carrying on independent activities) will be subject to tax in Romania in respect of income derived from the Securities, in case they have a permanent establishment in Romania to which the Securities are attributable.

Stamp duties, transfer taxes, other taxes

There are no stamp duties, transfer taxes or other taxes due in Romania in connection with acquisitions and transactions with Securities, other than those mentioned above.

SLOVAKIAN TAXATION

The below comments have been prepared based on the following assumptions: neither of the Issuers is a tax resident in the Slovak Republic and has a permanent establishment in the Slovak Republic; the customers who will buy the Securities on the Slovak market are treated as the Slovak tax residents; the income derived from Securities held by the Slovak investors is sourced abroad; and neither of the Issuers has employees in Slovakia.

General tax obligations of Investors

Filing of personal / corporate income tax returns in Slovakia

In general, the tax period in Slovakia is a calendar year unless the taxpayer applies the financial year for accounting purposes. The tax period of financial year is applicable only for corporate taxpayers. The statutory deadline for filing a tax return is three months following the end of the tax period, i.e. if the tax period is a calendar year by 31 March of the following year. This deadline can be extended by 3 months based on a written application. An extension by 6 months is applicable if the taxpayer has income sourced abroad.

Avoidance of double taxation

Please note that the income sourced abroad may be subject to withholding tax (WHT) in the country of source of income. Amount of applicable WHT may be decreased based on the provisions of the Double Taxation Treaty (DTT) concluded between Slovakia and country of source of income.

To apply the correct amount of WHT the foreign Issuer(s) may request the Slovak investor to present the tax residency certificate proving that the investor is the Slovak tax resident and benefits from DTT's protection.

Should income received by the Slovak investor be provably taxed abroad, the foreign tax may be either credited against the Slovak tax liability or the income taxed abroad may be exempted from tax in Slovakia. The method of elimination of the double taxation of income is stipulated in the respective DTT. Tax withheld in a non-treaty country cannot be neither credited nor deducted from gross income.

Individual investor

Slovak tax residents are liable to pay tax in Slovakia on their worldwide income.

Generally, tax returns are not required if total taxable income does not exceed certain minimal threshold (EUR 2,289.63 in 2022 and EUR 2,461.41 in 2023) with exception of the taxpayer that declared a tax loss.

Please note that the personal income tax and insurance contributions in Slovakia (if any) are borne by the Investor (not Issuer(s) of Securities).

Tax rate

Personal income tax rate is 19 per cent. on part of annual tax base not exceeding EUR 41,445.46 in 2023 and 25 per cent. on part of annual tax base exceeding this level. Interest income and similar income from capital assets is subject to 19 per cent. tax rate, irrespective of taxpayer's tax base.

Starting from 2017 (transitional provisions apply), dividends and similar types of income are subject to 7 per cent. tax rate, or 35 per cent. tax rate if paid by an entity from a non-cooperative country.

Tax base

The determination of tax base and applicable tax exemptions stipulated by the Slovak Income Tax Act varies depending on the type of income.

The Investor is obliged to include income derived from Securities in the Slovak personal income tax return type B depending on type of income as follows:

- (i) Separate tax base from capital income according to Article 7 of the Slovak Income Tax Act (19 per cent. tax rate) includes inter alia income from interests and other revenues from Securities, revenues from redemption of shares certificates. The mandatory paid health-care insurance, if applicable, may be deducted from taxable income.
- (ii) Partial tax base from other income according to Article 8 of the Slovak Income Tax Act (19 per cent. / 25 per cent. tax rate) includes inter alia income from the transfer of options, transfer of Securities, transfer of participation (interest) in a limited liability company, limited partnership or from the transfer of membership rights of a cooperative, income from derivative operations. The tax base is determined as a taxable income reduced by provably incurred expenses up to the taxable income (a loss is tax non-deductible).
- (iii) Separate tax base from profit shares (dividends) according to Article 51e of the Slovak Income Tax Act (7 per cent. / 35 per cent. tax rate).

Losses from sale of assets (security, bonds etc.) can be offset against gains from sale of other assets with various limitations.

Tax exemptions

Gains from sale of Securities that are traded on regulated market (stock exchange or on a similar foreign regulated market) for more than 1 year are tax-exempt if (i) the period between acquisition and sale of the Securities exceeds 1 year and (ii) the period between their admission to a regulated market and the sale exceeds 1 year, PROVIDED THAT the Securities did not form a part of the Investor's business assets.

Further, gains from sale of Securities (less explicitly stipulated expenses) not qualifying for the above exemption are tax exempt up to EUR 500 per calendar year. However, should the taxpayer declare also rental income or income from occasional activities, the exemption would apply preferably on these types of income while the aggregated amount of exemption for all of the abovementioned types of income cannot exceed EUR 500.

Health-care insurance

Please note, that certain types of income from Securities (other income according to Article 8 of the Slovak Income Tax Act and selected types of income under Article 7 of the Slovak Income Tax Act) are subject to 14 per cent. health-care insurance. The mandatory paid health-care insurance, if applicable, may be deducted from taxable income.

Corporate investor*Tax rate*

The capital gain generated from the sale of Securities is subject to a general 21 per cent. or in special cases reduced 15 per cent. corporate income tax rate (for the application of the reduced rate, the total revenues generated in a financial year shall not exceed EUR 49,790).

The dividends received from / paid to the entity from a non-cooperative country are subject to 35 per cent. tax rate.

Tax base

In general, the capital gain generated from the sale of Securities is subject to 21 per cent. or in special cases 15 per cent. tax rate and acquisition value of Securities, up to the revenues generated by the sale, is treated as tax deductible expense (in most cases any loss is tax non-deductible).

A special tax regime is applicable to taxpayers authorised to trade with Securities under the special regulation who may treat the acquisition value of Securities recognised as cost as tax deductible expense, i.e. the loss is treated as tax deductible.

SPANISH TAXATION

The following is a summary of the main Spanish tax implications deriving from the ownership, transfer, redemption or reimbursement of the Securities referred to in this Base Prospectus by individuals or legal persons who are resident in Spain for tax purposes and by Spanish Non-Resident Income Tax (NRIT) taxpayers acting, with respect to the Securities, through a permanent establishment in Spain.

This summary is based on the Spanish law in force as of the date of approval of this Base Prospectus and on the administrative interpretations thereof, and therefore is subject to any changes in such laws and interpretations thereof occurring after that date, including changes having retroactive effect. In particular, this description is based on the provisions established in the Individual Income Tax Law (the IIT Law) (Law 35/2006, of 28 November 2006, as amended), the Corporate Income Tax Law (the CIT Law) (Law 27/2014, of 27 November 2014, as amended) and in the Consolidated Text of the NRIT Law (the NRIT Law) (approved by Royal Legislative Decree 5/2004, of 5 March 2004, as amended) and does not take into consideration any special regime applied by individuals or legal persons (such as financial entities, exempt entities, cooperatives, individuals who acquire the Securities by reason of employment, pension funds, collective investment in transferrable securities or look-through entities).

In addition, the following section does not cover those tax laws in force in the Spanish Basque provinces and Navarra as well as the particularities in force in the Spanish autonomous communities (comunidades autónomas), or the special rules applicable to transactions among related persons for Spanish tax purposes.

Accordingly, this summary is for general information only and does not purport to be a tax advice, thus prospective investors in the Securities should consult their own tax advisors as to the applicable tax consequences of their purchase, ownership and disposition of the Securities, including the effect of tax laws of any other jurisdiction, based on their particular circumstances. Also prospective investors should note that the appointment by an investor in Securities, or any person through which an investor holds Securities, of a custodian, collection agent or similar person in relation to such Securities in any jurisdiction may have tax implications. Prospective investors should consult their own tax advisors in relation to the tax consequences for them of any such appointment.

For the purposes of our analysis, we have assumed that the relevant Issuer is, in the case of Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI, a company resident for tax purposes in the United States and for the purposes of the Convention between the Kingdom of Spain and the United States for the Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion with respect to Taxes on Income signed on 22 February 1990, as amended in October 2019, and entitled to its benefits, and, in the case of CGMFL, is resident for tax purposes in Luxembourg and for the purposes of the Convention between the Kingdom of Spain and the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg for the avoidance of Double Taxation with respect to Taxes on Income and on Capital and the Prevention of Fiscal Fraud and Evasion signed on 4 August 1987, as amended in May 2010, and entitled to its benefits, that the Issuers do not act with respect to the Securities through a permanent establishment in Spain, that the proceeds of the Securities are not used in Spain by the Issuers, and that the investors in the Securities are resident in Spain for tax purposes or NRIT taxpayers acting, with respect to such Securities, through a permanent establishment in Spain.

Spanish tax resident individuals

(a) Individual Income Tax (IIT) (Impuesto sobre la Renta de las Personas Físicas)

The Spanish IIT is regulated by the IIT Law and supplemented by the IIT Regulations approved by Royal Decree 439/2007, of 30 March 2007, as amended (the IIT Regulations).

The Securities are deemed securities (activos financieros), in accordance with the definition set forth in Article 91 of the IIT Regulations and its interpretation by the Spanish tax authorities, and hence the rules provided with regard to securities must be taken into consideration.

According to Article 25.2 of the IIT Law and its interpretation by the Spanish tax authorities, interest as well as income arising on the transfer, redemption or reimbursement of the Securities obtained by individuals who are resident in Spain for tax purposes will be deemed income from movable property and therefore will be included in the investor's IIT savings taxable base and taxed, together with the other savings income obtained by such investor in that same tax year, at a flat tax rate of 19 per cent. on the first EUR6,000, 21 per cent. for taxable income between EUR6,000.01 to EUR50,000, 23 per cent. for taxable income between EUR50,000.01 and EUR200,000, 27 per cent. for taxable income between EUR 200,000.01 to EUR 300,000 and 28 per cent. for taxable income in excess of EUR 300,000.01.

As a general rule, income earned by Spanish resident individuals under the Securities should qualify as interest payments. In general, interest payments obtained by Spanish resident individuals should be subject to withholding tax at a 19 per cent. rate on account of IIT (creditable against final tax liability).

Notwithstanding the above, as non-resident in Spain entities not acting through a permanent establishment are not bound to withhold on account of IIT on payments made to Spanish resident individuals, interest payments under the Securities should be only subject to withholding tax in Spain in case they are deposited in a depositary entity or individual resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) or if an entity or individual resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) is in charge of the collection of the income derived from the Securities, PROVIDED THAT such income had not been previously subject to withholding tax in Spain.

However, when the Securities (i) are represented in book-entry form; (ii) are admitted to trading on a Spanish secondary stock exchange; and (iii) generate explicit yield, holders can benefit from a withholding tax exemption in respect of the income arising from the transfer or reimbursement of the Securities, save in respect of income derived from accounts entered into with financial institutions, PROVIDED THAT such accounts are based on financial instruments, such as the Securities. However, under certain circumstances, when a transfer of the Securities has occurred within the 30-day period immediately preceding any relevant coupon payment date such holders may not be eligible for such withholding tax exemption.

Holders of Securities shall compute the gross interest obtained in the taxable base of the tax period in which it is due, including amounts withheld, if any. Income arising on the transfer, redemption or reimbursement of Securities will be calculated as the difference between (i) the transfer, redemption or reimbursement value of such Securities (deducting the additional costs and expenses incurred in the transfer, if they are duly justified) and (ii) their acquisition or subscription value (adding the additional costs and expenses incurred in the acquisition, if they are duly justified).

Should a holder of Securities acquire homogeneous securities within the two-month period prior or subsequent to the transfer of such Securities, negative income that may derive from such transfer cannot be included in his or her IIT taxable base until the homogeneous securities are transferred.

The net taxable income related to interest derived from the Securities shall be determined by deducting the management and deposit expenses from the gross income, excluding those pertaining to discretionary or individual portfolio management.

Additionally, tax credits for the avoidance of international double taxation in accordance with the IIT Law or any applicable convention for the avoidance of double taxation entered into by Spain may apply in respect of taxes paid abroad, if any, on income deriving from Securities.

(b) Net Wealth Tax (Net Wealth Tax) (Impuesto sobre el Patrimonio)

Only individual holders of Securities would be subject to the Net Wealth Tax as legal persons are not taxable persons under Net Wealth Tax.

Relevant taxpayers will be individuals who have their habitual residence in Spain regardless of the place where their assets or rights are located or could be exercised, and non-Spanish resident individuals owning assets or rights which are located or could be exercised in Spain whose net wealth is higher than EUR 700,000, as this amount is considered as exempt from Net Wealth Tax.

Taxpayers should include in their Net Wealth Tax self-assessment the Securities (assuming they qualify as debt instruments) for the following amounts:

- (i) if they are listed in an official market, the average negotiation value of the fourth quarter; and
- (ii) in other case, its nominal value (including redemption premiums).

The value of the Securities together with the rest of the taxpayer's wealth, once reduced by the deductible in rem liens and encumbrances which reduce the rights and assets values and the personal debts of the taxpayer, shall be taxed at a tax rate between 0.2 to 3.5 per cent.

Finally, please note that the Spanish regions are entitled to modify (i) the threshold of net wealth exempt from taxation; (ii) the tax rates; and (iii) the tax benefits and exemptions to be applied in their territory.

(c) Inheritance and Gift Tax (IGT) (Impuesto sobre Sucesiones y Donaciones)

Individuals resident in Spain for tax purposes who acquire Securities by inheritance or gift will be subject to the Spanish IGT in accordance with the IGT Law (Ley 29/1987, de 18 de diciembre, del Impuesto sobre Sucesiones y Donaciones), without prejudice to the specific legislation applicable in each autonomous region. The effective tax rate, after applying all relevant factors, ranges from 0 per cent. to 81.6 per cent. depending on several factors such as pre-existing heritage of the heir or donee, or the kinship with the deceased or the donor. Additionally, it should be taken into consideration that IGT management has been transferred to the Spanish Autonomous Regions therefore, a detailed analysis in each specific case should be carried out to analyse the applicable regional legislation since there might be differences in respect of the final taxation under IGT depending on the region in which an investor resides.

Please bear in mind that, in case the Securities are deemed to be exercisable in Spain, non-resident individuals who acquire Securities by inheritance or gift may also be subject to the Spanish IGT.

Tax credits for the avoidance of international double taxation may apply in respect of similar taxes paid abroad, if any, in respect of Securities.

Legal persons resident in Spain for tax purposes are not subject to IGT, thus the income that they may obtain from gift or inheritance, as the case may be, will be subject to Spanish Corporate Income Tax (CIT) on the market value of Securities received, PROVIDED THAT the legal persons obtaining such income are Spanish CIT taxpayers.

(d) Temporary Solidarity Tax on Large Fortunes (STLF) (Impuesto temporal de solidaridad de las grandes fortunas)

STLF is a NWT's complementary tax which is levied on individuals holding a world-wide net wealth of EUR 3,000,000.

The value of the Securities together with the rest of the taxpayer's net wealth (exceeding EUR 3,000,000) shall be taxed at a tax rate between 1.7 and 3.5 per cent.

Individuals whose tax residence is located in Spain will be entitled to a EUR 700,000 rebate to their taxable base (i.e. STLF will be triggered for a net wealth exceeding EUR 3,700,000) and to deduct taxes paid abroad with certain limitations.

STLF quota together with the NWT and the IIT quotas, shall not surpass 60% of the IIT taxable base. If said summation exceeds said threshold, the STLF quota could be reduced up to 80%. After applying said limitations, it could be deducted from the final STLF Tax quota: (i) any taxes paid abroad following the NWT relevant provisions and without prejudice of the dispositions contained in any double tax treaty or international applicable legislation and (ii) the NWT quota effectively paid.

As STLF has been conceived as a temporary tax it will only accrue on 31 December of 2022 and of 2023 but could be extended to subsequent tax years if deemed appropriate.

Spanish legal persons subject to Corporate Income Tax (CIT) (Impuesto sobre Sociedades)

Interest and income arising on the transfer, redemption or reimbursement of Securities obtained by legal entities resident for tax purposes in Spain and regarded as CIT taxpayers shall be computed as taxable income of the tax period of its accrual, in accordance with the rules contained in the CIT Law and supplemented by the CIT regulations, approved by Royal Decree 634/2015, of 10 July 2015 (the CIT Regulations).

The general CIT rate for Spanish CIT taxpayers is currently 25 per cent. However, certain CIT taxpayers, such as banks and investment funds, may be subject to higher or lower CIT rates. Taxpayers with an annual net turnover higher than EUR 20 million or who are taxed jointly under a CIT group will be subject to a minimum 15 per cent. effective CIT rate of the adjusted taxable base (additional requirements or limitations may apply depending on the nature and circumstances of a given taxpayer). Please note that the CIT Law allows further reduction of this minimum taxation threshold by offsetting, among others, international double tax credits if any are available.

Tax credits for the avoidance of international double taxation in accordance with the CIT Law or any applicable convention for the avoidance of double taxation entered into by Spain may apply in respect of taxes paid abroad, if any, on income deriving from Securities.

As a general rule, interest payments and income upon transfer or redemption under the Securities shall be subject to withholding tax at 19 per cent. rate on account of CIT (creditable against final tax liability).

Notwithstanding this, as non-resident in Spain entities not acting through a permanent establishment are not bound to withhold on account of CIT on payments made to Spanish resident entities, interest payments and income upon transfer or redemption under the Securities should be only subject to withholding tax in Spain in case they are deposited in a depositary entity resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) or if an entity or individual resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) is in charge of the collection of the income derived from the Securities, PROVIDED THAT such income had not been previously subject to withholding tax in Spain.

However, when (i) the Securities are represented in book-entry form and are admitted to trading on a Spanish secondary stock exchange or on the Spanish Alternative Fixed Income Market (MARF); or (ii) the notes are listed on a market in an OECD member state; holders who are corporate income taxpayers can benefit from a withholding tax exemption in respect of interest payments and income arising from the transfer or redemption of the Securities, exception made of income derived from accounts entered into with financial entities, PROVIDED THAT such accounts are based on financial instruments, such as Securities.

Spanish Financial Transaction Tax (FTT)

The acquisition of shares of a Spanish listed company trading on a regulated market in Spain, any other Member State of the European Union, or on a market in a third country if the market is considered to be equivalent, with a market capitalisation greater than 1,000 million euros (Qualifying Shares) and the acquisition of certificates of deposit representing Qualifying Shares (Qualifying Certificates), such as American depository receipts, regardless of the type of market or trading centre where the trades are executed (regulated market, multilateral trading facility, systematic internaliser; or OTC transactions), are subject, save for certain exceptions, to Spanish FTT at a 0.2 per cent. of the corresponding acquisition price (excluding the costs and expenses associated to such transaction).

In addition to the above, the acquisition of Qualifying Shares and Qualifying Certificates under the execution or settlement of convertible or exchangeable bonds or debentures, of derivatives, as well as of any financial instrument, or of certain financial contracts, are also subject to the Spanish FTT.

Non-resident investors subject to NRIT (Impuesto sobre la Renta de no Residentes)

Based on the fact that none of the Issuers are resident in Spain for tax purposes, that the payments of the Securities are not effectively allocated to a permanent establishment in Spain of the Issuers and that the proceeds of the Securities are not used in Spain by the Issuers, no Spanish NRIT should, in principle, be levied on investors that are not resident in Spain for tax purposes, unless they are acting with respect to Securities through a Spanish permanent establishment.

Pursuant to some specific guidelines issued by the Spanish tax authorities, income relating to bonds issued by a non-Spanish tax resident issuer could be regarded as remunerating the use of funds in Spain (and thus, be subject to Spanish NRIT) depending on the specific activity of the issuer and the effective use of funds in Spain and, in particular (pursuant to these guidelines), if a non-Spanish resident special purpose vehicle issuing the notes is incorporated by a Spanish group in order to seek finance for the benefit of such Spanish group.

In addition to the above, and in accordance to binding ruling V0185-20 of 27 January 2020, certain securities (such as financial derivatives) may be classified, for the purposes of the relevant double tax treaty, as business profits or other income and, as mentioned above, should not be considered, in general terms, as Spanish-source income, subject to the provisions of any relevant double tax treaty.

According to the general principles of the Spanish NRIT Law, Spanish permanent establishments of non-Spanish tax resident persons are taxed under the NRIT Law in a similar manner to Spanish CIT taxpayers, although some specific rules may apply. Due to the complexity of this matter, non-Spanish tax resident investors acting in Spain, with respect to Securities, through a permanent establishment are strongly urged to seek appropriate advice in respect of their own tax position in this regard.

Spanish withholding tax

Where a financial institution (either resident in Spain for tax purposes or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) (a) acts as depository of Securities, (b) manages the collection of any income under Securities, (c) intervenes in their transfer or (d) carries out the redemption or reimbursement of the Securities, on behalf of Holders either (i) resident in Spain for tax purposes or (ii) holding the Securities through a permanent establishment located in Spain, such financial institution will be responsible for making the relevant withholding on account of Spanish tax on any income deriving from the relevant Securities. The current withholding tax rate in Spain is 19 per cent. Amounts withheld in Spain, if any, can be credited against the final Spanish IIT, CIT or NRIT liability, as applicable to the Holder.

In addition to the above, the acquisition of Qualifying Shares and Qualifying Certificates under the execution or settlement of convertible or exchangeable bonds or debentures, of derivatives, as well as of any financial instrument, or of certain financial contracts, are also subject to the Spanish FTT.

Other Spanish taxes (indirect taxation)

The acquisition, transfer, redemption and reimbursement of Securities will be exempt from indirect taxes in Spain, i.e. exempt from or not subject to Transfer Tax and Stamp Duty, as the case may be, in accordance with the Consolidated Text of such tax approved by Royal Legislative Decree 1/1993, of 21 September 1993, and exempt from Value Added Tax, in accordance with Law 37/1992, of 28 December 1992, regulating such tax.

SWISS TAXATION

The following discussion is a summary of certain material Swiss tax considerations relating to (i) Securities issued by any of the Issuer(s) where the Holder is tax resident in Switzerland or has a tax presence in Switzerland or (ii) Securities where the Paying Agent, custodian or Securities dealer is located in Switzerland. The discussion is based on legislation as of the date of this Base Prospectus. It does not aim to be a comprehensive description of all the Swiss tax considerations that may be relevant for a decision to invest in Securities. The tax treatment for each investor depends on the particular situation. All investors are advised to consult with their professional tax advisors as to the respective Swiss tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, disposition, lapse, exercise or redemption of Securities (or options embedded therein) in light of their particular circumstances.

Swiss Withholding Tax

Payments on a Security are currently not subject to Swiss federal withholding tax PROVIDED THAT the respective Issuer(s) is at all times resident and managed outside Switzerland for Swiss tax purposes.

Income Taxation

Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder

(a) Structured Securities

If a Security classifies as a structured note, its income taxation depends on whether the bond and the derivative financial instrument(s) embedded therein are recorded separately from each other and whether the Security classifies as a structured note with or without a predominant one-time interest payment:

- (i) Non-transparent derivative financial instruments: If the embedded bond is not recorded separately from the embedded derivative financial instrument(s), the Security classifies as a non-transparent structured note and any return over the initial investment classifies as a taxable interest payment. Non-transparent derivative financial instruments generally include a predominant one-time interest payment and are taxed in accordance with the principles set forth below under "Transparent derivative financial instruments with a predominant one-time interest payment".
- (ii) Transparent derivative financial instruments without a predominant one-time interest payment: If the embedded bond is recorded separately from the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) and the yield to-maturity predominantly derives from periodic interest payments and not from a one time interest payment (see below "Transparent derivative financial instruments with a predominant one-time interest payment"), then any periodic interest payment and the one-time interest payment, if any, is taxed when paid to the holder of the Security. A gain, including interest accrued, realised on the sale of a Security is a tax-free private capital gain. A loss realised on the sale of a Security is a non-tax-deductible private capital loss, (see below "Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder"). The same applies if the Security is redeemed except that interest accrued is taxed when paid.
- (iii) Transparent derivative financial instruments with a predominant one-time interest payment: If the embedded bond is recorded separately from the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) and the yield to maturity predominantly derives from a one-time interest payment such as an original issue discount or a repayment premium and not from periodic interest payments, then any periodic interest payments and on the redemption or sale of the Security the difference between the value of the embedded bond at redemption or sale, as applicable, and its value at issuance or secondary market purchase, as applicable, converted, in each case, into Swiss Francs at the exchange rate prevailing at the time of sale or redemption, issuance or purchase, respectively (modified differential taxation method) constitutes taxable income. A value decrease on the embedded bond respectively realised on the sale or redemption of the Security may be offset against any gains (including periodic interest payments) realised within the same taxation period from all instruments with a predominant one-time interest payment. Any residual return realised on the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) is a tax-free private capital gain, and any residual loss is a non-tax-deductible private capital loss, respectively (see below "Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder").

(b) Bonds

Bonds without a predominant one-time interest payment: If a Security classifies as a pure bond without a predominant one-time interest payment (i.e. the yield-to-maturity predominantly derives from periodic interest payments and not from a one-time interest payment), Swiss resident private investors will be taxed on the periodic and any one-time interest payments, if any, converted into Swiss Francs at the exchange rate prevailing at the time of payment. A gain, including interest accrued, realised on the sale of a Security is a tax-free private capital gain. A loss, realised on the sale of a Security is a non-tax deductible private capital loss (see below "Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder").

Bonds with a predominant one-time interest payment: If a Security classifies as a pure bond with a predominant one-time interest payment (i.e. the yield-to-maturity predominantly derives from a one-time interest payment such as an original issue discount or a repayment premium and not from periodic interest payments), Swiss resident private investors will be taxed on any periodic interest payments and on any gains, including capital and foreign exchange gains, realised on the Securities (differential taxation method).

(c) Pure Derivative Financial Securities

Periodic and one-time dividend equalisation payments realised on a Security which classifies as a pure derivative financial instrument (such as pure call and put options, including low exercise price options with a maturity not exceeding one year, pure futures, static Securities replicating an index or a basket of at least five shares and with a fixed maturity or an annual redemption right) and which is held as part of their private assets constitute taxable investment income. Any other return will be classified as a tax-exempt capital gain or a non-tax deductible capital loss (see below "Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder").

(d) Low Exercise Price Options

According to the current practice of the Swiss Federal Tax Administration low exercise price options are given if the underlying of an option has been pre-financed by at least 50 per cent. at the time of issuance.

For low exercise price options with a maturity exceeding one year the interest component of the low exercise price option (i.e. issue discount) constitutes taxable investment income. Any other return will be classified as a tax-exempt capital gain or a non-tax deductible capital loss (see below "Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder").

(e) Fund-like Securities

A Security classified as a fund-like instrument will be considered a pass-through instrument for Swiss tax purposes if dividend and interest income (less attributable costs) from, and capital gains and losses (less costs attributable) realised on, the underlying investments, are reported and distributed separately. Under such conditions, an individual holding a fund-like Security as part of private assets only receives taxable income (which he or she must report annually) over such portion of the distributions (in case the fund is distributing the income realised on the underlying investments) or earnings credits (in case the fund is reinvesting the income realised on the underlying investment) as derive from dividends and interest (less attributable costs) on the underlying instruments. Any distributions or credits deriving from capital gains realised on the underlying investments constitute a tax-free private capital gain, and any respective loss on the underlying investments is a non-tax-deductible private capital loss. Any gain realised within a taxation period on the sale of a fund-like instrument (including accrued dividends and interest) is exempt from income taxation as a private capital gain, and, conversely, any loss realised a non-tax-deductible capital loss (see below "Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder").

Securities held as Assets of a Swiss Business

Corporate entities and individuals who hold Securities as part of a trade or business in Switzerland, in the case of residents abroad carried on through a permanent establishment or a fixed place of business in Switzerland, are required to recognise any payments on, and any capital gains or losses realised on the sale or redemption of, such Securities (irrespective of their classification) in their income statement for the respective taxation period and will be taxed on any net taxable earnings for such period.

The same taxation treatment also applies to Swiss-resident individuals who, for income tax purposes, are classified as "professional Securities dealers" for reasons of, inter alia, frequent dealing and leveraged investments in Securities.

Capital Gains TaxationSecurities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder

A gain, realised by an individual resident in Switzerland for tax purposes upon the sale or other disposal of a Security held as part of his or her private assets is a tax-free private capital gain. A loss, realised by an individual resident in Switzerland for tax purposes upon the sale or other disposal of a Security held as part of his or her private assets is a non-tax deductible capital loss. In the case of a gain or a loss, unless such individual is classified, for income tax purposes, as a "professional Securities dealer" for reasons of, inter alia, frequent dealing and leveraged investments in Securities. If an individual is classified as a "professional Securities dealer" he or she will be taxed in accordance with the principles set forth above under "Securities held as Assets of a Swiss Business". Concerning the bifurcation of a tax exempt capital gains component, non-tax deductible capital loss component, respectively, from taxable income components of a Security see the bifurcation principles set forth above with regard to the different instruments under "Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder".

Securities held as Assets of a Swiss Business

Capital gains realised on Securities held as Assets of a Swiss Business are taxed in accordance with the taxation principles set forth above under "Securities held as Assets of a Swiss Business".

Stamp TaxesSwiss Federal Issue Stamp Tax

The Securities are not subject to Swiss federal stamp tax on the issuance of Securities.

Swiss Federal Securities Turnover Tax

The issuance of Securities to the initial holders at the original offering price (primary market) is not subject to the Swiss federal securities turnover tax, except that the issuance of Securities which classify as fund like instruments may be subject to Swiss federal securities turnover tax of up to 0.3 per cent. on the offering price, however, only if a Swiss securities dealer (as defined in the Swiss federal stamp tax act) is a party or an intermediary to the transaction and no exemption applies.

Dealings in Securities (secondary market) which classify as pure derivative financial instruments (such as pure call and put options, including low exercise price options with a maturity not exceeding twelve months, pure futures with a maximal pre-financing of 25 per cent., static Securities replicating an index or a basket of at least five shares and with a fixed maturity on an annual redemption right) are not subject to the Swiss federal securities turnover tax.

Dealings in Securities which have been issued by an issuer outside of Switzerland and which classify as structured notes, share-like instruments (including low exercise price options on shares with a maturity exceeding twelve months) or fund-like instruments are subject to Swiss federal securities turnover tax of up to 0.3 per cent. on the consideration paid, however, only if a Swiss Securities dealer (as defined in the Swiss federal stamp tax act) is a party or intermediary to the transaction and no exemption applies.

Dealing in bonds and structured notes with a maturity not exceeding one year are exempt from Swiss federal securities turnover tax.

The delivery of an underlying taxable Security at exercise or redemption to the holder of the Security is subject to Swiss federal securities turnover tax of up to 0.3 per cent. if a Swiss Securities dealer (as defined in the Swiss federal stamp tax act) is a party or intermediary to the transaction and no exemption applies.

Gift, Inheritance and Estate Taxes

Subject to an applicable tax treaty in an international scenario, transfers of Securities may be subject to cantonal and/or communal inheritance tax, estate tax or gift tax if the deceased person has had his or her last domicile in Switzerland, the donor is resident in Switzerland, respectively, or in the case of a foreign deceased or resident person the transfer involves an unincorporated business in Switzerland and Securities are held as part of such business. No such taxes exist at the federal level. Rates depend upon the existing relationship (i.e. the relationship between the deceased and the heirs, or between the donor and the donee) and the size of the inheritance or gift. Interspousal gifts and gifts to descendants and inheritances collected by the surviving spouse and descendants are frequently exempt or taxed at very low rates (up to 6 per cent.). Gifts and inheritances received from unrelated persons attract rates ranging from 20 per cent. to 40 per cent. The taxable base is usually the market value of the property transferred.

Net Worth and Capital Taxes

A holder of Securities who is an individual resident in Switzerland for tax purposes or is a non-Swiss resident holding Securities as part of a Swiss business operation or a Swiss permanent establishment is required to report Securities as part of private wealth or as part of Swiss business assets, as the case may be, and is subject to annual cantonal and/or communal private wealth tax on any net taxable wealth (including the Securities), in the case of non-Swiss resident individual holding Securities as part of a Swiss business operation or a Swiss permanent establishment to the extent the aggregate taxable wealth is allocable to Switzerland. Incorporated holders of Securities are subject to cantonal and communal capital tax on net taxable equity, in the case of a non-Swiss resident person holding Securities as part of a Swiss permanent establishment, to the extent the aggregate taxable equity is allocable to Switzerland. No net worth and capital taxes exist at the federal level.

Non-Swiss resident Holders

A holder of a Security who is not resident in Switzerland for tax purposes and who during the taxation year has not engaged in trade or business carried on through a business operation or permanent establishment in Switzerland, will neither be subject to income tax and capital gains tax nor net wealth or capital tax in Switzerland.

Swiss Facilitation of the Implementation of the U.S. Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act

Switzerland has concluded an intergovernmental agreement with the U.S. to facilitate the implementation of FATCA. The agreement ensures that the accounts held by U.S. persons with Swiss financial institutions are disclosed to the U.S. tax authorities either with the consent of the account holder or by means of group requests within the scope of administrative assistance. Information will not be transferred automatically in the absence of consent, and instead will be exchanged only within the scope of administrative assistance on the basis of the double taxation agreement between the U.S. and Switzerland. On 8 October 2014, the Swiss Federal Council approved a mandate for negotiations with the U.S. on changing the current direct-notification-based regime to a regime where the relevant information is sent to the Swiss Federal Tax Administration, which in turn provides the information to the U.S. tax authorities.

Automatic Exchange of Information in Tax Matters

On 19 November 2014, Switzerland signed the Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement (the MCAA). The MCAA is based on article 6 of the OECD/Council of Europe administrative assistance convention and is intended to ensure the uniform implementation of Automatic Exchange of Information (the AEOI). The Federal Act on the International Automatic Exchange of Information in Tax Matters (the AEOI Act) entered into force on 1 January 2017. The AEOI Act is the legal basis for the implementation of the AEOI standard in Switzerland.

The AEOI is being introduced in Switzerland through bilateral agreements or multilateral agreements. The agreements have, and will be, concluded on the basis of guaranteed reciprocity, compliance with the principle of speciality (i.e. the information exchanged may only be used to assess and levy taxes (and for criminal tax proceedings)) and adequate data protection.

Based on such multilateral or bilateral agreements and the implementing laws of Switzerland, Switzerland exchanges data in respect of financial assets, including, as the case may be, Securities, held in, and income derived thereon and credited to, accounts or deposits with a paying agent in Switzerland for the benefit of individuals resident in an EU member state or in a treaty state.

SECTION F.9 – DESCRIPTION OF THE PREFERENCE SHARES AND THE PREFERENCE SHARE COMPANY

The issuer of the Preference Shares is Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A. (CGMFL or the Preference Share Company). CGMFL is also an issuer under the Programme and a description of CGMFL is set out in the section entitled "Description of Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A." above.

Preference Shares will be issued from time to time in different Classes (each a Class).

Each issue of Preference Share Linked Securities will give exposure to the performance of a separate Class of Preference Shares that in turn have a defined return which will depend on the exposure to one or more Preference Share Underlying(s). It is expected that the Preference Share Company will only issue a small number of Preference Shares of each Class and that, unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, these will be issued fully paid at GBP1.00 each and will be held by Citigroup Global Markets Limited or another affiliate of the Issuer until their redemption date.

A copy of the Preference Share Company's constitutional documents and the terms and conditions of each Class of Preference Share (the Preference Share Terms and Conditions) are available to investors in the Securities on written request (free of charge) from the registered office of the Preference Share Company at 31, Z.A. Bourmicht, L-8070 Bertrange, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg and from the distributor of the relevant Securities. If specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the Preference Share Terms and Conditions of the relevant Class of preference shares will also be available on the website specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

The Preference Share Company may issue redeemable Preference Shares of any kind, including but not limited to Preference Shares which have a defined return dependant on the performance of one or more underlying asset(s) or reference basis(es) (each a Preference Share Underlying) (which may include, but will not be limited to, one or more security indices, one or more commodity indices, one or more commodities, one or more shares, one or more depositary receipts, one or more exchange traded fund shares, one or more mutual fund interests or one or more currency exchange rates) and will be issued on such terms as may be determined by the Preference Share Company and specified in the applicable terms and conditions of the relevant Class of Preference Shares.

The Preference Share Terms and Conditions of each Class provide that the applicable preference shares will be redeemable on their final redemption date at a defined amount as determined in accordance with the relevant Preference Share Terms and Conditions. The Preference Share Terms and Conditions may also provide that the Preference Share Company may redeem the Preference Shares early if:

- (i) the performance of the Preference Share Company's obligations under the Preference Shares has or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited for any reason; or
- (ii) a change in applicable law or regulation occurs that results, or will result, in the Preference Share Company being required to be regulated by any additional regulatory authority, or being subject to any materially onerous additional legal requirement or regulation or tax; or
- (iii) an early redemption event in respect of a Preference Share Underlying occurs; or
- (iv) a financial product issued by the Preference Share Company or any of its affiliates any proportion of the return on which matches the return on the Preference Shares or is otherwise dependent on the value of the Preference Shares, has or will become subject to early redemption or is or will be cancelled.

The conditions of the Preference Shares contain provisions relating to early redemption events and adjustment events relating to the Preference Share Underlying(s) to which the relevant Preference Shares give investment exposure. Such early redemption events and adjustment events are substantially similar to the provisions relating to the equivalent type of Underlying contained in the Underlying Schedules of the Conditions of the Securities and consequently, investors should also read the considerations relating to Securities linked to the relevant Underlying(s) in these risk factors in order to fully understand the provisions relating to such Underlying(s) (and consequently the Preference Share Underlying(s)) and the associated risks.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PREFERENCE SHARES AND THE PREFERENCE SHARE COMPANY

If the Preference Shares are redeemed early pursuant to the above, the Issuer will notify holders of the Securities in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) and each Security will be redeemed at its Early Redemption Amount determined as specified in Preference Share Conditions 6(d) (Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount) and 6(e) (Realisation Disruption).

The value of the Preference Shares is scheduled to be published on each scheduled trading day on the Electronic Page specified in the applicable Issue Terms or on such other information source as may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

The value of the Preference Shares depends on the Preference Share Terms and Conditions of the relevant Class, the performance of the Preference Share Underlying(s) to which the relevant Preference Shares give investment exposure and the financial condition and standing of the Preference Share Company. In determining the value of the Preference Shares, the Calculation Agent shall employ the calculation procedure and methodology set out in the applicable Preference Share Terms and Conditions. Investors should review the Preference Share Terms and Conditions to ensure that they understand how the defined return and performance of the Preference Share Underlying(s) will affect the value of the Preference Shares and, therefore, the return on the Securities.

(i) For the purpose of General Conditions 6(b)(i) (Redemption for Taxation Reasons and Redemption for Illegality) and 6(b)(ii) above, General Condition 6(c) (Early Redemption following the occurrence of an Obligor Regulatory Event) above, General Condition 11 (Events of Default) below, and the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and subject as provided in the relevant Underlying Schedules applicable to the relevant Underlying(s), the Early Redemption Amount in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) will be calculated as any of the following specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in each case payable as provided below:

- (A) Fair Market Value payable on the date specified in, or notified in accordance with, the Conditions or, if no such date is so specified, on a date selected by the Issuer;
- (B) Principal Amount plus accrued interest (if any) at maturity;

- (E) such other amount specified in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and/or in the applicable Issue Terms and payable on the date specified in, or notified in accordance with, the Conditions or, if no such date is so specified, on a date selected by the Issuer,

(and in the case of Credit Linked Notes or Index Skew Notes, minus the pro rata share of any unwind costs without double counting) provided that where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Additional Costs on account of Early Redemption" to be not applicable, Securityholders will not be charged any costs or expenses by the Issuer on account of the early redemption of the Securities in any of the circumstances set out in the initial paragraph of this General Condition 6(e)(i).

(ii) if the Securities are subject to early redemption for which the Early Redemption Amount is specified as the Monetisation with Holder Put Option (as set forth above in General Condition 6(e)(i)(D) above):

- (A) Following the occurrence of the relevant early redemption event, the Issuer shall notify the Securityholders (such notice by the Issuer to the Securityholders being the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption) as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) that the Securities will be redeemed on the Maturity Date for an amount equal to the Monetisation Amount unless the relevant Securityholder makes a valid election to exercise the option for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption. The Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption may, but does not have to, include the Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement of the Securities on a day selected by the Calculation Agent on or prior to the date of delivery of such notice, and shall include the cut-off date for exercise of the option for Fair Market Value at early redemption, the date of determination of the Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement in respect of such election selected by the Calculation Agent (which may fall after the date of such notice) and the early redemption date.

- (B) In order to make a valid election to exercise its option referred to in (A) above to redeem some or all of its Securities for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption, a Securityholder must:
- (1) if such Security is in definitive form and held outside the Relevant Clearing System, deliver, at the specified office of the Registrar at any time during normal business hours of the Registrar falling no later than the cut-off date set out in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption, a duly completed and signed notice of exercise in the form (for the time being current) obtainable from any specified office of the Registrar (an Early Redemption Put Notice) and in which the holder must specify a bank account (or, if payment is required to be made by cheque, an address) to which payment is to be made under this Condition and the principal amount or number thereof to be redeemed for Fair Market Value at early redemption and, if less than the full principal amount or number of the Registered Securities held by such Securityholder so surrendered is to be redeemed, an address to which a new Registered Security in respect of the balance of such Registered Securities is to be sent subject to and in accordance with the provisions of General Condition 3(h) (Transfer Free of Charge). If the relevant Security is in definitive form, the Early Redemption Put Notice must be accompanied by the Security or evidence satisfactory to the Paying Agent concerned that the Security will, following delivery of the Early Redemption Put Notice, be held to its order or under its control.
 - (2) if the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, no later than the cut-off date set out in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in accordance with the standard procedures of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable (which may include notice being given on his instruction by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, or any common depositary or common safekeeper, as the case may be, for them, as applicable, to the Registrar by electronic means), in a form acceptable to Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, from time to time.
 - (3) if the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through DTC, no later than the cut-off date set out in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in the form of an Early Redemption Put Notice acceptable to the Registrar and irrevocably instruct DTC to debit the relevant Securityholder's securities account with the relevant Securities on or before the Early Redemption Date in accordance with applicable DTC practice.

In the case of Swedish Securities, an Early Redemption Put Notice will not take effect against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Securities have been transferred to the account designated by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent and blocked for further transfers by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent (such date will be the first date of a closed period for the purposes of General Condition 3(k) (Transfer of Swedish Securities)). The redemption procedures for Swedish Securities will be subject to the Swedish CSD Rules.

Unless otherwise provided Finnish Securities shall be subject to automatic redemption. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, if the Securities are Finnish Securities, the exercise of this option will not be effective against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Finnish Securities have been transferred to the account operated by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent, which for the purposes of the relevant Finnish Securities is an account operator specifically authorised by Euroclear Finland and appointed by the Issuer in relation to a specific issue or issues to process and register issues in the system of the relevant central securities depository and clearing institution, and blocked for further transfer on the early redemption date by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent. The right to require redemption of any Finnish Securities in accordance with this Condition must, notwithstanding the above, be exercised in accordance with the Euroclear Finland Rules and if there is any inconsistency between the terms set out herein and the Euroclear Finland Rules, then the Euroclear Finland Rules shall prevail.

- (C) Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) for which:
- (1) a valid election to exercise the Securityholder's option to redeem such Securities for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption has been made, the Early Redemption Amount shall be an amount equal to the Fair Market Value of the Securities on the date specified as such in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement, which amount shall be payable on the early redemption date specified as such in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption; and
 - (2) a valid election to exercise the Securityholder's option to redeem such Securities for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption has not been made, the Early Redemption Amount shall be the Monetisation Amount (if any), which amount shall be payable on the Maturity Date.

In both cases no other amounts of principal, interest or termination will be payable following the date the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption is given.

- (iii) In the case of Securities subject to early redemption for which the Early Redemption Amount is specified as "Principal Amount plus accrued interest (if any) at maturity", then such Early Redemption Amount shall be payable on the Maturity Date, notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions and no other amounts of principal, interest or termination will be payable following the date the notice of early redemption is given.
- (iv) As used above, in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount):

Best of Amount means, in respect of such Security, an amount in the Specified Currency determined by the Calculation Agent as the greater of (i) the sum of the Minimum Return Amount plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement and (ii) the sum of Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Early Redemption Date means, in respect of each Security and the Early Redemption Amount payable in respect of such Security, a date notified by the Issuer to the relevant Securityholder in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) as the date for the payment of the Early Redemption Amount, save as provided in General Condition 6(e)(ii)(C)(2) and General Condition 6(e)(iii).

Fair Market Value means an amount in the Specified Currency determined by the Calculation Agent which represents the fair market value of such Security (which shall include amounts in respect of interest) on a day selected by the Issuer or as otherwise required in accordance with the Conditions (ignoring for the purposes of a redemption pursuant to General Condition 6(b)(ii), the relevant unlawfulness, illegality or prohibition) less (except (i) if the applicable Issue Terms specify "Deduction of Hedge Costs" to be not applicable; and (ii) in the case of either any early redemption pursuant to General Condition 11 (Events of Default)) the proportionate cost to the Issuer and/or its Affiliates of unwinding any underlying and/or related hedging and funding arrangements in respect of the Securities (including, without limitation, any options relating to any Underlying hedging the Issuer's obligations under the Securities) and, for the purposes of determining the fair market value of such Security for the purposes of General Condition 11 (Events of Default), no account shall be taken of the financial condition of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor which shall be presumed to be able to perform fully their obligations in respect of the Securities.

The "fair market value" of a Security is an estimated value and, in determining such value, the Calculation Agent may have regard to the following as applicable:

- (i) where applicable, a bond component in respect of the Securities, plus an embedded derivative(s) or option component. The value of the bond component is expected to be determined based on the present value of the stream of cash payments associated with a conventional bond of an amount equal to the then outstanding aggregate principal amount of the Securities (or, in the case of Certificates, the aggregate of the Calculation Amounts in respect of such Certificates, as determined by the Calculation Agent) discounted by a prevailing internal funding rate (which may be adjusted by a spread) for a term equal to that then outstanding of the Securities. The value of the embedded derivative component is expected to be determined based on internal pricing models which will take into account certain parameters that the Calculation Agent determines appropriate (including, without limitation, factors such as expected interest and dividend rates; and the value, price or level and volatility of any relevant Underlying(s) or other reference item or any futures or options relating to any of them); and/or
- (ii) the value of the Securities as determined using any such other factors as the Calculation Agent deems relevant, including but not limited to the time remaining to maturity of the Securities, the interest rates at which banks lend to each other, the interest rate which the Issuer (or its Affiliates) is charged to borrow cash, if the Securities are linked to one or more Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s), the value, expected future performance and/or volatility of such Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s) and any other information the Calculation Agent deems relevant (including, but not limited to the circumstances that resulted in the events causing such redemption).

Such values, along (save where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Deduction of Issuer Costs and Hedging and Funding Costs" as not applicable) with deductions for any fees, costs or commissions in connection with the issue of the Securities and the cost of entering into any underlying and/or related hedging and funding arrangements in respect of the Securities, are expected to have been applicable pricing factors taken into account at or around the trade date to enable the Issuer to determine the terms on which it can issue the Securities on the Issue Date and are therefore relevant factors in determining any Early Redemption Amount.

Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement means an amount determined by the Calculation Agent as the sum of (i) Fair Market Value and (ii) Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Minimum Return Amount means, in respect of such Security, the currency amount specified in the applicable Issue Terms or, if no such amount is so specified, the Calculation Amount.

Minimum Return Amount plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement means an amount determined by the Calculation Agent as the sum of (i) the Minimum Return Amount and (ii) Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Monetisation Amount means, in respect of such Security, an amount determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the following formula:

Minimum Return Amount + (Option Value + Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement) x $(1+r)^n$

ⁿ means the remaining term of the relevant Securities expressed in years, calculated from the date of the determination that the Securities will be early redeemed pursuant to and in accordance with the Conditions following the relevant early redemption event to the scheduled Maturity Date, as determined by the Calculation Agent; and r means the annualised interest rate that the Issuer offers on the date of determination that the Securities will be early redeemed pursuant to and in accordance with the Conditions following the relevant early redemption event(s) for a debt security with a maturity equivalent to the scheduled Maturity Date of the relevant Securities, taking into account the credit risk of the Issuer, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Option means, in respect of such Security, the option component or embedded derivative(s) in respect of (i) the Security and/or (ii) the interest element relating to such Security which provides exposure to the Underlying(s) (if any), the terms of which are fixed on the trade date (as determined by the Calculation Agent) in order to enable the Issuer to issue such Security at the relevant price and on the relevant terms. For the avoidance of doubt, the bond component (if applicable) in respect of the Security is excluded from the Option.

Option Value means, in respect of such Security, the value (if any) of the Option in respect thereof, subject to a minimum of zero, as calculated by the Calculation Agent on such day and time as selected by the Calculation Agent at or around the time notice of early redemption is given by reference to such factors as the Calculation Agent considers to be appropriate including, without limitation:

- (i) market prices or values for the Underlying and other relevant economic variables (such as: interest rates; dividend rates; financing costs; the value, price or level of any relevant Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s) and any futures or options relating to any of them; the volatility of any relevant Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s); and exchange rates (if applicable));
- (ii) the time remaining to maturity of the Securities had they remained outstanding to scheduled maturity;
- (iii) internal pricing models; and
- (iv) prices at which other market participants might bid for the Option.

Principal Amount plus accrued interest (if any) at maturity means, in respect of such Security, an amount determined by the Calculation Agent as (in the case of Notes) its principal amount plus accrued interest (if any), where such accrued interest is determined as the product of the principal amount, an overnight interest rate or an achievable market rate of interest for the Specified Currency and the relevant day and a day count fraction customary for calculation of overnight interest in respect of the Specified Currency, all as determined by the Calculation Agent in a commercially reasonable manner and acting in good faith, and such Early Redemption Amount will be payable on the Maturity Date.

Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement means an amount equal to the product of the total costs of the Issuer (for example, and without limitation, structuring costs) paid by the original Securityholder as part of the original issue price of the Security and the Relevant Proportion, as determined by the Calculation Agent. For the avoidance of doubt, if the applicable Issue Terms specify "Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement" to be applicable, the Early Redemption Amount shall be the sum of the amount specified in the applicable Issue Terms plus the Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Relevant Proportion means a number equal to (i) the number of calendar days from, and excluding, the date of determination that the relevant Securities will be early redeemed pursuant to and in accordance with the Conditions following the relevant early redemption event(s) to, and including, the scheduled Maturity Date of the relevant Securities, divided by (ii) the number of calendar days from, and excluding, the Issue Date of the relevant Securities to, and including, the scheduled Maturity Date of the relevant Securities.

(f) Redemption at the Option of the Issuer

If, in respect of Securities other than Swedish Securities or French Law Securities, Issuer Call is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer may, having given the number of days' notice specified in the applicable Issue Terms or, if none is so specified:

- (i) not less than, five nor more than 60 days' notice to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices); and
- (ii) not less than five days' notice to the Registrar,

(which notices shall be irrevocable and shall specify the date fixed for redemption), redeem all or some only of the Securities then outstanding on any Optional Redemption Date in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) at the relevant Optional Redemption Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the Valuation and Settlement Schedule or the relevant Underlying Schedules applicable to the relevant Underlying(s) or specified in the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the relevant Optional Redemption Date. Any such redemption must be of a principal amount or number not less than the Minimum Redemption Amount and not more than the Maximum Redemption Amount, in each case as may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

In the case of a redemption of some only of the Securities, the Securities to be redeemed (Redeemed Securities) will be selected, subject to mandatory provisions of Luxembourg law, individually by lot not more than 30 days prior to the date fixed for redemption, in the case of Redeemed Securities represented by definitive Securities, and in accordance with the rules of the Relevant Clearing System (in the case of Securities cleared through Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, to be reflected in the records of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg as either a pool factor or a reduction in nominal amount, at their discretion) in the case of Redeemed Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate. In the case of Redeemed Securities represented by definitive Securities, a list of the serial numbers of such Redeemed Securities will be published in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) not less than five days prior to the date fixed for redemption.

If, in respect of Swedish Securities, Issuer Call is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer may, having given:

- (a) not less than five nor more than 60 days' notice to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices); and
- (b) not less than five days' notice to the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent and Euroclear Sweden, respectively,

(which notices shall be irrevocable and shall specify the date fixed for redemption and shall specify the Securities or the amount of the Securities as well as the closed period), redeem all of the Securities then outstanding on any Optional Redemption Date in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) at the relevant Optional Redemption Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the relevant Optional Redemption Date. Any such redemption must be of a principal amount or number not less than the Minimum Redemption Amount and not more than the Maximum Redemption Amount in each case as may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The redemption procedures for Swedish Securities will be subject to the Swedish CSD Rules.

If, in respect of French Law Securities, Issuer Call is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer may, having given:

- (a) not less than five nor more than 60 days' notice to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices); and
- (b) not less than five days' notice to the French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent who will give this notice to Euroclear France,

(which notices shall be irrevocable and shall specify the date fixed for redemption), redeem all or some only of the Securities then outstanding on any Optional Redemption Date in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) at the relevant Optional Redemption Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the Valuation and Settlement Schedule or the relevant Underlying Schedules applicable to the relevant Underlying(s) or specified in the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the relevant Optional Redemption Date. Any such redemption must be of a principal amount not less than the Minimum Redemption Amount and not more than the Maximum Redemption Amount, in each case as may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms. In the case of a partial redemption of French Law Securities, the redemption will be effected by reducing the nominal amount of all such French Law Securities in a Series in proportion to the aggregate nominal amount redeemed by application of a pool factor and, in accordance with the provisions of the applicable Issue Terms, subject to compliance with any other applicable laws and any applicable stock exchange requirements. So long as the French Law Securities are listed and admitted on a stock exchange and the rules of that stock exchange or applicable French law and/or regulations so require, the Issuer shall cause to be published a notice specifying the aggregate principal amount of French Law Securities outstanding.

The right to require redemption of such French Law Securities and French Cleared Securities must be exercised in accordance with the rules and procedures of Euroclear France and if there is any inconsistency between the above and the rules and procedures of Euroclear France, then the rules and procedures of Euroclear France shall prevail.

(g) Redemption at the Option of holders of Securities

If Investor Put is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, upon the holder of any Security giving to the Issuer in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) the number of days' notice specified in the applicable Issue Terms or, if none is so specified, not less than 45 days' notice the Issuer will, upon the expiry of such notice, redeem such Security on the relevant Optional Redemption Date and at, in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount), the relevant Optional Redemption Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the Valuation and Settlement Schedule or the relevant Underlying Schedules applicable to the relevant Underlying(s) and in the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the Optional Redemption Date.

To exercise the right to require redemption of a Security the holder of such Security must, if such Security is in definitive form and held outside the Relevant Clearing System, deliver, at the specified office of the Registrar at any time during normal business hours of the Registrar falling within the notice period, a duly completed and signed notice of exercise in the form (for the time being current) obtainable from any specified office of the Registrar (a Put Notice) and in which the holder must specify a bank account to which payment is to be made under this Condition and the principal amount or number thereof to be redeemed and, if less than the full principal amount or number of the Registered Securities so surrendered is to be redeemed, an address to which a new Registered Security in respect of the balance of such Registered Securities is to be sent subject to and in accordance with the provisions of General Condition 3(f) (Partial Redemption in respect of Registered Securities). If the relevant Security is in definitive form, the Put Notice must be accompanied by the Security or evidence satisfactory to the Paying Agent concerned that the Security will, following delivery of the Put Notice, be held to its order or under its control.

If the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or is in definitive form and held through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, to exercise the right to require redemption of such Security the holder of such Security must, within the notice period, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in accordance with the standard procedures of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable (which may include notice being given on his instruction by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, or any common depositary or common safekeeper, as the case may be, for them, as applicable, to the Registrar by electronic means), in a form acceptable to Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, from time to time.

If the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through DTC, to exercise the right to require redemption of such Security, the holder of such Security must, within the notice period, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in the form of a Put Notice acceptable to the Registrar and irrevocably instruct DTC to debit the relevant Securityholder's securities account with the relevant Securities on or before the Optional Redemption Date in accordance with applicable DTC practice.

In the case of Swedish Securities, a Put Notice will not take effect against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Securities have been transferred to the account designated by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent and blocked for further transfers by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent (such date will be the first date of a closed period for the purposes of General Condition 3(i) (Closed Periods)). The redemption procedures for Swedish Securities will be subject to the Swedish CSD Rules.

Any right to require redemption of any Finnish Securities in accordance with this General Condition 6(g) must be exercised in accordance with the Euroclear Finland Rules. Unless otherwise provided Finnish Securities shall be subject to automatic redemption. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, if the Securities are Finnish Securities, the exercise of this option will not be effective against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Finnish Securities have been transferred to the account operated by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent, which for the purposes of the relevant Finnish Securities is an account operator specifically authorised by Euroclear Finland and appointed by the Issuer in relation to a specific issue or issues to process and register issues in the system of the relevant central securities depositary and clearing institution, and blocked for further transfer on the Optional Redemption Date by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent.

In the case of French Law Securities, to exercise this option the Securityholder must transfer, or cause to be transferred, such French Law Security to the account of the French Law Securities Registration Agent (in the case of French Law Securities in registered dematerialised form (au nominatif)) or the French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent (in the case of French Law Securities in bearer form) and, in all cases, deposit with any French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent at its specified office during usual business hours a duly completed Put Notice within the relevant exercise period. No Security so transferred and option exercised may be withdrawn (except as provided in the Fiscal Agency Agreement) without the prior consent of the Issuer. No such option may be exercised if the Issuer has given notice of redemption of the French Law Securities.

The right to require redemption of such French Law Securities and French Cleared Securities must be exercised in accordance with the rules and procedures of Euroclear France and if there is any inconsistency between the above and the rules and procedures of Euroclear France, then the rules and procedures of Euroclear France shall prevail.

(h) Redemption by Instalments

Unless previously redeemed or purchased and cancelled as provided in this Condition, each Security which provides for Instalment Dates and Instalment Amounts will be partially redeemed on each Instalment Date at the Instalment Amount specified in the applicable Issue Terms whereupon:

- (i) the outstanding principal amount of such Security shall be reduced by the Instalment Amount for all purposes; and

- (ii) where IA Adjusted Calculation Amount is specified to be applicable in the applicable Issue Terms in respect of the Securities:
 - (A) each reference to Calculation Amount used to determine any Interest Amount, Non-Contingent Interest Amount, Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Redemption Amount, as the case may be, payable in respect of such Security pursuant to the Conditions shall be deemed to be replaced with the IA Adjusted Calculation Amount; and
 - (B) notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, if the Calculation Amount is used to determine any Interest Amount, Non-Contingent Interest Amount, Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Redemption Amount, as the case may be, that is payable on a date corresponding to an Instalment Date on which an Instalment Amount is payable, then (i) such Instalment Amount shall be deemed to have been paid immediately prior to the payment of such Interest Amount, Non-Contingent Interest Amount, Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Redemption Amount, as the case may be and (ii) each reference to Calculation Amount used to determine such Interest Amount, Non-Contingent Interest Amount, Mandatory Early Redemption Amount or Redemption Amount, as the case may be, payable in respect of such Security pursuant to the Conditions shall be deemed to be replaced with the IA Adjusted Calculation Amount immediately thereafter.

For the purposes of this General Condition 6(h), IA Adjusted Calculation Amount means, at any time, the Calculation Amount as at the Issue Date less the aggregate of each Instalment Amount paid in respect of the Securities prior to such time.

(i) Cancellation

All Securities purchased by or on behalf of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor may be surrendered for cancellation, if the Securities are Registered Securities, by surrendering the Security representing such Securities to the Registrar and, if so surrendered, will, together with all Securities redeemed by the Issuer, be cancelled forthwith. Any Securities surrendered for cancellation may not be reissued or resold and the obligations of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor in respect of any such Securities shall be discharged.

French Cleared Securities and French Law Securities shall only be cancelled by being transferred to an account in accordance with the rules and procedures of Euroclear France.

- (i) Securities cancelled by the Fiscal Agent or the Registrar or delivered to the Fiscal Agent or the Registrar for cancellation;
 - (ii) Securities or portions thereof for whose payment or redemption money in the necessary amount has been deposited with the Fiscal Agent or any other Paying Agent in accordance with the Fiscal Agency Agreement; provided, however, that if such Securities or portions thereof are to be redeemed, notice of such redemption has been duly given pursuant to the Conditions or provision therefor satisfactory to the Fiscal Agent has been made; and
 - (iii) Securities in exchange for or in lieu of which other Securities have been authenticated and delivered pursuant to the Conditions, other than any such Securities in respect of which there shall have been presented to the Fiscal Agent or the Registrar proof satisfactory to it that such Securities are held by a bona fide purchaser in whose hands such Securities are valid obligations of the Issuer, provided, however, that in determining whether the holders of the requisite principal amount or number of Securities Outstanding have performed any act hereunder, Securities owned by the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor or any person directly or indirectly controlling or controlled by or under direct or indirect common control of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor shall be disregarded and deemed not to be Outstanding. Securities so owned that have been pledged in good faith may be regarded as Outstanding if the pledgee establishes to the satisfaction of the Fiscal Agent or the Registrar the pledgee's right to act with respect to such Securities and that the pledgee is not the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor or any person directly or indirectly controlling or controlled by or under direct or indirect common control of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor.

12. Meetings of Securityholders, Modifications, Determinations and Rounding

(a) Meetings of Securityholders

The Fiscal Agency Agreement contains provisions for convening meetings of holders of Securities (including Swedish Securities and Finnish Securities) to consider any matter affecting their interests, including modification by Extraordinary Resolution of the Securities (including the Conditions insofar as the same may apply to the Securities), the relevant Deed of Covenant, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, as applicable, as they relate to the Securities. The Fiscal Agency Agreement provides that (a) a resolution passed at a meeting duly convened and held in accordance with the Fiscal Agency Agreement by a majority consisting of not less than three-quarters of the votes cast on such resolution, (b) a resolution in writing signed by or on behalf of all the Securityholders, or (c) consent given by way of electronic consents through the relevant Clearing System(s) (in a form satisfactory to the Fiscal Agent) by or on behalf of all the Securityholders, shall, in each case, be effective as an Extraordinary Resolution of the Securityholders. An Extraordinary Resolution duly passed at any such meeting shall be binding on all the holders of the Securities, whether present or not, except that any Extraordinary Resolution proposed, inter alia, (i) to amend the dates of maturity or redemption of the Securities, any Instalment Date or any date for payment of interest thereon, (ii) to reduce or cancel the principal amount or number of the Securities, the Early Redemption Amount, the Optional Redemption Amount, the Merger Redemption Amount (as defined in the Credit Linked Conditions), the Substitution Event Redemption Amount (as defined in the Credit Linked Conditions), the Redemption Amount or any Instalment Amount or any other amount payable or deliverable on redemption of the Securities, (iii) to reduce the rate or rates of interest in respect of the Securities or to vary the method or basis of calculating the rate or rates or amount of interest, (iv) if a Minimum Interest Rate and/or a Maximum Interest Rate is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, to reduce any such Minimum and/or Maximum Interest Rate, (v) to change any method of calculating the Early Redemption Amount, the Optional Redemption Amount, the Merger Redemption Amount (as defined in the Credit Linked Conditions), the Substitution Event Redemption Amount (as defined in the Credit Linked Conditions), the Redemption Amount or any Entitlement or any Instalment Amount, (vi) to change the currency or currencies of payment of the Securities, (vii) to modify the provisions concerning the quorum required at any meeting of holders of Securities or any adjournment thereof or the majority required to pass the Extraordinary Resolution or (viii) to take any steps which as specified in the applicable Issue Terms may only be taken following approval by an Extraordinary Resolution to which the special quorum provisions apply, will only be binding if passed at a meeting of the holders of Securities (or at any adjournment thereof) at which a special quorum (provided for in the Fiscal Agency Agreement) is present.

If a holder of Swedish Securities held through a nominee (a Swedish Indirect Securityholder) attends the meeting (in person or through a duly authorised agent) and shows a certificate from the relevant nominee showing that such Swedish Indirect Securityholder on the fifth (5th) Stockholm Business Day prior to the meeting was a holder of Swedish Securities, the Swedish Indirect Securityholder shall be regarded the holder of such Swedish Securities for the purposes of this General Condition 12.

In connection with a meeting of holders of such Swedish Securities, the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent shall, to the fullest extent permitted under the Swedish CSD Rules, have access to the CSD Register (Sw. avstämningsregistret) for the Swedish Securities.

The Issuer shall notify Euroclear Finland of meetings of holders of Finnish Securities no later than eight Helsinki Banking Days before the meeting. The notification shall include the time and place of the meeting, its agenda, record date (if applicable) as well as instructions on how to participate in the meeting. The Issuer shall notify Euroclear Finland of any decisions by the meeting without undue delay.

Securityholders holding Finnish Securities through a nominee in the Euroclear Finland register shall before participating in the meeting in person or through a duly authorised agent register their holdings in the temporary shareholder register in accordance with the Euroclear Finland Rules and Euroclear Finland CEO decisions.

In the event of death, retirement or revocation of appointment of the Representative, such Representative will be replaced by another Representative. (iv) Written Decision and Electronic Consent

Pursuant to Article L.228-46-1 of the French Code de Commerce, the Issuer shall be entitled, in lieu of convening a General Meeting, to seek approval of a decision from the Securityholders by way of a Written Decision. Contractual Representation of Securityholders / No Masse

In respect of (i) issues of French Law Securities with a Specified Denomination of at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date) or for which the minimum purchase amount per investor and per transaction is at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date), or (ii) issued outside of France ("à l'étranger"), if the applicable Issue Terms specify "Contractual Representation of Securityholders / No Masse" with respect to "Representation of Securityholders / Masse", the following provisions shall apply:

(i) General

Pursuant to Article L.213-6-3 I of the French Code monétaire et financier:

- (A) the Securityholders shall not be grouped in a Masse having separate legal personality and acting in part through a Representative (représentant de la masse) and in part through General Meetings;
- (B) however, the following provisions of the French Code de commerce shall apply: Articles L.228-46-1, L.228-57, L.228-61 (with the exception of the first paragraph thereof), L.228-65 (with the exception of (i) sub-paragraphs 1°, 3°, 4° and 6° of paragraph I and (ii) paragraph II), L.228-66, L.228-67, L.228-76, L.228-88, R.228-65 to R.228-68, and R.228-70 to R.228-75 of the French Code de commerce, and
- (C) whenever the words "de la masse", "d'une même masse", "par les représentants de la masse", "d'une masse", "et au représentant de la masse", "de la masse intéressée", "dont la masse est convoquée en assemblée" or "par un représentant de la masse", appear in those provisions, they shall be deemed to be deleted, and subject to the following provisions of this General Condition 12(a).

(ii) Powers of General Meetings

Subject to this General Condition 12(a), the General Meeting may deliberate with respect to any matter that relates to the common rights (intérêts communs) of the Securityholders.

The General Meeting may deliberate on any proposal relating to the modification of the Conditions including any proposal, (A) whether for a compromise or settlement, regarding rights which are the subject of litigation or in respect of which a judicial decision has been rendered, and (B) relating to a total or partial waiver of the guarantees granted to the Securityholders, the deferral of any interest payment and the modification of the amortisation or interest rate provisions. For the avoidance of doubt, the General Meeting may not establish any inequality of treatment between Securityholders.

The Securityholder may appoint a nominee to file a proof of claim in the name of all Securityholders in the event of judicial reorganisation procedure or judicial liquidation of the Issuer.

Pursuant to Article L.228-85 of the French Code de commerce, in the absence of such appointment of a nominee, the judicial representative (mandataire judiciaire), at its own initiative or at the request of any Securityholder, will ask the court to appoint a representative of the Securityholders who will file the proof of Securityholders' claim.

For the avoidance of doubt, a General Meeting has no power to deliberate on any proposal relating to (a) the modification of the corporate object or form of the Issuer, (b) the issue of securities benefiting from a security over assets (surété réelle) which will not benefit the Securityholders, (c) the potential merger (fusion) or demerger (scission) including partial transfers of assets (apports partiels d'actifs) under the demerger regime of or by the Issuer or (d) the transfer of the registered office of a European Company (Societas Europaea – SE) to a different Member State of the European Union.

However, each Securityholder is a creditor of the Issuer and as such enjoys, pursuant to Article L.213-6-3 IV of the French Code monétaire et financier, all the rights and prerogatives of individual creditors in the circumstances described above, including any right to object (former opposition).

Each Securityholder is entitled to bring a legal action against the Issuer for the defence of its own interests; such a legal action does not require the authorisation of the General Meeting.

(iii) Convening of a General Meeting

A General Meeting may be held at any time, on convocation by the Issuer. One or more Securityholders, holding together at least one-thirtieth (by number) of the French Law Securities outstanding, may address to the Issuer a demand for convocation of the General Meeting. If such General Meeting has not been convened within two months after such demand, the Securityholders may commission one of their members to petition a competent court in Paris to appoint an agent (mandataire) who will call the General Meeting.

Notice of the date, hour, place and agenda of any General Meeting will be published as provided under General Condition 15 (Notices), not less than fifteen days prior to the date of such General Meeting on first convocation and not less than five days prior to the date of such General Meeting on second convocation.

(iv) Arrangements for Voting

Each Securityholder has the right to participate in a General Meeting in person, by proxy, by correspondence or by video conference or by any other means of telecommunication allowing the identification of a participating Securityholder.

Each French Law Security carries the right to one vote.

In accordance with Article R.228-71 of the French Code de commerce, the right of each Securityholder to participate in General Meetings will be evidenced by the entries in the books of the relevant Euroclear France Accountholder of the name of such Securityholder as of 0:00, Paris time, on the second business day preceding the date set for the meeting of the relevant General Meeting.

Decisions of General Meetings must be published in accordance with the provisions set forth in General Condition 15 (Notices).

(v) Chairman

The Securityholders present at a General Meeting shall choose one of them to be the chairman (the Chairman) by a simple majority of votes present or represented at such General Meeting (notwithstanding the absence of a quorum at the time of such vote). If the Securityholders fail to designate a Chairman, the Securityholder holding or representing the highest number of French Law Securities and present at such meeting shall be appointed Chairman, failing which the Issuer may appoint a Chairman. The Chairman appointed by the Issuer need not be a Securityholder. The Chairman of an adjourned meeting need not be the same person as the Chairman of the original meeting from which the adjournment took place.

(vi) Quorum and Voting

General Meetings may deliberate validly on first convocation only if Securityholders present or represented hold at least one-fifth (by number) of the French Law Securities then outstanding. On second convocation, no quorum shall be required. Decisions at meetings shall be taken by a simple majority of votes cast by Securityholders attending (including by videoconference or by any other means of telecommunication allowing the identification of participating Securityholders) such General Meetings or represented thereat.

(vii) Written Decision and Electronic Consent

Pursuant to Article L.228-46-1 of the French Code de commerce the Issuer shall be entitled, in lieu of convening a General Meeting, to seek approval of a resolution from the Securityholders by way of a Written Decision. Subject to the paragraph below, a Written Decision may be contained in one document or in several documents in like form, each signed by or on behalf of one or more of the Securityholders. Pursuant to Article L.228-46-1 of the French Code de commerce, approval of a Written Decision may also be given by way of Electronic Consent.

Notice seeking the approval of a Written Decision (including by way of Electronic Consent) will be published as provided under General Condition 15 (Notices) not less than five days prior to the Written Decision Date. Notices seeking the approval of a Written Decision will contain the conditions of form and time-limits to be complied with by the Securityholders who wish to express their approval or rejection of such proposed Written Decision. Securityholders expressing their approval or rejection before the Written Decision Date will undertake not to dispose of their French Law Securities until after the Written Decision Date.

(viii) Effect of Resolutions

A decision passed at a General Meeting or a Written Decision (including by Electronic Consent), shall be binding on all Securityholders, whether or not present or represented at the General Meeting and whether or not, in the case of a Written Decision (including by Electronic Consent), they have participated in such Written Decision (including by Electronic Consent) and each of them shall be bound to give effect to the decision accordingly.

Information to Securityholders

Each Securityholder will have the right, during (i) the 15-day period preceding the holding of the relevant General Meeting on first convocation, (ii) the 5-day period preceding the holding of the relevant General Meeting on second convocation or (iii) in the case of a Written Decision, a period of not less than five days preceding the Written Decision Date, as the case may be, to consult or make a copy of the text of the resolutions which will be proposed and of the reports which will be prepared in connection with such resolution, all of which will be available for inspection by the relevant Securityholders at the registered office of the Issuer, at the specified offices of any of the French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent during usual business hours and at any other place specified in the notice of the General Meeting or the Written Decision.

Decisions of General Meetings and Written Decision, once approved, will be published in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices).

Expenses

If "Contractual Representation of Holders/No Masse" or "Contractual Masse" are specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer will pay all expenses relating to the operation of the Masse, including expenses relating to the calling and holding of General Meetings and seeking the approval of a Written Decision, and, more generally, all administrative expenses resolved upon by the General Meeting or in writing through a Written Decision by the Securityholders, it being expressly stipulated that no expenses may be imputed against interest payable under the French Law Securities.

If "Full Masse" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, Article L.228-71 of the French Code de commerce shall apply.

Single Masse

Where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Full Masse" or "Contractual Masse", the Securityholders of the same Series and the Securityholders of any other Series being assimilated to the French Law Securities of the said first indicated Series, in accordance with General Condition 12 (Meetings of Securityholders, Modifications, Determinations and Rounding), shall be grouped into a single Masse for the purpose of defending their respective common interests. The Representative appointed for the first Tranche of a Series of French Law Securities will be the Representative of the single Masse of that entire Series.

Single Securityholder

Where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Full Masse" or "Contractual Masse", if and for so long as the Notes of a given Series are held by a single Securityholder, the relevant Securityholder will exercise directly the powers delegated to the Representative and General Meetings of Securityholders under General Condition 12 (Meetings of Securityholders, Modifications, Determinations and Rounding), as the case may be, whether or not a Representative has been appointed. For the avoidance of doubt, if a Representative has been appointed while the French Law Securities of a given Series are held by a single Securityholder, such Representative shall be devoid of powers. A Representative shall only be appointed if the French Law Securities of a Series are held by more than one Securityholder.

(b) Modifications

The Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor may make, without the consent of the Securityholders:

- (i) any modification (except as mentioned above) to, as applicable, the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Deed of Covenant, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, as applicable, which is, in the opinion of the Issuer, not materially prejudicial to the interests of the Securityholders (without considering the individual circumstances of any Securityholder or the tax or other consequences of such modification in any particular jurisdiction); or
- (ii) any modification to the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Deed of Covenant, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, as applicable, which is of a formal, minor or technical nature or is made to correct a manifest error or proven error or to comply with mandatory provisions of law.

Any such modification shall be binding on the Securityholders and any such modification shall be notified to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) as soon as practicable thereafter.

Save as provided therein and subject as provided above, each Swedish Agency Agreement may be amended by agreement among the parties thereto and without the consent of any holders of the Securities.

In the case of French Law Securities, the following provisions of this General Condition 12(b) below shall apply in lieu of the foregoing provisions.

The Issuer may from time to time amend the Conditions of any French Law Securities in accordance with General Condition 12(a) (Meetings of Securityholders).

In respect of French Law Securities which have a Specified Denomination of at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date) or which can be traded in amounts of at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date), the Issuer may modify the Conditions of the Securities without the consent of the Securityholders to correct a manifest error. Notice of any such modification will be given to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices). In other circumstances, the consent of a defined majority of Securityholders is required to make amendments. The Conditions of the French Law Securities contain provisions for Securityholders to call and attend meetings to vote upon such matters or to pass a written decision in the absence of such a meeting. Resolutions passed at such a meeting, or passed in writing, can bind all Securityholders of French Law Securities, including investors that did not attend or vote, or who do not consent to the amendments.

(c) Determinations

Whenever any matter is required to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person (including where a matter is to be decided by reference to the Issuer or the Relevant Agent's or such other person's opinion), that matter shall be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or such other person, as the case may be, in good faith and (i) where "Sole and Absolute Determination" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, in its sole and absolute discretion or (ii) where "Commercial Determination" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, in a commercially reasonable manner.

The provisions above are without prejudice to the provisions in any Schedule, which will prevail in relation to determinations thereunder in the event of any inconsistency.

Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, in respect of French Law Securities only, whenever any matter is required to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person (including where a matter is to be decided by reference to the Issuer or the Relevant Agent's or such other person's opinion), that matter shall be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or such other person, as the case may be, in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, including without limitation any such determination, consideration, election, selection or otherwise which is expressed in the Conditions to be in the sole and absolute discretion of the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person.

The Relevant Agent or such other person may, with the consent of the Issuer, delegate any of its obligations and functions to a third party as it deems appropriate. The Issuer may delegate any of its obligations and functions to a third party as it deems appropriate.

All discretions exercised and determinations, considerations, elections, selections or other decisions made in respect of the Securities by the Relevant Agent shall (save in the case of manifest error) be final, conclusive and binding on the Issuer and the Securityholders and (in the absence of wilful default or bad faith) neither the Issuer nor the Relevant Agent shall have any responsibility to any person for any errors or omissions in any (a) calculation by the Relevant Agent or the Issuer, as the case may be, of any amount due in respect of the Securities or (b) determination made by the Relevant Agent or the Issuer, as the case may be.

Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions (save as provided in the next sentence), if the terms of the Securities provide that the Redemption Amount payable on the Maturity Date is a fixed amount or is determined by reference to a formula, which provides for a minimum amount to be payable on the Maturity Date, no modification or adjustment to or calculation under the Conditions may be made by the Issuer or the Relevant Agent to reduce the amount so payable on such date to less than such fixed amount or minimum amount (as applicable), PROVIDED THAT the foregoing shall not apply if the applicable Issue Terms provide that "Minimum Amount Adjustment Prohibition" is not applicable. For the avoidance of doubt, the preceding sentence shall not apply in relation to the rights of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor to make any modification to the Securities pursuant to General Condition 12(b) above.

(d) (i) Exercise of Discretion

In exercising its discretion in respect of the Securities as provided herein, each of the Issuer and the Relevant Agent or such other person (described in (c) above) may take into account such factors as it determines appropriate in each case, which may include, in particular, any circumstances or events which have or may have a material impact on the hedging arrangements entered into by a Hedging Party (as defined in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule) in respect of the Securities. The exercise of the Issuer's and/or the Relevant Agent's and/or such other person's discretion in respect of the Securities as provided herein are necessary because certain circumstances or events (for example a material modification or disruption to an Underlying to which the Securities are linked) may occur subsequent to the issuance of the Securities which may materially affect the costs to a Hedging Party of maintaining the relevant Securities or relevant hedging arrangements. Such circumstances or events may not have been reflected in the pricing of the Securities. In addition, as a result of certain circumstances or events (e.g. unavailability or disruption to any reference source), it may no longer be reasonably practicable or otherwise appropriate for certain valuations in respect of any Underlying or otherwise in connection with the Securities to be made, thus making it necessary for the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent to exercise its discretion in such a case.

(ii) Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC)

Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, if the applicable Issue Terms specifies that "Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC)" is applicable, then:

- (A) General Condition 12(d)(i) (Exercise of Discretion) shall not apply and any hedging arrangements shall not be taken into consideration by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person in respect of any matter which falls to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person, as the case may be (for the avoidance of doubt, including without limitation that the following text at the end of paragraph (i) of the definition of "Reference Rate" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 7.3 shall be disregarded: "or any related hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities which are derivative transactions referencing the relevant Reference Rate");
- (B) whenever any matter falls to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person, that matter shall be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person, as the case may be, in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, including without limitation any such determination, consideration, election, selection or otherwise which is expressed in the Conditions to be in the sole and absolute discretion of the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any other person;
- (C) in respect of each provision in the Conditions pursuant to which the Relevant Agent or Issuer may adjust the terms of the Securities (without the prior consent of the Securityholders), the Relevant Agent or Issuer (as applicable) shall take all reasonable measures to continue the Securities under similar terms and conditions so that any adjustment or alteration made to the essential characteristics of the Securities is not substantial and is made in order to preserve the original economic rationale and objectives of the Securities;
- (D) in respect of each provision in the Conditions pursuant to which the Relevant Agent or Issuer may substitute or replace an Underlying or Reference Asset or other asset (without the prior consent of the Securityholders), the Relevant Agent or Issuer (as applicable) may only replace the applicable original Underlying or Reference Asset or other asset (as applicable) with a replacement asset which is as similar as possible to the original Underlying or Reference Asset or other asset (as applicable) being replaced or substituted;
- (E) the Securityholders may not be charged (whether directly or indirectly via deduction from any amount(s) payable or asset(s) deliverable under the Securities under the Conditions) any costs (such as settlement cost) in relation to adjustments or replacements as described in (C) and (D) above or (without prejudice to the terms of (A) above) in respect of any cost to the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any of their respective affiliates of unwinding any underlying and/or related hedging and funding arrangements in respect of the Securities (including, without limitation, any options relating to any Underlying or Reference Asset or other asset hedging the Issuer's obligations under the Securities); and
- (F) in each of FX Rate Condition 6(c) (Settlement Disruption) of Part A of Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions), and FX Rate Condition 6(e) (Settlement Disruption) of Part B of Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions) (in each case, in the definition of "Currency Settlement Disruption Event") and Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(b)(i)(d), the following phrase shall be disregarded: "and Securityholders shall not be entitled to further interest or any other payment in respect of any such delay".

In the case of any inconsistency with any other term of the Conditions, this General Condition 12(d)(ii) (Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC)) shall prevail (save that in the case of any inconsistency General Condition 12(b) (Modifications) shall prevail over this General Condition 12(d)(ii) (Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC))).

(e) Hedging Arrangements

As used in this General Condition 12, hedging arrangements means the arrangements, if any, the Issuer makes to have available to it the relevant cash amounts to be paid or assets to be delivered under the Securities as these fall due. This may involve a Hedging Party investing directly in an Underlying or by entering into securities transactions or loan transactions or derivative transactions or any combination thereof. Alternatively, a Hedging Party may make an indirect investment by entering into or acquiring a derivative contract referencing an Underlying, or in the case of Credit Linked Notes or Index Skew Notes, by entering into securities transactions, loan transactions, one or more credit derivative transactions in unfunded form with economically equivalent terms to the Credit Linked Notes or a combination of such credit derivative transactions with one or more other derivative contracts. Such hedging arrangements may be carried out on a portfolio basis (i.e. where the Hedging Party maintains arrangements for hedging the Securities together with other obligations of the Issuer and/or its Affiliates). A Hedging Party will seek to select hedging arrangements which are efficient for it in the context of the tax, regulatory and business environment in which it operates, but will do so without having regard to the interests of Securityholders. A Hedging Party may also adjust hedging arrangements from time to time but will not always be able to avoid adverse costs, taxes or regulatory changes which affect its hedging arrangements. For the avoidance of doubt, no Hedging Party is under any obligation to enter into any hedging arrangements and, if any hedging arrangements are entered into, such arrangements will not confer any rights or entitlements on any Securityholder and no Securityholder will have recourse to any such hedging arrangements.

(f) Determination of amounts payable or deliverable

The Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent and/or such other person will employ the methodology described in the Conditions (including the Valuation and Settlement Schedule) to determine amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities. When making any such determination in relation to any amounts so payable or deliverable, the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent and/or such other person may in its/their sole and absolute discretion consider any relevant information, which may but is not required to include, without limitation, one or more of the following:

- (i) quotations (either firm or indicative) supplied by one or more third parties or information sources;
- (ii) information consisting of relevant market data in the relevant markets supplied by one or more third parties or information sources including, without limitation, relevant rates, prices, yields, yield curves, volatilities, spreads correlation or other relevant market data in the relevant market; or
- (iii) information of the types described in (i) or (ii) above from internal sources (including any Affiliates of the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent and/or such other persons) or other information of a type used by the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent and/or such other persons in the regular course of its business or in connection with similar transactions.

Whenever any of the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent and/or such other person is required to make any determination it may, inter alia, decide issues of construction and legal interpretation. Any delay, deferral or forbearance by the Issuer and/or the Relevant Agent and/or such other person in the performance or exercise of any of its obligations or discretions under the Securities including, without limitation, the giving of any notice by it to any person, shall not affect the validity or binding nature of any later performance or exercise of such obligation or discretion.

(g) Rounding

For the purposes of any calculations required pursuant to the Conditions (unless otherwise specified), (i) all percentages resulting from such calculations will be rounded, if necessary, to the nearest one hundred-thousandth of a percentage point (with halves being rounded up), (ii) all figures will be rounded to seven significant figures (with halves being rounded up) and (iii) all currency amounts which fall due and payable will be rounded to the nearest unit of such currency (with halves being rounded up), save in the case of Yen, which shall be rounded down to the nearest Yen. For these purposes "unit" means the lowest amount of such currency which is available as legal tender in the country of such currency.

(h) Disclaimer of liability and responsibility

None of the Issuer, the Relevant Agent and any such other person makes any express or implied representations or warranties as to (i) the advisability of investing in or obtaining exposure to the Securities, (ii) the value of the Securities at any particular time on any particular date, or (iii) any amounts that may become payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities.

Without limiting any of the foregoing, in no event shall the Relevant Agent and/or such other persons have any liability (whether in negligence or otherwise) to any Securityholders for any direct, indirect, special, punitive, consequential or any other damages (including loss of profits) even if notified of the possibility of such damages.

The Relevant Agent and/or such other persons shall not have any responsibility to any holder for any errors or omissions in any calculations or determinations in respect of the Securities and act solely as agents of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor and do not assume any obligations towards or relationship of agency or trust for or with any holder.

In respect of French Law Securities, neither the Issuer nor any Agent shall be held responsible for any loss or damage, resulting from any force majeure event as defined in article 1218 of the French Code Civil. Where the Issuer or any of the Agents is prevented from effecting payment or delivery due to such event, payment or delivery may be postponed until the time the event or circumstance impeding payment has ceased, and shall have no obligation to pay or deliver any additional amounts in respect of such postponement.

(i) Conflict of Interest

In addition to providing calculation agency services to the Issuer, the Relevant Agent or any of its Affiliates may perform further or alternative roles relating to the Issuer and any Series of Securities including, but not limited to, for example, being involved in arrangements relating to any Underlying(s) (for example as a calculation agent or, in the case of a proprietary index for example, as index sponsor). Furthermore, the Relevant Agent or any of its Affiliates may contract with the Issuer and/or enter into transactions which relate to the Issuer, the Securities or any Underlying and as a result the Relevant Agent may face a conflict between its obligations as Relevant Agent and its and/or its Affiliates' interests in other capacities. Subject to all regulatory obligations, neither the Issuer nor the Relevant Agent in respect of the Securities shall owe any duty or responsibility to any Securityholder to avoid any conflict or to act in the interests of any Securityholder.

13. Replacement of Securities

If, in respect of Securities other than Swedish Securities, Finnish Securities or French Law Securities, a Security is lost, stolen, mutilated, defaced or destroyed, it may be replaced, subject to applicable laws and stock exchange regulations, at the specified office of the Registrar or such other Paying Agent or Transfer Agent as may from time to time be designated by the Issuer for the purpose and notice of whose designation is given to holders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices), in each case on payment by the claimant of the fees and costs incurred in connection therewith and on such terms as to evidence, security and indemnity (which may provide, inter alia, that if the allegedly lost, stolen or destroyed Security is subsequently presented for payment or delivery (where applicable), there will be paid to the Issuer on demand the amount payable or an amount equal to the amount so deliverable by the Issuer in respect of such Security) and otherwise as the Issuer may require. Mutilated or defaced Securities must be surrendered before replacements will be issued. This Condition shall not apply to Swedish Securities, Finnish Securities or French Law Securities.

14. Further Issues

The Issuer may from time to time without the consent of the Securityholders create and issue further securities having the same terms and conditions as the Securities (or the same in all respects save for the amount and date of the first payment of interest thereon) PROVIDED THAT, for the avoidance of doubt and unless otherwise specified, references in the Conditions to "Issue Date" shall be to the first issue date of the Securities and so that the same shall be consolidated (with respect to French Law Securities, assimilées) and form a single Series with such Securities, and references in the Conditions to "Securities" shall be construed accordingly.

- (v) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for relevant Component Securities which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or
- (vi) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Related Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Security Index; or
- (vii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any relevant Exchange in respect of Component Securities which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Exchange system for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day); or
- (viii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any Related Exchange in respect of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Security Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Related Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Related Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Related Exchange system for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day).

(b) Multiple Exchange Index

Market Disruption Event means, in respect of a Security Index which is a Multiple Exchange Index, the occurrence of any of the events set out below:

- (i) the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Security Index; or
- (ii) any Related Exchange fails to open for trading during its regular trading session; or
- (iii) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant Exchange of any relevant Component Security, and the aggregate of all relevant Component Securities so affected plus the X Percentage comprises 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or
- (iv) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant Related Exchange of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Security Index; or
- (v) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any relevant Component Security, and the aggregate of all relevant Component Securities so affected plus the X Percentage comprises 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or

- (vi) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Related Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Security Index; or
- (vii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any relevant Exchange in respect of any relevant Component Security prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Exchange System for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day), and the aggregate of all relevant Component Securities so affected plus the X Percentage comprises 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or
- (viii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any Related Exchange in respect of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Security Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Related Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Related Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Related Exchange System for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day).

(c) Determining whether or not a Market Disruption Event exists

For the purposes of determining whether or not a Market Disruption Event exists in respect of a Security Index at any time, if an event giving rise to a Market Disruption Event occurs in respect of a Component Security of such Security Index at such time, then the relevant percentage contribution of such Component Security to the level of such Security Index shall be based on a comparison of (i) the portion of the level of such Security Index attributable to such Component Security; and (ii) the overall level of such Security Index, either (A) where such Security Index is a Single Exchange Index, immediately before the occurrence of such Market Disruption Event; or (B) where such Security Index is a Multiple Exchange Index, using the official opening weightings as published by the relevant Index Sponsor as part of the market "opening data".

For the purposes of determining whether or not a Market Disruption Event exists in respect of a Component Security at any time, if an event giving rise to a Market Disruption Event occurs in respect of such Component Security at such time, then the relevant percentage contribution of such Component Security to the level of the relevant Security Index shall be based on a comparison of (i) the portion of the level of such Security Index attributable to such Component Security; and (ii) the overall level of such Security Index, using the official opening weightings as published by the relevant Index Sponsor as part of the market "opening data".

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Events shall apply in respect of a Security Index if Security Index Condition 4 is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) such Security Index is either (a) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Index Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Index Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (b) replaced by a successor index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Security Index (such index, the Successor Index, which will be deemed to be such Security Index); and
- (b) each Additional Disruption Event (if any) specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Security Index if Security Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made under Security Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Security Index, two Business Days.

- (b) Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution

- (i) Security Index Adjustment Events

If Security Index Condition 6(b)(i) (Security Index Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Security Index, (A) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating the level of such Security Index or in any other way materially modifies such Security Index (other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Security Index in the event of changes in Component Securities and capitalisation and other routine events) (a Security Index Modification); or (B) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor at any time permanently cancels such Security Index and no Successor Index (as defined in Security Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events)) exists (a Security Index Cancellation); or (C) on or prior to any Valuation Date the relevant Index Sponsor or any person or entity on its behalf fails to calculate and announce such Security Index (a Security Index Disruption, and together with a Security Index Modification and a Security Index Cancellation, a Security Index Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Security Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities, and if so, either:

- (A) calculate the relevant level of such Security Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of a published level for such Security Index, the level of such Security Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the formula for and the method of calculating the level of such Security Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of such Security Index Adjustment Event but using only those Component Securities or other assets or instruments which comprised such Security Index immediately prior to the occurrence of such Security Index Adjustment Event (other than those Component Securities or other assets or instruments which have since ceased to be listed on any relevant Exchange); and/or
- (B) substitute such Security Index as provided in Security Index Condition 6(b)(ii) (Security Index Substitution) and make such adjustments (if any) to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution to account for the effect of such Security Index

Adjustment Event in order to preserve the original economic rationale and objectives of the Securities; and/or

- (C) make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Security Index Adjustment Event in order to preserve the original economic rationale and objectives of the Securities and determine the effective date of each such adjustment."; and

If no calculation, substitution and/or adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Security Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(ii) Security Index Substitution

If Security Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Security Index Condition 6(b)(i)(B) (Security Index Adjustment Events) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Security Index Substitution.

Security Index Substitution means, in relation to a Security Index Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of the Security Index the subject of such Security Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new security index selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement security index which is reasonably comparable to the relevant Security Index and using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Security Index or a replacement security index selected by the Calculation Agent in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement). Such new security index shall be deemed to be a Security Index in place of the Security Index the subject of the Security Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Security Index on a Disrupted Day

If, in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)), an Underlying Closing Level of a Security Index is to be determined on a Valuation Date which is a Disrupted Day for such Security Index, then the Calculation Agent shall determine such Underlying Closing Level of such Security Index at the Valuation Time on such Valuation Date in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the level of such Security Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of the first Disrupted Day in respect of such Security Index, using either (i) the price traded or quoted on the relevant Exchange as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date of each Component Security contained in such Security Index; or (ii) (if an event giving rise to a Disrupted Day has occurred in respect of the relevant Component Security on that Valuation Date) its good faith estimate of the value for the relevant Component Security as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date.

(d) Calculation Agent's discretion to determine non-material events

If the Calculation Agent determines that it is not material that any day on which would otherwise have been a Valuation Date is:

- (i) not a Scheduled Trading Day for a Security Index because one or more relevant Related Exchanges is not scheduled to be open; or
- (ii) a Disrupted Day for a Security Index solely because any relevant Related Exchange fails to open, then the Calculation Agent shall have the discretion to determine any such day either (A) to be the Valuation Date in respect of a Security Index, notwithstanding that such day is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such Security Index because one or more such Related Exchanges is not scheduled to be open; or (B) not to be a Disrupted Day where such day would be a Disrupted Day solely because any such Related Exchange fails to open.

In determining what is "material", the Calculation Agent shall have regard to such circumstances as it deems appropriate, which may include (without limitation) the effect of the above on (I) any Underlying Closing Level or any Underlying Level (as relevant) of the affected Security Index; (II) any trading in futures contracts or options contracts on any such relevant Related Exchange; and (III) the Issuer's hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities.

(e) Conditions for Bond Indices

In relation to Security Indices which are specified in the applicable Issue Terms to be Bond Indices, all references to "Security Index" and "Security Indices" in these Security Index Conditions shall be deemed to be references to "Bond Index" and "Bond Indices" and these Security Index Conditions shall be deemed to be amended as set out below.

(i) Valuation

The definition "Valuation Time" set out in Security Index Condition 2(a) (Closing valuations) shall be deleted and replaced by the following:

Valuation Time means, in respect of an Underlying Closing Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, (A) for the purposes of determining whether a Market Disruption Event has occurred in respect of any relevant Component Security, the time at which such Component Security is valued for the purposes of determining the level of such Bond Index for the relevant day; and (B) in all other circumstances, the time at which the level of such Bond Index for such day is calculated and published by the relevant Index Sponsor."

(ii) Market Disruption Event

In relation to a Bond Index, the definition of "Market Disruption Event" set out in Security Index Condition 3(b) (Multiple Exchange Index) shall be amended by the insertion of the word "or" at the end of sub paragraph (viii) and the insertion of the following paragraphs as sub-paragraphs (ix) to (xii) after sub-paragraph (viii) thereof:

- "(ix) a general moratorium is declared in respect of banking activities in the country in which the Exchange in respect of a Component Security is located (which the Calculation Agent determines is material); or
- (x) the difference between the bid and offer prices of any Component Security increases compared to that prevailing as at the Issue Date at any time (which the Calculation Agent determines is material); or
- (xi) the calculation of such Bond Index is impractical or impossible at any time save in circumstances in which the relevant Index Sponsor fails to calculate and publish such Bond Index as described in Security Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution); or
- (xii) a reduction in liquidity in any Component Security and/or any other event or circumstance that is beyond the reasonable control of the Issuer that prevents or limits transactions in the Component Security (which the Calculation Agent determines is material)."

(iii) In relation to a Bond Index, Security Index Condition 6 (Additional Provisions) shall be amended as follows:

- (1) the first paragraph of Security Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution) shall be amended by the deletion of the words "(other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Security Index in the event of changes in Component

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 1 – SECURITY INDEX CONDITIONS

Securities and capitalisation and other routine events)" in the third, fourth and fifth lines thereof and the substitution of the words "(other than a modification prescribed in the conditions or methodology of the relevant Bond Index to maintain the relevant Bond Index in the event of changes in Component Securities and other routine events)" therefore; and

- (2) Security Index Condition 6(d) (Calculation Agent's discretion to determine non-material events) shall not apply to the Bond Index.
- (iv) In relation to a Bond Index, there shall be no definition of "Related Exchange" and the Conditions shall be construed accordingly.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 2 – INFLATION INDEX CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as an "Inflation Index".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Inflation Indices.

1. Definitions

Cut-off Date means, in respect of a Payment Date, the day which is five Business Days prior to such Payment Date.

Fallback Bond means, in respect of an Inflation Index, if "Fallback Bond" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, (a) the bond specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms; or (b) if no such bond is specified, a bond selected by the Calculation Agent and issued by the government of the country to whose level of inflation such Inflation Index relates and which pays interest or a redemption amount which is calculated by reference to such Inflation Index, with a maturity date which falls on (i) the same day as the Maturity Date; (ii) the next longest maturity after the Maturity Date if there is no such bond maturing on the Maturity Date; or (iii) the next shortest maturity before the Maturity Date if no bond described in (a) or (b) above is selected by the Calculation Agent. If the Inflation Index relates to the level of inflation across the European Monetary Union (EMU), then the Calculation Agent will select an inflation-linked bond which is a debt obligation of one of the governments (but not any government agency) of France, Italy, Germany or Spain and which pays interest or a redemption amount which is calculated by reference to the level of inflation in the EMU. In each case, the Calculation Agent will select the Fallback Bond from those inflation-linked bonds issued on or before the Issue Date and, if there is more than one inflation-linked bond maturing on the same date, then the Fallback Bond shall be selected by the Calculation Agent from those bonds. If the Fallback Bond in respect of an Inflation Index redeems, then the Calculation Agent will select a new Fallback Bond on the same basis, but selected from all eligible bonds in issue at the time the original Fallback Bond redeems (including any bond for which the redeemed bond is exchanged).

Index Sponsor means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculation and adjustments, if any, related to such Inflation Index; and (b) announces (directly or through an agent) the level of such Inflation Index.

Inflation Index means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms or any Successor Index.

Inflation Index Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Manifest Error Cut-off Date means, in respect of a Payment Date, two Business Days prior to such Payment Date, unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Payment Date means, in respect of a Valuation Date, the Interest Payment Date, the Maturity Date or other date to which such Valuation Date relates.

Reference Month means, in respect of an Inflation Index and a Valuation Date, each month specified as such for such Valuation Date in the applicable Issue Terms.

Revision Cut-off Date means, in respect of a Payment Date, two Business Days prior to such Payment Date, unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

2. Valuation

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, a Valuation Date and a related Reference Month, the level of such Inflation Index in respect of such Reference Month, as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page.

Valuation Time and Underlying Level shall not apply to an Inflation Index.

3. Disruption To Valuation

(a) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of an Inflation Index on a Valuation Date

Any Specified Valuation Date shall not be adjusted in relation to an Inflation Index and the Substitute Index Level provisions set out below shall apply thereto. The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall only apply in relation to Underlying(s) which are not Inflation Indices (if any).

(b) Substitute Index Level

If an Underlying Closing Level for a Reference Month has not been published or announced by the Cut-off Date for the relevant Payment Date, then the Calculation Agent shall, subject to any provisions specified in the applicable Issue Terms, determine a substitute index level (the Substitute Index Level) by using the following methodology:

- (i) if Fallback Bond is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent will take the same action to determine the Substitute Index Level for the affected Reference Month as that taken by the relevant calculation agent pursuant to the terms and conditions of any relevant Fallback Bond; and
- (ii) if there is no Fallback Bond or sub-paragraph (i) does not result in a Substitute Index Level for the relevant Reference Month for any reason, then the Calculation Agent will determine the Substitute Index Level in accordance with the formula set out below:

$$\text{Substitute Index Level} = \text{Base Level} * (\text{Latest Level}/\text{Reference Level})$$

Where:

Base Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the level of such Inflation Index (excluding any "flash" estimate) published or announced by the relevant Index Sponsor in respect of the month which is 12 calendar months prior to the Reference Month for which the Substitute Index Level is being determined;

Latest Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the latest level of such Inflation Index (excluding any "flash" estimate) published or announced by the relevant Index Sponsor prior to the Reference Month in respect of which the Substitute Index Level is being determined;

Reference Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the level of such Inflation Index (excluding any "flash" estimate) published or announced by the relevant Index Sponsor in respect of the month which is 12 calendar months prior to the Reference Month referred to in the definition for "Latest Level" above; and

- (iii) if the Underlying Closing Level of an Inflation Index for a Reference Month is published or announced at any time after the Cut-off Date for the relevant Payment Date, then such Underlying Closing Level will not be used in any calculation. The Substitute Index Level determined pursuant to this Inflation Index Condition 3 (Disruption To Valuation) will be the Underlying Closing Level in respect of the relevant Reference Month.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of an Inflation Index if Inflation Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the relevant Index Sponsor imposes on the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such Inflation Index, which the Calculation Agent determines are material.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Events shall apply in respect of an Inflation Index if Inflation Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) the Calculation Agent determines that no Successor Index can be determined under Inflation Index Condition 6(d) (Substitution of an Inflation Index); and
- (b) the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made under Inflation Index Condition 6(e) (Modification of an Inflation Index).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(l) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) shall not apply in respect of an Inflation Index.

- (b) Revision of the level of an Inflation Index

The operation of this Inflation Index Condition 6(b) (Revision of the level of an Inflation Index) is subject as provided in Inflation Index Condition 6(c) (Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index) below.

If "Revision" is specified as applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms, then the first publication and announcement of an Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index, or any revision to such Underlying Closing Level made no later than the relevant Revision Cut-off Date, shall be final and conclusive.

If "No Revision" is specified as applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms, then the first publication and announcement of an Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index shall be final and conclusive, and any later revision to such Underlying Closing Level will not be used in any calculation.

If neither "Revision" nor "No Revision" is elected in the applicable Issue Terms, then "No Revision" shall be deemed to apply.

- (c) Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index

If the Calculation Agent determines that the Index Sponsor of an Inflation Index has corrected an Underlying Closing Level for such Inflation Index to correct a manifest error no later than the earlier to occur of (i) the relevant Manifest Error Cut-off Date; and (ii) 30 calendar days following the first publication and announcement of such Underlying Closing Level, then the Calculation Agent may use such corrected Underlying Closing Level for the purposes of any calculation in respect of any relevant Valuation Date. Any correction to an Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index published after the relevant Manifest Error Cut-off Date will not be used in any calculation in respect of any relevant Valuation Date. In the event of any inconsistency (as determined by the Calculation Agent) between this Inflation Index Condition 6(c) (Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index) and Inflation Index Condition 6(b) (Revision of the level of an Inflation Index), the operation of this Inflation Index Condition 6(c) (Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index) shall prevail.

- (d) Substitution of an Inflation Index

If Inflation Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the Calculation Agent determines that either (i) a level for an Inflation Index has not been published or announced for two consecutive months; and/or (ii) the Index Sponsor announces that it will no longer continue to publish or announce such Inflation Index; and/or (iii) the Index Sponsor cancels such Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent may replace such Inflation Index with a successor index (a Successor Index) by using the following methodology:

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 2 – INFLATION INDEX CONDITIONS

- (i) if at any time a successor index has been designated in respect of an Inflation Index by the calculation agent under any relevant Fallback Bond pursuant to the terms and conditions of such Fallback Bond, then such successor index may be designated a "Successor Index" for such Inflation Index for the purposes of all subsequent Valuation Dates, notwithstanding that any other Successor Index may previously have been determined under sub-paragraph (ii) or (iii);
- (ii) if a Successor Index has not been determined under sub-paragraph (i) and a notice has been given or an announcement has been made by the relevant Index Sponsor, specifying that such Inflation Index will be superseded by a replacement inflation index specified by the relevant Index Sponsor, and the Calculation Agent determines that such replacement inflation index is calculated using the same or substantially similar formula or method of calculation as used in the calculation of the previously applicable Inflation Index, then such replacement index shall be such Inflation Index for purposes of the Securities from the date that such replacement Inflation Index comes into effect;
- (iii) if no Successor Index has been determined under sub-paragraph (i) or (ii) by the fifth Business Day prior to the Cut-off Date in respect of the next following Payment Date, then the Calculation Agent will determine an appropriate alternative index and such index will be deemed a "Successor Index".

If a Successor Index is determined in accordance with the above, the Calculation Agent may make such adjustment(s) to the terms of these Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for such replacement and determine the effective date(s) of the adjustment(s) to the Securities.

If no Successor Index can be determined pursuant to the above, the provisions of Inflation Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(e) Modification of an Inflation Index

If, on or prior to any Cut-off Date in respect of a Payment Date, an Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change to an Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms (i) (if a Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index) as are consistent with any adjustment made to the relevant Fallback Bond; or (ii) (if no Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index) as are necessary for such modified Inflation Index to continue as an Inflation Index.

If no such adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Inflation Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(f) Rebasing of the Inflation Index

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Inflation Index has been or will be rebased at any time, then the Inflation Index as so rebased (the Rebased Index) will be used for the purposes of determining any Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index from the date of such rebasing.

If a Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustments to the levels of such Rebased Index as are made by the calculation agent pursuant to the terms and conditions of the relevant Fallback Bond, so that the levels of such Rebased Index reflect the same rate of inflation as the relevant Inflation Index before it was rebased.

If no Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustments to the levels of such Rebased Index, so that the levels of such Rebased Index reflect the same rate of inflation as the relevant Inflation Index before it was rebased.

In each case, the Calculation Agent may make such adjustment(s) to the terms of these Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for such rebasing and determine the effective date(s) of the adjustment(s) to the Securities.

Any such rebasing shall not affect any prior payments made under the Securities.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 3 – COMMODITY INDEX CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Commodity Index".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Commodity Indices.

1. Definitions

Commodity Index means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Commodity Index Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Component means, in respect of a Commodity Index, each component included in such Commodity Index.

Component Trading Day means, in respect of a Component, a day on which the Exchange for such Component is scheduled to be open for trading for its regular trading session, notwithstanding such Exchange closing prior to the Scheduled Closing Time for such Component.

Exchange means, in respect of a Commodity Index, each exchange, quotation system, over-the-counter market or principal trading market on which each relevant Component is (as determined by the Calculation Agent) principally traded and, in respect of a Component of a Commodity Index, the exchange, quotation system, over-the-counter market or principal trading market on which such Component is (as determined by the Calculation Agent) principally traded.

Exchange Business Day means, in respect of a Commodity Index, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Commodity Index on which the relevant Index Sponsor publishes the level of such Commodity Index.

Index Sponsor means, in respect of a Commodity Index, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculations and adjustments, if any, related to such Commodity Index; and (b) announces (directly or through an agent) the level of such Commodity Index on a regular basis.

Related Exchange means, in respect of a Commodity Index and options contracts and futures contracts on such Commodity Index, any exchange on which such options contracts or futures contracts on such Commodity Index are traded.

Scheduled Closing Time means (a) in respect of a Scheduled Trading Day and an Exchange or a Related Exchange, the scheduled weekday closing time on such Exchange or Related Exchange on such Scheduled Trading Day, without regard to after-hours trading or any other trading outside the hours of the regular trading session on such Exchange and (b) in respect of a Component Trading Day, a Component and the Exchange for such Component, the scheduled weekday closing time on such Exchange on such Component Trading Day, without regard to after-hours trading or any other trading outside the hours of the regular trading session on such Exchange.

Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Commodity Index, any day on which the relevant Index Sponsor is scheduled to publish the level of such Commodity Index and, where Commodity Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any day on which the Exchange for each Component of such Commodity Index is scheduled to be open for trading for its regular trading session, notwithstanding any such Exchange closing prior to the Scheduled Closing Time for the relevant Component.

Successor Index shall have the meaning given to it in Commodity Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events).

Tax Disruption means, in respect of a Commodity Index, the imposition of, change in or removal of a Relevant Tax by any relevant government or taxing authority after the Trade Date, if the direct effect of such imposition, change or removal is to increase or decrease the level of the Commodity Index on a day which would otherwise be a Valuation Date from what it would have been without such imposition, change or removal. For these purposes, Relevant Tax means, in respect of a Component or commodity relating to such Component, any excise, severance, sales, use, value-added, transfer, stamp, documentary, recording or other similar tax on, or measured by reference to, such Component or commodity (other than a tax on, or measured by reference to, overall gross or net income).

2. Valuation

(a) Closing valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Commodity Index and a Valuation Date, the official closing level of such Commodity Index on such Valuation Date or, where the level of such Commodity Index is only published once in respect of any day, the level of such Commodity Index either (a) where Same Day Publication is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, on such Valuation Date (and in which circumstances, where the level of such Commodity Index is published on a succeeding Scheduled Trading Day, the level for that Valuation Date will have been the level calculated for the Commodity Index for or in respect of a preceding Scheduled Trading Day) or (b) where Same Day Publication is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, for such Valuation Date (and in which circumstances the level for that Valuation Date may be published on a succeeding Scheduled Trading Day), on the applicable Electronic Page.

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Commodity Index, an Underlying Closing Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, (i) for the purposes of determining whether a Disrupted Day has occurred: (A) in respect of any relevant Component, the time at which such Component is valued for the purposes of determining the relevant level of such Commodity Index, and (B) in respect of any options contracts or future contracts on the Commodity Index, the close of trading on the relevant Related Exchange; and (ii) in all other circumstances, either (A) where the level of such Commodity Index is only published once a day, the time at which the level of such Commodity Index for such day is calculated and published by the relevant Index Sponsor or (B) otherwise, the time at which the official closing level of the Commodity Index is calculated and published by the relevant Index Sponsor.

 - (i) the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Commodity Index;
 - (ii) a temporary or permanent failure by the relevant Exchange to announce or publish a relevant price for any relevant Component of such Commodity Index;
 - (iii) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 3 – COMMODITY INDEX CONDITIONS

- Exchange of relevant Components which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Commodity Index;
- (iv) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any Related Exchange of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Commodity Index;
 - (v) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for relevant Components which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Commodity Index;
 - (vi) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any Related Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Commodity Index;
 - (vii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any relevant Exchange in respect of relevant Components which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Commodity Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Exchange at least one hour prior to the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Exchange on such Exchange Business Day); or
 - (viii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any Related Exchange in respect of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Commodity Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Related Exchange at least one hour prior to the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Related Exchange on such Exchange Business Day); or
- (b) where Commodity Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:
- (i) in respect of a Commodity Index, any Scheduled Trading Day on which any of the events set out below occurs:
 - (x) the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Commodity Index; or
 - (y) such day is a Disrupted Day in respect of a Component of such Commodity Index as specified in sub-paragraphs (ii)(x), (y) or (z) below.
 - (ii) in respect of a Component, any Component Trading Day on which any of the events set out below occurs:
 - (x) the failure of a relevant Exchange to announce or publish the settlement price for such Component (or other relevant price, or prices from which such price is calculated);
 - (y) the suspension of or limitation on trading in such Component on the relevant Exchange which the Calculation Agent determines is material; or

- (z) the closing or settlement price for such Component is a "limit price" which means that such closing or settlement price for such Component for the relevant day has increased or decreased from the previous day's closing or settlement price by the maximum amount permitted under applicable exchange rules.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

- (a) The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity Index if Commodity Index Condition 4(a) (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: such Commodity Index is either (i) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Index Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Index Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (ii) replaced by a successor index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Commodity Index (such index, the Successor Index, which will be deemed to be such Commodity Index);
- (b) The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity Index if Commodity Index Condition 4(b) (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the relevant Index Sponsor imposes on the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such Commodity Index, which the Calculation Agent determines are material; or
- (c) if "Tax Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent determines in good faith that (i) a Tax Disruption has occurred or exists; and (ii) such Tax Disruption is material.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity Index if Commodity Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made under Commodity Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Commodity Index and Commodity Index Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Commodity Index, 30 calendar days.

- (b) Modification or cancellation of a Commodity Index and Commodity Index Substitution

- (i) Commodity Index Adjustment Events

If Commodity Index Condition 6(b)(i) (Commodity Index Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Commodity Index, (A) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating the level of such Commodity Index or in any other way materially modifies such Commodity Index (other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Commodity Index in the event of changes in relevant Components and other routine events) (a Commodity Index Modification); or (B) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor at any time permanently cancels such Commodity Index and no Successor Index (as defined in Commodity Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events)) exists (a Commodity Index Cancellation); or (C) on or prior to any Valuation Date the relevant Index Sponsor or any person or entity on its behalf fails to calculate and announce such Commodity Index (a Commodity Index Disruption, and together with a Commodity Index Modification and a Commodity Index Cancellation, a Commodity Index Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Commodity Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities, and if so, either:

- (A) calculate the relevant level of such Commodity Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of a published level for such Commodity Index, the level of such Commodity Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the formula for and the method of calculating the level of such Commodity Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event but using only those Components or other assets or instruments which comprised such Commodity Index immediately prior to the occurrence of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event (other than those Components which have since ceased to be listed on any relevant Exchange); and/or
- (B) the Calculation Agent shall substitute such Commodity Index as provided in Commodity Index Condition 6(b)(ii) (Commodity Index Substitution) and make such adjustments (if any) to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution; and/or
- (C) make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event and determine the effective date of each such adjustment.

If no calculation, substitution and/or adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Commodity Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(ii) Commodity Index Substitution

If Commodity Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Commodity Index Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity Index on a Disrupted Day) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Commodity Index Substitution.

Commodity Index Substitution means, in relation to a Commodity Index Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of the Commodity Index the subject of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new commodity index selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement commodity index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Commodity Index). Such new commodity index shall be deemed to be a Commodity Index in place of the Commodity Index the subject of the Commodity Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity Index on a Disrupted Day

- (i) Where Commodity Component Valuation is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms if an Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity Index is determined on a Scheduled Trading Day which is a Disrupted Day for such Commodity Index in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)), then the Calculation Agent shall determine such Underlying Closing Level of such Commodity Index at the Valuation Time on such Scheduled Trading Day in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the level of such Commodity Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of the first Disrupted Day in respect of such Commodity Index, using either (i) the price traded or quoted on the relevant Exchange as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Scheduled Trading Day of each relevant Component; or (ii) (if an event giving rise to a Disrupted Day has occurred in respect of the relevant Component on that Scheduled Trading Day) its good faith estimate of the value of the relevant Component as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Scheduled Trading Day.

- (ii) Where Commodity Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if a Specified Valuation Date for a Commodity Index is a Disrupted Day for such Commodity Index, then, in order to determine the Underlying Closing Level of the relevant Commodity Index for such Valuation Date, the Calculation Agent shall determine the relevant Underlying Closing Level for such Valuation Date using the then-current method for calculating the level of such Commodity Index based on:
- (A) with respect to each Component which is not affected by the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, the closing or settlement price of each such Component on such Specified Valuation Date; and
 - (B) with respect to each Component which is affected by the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, the closing or settlement price of each such Component on the earlier of: (1) the first succeeding day immediately following such Specified Valuation Date which is a Component Trading Day for the relevant Component and which is not a Disrupted Day for such Component; and (2) the Scheduled Trading Day which is the Valuation Roll number of Scheduled Trading Days for the relevant Commodity Index immediately following such Specified Valuation Date.

If, by operation of the above provision, the date for valuation of the relevant Component would fall on a day which is a Disrupted Day for such Component, the Calculation Agent shall determine the closing or settlement price of the relevant Component for the relevant Valuation Date using its good faith estimate of the closing or settlement price of such Component for such day.

If, by operation of the above provision, the date for valuation of the relevant Component would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Scheduled Trading Day for the relevant Commodity Index prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Commodity Index Cut-off Date), such date of valuation shall be deemed to be the Commodity Index Cut-off Date (notwithstanding that such date either (I) is not a Component Trading Day for such Component; or (II) is a Disrupted Day for such Component; or (III) is a Disrupted Day for the relevant Commodity Index), and the Calculation Agent shall determine the closing or settlement price of the relevant Component for the relevant Valuation Date using its good faith estimate of the closing or settlement price of such Component for such day.

Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) shall not apply to a Specified Valuation Date relating to a Commodity Index except that, if a Disrupted Day occurs in respect of an Underlying other than a Commodity Index and "Move in Block" is specified for "Valuation Disruption (Disrupted Days)" in respect of the relevant Valuation Date in the applicable Issue Terms, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall apply thereto PROVIDED THAT if by operation of such provision the relevant Valuation Date would thereby fall after the relevant Commodity Index Cut-off Date, the provisions set out in the preceding paragraph shall apply.

In all other cases, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) shall only apply in relation to Underlying(s) which are not Commodity Indices (if any).

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 4 – COMMODITY CONDITIONS

Delayed Publication and Announcement means, in respect of a Commodity and a Valuation Date, that the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date, using the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date that is published or announced by the relevant Price Source retrospectively on any succeeding Scheduled Trading Day. The next Disruption Fallback shall apply if the Disruption Event continues to exist or the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date continues to be unavailable for consecutive Scheduled Trading Days equal in number to the Valuation Roll (measured from and including the original day for which the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) was sought), subject as provided in Commodity Condition 6(b) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity on a Disrupted Day).

Fallback Commodity Dealers means, in respect of a Commodity and a Valuation Date, that the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date on the basis of quotations for the Commodity Price of such Commodity provided by Commodity Dealers on such date for delivery on the relevant Delivery Date (if applicable). If four quotations are provided as requested, then the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date will be the arithmetic mean of the prices provided by each Commodity Dealer, without regard to the highest price and the lowest price. If exactly three quotations are provided as requested, then the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date will be the price which remains after disregarding the highest price and the lowest price. For this purpose, if more than one quotation have the same value, then one such quotation will be disregarded. If fewer than three quotations are provided, it will be deemed that the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of the relevant Commodity for such Valuation Date cannot be determined and the next Disruption Fallback shall apply, subject as provided in Commodity Condition 6(b) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity on a Disrupted Day).

Fallback Commodity Price means, in respect of a Commodity and a Valuation Date, that the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of the relevant Commodity for such Valuation Date using the Commodity Price specified in the applicable Issue Terms as an alternative Commodity Price.

numerical adjective, such Futures Contract shall be the Futures Contract expiring in the Nearby Month having the same numerical adjective, so that for example (a) First Futures Contract means the Futures Contract expiring in the First Nearby Month; and (b) Second Futures Contract means the Futures Contract expiring in the Second Nearby Month.

Tax Disruption means, in respect of a Commodity, the imposition of, change in or removal of a Relevant Tax by any relevant government or taxing authority after the Trade Date, if the direct effect of such imposition, change or removal is to increase or decrease the Relevant Price on a day which would otherwise be a Valuation Date from what it would have been without such imposition, change or removal. For these purposes, Relevant Tax means, in respect of a

For these purposes, a suspension of trading in a Commodity or the relevant Futures Contract shall be deemed to be material only if: (a) all such trading is suspended for the entire relevant Valuation Date; or (b) all such trading is suspended subsequent to the opening of trading on the relevant Valuation Date and does not recommence prior to the scheduled close of trading on the relevant Valuation Date, and such suspension is announced less than one hour before the start of such suspension. For these purposes, a limitation on trading in a Commodity or the relevant Futures Contract on the relevant Valuation Date shall be deemed to be material only if the relevant Exchange establishes limits on the range within which the price of such Commodity or Futures Contract may fluctuate and the closing or settlement price of such Commodity or Futures Contract on such day is at the upper limit or the lower limit of such range.

2. Valuation

(a) Closing valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Commodity and a Valuation Date, the Relevant Price of such Commodity for such Valuation Date, as displayed on or reported by the applicable Electronic Page.

first, (if an alternative Commodity Price is specified in the applicable Issue Terms) Fallback Commodity Price;

second, Delayed Publication and Announcement and Postponement (each to operate concurrently with the other) PROVIDED THAT the price determined by Postponement shall be the Relevant Price only if "Delayed Publication and Announcement" does not yield a Relevant Price within the Valuation Roll number of Scheduled Trading Days;

third, Calculation Agent Determination; and fourth, Cancellation.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

No Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity if Commodity Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (i) the occurrence or existence of a Disruption Event on a Valuation Date and the failure or deemed failure of the applicable Disruption Fallbacks to provide a Relevant Price; and
- (ii) each Additional Early Redemption Event (if any) specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Commodity, 30 calendar days.

- (b) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity on a Disrupted Day

If a day which would otherwise be a Valuation Date is a Disrupted Day for any Commodity, then, in order to determine the Underlying Closing Level for such Valuation Date, the Relevant Price of such Commodity for such Valuation Date shall be determined in accordance with the first applicable Disruption Fallback (applied in accordance with its terms) which provides the Relevant Price of such Commodity for such Valuation Date or, if no such Relevant Price can be so determined, Cancellation shall apply.

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall only apply in relation to a Commodity where Postponement is the applicable Disruption Fallback. Where the applicable Disruption Fallback is a Disruption Fallback other than Postponement, the relevant Specified Valuation Date shall not be adjusted in relation to a Commodity, the Disruption Fallback provisions set out below shall apply thereto and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall only apply in relation to Underlying(s) which are not Commodities (if any).

If an Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity is to be determined on a day which is a Disrupted Day or is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such Commodity in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)), then the next applicable Disruption Fallback will apply.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 5 – SHARE CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Share".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Shares.

1. Definitions

Component Share means, in respect of any Share which is a Stapled Share, each share specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Component Share Company means, in respect of a Component Share, the issuer of such Component Share, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Exchange means, in respect of a Share, each exchange or quotation system specified as such in respect of such Share in the applicable Issue Terms or any successor to such exchange or quotation system, or any substitute exchange or quotation system to which trading in such Share has temporarily relocated (PROVIDED THAT the Calculation Agent has determined that there is comparable liquidity relative to such Share on such temporary substitute exchange or quotation system as on the original exchange or quotation system).

Exchange Business Day means, in respect of a Share, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Share on which each Exchange and each Related Exchange for such Share is open for trading during its respective regular trading session, notwithstanding any such Exchange or Related Exchange closing prior to its Scheduled Closing Time.

Extraordinary Dividend means, in respect of a Share, a dividend or a distribution or portion thereof which is determined by the Calculation Agent to be an extraordinary dividend relating to such Share.

Increased Cost of Stock Borrow means, in respect of a Share, that any Hedging Party would incur a rate to borrow such Share that is greater than the Initial Stock Loan Rate.

Initial Stock Loan Rate means, in respect of a Share, the rate that any Hedging Party would have incurred to borrow such Share as of the Trade Date, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Loss of Stock Borrow means, in respect of a Share, that any Hedging Party is unable, after using commercially reasonable efforts, to borrow (or to maintain a borrowing of) such Share at a rate equal to or less than the Maximum Stock Loan Rate.

Maximum Stock Loan Rate means, in respect of a Share, the lowest rate that any Hedging Party would have incurred, after using commercially reasonable efforts, to borrow such Share as of the Trade Date, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Reference Index means, in respect of a Share which is the subject of a Share Substitution, an index selected by the Calculation Agent (a) in respect of which such Share is, or has been at some time during the immediately preceding six months, a component; and (b) in respect of which (in the opinion of the Calculation Agent) futures contracts are actively traded. If more than one index satisfies the criteria specified in (a) and (b) above, then the Calculation Agent shall determine which of such indices shall be the Reference Index. If no index satisfies the criteria specified in (a) and (b) above, then the Calculation Agent shall select the Reference Index by reference to such criteria it deems appropriate.

Related Exchange means, in respect of a Share, each exchange or quotation system specified as such for such Share in the applicable Issue Terms or any successor to such exchange or quotation system, or any substitute exchange or quotation system to which trading in futures

Illiquidity means, in respect of an FX Rate and a Valuation Date and as determined by the Calculation Agent, it becomes impossible or otherwise impracticable to obtain a firm quote to determine the relevant rate(s) required to calculate the Underlying Closing Level or Underlying Level (as relevant) for any relevant amount at the relevant time on the relevant Valuation Date (or, if different, the day on which rates for that Valuation Date would, in the ordinary course, be published or announced by the relevant price source).

Material Change in Circumstances means the occurrence of an event in an Event Currency Jurisdiction beyond the control of any Hedging Party which makes it impossible or not reasonably practicable for (i) any Hedging Party to fulfil its obligations under any Hedging Position and (ii) for any entity generally to fulfil obligations similar to such Hedging Party's obligations under any Hedging Position.

If any Exchange Rate is published or announced by more than one price source (including the relevant Electronic Page) and the Electronic Page fails to publish or announce that currency exchange rate on any relevant Valuation Date (or, if different, the day on which rates for such Valuation Date would, in the ordinary course, be published or announced on the relevant Electronic Page), then the relevant Underlying Closing Level or Underlying Level (as relevant) for such Valuation Date may be determined as if the applicable Issue Terms had specified any other available price source which actually publishes or announces such currency exchange rate on such Valuation Date (or, if different, the day on which rates for such Valuation Date would, in the ordinary course, be published or announced by such price source) as the applicable Electronic Page.

If any Exchange Rate comprising any applicable FX Rate is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced, or adopted (or other similar action) by the relevant Governmental Authority, and such currency exchange rate ceases to exist and is replaced by a successor currency exchange rate that is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced, or adopted (or other similar action) by such Governmental Authority (the Official Successor Rate), then the Underlying Closing Level or Underlying Level (as applicable) for the relevant Valuation Date may be determined as if the applicable Issue Terms had specified any available price source which publishes or announces the Official Successor Rate (including, but not limited to, an official publication of that Governmental Authority) on such Valuation Date (or, if different, the day on which rates for that Valuation Date would, in the ordinary course, be published or announced by the relevant price source) as the applicable Electronic Page.

(c) Settlement Disruption

If, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, payment of any amount due in respect of the Securities cannot be made by the Issuer in the Specified Currency on any date on which payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (a Relevant Scheduled Payment Date) due to:

- (i) the imposition of laws or regulations by any Governmental Authority of the country for which the Specified Currency is the lawful currency (the Specified Currency Jurisdiction) which (a) require non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to obtain permission from such central banking authority or other authority to obtain the Specified Currency, or (b) otherwise restrict a non-resident's ability to obtain the Specified Currency, or (c) otherwise regulate the purchase or holding of the Specified Currency by non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction such that costs are imposed in obtaining the Specified Currency which would not be imposed in the absence of such regulations, or (d) has the direct or indirect effect of hindering, limiting or restricting the transfer of the Specified Currency between non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or (e) materially restricts non-residents from transferring the Specified Currency from the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to the country of incorporation of such non-resident; or
- (ii) any Relevant Clearing System suspending or ceasing to accept the Specified Currency as a settlement currency; or
- (iii) the Specified Currency's replacement or disuse or the Specified Currency, or any Successor Currency, no longer being used by the government of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or for the settlement of transactions by public institutions within the international banking community; or
- (iv) the illiquidity of the Specified Currency in the relevant market; or
- (v) any other circumstances beyond the control of the Issuer (including but not limited to a natural or man-made disaster, armed conflict, act of terrorism, riot or labour disruption),

(each a Currency Settlement Disruption Event) then the Issuer shall be entitled to satisfy its obligations to the Securityholders by either (i) delaying any such payment until after the Currency Settlement Disruption Event ceases to exist or (ii) making such payment in United States dollars (USD) (such payment converted into USD by reference to such currency exchange rate displayed on such price source or otherwise as the Calculation Agent shall determine) on, or as soon as reasonably practicable (in the opinion of the Calculation Agent) after, the Relevant Scheduled Payment Date. Any such delayed payment or payment in USD will not constitute a default and Securityholders shall not be entitled to further interest or any other payment in respect of any such delay.

Unscheduled Holiday means, in respect of an FX Rate and a Specified Valuation Date, a day that is not a Reference Currency Business Day and, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the market was not aware of such fact (by means of a public announcement or by reference to other publicly available information) until a time later than 9:00 a.m. local time in the principal financial centre of the Reference Currency two Reference Currency Business Days prior to the Specified Valuation Date.

Postponement. In such event, the FX Rate will be determined on the next Reference Currency Business Day after the day falling the Maximum Days of Postponement (and such date shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date) in accordance with the provisions set out in the next applicable Disruption Fallback or (ii) if the relevant Disruption Event is a Price Materiality, the FX Rate will be determined in accordance with the provisions set out in the next applicable Disruption Fallback.

2. Valuation

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Valuation Date, the FX Rate for such Valuation Date as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page(s) at approximately the Valuation Time (or as soon thereafter as practicable) on the Valuation Date, all as determined by the Calculation Agent.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of an FX Rate if FX Rate Part B Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: any Relevant Rate which as of the Trade Date is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or other similar action) by the relevant Governmental Authority and any such Relevant Rate ceases to exist and is replaced by a successor currency exchange rate that is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or other similar action) by such Governmental Authority (the Official Successor Rate), then in which event the Relevant Rate will be determined as provided herein by reference to such Official Successor Rate and the price source which publishes or announces (or, but for the occurrence of a Disruption Event, would have published or announced) such Official Successor Rate (including, but not limited to, an official publication of that Governmental Authority).

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

No Additional Early Redemption Events shall apply in respect of FX Rates.

6. Additional Provisions

(a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Unless Correction Provisions are specified as applicable in respect of an FX Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(1) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) do not apply in respect of an FX Rate.

(b) Scheduled Trading Day

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) do not apply in respect of an FX Rate.

If a Specified Valuation Date is not a Scheduled Trading Day for an FX Rate then the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day falling first preceding such Specified Valuation Date EXCEPT, in the event of the occurrence of an Unscheduled Holiday on such Specified Valuation Date, in which case the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day immediately succeeding such Scheduled Trading Day, subject as follows and as provided in FX Rate Condition 6(d) (Cut-off Valuation Date for cumulative events) below.

If a Specified Valuation Date is postponed due to the occurrence of an Unscheduled Holiday on a Scheduled Trading Day as provided above and the Valuation Date has not occurred on or before the day falling the Maximum Days of Postponement after the Specified Valuation Date (any such period being a Deferral Period), then the next day after the Deferral Period that would have been a Scheduled Trading Day but for the occurrence of an Unscheduled Holiday, shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date, unless such day is a Disrupted Day for the FX Rate, in which case the provisions of FX Rate Condition 6(c) (Disrupted Day) below will apply.

Where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Scheduled Trading Days, then the adjustment provisions above prevail and consequently all references to "for all of the Underlyings" and "for any of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall be construed not to include any Underlying that is an FX Rate.

(c) Disrupted Day

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) do not apply in respect of an FX Rate.

If any Specified Valuation Date(s) (if applicable, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of FX Rate Condition 6(b) (Scheduled Trading Day) above) is a Disrupted Day for an FX Rate, then, in order to determine the Underlying Closing Level of such FX Rate for such Valuation Date, the Underlying Closing Level shall be determined in accordance with the first applicable Disruption Fallback (applied in accordance with its terms) which provides the Underlying Closing Level of such FX Rate for such Valuation Date.

Where the applicable Disruption Fallback is a Disruption Fallback other than Valuation Postponement, the relevant Specified Valuation Date shall not be adjusted in relation to such FX Rate, the Disruption Fallback provisions set out below shall apply thereto and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall only apply in relation to Underlying(s) other than such FX Rate (if any). For the avoidance of doubt, where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Disrupted Days, then the adjustment provisions above prevail and consequently all references to "for all of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall be construed not to include any Underlying that is an FX Rate.

If an Underlying Closing Level of an FX Rate is to be determined on a day which is a Disrupted Day or is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such FX Rate, then the next applicable Disruption Fallback will apply.

(d) Cut-off Valuation Date for cumulative events

Notwithstanding the cut-off provisions set out in the definition of Valuation Postponement and in FX Rate Condition 6(c) (Disrupted Day) above, in no event shall the total number of consecutive calendar days during which either (i) valuation is deferred due to an Unscheduled

Holiday or (ii) a Valuation Postponement shall occur (or any combination of (i) and (ii)), exceed the Maximum Days of Postponement in the aggregate.

Accordingly, (x) if upon the lapse of the Maximum Days of Postponement in the aggregate, an Unscheduled Holiday shall have occurred or be continuing on the day following the Maximum Days of Postponement, then such day shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date and (y) if, upon the lapse of the Maximum Days of Postponement in the aggregate, a Price Source Disruption shall have occurred or be continuing on the day following the Maximum Days of Postponement, such date shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date and the relevant FX Rate shall be determined in accordance with the next Disruption Fallback.

The Cut-off Valuation Date provisions set out in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2 (Underlying Valuation Provisions) do not apply to an Underlying that is an FX Rate and, accordingly, pursuant to the above provisions, a scheduled date for payment of any amount or, as the case may be, delivery of any assets in respect of the Securities will be deferred, if later, until the Number of Settlement Business Days following the Valuation Date and such Cut-off Valuation Date provisions shall only apply to any Underlying other than an FX Rate (save as otherwise provided in the relevant Underlying Schedule applicable to any such Underlying).

(e) Settlement Disruption

Where Settlement Disruption is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and if, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, payment of any amount due in respect of the Securities cannot be made by the Issuer in the Specified Currency on any date on which payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (a Relevant Scheduled Payment Date) due to:

- (i) the imposition of laws or regulations by any Governmental Authority of the country for which the Specified Currency is the lawful currency (the Specified Currency Jurisdiction) which (a) require non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to obtain permission from such central banking authority or other authority to obtain the Specified Currency, or (b) otherwise restrict a non-resident's ability to obtain the Specified Currency, or (c) otherwise regulate the purchase or holding of the Specified Currency by non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction such that costs are imposed in obtaining the Specified Currency which would not be imposed in the absence of such regulations, or (d) has the direct or indirect effect of hindering, limiting or restricting the transfer of the Specified Currency between non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or (e) materially restricts non-residents from transferring the Specified Currency from the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to the country of incorporation of such non-resident; or
- (ii) any Relevant Clearing System suspending or ceasing to accept the Specified Currency as a settlement currency; or
- (iii) the Specified Currency's replacement or disuse or the Specified Currency, or any Successor Currency, no longer being used by the government of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or for the settlement of transactions by public institutions within the international banking community; or
- (iv) the illiquidity of the Specified Currency in the relevant market; or
- (v) any other circumstances beyond the control of the Issuer (including but not limited to a natural or man-made disaster, armed conflict, act of terrorism, riot or labour disruption),

(each a Currency Settlement Disruption Event) then the Issuer shall be entitled to satisfy its obligations to the Securityholders by either (i) delaying any such payment until after the Currency Settlement Disruption Event ceases to exist or (ii) making such payment in United States dollars (USD) (such payment converted into USD by reference to such currency exchange rate displayed on such price source or otherwise as the Calculation Agent shall determine) on, or as soon as reasonably practicable (in the opinion of the Calculation Agent) after, the Relevant Scheduled Payment Date. Any such delayed payment or payment in USD will not constitute a

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(l) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) shall not apply in respect of a Warrant.

1. Definitions

Component means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, each component index, security, commodity or other asset included in such Proprietary Index.

Index Conditions means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, the terms and conditions of the relevant Proprietary Index from time to time, as published by the relevant Index Sponsor.

Index Sponsor means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculations and adjustments, if any, related to such Proprietary Index; and (b) calculates and publishes (directly or through an agent) the level of such Proprietary Index on a regular basis. If specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the Index Sponsor will be the Index Administrator (as defined in the relevant Index Conditions) notwithstanding that another entity is specified as the Index Sponsor in such Index Conditions.

Proprietary Index means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Proprietary Index Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Proprietary Index and unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, a day in respect of which the level of the Proprietary Index is scheduled to be calculated, however described in the relevant Index Conditions and as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Successor Index shall have the meaning given to it in Proprietary Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events).

Tax Disruption means, in respect of a Component, the imposition of, change in or removal of a Relevant Tax by any relevant government or taxing authority after the Trade Date, if the direct effect of such imposition, change or removal is to increase or decrease the level of the Proprietary Index on a day which would otherwise be a Valuation Date from what it would have been without such imposition, change or removal. For these purposes, "Relevant Tax" means, in respect of a Component or other asset relating to such Component, any excise, severance, sales, use, value-added, transfer, stamp, documentary, recording or other similar tax on, or measured by reference to, such Component or other asset (other than a tax on, or measured by reference to, overall gross or net income).

2. Valuation

(a) Closing valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Proprietary Index and a Valuation Date, the level of such Proprietary Index as published on the applicable Electronic Page in respect of such Valuation Date (irrespective of the time and date on which such level is so published).

(b) Intraday valuations

Underlying Level means, in respect of a Proprietary Index and a Valuation Date, the level of such Proprietary Index observed continuously during such Valuation Date, as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page.

3. Disruption to Valuation

Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Proprietary Index in respect of which the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Proprietary Index.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Events shall apply in respect of a Proprietary Index:

- (a) if Proprietary Index Condition 4(a) (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms such Proprietary Index is either (i) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Index Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Index Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (ii) replaced by a successor index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Proprietary Index (such index, the Successor Index, which will be deemed to be such Proprietary Index); and
- (b) if "Tax Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent determines that (i) a Tax Disruption has occurred or exists; and (ii) such Tax Disruption is material.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Proprietary Index: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation, adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made under Proprietary Index Condition 6(b) (Modification, disruption or cancellation of a Proprietary Index and Proprietary Index Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, 30 calendar days.

For the avoidance of doubt, if pursuant to the provisions of Proprietary Index Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Proprietary Index on a Disrupted Day), the level of a Proprietary Index published in respect of a Valuation Date is disregarded by the Calculation Agent, any correction of the level of the relevant Proprietary Index which has been disregarded shall also be disregarded.

- (b) Modification, disruption or cancellation of a Proprietary Index and Proprietary Index Substitution

(A) Proprietary Index Adjustment Events

If Proprietary Index Condition 6(b)(A) (Proprietary Index Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Proprietary Index, (i) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating the level of such Proprietary Index or in any other way materially modifies such Proprietary Index (other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Proprietary Index in the event of changes in relevant Components and other routine events) (a Proprietary Index Modification); or (ii) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor at any time permanently cancels such Proprietary Index and no Successor Index (as defined in Proprietary Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events)) exists (a Proprietary Index Cancellation); or (iii) on or prior to any Valuation Date the relevant Index Sponsor or any person or entity on its behalf fails to calculate and announce such Proprietary Index (a Proprietary Index Disruption, and together with a Proprietary Index Modification and a Proprietary Index Cancellation, a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities, and if so, shall either:

- (i) calculate the relevant level of such Proprietary Index in respect of the relevant time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of a published level for such Proprietary Index, the level of such Proprietary Index in respect of the relevant time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the formula for and the method of calculating the level of such Proprietary Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event but using only those Components which comprised such Proprietary Index immediately prior to the occurrence of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event and, for which purpose, any determination of the value of any Component shall be made by reference to such source(s) as the Calculation Agent determines appropriate; and/or
- (ii) substitute such Proprietary Index as provided in Proprietary Index Condition 6(b)(B) (Proprietary Index Substitution), if Proprietary Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, and make such adjustments (if any) to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution; and/or
- (iii) make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event and determine the effective date of each such adjustment.

If no calculation, substitution and/or adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Proprietary Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(B) Proprietary Index Substitution

If Proprietary Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any substitution made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Proprietary Index Condition 6(b)(A)(ii) (Proprietary Index Adjustment Events) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Proprietary Index Substitution.

Proprietary Index Substitution means, in relation to a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of a Proprietary Index the subject of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new index selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Proprietary Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, a replacement index selected by the Calculation Agent in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Issue Terms). Such new index shall be deemed to be a Proprietary Index in place of the Proprietary Index the subject of the Proprietary Index Adjustment Event or the Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) applies.

(d) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Proprietary Index on a Component Disrupted Day

This Proprietary Index Condition 6(d) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Proprietary Index on a Component Disrupted Day) shall only apply where "Component Valuation" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms.

Where Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if a Valuation Date for a Proprietary Index (i) is not a Component Scheduled Trading Day or (ii) is a Component Disrupted Day, in either case, in respect of one or more of the Components of such Proprietary Index (each such Component, an Affected Component and each such date an Affected Valuation Date), then any level of the Proprietary Index published in respect of such Valuation Date may be disregarded by the Calculation Agent and the Underlying Closing Level for such Valuation Date may be determined by the Calculation Agent as the level of such Proprietary Index in respect of such Valuation Date determined in accordance with the then-current methodology for calculating the level of the Proprietary Index, but using:

- (i) with respect to each Component which is not an Affected Component, the price, level or value of each such Component at the relevant time on the relevant Affected Valuation Date; and
- (ii) with respect to each Affected Component, the price, level or value for each such Affected Component at the relevant time on the earlier of (i) the first succeeding Component Scheduled Trading Day for such Affected Component immediately following the relevant Affected Valuation Date that is not a Component Disrupted Day for such Affected Component and (ii) the Component Scheduled Trading Day which is the Component Valuation Roll number of Component Scheduled Trading Days for such Component immediately following the relevant Affected Valuation Date,

PROVIDED THAT if, pursuant to the above, the relevant Valuation Date for any Component determined as provided above would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Component Scheduled Trading Day prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Component Cut-off Date), such Valuation Date for such Affected Component shall be deemed to be the Component Cut-off Date (notwithstanding that such date either (A) is not a Component Scheduled Trading Day for such Component or (B) is a Component Disrupted Day for such Component) and the provisions of paragraph (iii) below shall apply;

- (iii) if the Valuation Date for any Component (as determined in accordance with paragraph (ii) above) is a Component Disrupted Day for such Component or is determined to occur on the Component Cut-off Date (as provided in paragraph (ii) above), then the Calculation Agent shall determine the price, level or value of the relevant Component in the manner (as specified in the relevant Index Conditions) in which the price, level or value of such disrupted Component would be determined on a date which is a Component Disrupted Day for such Component (for the avoidance of doubt, without regard to any valuation roll).

For the purposes hereof:

Component Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Component and unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, a day on which the price, level or value of such Component and/or any sub-component of such Component and/or any related futures contracts, options contracts or securities (each a Relevant Component) is not published (or publication is delayed) and/or cannot be determined and/or is otherwise disrupted (including, without limitation, by way of a suspension, limitation and/or disruption of trading in the Relevant Component and/or the failure to open or the early closure of any relevant exchange), however described in the relevant Index Conditions and as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Component Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Component and unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, a day on or in respect of which the price, level or value of such Component is scheduled to be determined, however described in the relevant Index Conditions and as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Component Valuation Roll means the number specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms or, if no number is so specified, eight.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 12 – DIVIDEND FUTURES CONTRACT CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Dividend Futures Contract".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts.

1. Definitions

Dividend Futures Contract means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Dividend Futures Contract Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculations and adjustments, if any, related to such Dividend Futures Contract; and (b) announces (directly or through an agent) the price of such Dividend Futures Contract on a regular basis.

Exchange means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, the exchange or principal trading facility specified for such Dividend Futures Contract in the applicable Issue Terms or any successor to such exchange or principal trading facility.

Expiry Date means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date, where the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date is specified to be the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract in the applicable Issue Terms, the expiry date of such Dividend Futures Contract on which the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract is expected to be announced by the Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor and published on the Exchange) or, if such "final settlement price" is not so announced and published but, on or prior to such originally designated expiry date, the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor has announced arrangements for the publication of such "final settlement price" on another date, such other date.

Relevant Price means in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date, the "daily settlement price" or the "final settlement price", in each case, however defined in the contract specifications of such Dividend Futures Contract or the relevant Exchange, as the case may be.

Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, any day on which the relevant Exchange is scheduled to be open for trading for its regular trading session notwithstanding such Exchange closing prior to its scheduled closing time.

2. Valuation

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date, the Relevant Price for the relevant Valuation Date as displayed on the relevant Electronic Page or, if such Relevant Price is not displayed on the relevant Electronic Page on the relevant Valuation Date, the Relevant Price of such Dividend Futures Contract for such Valuation Date as published by the relevant Exchange.

Valuation Time means, in respect of an Underlying Closing Level and a Dividend Futures Contract, the time at which the relevant price referred to for the purpose of such Underlying Closing Level of such Dividend Futures Contract for such day is calculated and published by the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor.

Underlying Level shall not apply to a Dividend Futures Contract.

3. Disruption To Valuation

Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Dividend Futures Contract on which:

- (i) the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor fails to announce the Relevant Price;
- (ii) the relevant Electronic Page and the relevant Exchange each fail to publish the Relevant Price of the Dividend Futures Contract (or other data from which such Relevant Price is calculated);
- (iii) the relevant Electronic Page is temporarily or permanently discontinued or unavailable;
- (iv) the relevant Exchange fails to open for trading during its regular trading session; or
- (v) there is a suspension of or limitation on trading in such Dividend Futures Contract on the relevant Exchange (which, in either case, the Calculation Agent determines is material).

The definition of Disrupted Day and the provisions relating to Disrupted Days in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule will not apply in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date if the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date is specified to be the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract in the applicable Issue Terms and the Conditions shall be construed accordingly.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract if Dividend Futures Contract Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: such Dividend Futures Contract is either (a) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (b) replaced, as relevant, by a successor dividend futures contract using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Dividend Futures Contract (such dividend futures contract, the Successor Dividend Futures Contract, which will be deemed to be such Dividend Futures Contract).

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract if Dividend Futures Contract Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation, adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made under Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b) (Modification, cancellation or disruption of a Dividend Futures Contract and Dividend Futures Contract Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, two Business Days.

- (b) Modification, cancellation or disruption of a Dividend Futures Contract and Dividend Futures Contract Substitution

- (A) Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event

If Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b)(A) (Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, (i) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor, as the case may be, announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating any price of such Dividend Futures Contract or in any other way materially modifies such Dividend Futures Contract, including any material change in the content, composition or constitution of such Dividend Futures Contract (a Dividend Futures Contract Modification); or (ii) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor, as the case may be, at any time permanently cancels or discontinues such Dividend Futures Contract or there is otherwise a permanent discontinuation in trading or trading never commences in such Dividend Futures Contract and, in each such case, no Successor Dividend Futures Contract exists (a Dividend Futures Contract Cancellation); or (iii) on any Valuation Date for which the Relevant Price is specified to be the "final settlement price" in the applicable Issue Terms, such Relevant Price is not displayed or published on the relevant Electronic Page or by the Exchange, as the case may be, at the relevant Valuation Time (a Dividend Futures Contract Disruption, and together with a Dividend Futures Contract Modification and a Dividend Futures Contract Cancellation, a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities and, if so, shall either:

- (i) calculate the relevant price of such Dividend Futures Contract at or for the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of the published Relevant Price for such Dividend Futures Contract, a price for such Dividend Futures Contract at or for the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent by calculating the value of the relevant dividends for the applicable contract period for such Dividend Futures Contract by reference to the formula for and the method of calculation last in effect of any related dividend point index or such other sources as it deems appropriate;
- (ii) make such adjustments to the Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event and determine the effective date of each such adjustment; and/or
- (iii) substitute such Dividend Futures Contract as provided in Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b)(B) (Dividend Futures Contract Substitution) and make such adjustments (if any) to the Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms to as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution.

If no calculation, adjustment and/or substitution can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Dividend Futures Contract Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(B) Dividend Futures Contract Substitution

If Dividend Futures Contract Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b)(A)(iii) (Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Dividend Futures Contract Substitution.

Dividend Futures Contract Substitution means, in relation to a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of the Dividend Futures Contract the subject of such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new dividend futures contract selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement dividend futures contract using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the Dividend Futures Contract or a replacement dividend futures contract selected by the Calculation Agent in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement). Such new dividend futures contract shall be deemed to be a Dividend Futures Contract in place of the Dividend Futures Contract the subject of the Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Dividend Futures Contract on a Disrupted Day or on the Cut-off Valuation Date

Where the Relevant Price for a Valuation Date is not specified to be the "final settlement price" in the applicable Issue Terms, Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) applies.

(B) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Dividend Futures Contract on the Cut-off Valuation Date

If the Relevant Price for a Valuation Date is specified to be the "final settlement price" in the applicable Issue Terms and, in accordance with the provisions of the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and the applicable Issue Terms, the relevant Valuation Date would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Scheduled Trading Day for such Dividend Futures Contract prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Cut-off Valuation Date), such Valuation Date shall be deemed to be the Cut-off Valuation Date and the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level of the Dividend Futures Contract for such Valuation Date by calculating the value of the relevant dividends for the applicable contract period for such Dividend Futures Contract by reference to the formula for and the method of calculation last in effect of any related dividend point index or such other sources as it deems appropriate.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 13 – RATE CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Rate".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Rates.

1. Definitions

Disrupted Day shall have the meaning given to it in Rate Condition 3 (Disruption to Valuation).

Rate means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Rate Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Scheduled Trading Day shall, in respect of a Rate, have the meaning given to it for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms.

U.S. Government Securities Business Day means any day except for a Saturday, Sunday or a day on which the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association (or any successor) recommends that the fixed income departments of its members be closed for the entire day for purposes of trading in U.S. government securities.

2. Valuation

(a) Closing Valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Rate and a Valuation Date, the interest rate (expressed as a percentage) specified to be such Rate for the relevant designated maturity (where applicable) on such Valuation Date, which appears on the applicable Electronic Page as of the Valuation Time. For the avoidance of doubt, a Rate will be determined as of the Valuation Time which may not be the "closing time" and a Rate may only be determined once on any Scheduled Trading Day.

(b) Intraday Valuations

Underlying Level does not apply to an Underlying that is a Rate.

(c) Valuation Time

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Rate, the time specified for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms.

3. Disruption to Valuation

Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Rate, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Rate on which the Electronic Page is not available or the percentage rate of such Rate for such Scheduled Trading Day does not appear on the Electronic Page and/or the Rate is not provided or published by the relevant administrator or a relevant authorised distributor and/or a component of the relevant Rate is not provided or published.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

No Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Rate.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

No Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Rate.

6. Additional Provisions

(a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Unless "Correction Provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(l) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) do not apply in respect of a Rate.

(b) Scheduled Trading Day

If any Specified Valuation Date(s) is not a Scheduled Trading Day for a Rate then, if neither "Preceding Scheduled Trading Day" nor "Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day" is specified in respect of such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, then the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) applies in respect of that Rate; or:

- (i) if "Preceding Scheduled Trading Day" is specified for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day falling first preceding such Specified Valuation Date, unless such day is a Disrupted Day for the Underlying, in which case Rate Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on a Disrupted Day) shall apply; or
- (ii) if "Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day" is specified for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day immediately succeeding such Specified Valuation Date, unless such day would fall into the next calendar month, in which event the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day falling first preceding such Specified Valuation Date, unless, in either such case, such day is a Disrupted Day for the Underlying, in which case Rate Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on a Disrupted Day) shall apply.

Where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Scheduled Trading Days and "Preceding Scheduled Trading Day" or "Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in respect of a Rate, then the adjustment provisions relating to Preceding Scheduled Trading Day or, as the case may be, Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day prevail and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall be construed so as not to apply to such Rate and consequently all reference to "for all of the Underlyings" and "for any of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall be construed not to include any such Rate.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on a Disrupted Day

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) do not apply in respect of a Rate.

If any Specified Valuation Date(s) (if applicable, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) or, as the case may be, Rate Condition 6(b) (Scheduled Trading Day) above) is a Disrupted Day for a Rate, then subject as provided in Valuation and Settlement Condition 8 (Hierarchy Provisions and Adjustments) and notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, the Relevant Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level of such Rate for the Valuation Date at such time as it deems appropriate and in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, having regard to such sources as it deems appropriate and any alternative benchmark then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market). For the avoidance of doubt and without limitation, the Relevant Agent may determine the relevant Underlying Closing Level for such Valuation Date by reference to one of the following:

- (1) the Rate for the relevant designated maturity (where applicable) published on the relevant Scheduled Trading Day on a different screen page by another authorised distributor of the relevant Rate;

- (2) a rate formally recommended for use by the administrator of the relevant Rate or the supervisor or competent authority (or a committee endorsed or convened by any such entity) responsible for supervising the relevant Rate or the administrator thereof; or
- (3) the Rate for the relevant designated maturity (where applicable) last provided or published by the relevant administrator; or
- (4) the arithmetic mean of quotations provided by reference banks selected by the Relevant Agent on a date determined by the Relevant Agent for a representative amount (and, where relevant, with an acknowledged dealer of good credit in the swap market) and, if applicable, for a term equal to the designated maturity, calculated in the manner determined by the Relevant Agent.

Where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Disrupted Days, then the adjustment provisions above prevail and reference to "for all of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall be construed not to include any Underlying that is a Rate.

(d) Cut-off Valuation Date

If the Valuation Date for a Rate determined as provided above would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Scheduled Trading Day for such Rate prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Cut-off Valuation Date), such Valuation Date shall be deemed to be the Cut-off Valuation Date (notwithstanding that such date either (A) is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such Rate; or (B) is a Disrupted Day for such Rate) and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) shall apply in respect thereof.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 14 – PREFERENCE SHARE CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Preference Share". Securities linked to Preference Shares shall only be issued by CGMFL or CGMHI.

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Preference Shares.

1. Definitions

The Underlying Closing Level is scheduled to be published by the Preference Share Company on each Business Day on the Electronic Page specified in the applicable Issue Terms or such other widely available replacement price source as is notified to the holder of the Preference Share Linked Securities in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices).

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Preference Share, an Underlying Closing Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, the time specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms or, if no such time is so specified, 5:00 p.m. (London time).

Underlying Level shall not apply in respect of a Preference Share.

3. Disruption to Valuation

Disrupted Day shall not apply in respect of a Preference Share and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2 (Underlying Valuation Provisions) shall be construed accordingly.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

No Additional Adjustment Events shall apply in respect of a Preference Share and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(g) (Adjustment Events) shall not apply.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, the following Additional Early Redemption Events shall apply in respect of a Preference Share:

(a) Corporate Action

Corporate Action means any event which may have, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, a diluting or concentrative effect on the theoretical value of the relevant Preference Shares.

(b) Insolvency

Insolvency means, in respect of the Preference Share Company, that either (i) by reason of the voluntary or involuntary liquidation, bankruptcy, insolvency, dissolution or winding up of or any analogous proceeding affecting the Preference Share Company, (A) all the Preference Shares of the Preference Share Company are required to be transferred to an Insolvency Officer; or (B) holders of Preference Shares of the Preference Share Company become legally prohibited from transferring such Preference Shares; or (ii) an Insolvency Event occurs in respect of the Preference Share Company.

Insolvency Officer means, an administrator, provisional liquidator, liquidator, conservator, receiver, trustee, custodian or other similar official.

For these purposes, "Competent Official" means, in respect of an entity, a regulator, supervisor or other similar official with primary insolvency, rehabilitative or regulatory jurisdiction over such entity in the jurisdiction of its incorporation or organisation or in the jurisdiction of its head office or home office.

(c) Merger Event

- (ii) consolidation, amalgamation, merger or binding share exchange of the Preference Share Company with or into another entity (other than a consolidation, amalgamation, merger or binding share exchange in which the Preference Share Company is the continuing entity and which does not result in a reclassification or change of all such Preference Shares outstanding); or
- (iii) takeover offer, tender offer, exchange offer, solicitation, proposal or other event by any entity or person to purchase or otherwise obtain 100 per cent. of the outstanding Preference Shares of the Preference Share Company, which results in a transfer of or an irrevocable commitment to transfer all such Preference Shares (other than those Preference Shares owned or controlled by such other entity or person); or
- (iv) consolidation, amalgamation, merger or binding share exchange of the Preference Share Company or its subsidiaries with or into another entity in which the Preference Share

Company is the continuing entity and which does not result in the reclassification or change of all such Preference Shares outstanding but results in the outstanding Preference Shares (other than those Preference Shares owned or controlled by such other entity) immediately prior to such event collectively representing less than 50 per cent. of the outstanding Preference Shares immediately following such event, in each case if the Merger Date is on or before the last occurring Valuation Date in respect of the Securities. For these purposes, "Merger Date" means the closing date of a Merger Event or, where a closing date cannot be determined under the local law applicable to such Merger Event, such other date as determined by the Calculation Agent.

(d) Nationalisation

Nationalisation means, in respect of the Preference Share Company, that all the Preference Shares or all the assets or substantially all the assets of the Preference Share Company are nationalised, expropriated or are otherwise required to be transferred to any governmental agency, authority, entity or instrumentality thereof.

Tender Offer means, in respect of the Preference Share Company, a takeover offer, tender offer, exchange offer, solicitation, proposal or other event by any entity or person that results in such entity or person purchasing, or otherwise obtaining or having the right to obtain, by conversion or other means, greater than 10 per cent. and less than 100 per cent. of the outstanding voting shares of the Preference Share Company, as determined by the Calculation Agent, based on the making of filings with governmental or self-regulatory agencies or such other information as the Calculation Agent deems relevant.

(f) Preference Share Early Redemption Event

Preference Share Early Redemption Event means the event that occurs if the Issuer has received an Early Redemption Notice.

(g) Change in Law, Hedging Disruption and Increased Cost of Hedging

Change in Law, Hedging Disruption and Increased Cost of Hedging shall be Additional Early Redemption Events and not Adjustment Events.

6. Additional Provisions

(a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(1) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) shall not apply in respect of a Preference Share.

(b) Issue Date

The Issue Date of any Preference Share Linked Securities shall be either (i) the date specified, or (ii) the number of Business Days following the Initial Preference Share Reference Date, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

For the purposes of this Preference Share Condition 6(b) (Issue Date):

Initial Preference Share Reference Date shall be the date specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms, PROVIDED THAT, if any date used for the valuation or any determination of any Preference Share Underlying (or any part thereof) falling on or about any such date is delayed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Preference Share by reason of a non-scheduled trading day, a disrupted day or the occurrence of an adjustment event (howsoever described in the terms and conditions of the Preference Shares), the Initial Preference Share Reference Date shall be the last delayed date on which any such valuation or determination is made, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

(c) Issuer Call, Investor Put and Optional Redemption Amounts

Securities that are to be redeemed early at the option of the Issuer pursuant to General Condition 6(f) (Redemption at the Option of the Issuer) may be redeemed in whole but not in part. For the purposes of such redemption, the Optional Redemption Amount shall be determined as provided below.

General Condition 6(g) (Redemption at the Option of holders of Securities) shall not apply in respect Preference Share Linked Securities.

For the purposes of this Preference Share Condition 6(c) (Issuer Call, Investor Put and Optional Redemption Amounts):

Optional Redemption Amount means an amount per Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) determined on the same basis as the Preference Share-Linked Redemption Amount (as defined in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule) except that, for the purposes of this definition, "Final Reference Level" means the Underlying Closing Level of the Redemption Underlying on the Optional Redemption Valuation Date.

Optional Redemption Valuation Date means the date or, if such day is on which the Securities are to be redeemed early or such earlier date determined by the Calculation Agent solely for the purposes of allowing the calculation of the Underlying Closing Level of the Preference Share prior to the redemption of the Securities and such date shall be deemed to be a Valuation Date for the purpose of the Conditions.

(d) Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount

If, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the Securities are to be redeemed (i) for tax reasons or for illegality in accordance with General Condition 6(b) (Redemption for Taxation Reasons and Redemption for Illegality), (ii) following the occurrence of an Obligor Regulatory Event in accordance with General Condition 6(c) (Early Redemption following the occurrence of an Obligor Regulatory Event) above, (iii) following the occurrence of an Event of Default in accordance with General Condition 11 (Events of Default) or (iv) following the occurrence of any Early Redemption Event in respect of a Preference Share in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(h) (Early Redemption Events), then the Early Redemption Amount shall be determined as provided below.

For the purposes of this Preference Share Condition 6(d) (Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount):

Early Redemption Amount means an amount per Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) determined on the same basis as the Preference Share-Linked Redemption Amount (as defined in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule) except that, for the purposes of this definition, "Final Reference Level" means the Underlying Closing Level of the Redemption Underlying on the Early Redemption Valuation Date.

Early Redemption Valuation Date means the date on which the Securities are to be redeemed early or such earlier date determined by the Calculation Agent solely for the purposes of allowing the calculation of the Underlying Closing Level of the Preference Share prior to the redemption of the Securities. Such date shall be deemed to be a Valuation Date for the purposes of the Conditions.

(e) Realisation Disruption

If "Realisation Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and a Realisation Disruption Event occurs, such Realisation Disruption Event shall be deemed to be an Early Redemption Event and the Issuer may redeem the Securities pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(h) (Early Redemption Events) and Preference Share Condition 6(d)

(Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount) and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(j) (Realisation Disruption) shall not apply to the Securities.

(f) Redenomination

General Condition 18 (Redenomination) shall not apply in respect of Preference Share Linked Securities.

(g) Taxation

General Condition 9 (Taxation) shall not apply in respect of Preference Share Linked Securities insofar as it would require the Issuer or (if applicable) Guarantor to pay additional interest as described therein.

For the avoidance of doubt, this Preference Share Condition 6(g) is without prejudice to the ability of the Issuer to redeem any such Preference Share Linked Securities in accordance with General Condition 6(b) (Redemption for Taxation Reasons and Redemption for Illegality) and the reference therein to the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor being obligated to pay additional interest shall be construed as a reference to the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor being obligated to pay additional interest in the absence of this Preference Share Condition 6(g).

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 15 – CREDIT LINKED CONDITIONS

PART A: INTRODUCTION TO THE CREDIT LINKED CONDITIONS FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

For the avoidance of doubt, this introduction to the Credit Linked Conditions (including the worked examples set out in the Annex (Worked Examples in respect of Credit Linked Notes) to this Part A) shall not form part of the Credit Linked Conditions.

The questions and answers set out below and the worked examples set out in the Annex (Worked Examples in respect of Credit Linked Notes) to this Part A highlight selected information and provide practical examples to help prospective investors understand the Credit Linked Notes. However, any decision to invest in the Credit Linked Notes should only be made after careful consideration of the Base Prospectus and the relevant General Conditions in their entirety, particularly, the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes set out in the Credit Linked Conditions, as completed by the applicable Final Terms or as completed, modified and/or supplemented by the applicable Pricing Supplement, as applicable. This section should be treated as an introduction to certain terms of the Credit Linked Notes. It is not intended to be a substitute for, nor a summary of, the Credit Linked Conditions.

Capitalised terms in relation to the following questions and answers shall have the meanings given to them in the Credit Linked Conditions.

INTRODUCTION TO CREDIT LINKED NOTES

What are Credit Linked Notes?

Credit Linked Notes are debt securities, the value of which are linked to the credit risk of one or more Reference Entities. The amount of interest, if applicable, and principal which investors will receive on the Credit Linked Notes is dependent on whether certain Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, occur in respect of any relevant Reference Entity to which the Credit Linked Notes are linked.

In purchasing the Credit Linked Notes, investors are assuming credit risk exposure to each Reference Entity (and possible successors thereof). A Credit Linked Note is broadly intended to give the investor access to a credit default swap referencing certain Reference Entity(ies) in funded format. Therefore, many of the features and risks applicable to a market standard credit default swap referencing the relevant Reference Entity(ies) will be equally applicable to the Credit Linked Notes.

By investing in the Credit Linked Notes, the investor will be a seller of credit protection (and hence a buyer of credit risk), while the Issuer will be a buyer of credit protection (and therefore a seller of credit risk).

What is credit risk?

Credit risk with respect to a Reference Entity is the risk that the Reference Entity fails to perform its obligations under certain borrowed money, bond or loan (as applicable) obligations, a specified reference obligation of the Reference Entity or the risk that the Reference Entity enters into bankruptcy. Borrowed money obligations would include any incurred loan obligations of the Reference Entity, obligations under any debt securities issued by the Reference Entity and certain qualifying guarantees of the Reference Entity related to such borrowed money obligations. In addition, failure to perform with respect to certain specified reference obligations will also be captured.

The failure of the Reference Entity to perform its obligations is generally (but not exclusively) as a result of a deterioration of its financial condition.

The financial condition and creditworthiness of a Reference Entity may change over time. Public information which is available in relation to a Reference Entity may be incomplete, misleading or out of date. The identity of each Reference Entity is subject to change as a result of successions where there are debt transfers or where another entity issues bonds or incurs a loan obligation in exchange for bonds or loans of the Reference Entity. The risks associated with a successor Reference Entity may be greater than the risks associated with the original Reference Entity.

If the Credit Linked Notes are linked to multiple Reference Entities, the probability that a Credit Event will occur may be increased. The credit risk to investors may further be increased if the Reference Entities are concentrated in a particular industry sector or geographic area, or if they have exposure to similar financial or other risks.

What is the difference between the Credit Linked Notes and an ordinary debt security?

Credit Linked Notes are similar to an ordinary debt security in that they provide the investor with a regular stream of interest payments, if applicable, and the return of par or a premium (in the case of Credit Linked Notes that are Zero Coupon Notes) on maturity in the ordinary course. However, Credit Linked Notes have the added feature not present in ordinary debt securities of an exposure to the credit of one or more Reference Entities. If a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, occurs in relation to the relevant Reference Entity, an investor may lose all or part of its investment in the Credit Linked Notes.

What is the difference between Credit Linked Notes and a bond issued by the Reference Entity?

Credit Linked Notes give an investor exposure to the credit risk of the Reference Entity without having to own a bond, loan or other type of borrowed money obligation of such Reference Entity. The Reference Entity itself is not a party to and has no direct involvement in the Credit Linked Notes and an investor will not be able to claim against the Reference Entity or Issuer for any losses it suffers from a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in respect of the relevant Reference Entity. The investor will also not have any interest in, or rights under, any obligation of such Reference Entity. An investment in Credit Linked Notes is not equivalent to an investment in the obligations of a Reference Entity.

The Issuer is not obliged to hold any obligation of the Reference Entity or otherwise have credit risk exposure to the Reference Entity. In addition to the credit risk of the relevant Reference Entity to which the Credit Linked Notes are linked, an investor will also be exposed to the credit risk of the Issuer and/or Guarantor, as applicable. Therefore, even if the Reference Entity is performing well, an investor may still suffer a loss if the Issuer's and/or the Guarantor's, as applicable, creditworthiness declines.

How do changes in share prices of any Reference Entity affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes?

Taking credit risk on the Reference Entity by purchasing Credit Linked Notes is different from taking equity risk by investing in shares of the Reference Entity. There are a number of reasons for this. For example:

- (a) the Credit Linked Notes reference borrowed money obligations of the Reference Entity or specified guarantees of the Reference Entity in respect of borrowed money obligations, and a Reference Entity must generally pay amounts due to the creditors on these debt obligations before paying dividends or capital to shareholders;
- (b) the obligations of the Reference Entity referenced by the Credit Linked Notes consist of borrowed money obligations or specified guarantees of the Reference Entity in respect of borrowed money obligations; holders of this type of debt will generally rank ahead of holders of ordinary shares in the insolvency of a Reference Entity, and so may have (but are not guaranteed) a higher rate of recovery of moneys due to them;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes reference these borrowed money obligations and accordingly, the market value of the Credit Linked Notes is related to (although not necessarily equal to) the value of these borrowed money obligations; and
- (d) there is no direct link between share prices and the value of the Credit Linked Notes.

However, in some circumstances, change in the share price of the Reference Entity may result in or from, at a general level, a change in the market value of its debt and vice versa.

KEY REGULATORY CONCEPTS RELEVANT TO CREDIT LINKED NOTESWhat is ISDA?

The International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. (ISDA) is a trade organisation of participants in the market for over-the-counter derivatives. It is headquartered in New York, and is responsible for creating standardised contracts such as the ISDA Master Agreement and the 2014 ISDA Credit Derivatives Definitions and a wide range of related documentation, that are used to enter into derivatives transactions. Definitions, confirmations and other documents and information published by ISDA are available on ISDA's website: <https://www.isda.org/>. Certain publications are available free of charge while others are available to subscribers of the website only.

At the date of this Base Prospectus, ISDA has over 900 member institutions from more than 70 countries. These members include a broad range of over-the-counter (OTC) derivatives market participants.

What is a Credit Event?

A Credit Event is, broadly speaking, an event which may be, but is not necessarily, regarded as being indicative of a default or material decline in the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity, which also includes bankruptcy in the case of a corporate Reference Entity.

Credit Events are determined by reference to, in the context of a bankruptcy, the relevant Reference Entity itself and, in other cases, certain eligible types of obligations of such Reference Entity (including certain qualifying guarantees of the Reference Entity in relation to such obligations) which, in relation to the Credit Linked Notes, include loans, debt securities or other borrowed money obligations of the Reference Entity or specified reference obligations (Obligations).

The Credit Events relevant to the Credit Linked Notes are any of the following events with respect to the Reference Entity, which will apply to a Credit Linked Note if specified or elected by reference to a specified transaction type in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) Failure to Pay: a failure by the Reference Entity to pay amounts when due under its Obligations (after the expiry of any applicable grace period), where the failure to pay relates to an amount greater than a pre-determined minimum amount; and where the "Credit Deterioration Requirement" is applicable, the failure to pay results from a deterioration in the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity;
- (b) Bankruptcy: a bankruptcy or insolvency procedure in respect of the Reference Entity;
- (c) Restructuring: a restructuring of an Obligation of the Reference Entity which amends key terms of that Obligation as to reduction in repayment of principal or payment of interest thereunder, postponement in the payment of principal or interest, the changes in the ranking of the instrument causing subordination or resulting in redenomination into certain hard currencies in a form that binds all holders of the obligation and such event is not expressly provided for in the terms of the instrument where the event results from, directly or indirectly, a deterioration in the creditworthiness or financial condition of the Reference Entity;
- (d) Obligation Acceleration: the acceleration of an Obligation of the Reference Entity before it would otherwise be due and payable in respect of a pre-determined minimum amount;
- (e) Obligation Default: an Obligation of the Reference Entity in respect of a pre-determined minimum amount becomes capable of being declared due and payable before it would otherwise be due and payable;
- (f) Repudiation/Moratorium: the Reference Entity repudiates an Obligation in respect of a pre-determined minimum amount or imposes a moratorium in respect of an Obligation in respect of such minimum amount and a failure to pay or a restructuring under such obligation subsequently occurs within a specified time period, without regard to any pre-determined amount; or
- (g) Governmental Intervention: an event which would result in the reduction or postponement of payment of principal or interest or change in ranking of priority in the instrument causing subordination, an expropriation of or the mandatory cancellation of an Obligation as the result of an action taken or announcement made by a Governmental Authority in a form which is binding regardless of whether such event is expressly provided for under the terms of the instrument. This event is applicable only where "Financial Reference Entity" terms are stated to be applicable in the Issue Terms.

What Credit Events apply to the Credit Linked Notes?

In respect of each issue of Credit Linked Notes, the types of Credit Events which may apply in relation to the specified Reference Entity will vary depending on the identity of each Reference Entity and will be determined by reference to market standards that will be specified in the applicable Issue Terms. Typically, certain terms of the Credit Linked Notes, for example the maturity and the price of credit protection purchased will be subject to negotiation between the parties. However, many key terms of the Credit Linked Notes – for example, the applicable Credit Events – are typically determined by reference to a physical settlement matrix of market standard terms published by ISDA (the version of such matrix which is effective as at the Trade Date, Issue Date or Effective Date, as applicable, is referred to as the Physical Settlement Matrix). The Physical Settlement Matrix recognises a variety of standard terms based on the nature of the relevant Reference Entity (corporate, sovereign, etc.) and its location ((EMEA (Europe, Middle East and Africa), Asia-Ex Japan, Japan, Latin America, North America etc.)). As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the Physical Settlement Matrix is available free of charge on ISDA's website at www.isda.org.

The Issue Terms will specify a "Transaction Type" with respect to the relevant Reference Entity. Certain terms of the Credit Linked Notes, including Credit Events, will be determined by reference to the Physical Settlement Matrix for such "Transaction Type". Such terms may vary between particular series of Credit Linked Notes depending on the relevant "Transaction Type" which applies. Further, the Physical Settlement Matrix is updated regularly by ISDA and accordingly, different Series of Credit Linked Notes may refer to different versions of the Physical Settlement Matrix.

What is a Risk Event and does it apply to all Credit Linked Notes?

A Risk Event may be a Credit Event or an Additional Risk Event. While Credit Events cover the risks arising from the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity (see further "What is a Credit Event?" above), Additional Risk Events are indicative of defaults or risks specific to certain local access jurisdictions and will apply to Local Access Credit Linked Notes to the extent that such events apply in the applicable Issue Terms. Additional Risk Events include, amongst other things, events that make it impossible, illegal or impracticable for, or prohibit, restrict or materially delay the ability of, any entity holding a loan or obligation to convert or repatriate currency or purchase, hold, receive, sell, freely transfer or remain the owner of any such loan or obligation or affect the performance of custodial and settlement activities.

The concept of a Risk Event is therefore specific to Local Access Credit Linked Notes. The types of Risk Events which may apply in relation to the specified Reference Entity will vary depending on the identity of each Reference Entity and the jurisdiction of such Reference Entity.

When does a Credit Event need to occur to affect the payout on the Credit Linked Notes?

A Credit Event may occur at any time during the period from, and including, the "Credit Event Backstop Date" to, and including, the Scheduled Maturity Date or such other date as is specified in the applicable Issue Terms (subject to extension in certain circumstances).

The Credit Event Backstop Date is typically intended to be a rolling date which is:

- (i) if a relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee (see further "What is the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee and how does it affect the Credit Linked Notes (other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes)?" below) receives a request to resolve whether or not a Credit Event has occurred in relation to a Reference Entity (such date of request, the Credit Event Resolution Request Date), 60 calendar days prior to the date of such request; or
- (ii) if the Calculation Agent determines that a Credit Event has occurred in relation to any Reference Entity or an Obligation thereof and delivers an effective Credit Event Notice, and supporting information (if applicable), to the Issuer for delivery to the Fiscal Agent and Securityholders to that effect, when the Credit Derivatives Determinations

Committee is not going to consider the same, 60 calendar days prior to the earlier of (a) the effective delivery date of such Credit Event Notice (where it occurs during the notice delivery period) and (b) the Credit Event Resolution Request Date (where the effective delivery date of such Credit Event Notice occurs during the post dismissal additional period), subject to extension in certain circumstances.

Instead of a rolling date, the Issue Date or Trade Date may be specified to be the Credit Event Backstop Date in the applicable Issue Terms.

When does a Risk Event need to occur to affect the payout on the Local Access Credit Linked Notes?

A Risk Event may occur at any time during the "Risk Event Determination Period", being a period commencing on the Issue Date or the Trade Date (as specified in the Issue Terms) and expiring on the Scheduled Maturity Date (subject to extension in certain circumstances).

What are the event and payment timings which are relevant?

- (i) Event Timing: In order to determine the day on which an event occurs for purposes of the Credit Linked Notes, the demarcation of days shall be made by reference to Greenwich Mean Time (or, if the Transaction Type of the Reference Entity relates to Japan, Tokyo time), irrespective of the time zone in which such event occurred. Any event occurring at midnight shall be deemed to have occurred immediately prior to midnight.
- (ii) Payment Timing: If a payment is not made by the Reference Entity on its due date or, as the case may be, on the final day of the relevant Grace Period, then such failure to make a payment shall be deemed to have occurred on such day prior to midnight Greenwich Mean Time (or, if the Transaction Type of the Reference Entity relates to Japan, Tokyo time), irrespective of the time zone of its place of payment.

Can a Credit Event occur prior to the Issue Date or the Trade Date?

Yes. A Credit Event may occur prior to the Issue Date of the Credit Linked Notes and may even occur prior to the Trade Date specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Securityholders should conduct their own review of any recent developments with respect to the Reference Entity by consulting publicly available information. If a request has been delivered to ISDA prior to the Trade Date to determine whether a Credit Event has occurred with respect to the Reference Entity, details of such request may be found on the ISDA website at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

When can a Credit Event or a Risk Event be triggered?

A Credit Event may be bilaterally triggered with respect to the Reference Entity during the "Notice Delivery Period", being a period commencing on the Trade Date (as specified in the Issue Terms) and expiring 14 calendar days after the Scheduled Maturity Date or 14 calendar days following any DC Credit Event Question Dismissal. In certain circumstances, a Credit Event may be bilaterally triggered with respect to the Reference Entity 14 calendar days after a DC Credit Event Announcement. Similarly, a Risk Event may be triggered with respect to the Reference Entity during the Risk Event Determination Period (see "When does a Risk Event need to occur to affect the payout on the Local Access Credit Linked Notes?" above).

However, in certain circumstances, the Notice Delivery Period or the Risk Event Determination Period, as applicable, may be extended beyond the Scheduled Maturity Date if a potential Credit Event, such as a Failure to Pay or Repudiation/Moratorium, has occurred on or prior to the Scheduled Maturity Date of the Credit Linked Notes, which may become an actual Credit Event within a specified period following the Scheduled Maturity Date. In such case, the Notice Delivery Period will be extended to (and including) the date falling 14 calendar days following such Extension Date and the Risk Event Determination Period may also be extended in certain cases. Accordingly, notwithstanding the occurrence of a Scheduled Maturity Date, a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, could be triggered after the Scheduled Maturity Date.

What is an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date?

In order for Credit Linked Notes to be redeemed following a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, it is necessary for a relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, to have occurred. Depending on the circumstances, this may be the date on which a notice describing the occurrence of the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, has been effectively delivered (together with, if applicable, a notice containing publicly available information confirming the occurrence of the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable), or, for Credit Linked Notes other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the date on which, amongst other things, it is publicly announced that a DC Credit Event Question was effective and the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee was in possession of publicly available information with respect to such question, provided that certain conditions are satisfied.

Accordingly, notwithstanding the occurrence of a Scheduled Maturity Date, an Event Determination Date could occur as a result of issues submitted to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee after the Scheduled Maturity Date where the date on which a DC Credit Event Question was effective and on which a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee was in possession of Publicly Available Information with respect to such question falls on or prior to the 14th day following the Scheduled Maturity Date or any Extension Date, as applicable.

Can an Event Determination Date only occur if a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that one has occurred?

No. The Calculation Agent and the Issuer may also deliver a Credit Event Notice to the Securityholder in relation to a Credit Event triggering an Event Determination Date (see "When can a Credit Event or a Risk Event be triggered?" above).

An Event Determination Date may be bilaterally triggered following the occurrence of a Credit Event that is an M(M)R Restructuring. In other cases, although the Calculation Agent and the Issuer may trigger an Event Determination Date following the occurrence of a Credit Event it will only be able to do so if (i) a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not made a DC Credit Event Announcement or a DC No Credit Event Announcement; (ii) it has some information to support its determination that a Credit Event has occurred and (iii) (in circumstances where a Notice of Publicly Available Information is required to be provided) it cites Publicly Available Information confirming the occurrence of the Credit Event described in the Credit Event Notice.

What is the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee and how does it affect the Credit Linked Notes (other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes)?

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee was established by ISDA in March 2009 to make determinations that are relevant to the majority of the credit derivatives market and to promote transparency and consistency. Securityholders will have no role in the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee by virtue of the fact that they are investors in the Credit Linked Notes.

Prospective Securityholders should note that a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has the power to make binding decisions which the Calculation Agent may determine are applicable for the purposes of the Credit Linked Notes on critical issues, including:

- (a) the occurrence of a Credit Event and the standard Event Determination Date;
- (b) whether one or more Auctions will be held in respect of the Reference Entity for which a Credit Event has occurred;
- (c) if one or more Auctions are to be held, what Deliverable Obligations of the Reference Entity will be used for the purposes of determining the price for each such Auction and the relevant auction buckets which cover the various scheduled termination dates of transactions;
- (d) the suitable methodology to be applied when determining the asset market value of any non-financial instruments or instruments not capable of transfer or when asset package delivery will be cash settled;

- (e) the auction settlement terms;
- (f) the occurrence of a succession or succession event and the identity of any "Successors" (for details, see "Successors" below); and
- (g) suitable substitute Reference Obligations where a substitution event has occurred.

Consequently, Securityholders will be bound by any such relevant decisions determined to be applicable to the Credit Linked Notes and the payments on the Credit Linked Notes and the timing of any such payments may be affected by such decisions or determinations. Questions referred to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee and the results of binding votes will be published by the DC Secretary on <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees are regional and there is a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee for each of the following five regions: the Americas, Asia (excluding Japan), Australia and New Zealand, Europe, the Middle East and Africa (EMEA) and Japan. The proceedings of each Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee will be governed by rules published from time to time by the DC Secretary. A copy of such rules is available as at the date of this Base Prospectus free of charge at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

Each Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee is formed of up to ten voting dealer members, five voting buy-side (non-dealer) members and three non-voting members (two dealers and one buy-side). A Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may also include as non-voting members one or more credit derivatives central clearing counterparties (CCP) as observer members. Dealer institutions are selected for membership in accordance with the DC Rules published by the DC Secretary and certain trading volume data guidelines.

With effect from 12 October 2018, DC Administration Services, Inc., a Delaware-incorporated subsidiary of ISDA was appointed by ISDA to act as the DC Secretary. The DC Secretary is responsible for various administrative tasks, including distributing questions submitted by eligible market participants to the relevant DC members, convening DC meetings, and publishing the results of DC votes. The DC secretary does not vote on whether Credit Events have occurred.

SUMMARY OF DIFFERENT CREDIT PRODUCTS UNDER THE PROGRAMME

What are the different types of Credit Linked Notes that may be issued under the Programme?

If Credit Linked Notes are issued by way of Final Terms, the Credit Linked Notes may be Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes, Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes, Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Local Access Credit Linked Notes.

(A) What are Single Name Credit Linked Notes?

Single Name Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of only one Reference Entity specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Depending on the type of credit linkage specified in the applicable Issue Terms, Single Name Credit Linked Notes will be either Credit Linked Principal Notes (i.e. the occurrence of a Credit Event will impact the payment of principal and any interest under such Securities) or Credit Linked Interest Notes (i.e. the payment of Contingent Interest under such Securities will be contingent upon a Credit Event not occurring in respect of the Reference Entity and accordingly, the occurrence of a Credit Event will impact the accrual of Contingent Interest whereas the payment of any Non-Contingent Interest and principal will remain unaffected).

For Credit Linked Principal Notes, unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and a relevant Event Determination Date occurs, then each Single Name Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full (or, where an M(M)R Restructuring occurs or multiple successors are identified, in part) by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount or, where Physical Redemption applies, by delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and/or any applicable cash amounts on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date.

For Credit Linked Interest Notes, unless redeemed early in full, the occurrence of a Credit Event and a relevant Event Determination Date will not result in any early redemption of the Single Name Credit Linked Notes and each outstanding Single Name Credit Linked Note will instead be expected to redeem at maturity (see "When will the Credit Linked Notes be redeemed if no Credit Event or Risk Event occurs?" below). The Contingent Interest payable under such Securities will cease to accrue (in full or in part), for which see "Interest Specific Provisions" below.

Multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of Single Name Credit Linked Notes in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(B) What are Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes?

Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of a basket with two or more Reference Entities, although such Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes are exposed to the credit risk of only the "nth" Reference Entity specified in the applicable Issue Terms. For example, if "n" is five, then redemption will only arise after a Credit Event has occurred with respect to five of the Reference Entities in the basket, and then only with respect to that fifth Reference Entity. As such, if one or more Credit Events occur in respect of Reference Entities other than the nth Reference Entity, redemption of the Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes will not be triggered.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and a relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of the nth Reference Entity, then each Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full (or, where an M(M)R Restructuring occurs or multiple successors are identified, in part) by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount or, where Physical Redemption applies, by delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and/or any applicable cash amounts on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date.

Multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of the nth Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(C) What are Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes?

Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of a basket of Reference Entities specified in the applicable Issue Terms and are exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the basket in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the applicable Issue Terms.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the basket, then each Linear Basket Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in part, in proportion to the weighting of the affected Reference Entity, by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount or, where Physical Redemption applies, by delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and/or any applicable cash amounts on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date. Redemption will be effected in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions, where applicable.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of component Reference Entities of an Index specified in the applicable Issue Terms. Such Index may be either an iTraxx[®] Index or a CDX[®] Index. The Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes are exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the relevant Index in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the applicable Issue Terms.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the Index, then each Index Untranching Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in part, in proportion to the weighting of the affected Reference Entity, by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date and, where applicable, in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of component Reference Entities of an Index specified in the applicable Issue Terms, although such Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes are only exposed to the incurred losses and redemptions are effected with respect to incurred recoveries (if any) in respect of a specified tranche of that Index. Such Index may be either an iTraxx® Index or a CDX® Index. Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes are accordingly exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the relevant Index in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the applicable Issue Terms, to the extent that losses suffered by the affected Reference Entities fall within such prescribed tranche.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the Index, then each Index Tranching Credit Linked Note will be written down and/or redeemed, as applicable, to reflect the incurred loss and/or incurred recovery suffered in respect of the affected Reference Entity (to the extent that any such incurred loss and incurred recovery falls within the prescribed tranche) with payment of any incurred recovery (i.e. the Index Tranching Redemption Amount) being made on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date and, where applicable, in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(F) What are Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes?

Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of component Reference Entities of a bespoke basket specified in the applicable Issue Terms, although such Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are only exposed to the incurred losses and redemptions are effected with respect to incurred recoveries (if any) in respect of a specified tranche of that basket. Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are accordingly exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the relevant basket in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the applicable Issue Terms, to the extent that losses suffered by the affected Reference Entities fall within such prescribed tranche.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the basket, then each Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note will be written down and/or redeemed, as applicable, to reflect the incurred loss and/or incurred recovery suffered in respect of the affected Reference Entity (to the extent that any such incurred loss and incurred recovery falls within the prescribed tranche) with payment of any incurred recovery (i.e. the Portfolio Tranching Redemption Amount) being made on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date and, where applicable, in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(G) What are Local Access Credit Linked Notes?

Local Access Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of only one Reference Entity specified in the applicable Issue Terms, where such Reference Entity is a sovereign of a local access jurisdiction. Accordingly, in addition to exposure to the credit risk of the Reference Entity, an investment in Local Access Credit Linked Notes involves additional risks associated with such local access jurisdictions, including potential risks of volatility, governmental intervention and the lack of a developed system of law.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Risk Event and a relevant Risk Event Determination Date occurs then each Local Access Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full (or where multiple successors are identified, in part) by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date.

Multiple Risk Events and related Risk Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes in accordance with the relevant Successor provisions.

PAYOUTS UNDER CREDIT LINKED NOTES – KEY TIMINGS AND AMOUNTS

What are the different timings for payouts that are contemplated under the Credit Linked Conditions?

The amount of interest, if applicable, and principal which an investor receives will depend on whether redemption of the Credit Linked Notes occurs:

- (a) in the usual course, at maturity (see further "When will the Credit Linked Notes be redeemed if no Credit Event or Risk Event occurs?" below);
- (b) pursuant to the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable (see further, "What is "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event"?" below);
- (c) at maturity, despite the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable (see further, "What is "Credit Payment on Maturity"?" below); or
- (d) pursuant to the occurrence of an event (other than a Credit Event or a Risk Event) triggering early redemption (see further "When may the Issuer redeem the Credit Linked Notes early?" below).

(A) When will the Credit Linked Notes be redeemed if no Credit Event or Risk Event occurs?

If no Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, has occurred, and provided that the Credit Linked Notes are not otherwise redeemed early, repurchased or cancelled, each Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full on the Scheduled Maturity Date (which may in certain circumstances have been extended) (see further "What will Securityholders receive if the Credit Linked Notes are not redeemed early?" below).

(B) What is "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event"?

"Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event", as applicable, refers to where a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, occurs with respect to a Reference Entity (or the nth Reference Entity, in case of Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes) and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs as a result and redemption follows such Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable (see further "What will Securityholders receive if "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event" applies?" below). This will apply to Credit Linked Principal Notes only.

(C) What is "Credit Payment on Maturity"?

"Credit Payment on Maturity" refers to where a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, occurs with respect to a Reference Entity (or the nth Reference Entity, in case of Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes) and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs as a result, but redemption (and accordingly, payment of the relevant redemption amounts) occurs only at maturity (see further "What will Securityholders receive if "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies?" below). This will apply to Credit Linked Principal Notes only.

(D) When may the Issuer redeem the Credit Linked Notes early?

The Issuer may redeem the Credit Linked Notes early in full, other than where a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, has occurred, if (i) certain tax events occur with respect to the Credit Linked Notes; (ii) certain events occur which make it unlawful for the Issuer and/or the relevant Guarantor to perform certain obligations or comply with material provisions of agreements entered into in connection with the Credit Linked Notes; (iii) an Early Redemption Event occurs (see further "When will an Early Redemption Event occur?" below); (iv) certain Events of Default occur; (v) the Issuer elects to exercise its call option in respect of the Credit Linked Notes (if "Issuer Call" is applicable); (vi) in certain cases and if applicable, following an Administrator/Benchmark Event; (vii) a Realisation Disruption Event occurs; (viii) an Underlying RMB Currency Event occurs; (ix) a Merger Event occurs; or (x) if the Reference Obligation (in respect of a Reference Entity to which "Reference Obligation Only" applies) is redeemed in whole prior to its scheduled maturity date (see further "What will Securityholders receive if the Issuer redeems the Credit Linked Notes early (other than due to a Credit Event or a Risk Event)?" below).

When will an Early Redemption Event occur?

An Early Redemption Event may occur where, among other things, (a) certain adjustments have occurred, (b) in respect of certain Securities, circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (c) in respect of certain Securities, no successor index can be determined or no adjustment can reasonably be made following a material change to the relevant index, (d) a Section 871(m) Event, or (e) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)).

Can Securityholders elect to redeem their Credit Linked Notes early?

The Securityholders do not have a right to require the Issuer to redeem their Notes early.

What are Securityholders expected to receive pursuant to the different payouts contemplated under the Credit Linked Conditions?

The amount of interest, if applicable, and principal which an investor receives will depend on when redemption of the Credit Linked Notes occurs.

(A) What will Securityholders receive if the Credit Linked Notes are not redeemed early?

Where the Credit Linked Notes are not otherwise redeemed early, repurchased or cancelled, the amount payable in respect of each Credit Linked Note that is redeemed in full on the Scheduled Maturity Date will be an amount equal to par.

(B) What will Securityholders receive if "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event" applies?

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event", as applicable, apply and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs, the Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed at the Credit Event Redemption Amount (see further, "What is the Credit Event Redemption Amount?" below), with no further payment of principal or interest, if applicable, on the proportion of the Credit Linked Notes affected by the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable (see further "What interest payments will Securityholders receive after the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event?" below). The Credit Event Redemption Amount is likely to be less than the par value of the Credit Linked Notes and may even be zero.

(C) What will Securityholders receive if "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies?

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs, interest will cease to accrue on, or be payable in respect of, such portion of the Credit Linked Notes affected by the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable. This will not affect any interest payable on the remaining portion of the Credit Linked Notes unaffected by such Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable. Further, the Credit Payment on Maturity Amount (which reflects the incurred recoveries to be paid at maturity) will accrue interest based on the funding interest rate specified in the Issue Terms (see further "What interest payments will Securityholders receive after the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event?" below). The Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed only at maturity in an amount equal to the Credit Event Redemption Amount (see further, "What is the Credit Event Redemption Amount?" below). The Credit Event Redemption Amount is likely to be less than the par value of the Credit Linked Notes and may even be zero.

(D) What will Securityholders receive if the Issuer redeems the Credit Linked Notes early (other than due to a Credit Event or a Risk Event)?

If the Credit Linked Notes are redeemed early in full (other than where a Credit Event, Risk Event, Merger Event or redemption in whole of the Reference Obligation has occurred), the Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed on the Early Redemption Date or Optional Redemption Date, as applicable, by payment of an amount equal to the Early Redemption Amount or Optional Redemption Amount, as applicable, with no further payment of principal or interest, if applicable, due in respect of such Credit Linked Notes. The Early Redemption Amount is an amount determined with respect to the Credit Linked Notes in the Settlement Currency which is typically equal to the fair market value of such notes or the principal amount of such notes (together with any unpaid interest). The Optional Redemption Amount is an amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Where applicable, in the case of a Merger Event, the Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed on the Early Redemption Date by payment of the Merger Redemption Amount. The Merger Redemption Amount may be equal to either (x) the Early Redemption Amount or (y) an amount equal to the outstanding aggregate nominal amount of the relevant Credit Linked Notes less any unwind costs, and will be specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

In the case of redemption in whole of the Reference Obligation (where "Reference Obligation Only" applies), each Credit Linked Note will be redeemed on the Substitution Event Date by payment of the Substitution Event Redemption Amount. The Substitution Event Redemption Amount is an amount determined with respect to the Credit Linked Notes in the Settlement Currency which is typically equal to the fair market value of such notes less any unwind costs.

REDEMPTION MECHANICS UNDER THE PROGRAMME

What is the Applicable Proportion?

The Applicable Proportion represents such proportion of the aggregate notional amount of a Credit Linked Note that is affected by a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, and is used for determining the amounts payable or to be written down and/or redeemed following the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, and/or for calculating the interest payable on such Credit Linked Notes. The calculation of the Applicable Proportion depends on the nature of the Credit Linked Notes, the type of Credit Event (including whether the Credit Event is an M(M)R Restructuring or not) or Risk Event, as applicable, and whether the Successor provisions are relevant (see further "Successors" below):

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes and Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Single Name Credit Linked Note or Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and:

- (i) 100 per cent. (where the Credit Event is not an M(M)R Restructuring or multiple successors have not been identified);
- (ii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Exercise Amount specified in the relevant Credit Event Notice relating to the relevant Reference Entity and Credit Event, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where the Credit Event is an M(M)R Restructuring); or
- (iii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Single Name Partial Nominal Amount or the Nth-to-Default Partial Nominal Amount, as applicable, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where the Credit Event is not an M(M)R Restructuring and where the succession provisions are applicable).

(B) Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes or Index Untranching Credit Linked Note will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and:

- (i) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Reference Entity Notional Amount, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of the relevant Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is not as a result of an M(M)R Restructuring or pursuant to multiple successors being identified);
- (ii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Exercise Amount specified in the relevant Credit Event Notice relating to the relevant Reference Entity and Credit Event, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is as a result of an M(M)R Restructuring); or
- (iii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Linear Basket Partial Nominal Amount or Index Untranching Partial Nominal Amount, as applicable, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is not pursuant to an M(M)R Restructuring and where partial redemption occurs pursuant to the succession provisions).

(C) Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Index Tranching Credit Linked Note or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the relevant Principal Writedown Amount, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes.

(D) Local Access Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Local Access Credit Linked Note will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and:

- (i) 100 per cent. (where redemption is not pursuant to multiple successors being identified); or
- (ii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Local Access Partial Nominal Amount, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where partial redemption occurs pursuant to application of the succession provisions).

What are the different methods of redemption?

The Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed in accordance with the Credit Event Redemption Method elected for by the Issuer (and specified in the Issue Terms), provided that the Fallback Redemption Method, also specified in the applicable Issue Terms, will apply where the elected Credit Event Redemption Method cannot be applied.

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes or Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes

Auction Redemption, Cash Redemption, Physical Redemption or Fixed Recovery Redemption may be selected as the Credit Event Redemption Method, with a fallback for either Cash Redemption or Physical Redemption. Although a Credit Event Redemption Method may be specified for Credit Linked Interest Notes, such Securities will not be early redeemed following a Credit Event. No fallback redemption method will be applicable to Credit Linked Interest Notes.

(B) Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes

Auction Redemption, Cash Redemption or Fixed Recovery Redemption may be selected as the Credit Event Redemption Method, with the only fallback being Cash Redemption. Physical Redemption is not relevant for these types of Credit Linked Notes.

(C) Local Access Credit Linked Notes

LA Cash Redemption, LA Physical Redemption or LA Fixed Recovery Redemption may be selected as the Risk Event Redemption Method. There is no prescribed fallback for such product. Auction Redemption is not relevant for these types of Credit Linked Notes.

What is the Credit Event Redemption Amount?

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is the cash amount that is payable to the Securityholders on an early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes following the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, and is broadly indicative of the recoveries in respect of such Credit Linked Notes.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount depends on the applicable Credit Event Redemption Method or Fallback Redemption Method, the nature of the Credit Linked Notes and the timing for payment:

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes

For such Credit Linked Notes (and, in respect of Single Name Credit Linked Notes that are Credit Linked Principal Notes), the Credit Event Redemption Amount will be the Auction Redemption Amount (where Auction Redemption is applicable), the Cash Redemption Amount (where Cash Redemption or Fixed Recovery Redemption is applicable) or if "Credit Payment on Maturity" is applicable, the Final Auction Redemption Amount or the Final Cash Redemption Amount.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is determined based on the recovery price of certain deliverables determined in the relevant auction on the auction final price determination date or eligible obligations (Valuation Obligations) of the Reference Entity on a specified date (being the final price determination date) following the occurrence of a Credit Event with respect to such Reference Entity. With respect to the Credit Linked Notes which are subject to Cash Redemption, the eligible obligations shall be one or more obligations, as selected by the Calculation Agent, that are either a Reference Obligation and/or would constitute a Deliverable Obligation as at the particular observation time in accordance with elections made in the applicable Issue Terms. The price of such eligible obligations will be determined on the basis of bid quotations received by the Calculation Agent from dealers.

(B) Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes

The Credit Event Redemption Amount in respect of Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes will be the Index Tranching Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranching Redemption Amount, as applicable, or if "Credit Payment on Maturity" is applicable, the Index Tranching Final Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranching Final Redemption Amount, as applicable.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is determined based on the Index Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount or Portfolio Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount, as applicable, which in turn, in each case, requires the Recovery Amount to be determined. The Recovery Amount is based on the recovery price of the Deliverable Obligations which may be determined by an Auction or, where Cash Redemption applies, on the basis of bid quotations for Valuation Obligations received by the Calculation Agent from dealers.

(C) Local Access Credit Linked Notes

The Credit Event Redemption Amount in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes will be the LA Cash Redemption Amount (where LA Cash Redemption or LA Fixed Recovery Redemption is applicable) or if "Credit Payment on Maturity" is applicable, the Final LA Cash Redemption Amount.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is determined based on the price of certain specified eligible assets of the Reference Entity on a specified date following the occurrence of a Risk Event with respect to such Reference Entity. With respect to Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the eligible assets shall be one or more assets that are either assets issued by the Reference Entity (and as specified in the Issue Terms) or assets selected by the Calculation Agent that would constitute a Deliverable Obligation as at the particular observation time in accordance with elections made in the applicable Issue Terms. The price of such eligible assets shall be determined on the basis of the highest bid quotation received by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers or if no such bid quotation is provided, by the Calculation Agent in its sole discretion.

How is the Credit Event Redemption Amount determined if Auction Redemption applies?

If Auction Redemption applies, the Auction Redemption Amount or the Recovery Amount (which is necessary to determine in order to calculate the Index Tranche Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranche Redemption Amount), as applicable, will be determined by reference to a price determined by way of a credit derivatives auction administered by the auction administrators based on the auction settlement terms published by the DC Secretary (an Auction). The Auction will involve a bidding process by institutions participating in the relevant Auction, pursuant to a bidding procedure set under the relevant auction settlement terms, to establish the value of the eligible obligations (the Deliverable Obligations) of the relevant Reference Entity. Deliverable Obligations mean obligations of the Reference Entity which satisfy certain specified "Deliverable Obligation Categories" and "Deliverable Obligation Characteristics" which are on the Final List as published by the DC Secretary. The Issuer or one or more of its affiliates may act as a participating bidder in any such Auction and may submit bids and offers with respect to the Deliverable Obligations of the Reference Entity.

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranche Credit Linked Notes

If Auction Redemption applies (and, in respect of Single Name Credit Linked Notes that are Credit Linked Principal Notes), the Auction Redemption Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Applicable Proportion of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed and (2) the price (expressed as a percentage) determined through the Auction for certain obligations of such Reference Entity, minus each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of any unwind costs.

(B) Index Tranche Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranche Credit Linked Notes

The Index Tranche Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranche Redemption Amount, as applicable, is an amount representing each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of an amount equal to (1) the Index Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount or Portfolio Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount (being the recovery in respect of such Credit Linked Notes which falls within the specified tranche), minus (2) any unwind costs. Accordingly, in order to determine the Index Tranche Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranche Redemption Amount, as applicable, the Index Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount or Portfolio Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount, as applicable, needs to be calculated, which in turn, in each case, requires the Recovery Amount to be determined. If Auction Redemption applies, the Recovery Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Reference Entity Notional Amount of the Affected Reference Entity

(and, in case of an M(M)R Restructuring, the Exercise Amount) and (2) the recovery price (expressed as a percentage) determined through the Auction for certain obligations of such Reference Entity.

The auction price is likely to be lower than the par value of the Deliverable Obligations of the Reference Entity and will be reflective of a loss experienced by the holder of such Deliverable Obligations. Moreover, the price is likely to reflect the lowest prevailing market value of any Deliverable Obligation. The lower the auction price, the greater the amount retained by the Issuer to make whole the loss suffered by it (as buyer of credit protection) and thus the smaller the Credit Event Redemption Amount paid to Securityholders on an early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes.

How is the Credit Event Redemption Amount determined if Cash Redemption or LA Cash Redemption applies?

(A) Cash Redemption

If Cash Redemption applies, the Cash Redemption Amount or the Recovery Amount (which is necessary to determine in order to calculate the Index Tranche Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranche Redemption Amount), as applicable, will be determined on the basis of the bid quotations sought by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers for the eligible obligations of the relevant Reference Entity selected by the Calculation Agent and satisfying certain specified obligation categories and obligation characteristics (such obligations being the Valuation Obligations). However, if no quotations are obtained, the Calculation Agent will determine the final price acting in a commercially reasonable manner which may even be zero.

(1) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranche Credit Linked Notes

If Cash Redemption applies (and, in respect of Single Name Credit Linked Notes that are Credit Linked Principal Notes), the Cash Redemption Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Applicable Proportion of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed and (2) the price (expressed as a percentage) determined on the basis of such bid quotations sought by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers for the Deliverable Obligations, minus each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of any unwind costs.

(2) Index Tranche Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranche Credit Linked Notes
